Greenhouse Builders

Three Aces

THE one at the top was erected for Dr. Bevan, at Lake Forest, Ill.

The center one is on the famous Armour Estate, at the same place. It is one of two houses which we were asked to build to

The one at the bottom is none less than that of Wm. Wrigley, Jr., the famous gum man.

Only one greenhouse shows, but there is another just like it directly joining the workroom.

All of these are of our standard curved eave construction.

Have a notion that you, however, would want our modified curved eave, with the gutter at the bottom of the curve, and a continuous row of side sash hinged to it.

It is the way we are making most of our greenhouses these days.

If you are located in the West, and want a greenhouse in a hurry, our Western Factory can turn it out for you.

Let's talk it over.

Say when and where, and we'll be there.

Oak Sprays and

go wonderfully well together for a Fall decoration, but if you want to enhance the natural beauty of this combination we suggest the use of "Flowers of Superior Quality," large, glorious blooms in yellow, pink and white. These are dependable—our own home-grown stock.

Pompons, too, are exceptionally fine and are very popular at this time.

Now is the time to plant

RETARDED SPIREAS

for Christmas flowering

Our firm was the first to retard Spireas and retard them right, as shown by accompanying photograph taken of a plant produced by a RETARDED clump, and grown by Mr. E. Phillips, Supt. for E. T. Gerry, Esq., Newport, R. I.

We can supply at once or later from cold storage Retarded Spireas Compacta, Queen Alexandra and Rubens.

Packed in cases of 18 large clumps of one variety, $10.00 per case. We also offer one case of 200 Compacta and one case of 200 Queen Alexandra, large clumps, for $98.00 per case.

Buy Direct from the Grower

Roses - Carnations - Beauties
Chrysanthemums and Pompons

The superior value of home grown flowers is that they are perfectly fresh. We bring them direct from our greenhouses to our store three and four times per day, a few hours after being cut. On perishable stock like flowers, this is a big item, Quality. We pay our growers ten to fifteen per cent higher wages than is paid in the Chicago district. We have better men and they grow better flowers. We are Rose specialists and are now cutting from 245,000 Rose plants all in one range of glass, besides quantities of Mums, Carnations and Beauties.

With all these advantages for our stock our prices are never higher than other houses ask, and in a number of instances lower.

A·B·C TRADE MARK "WATCH US GROW"

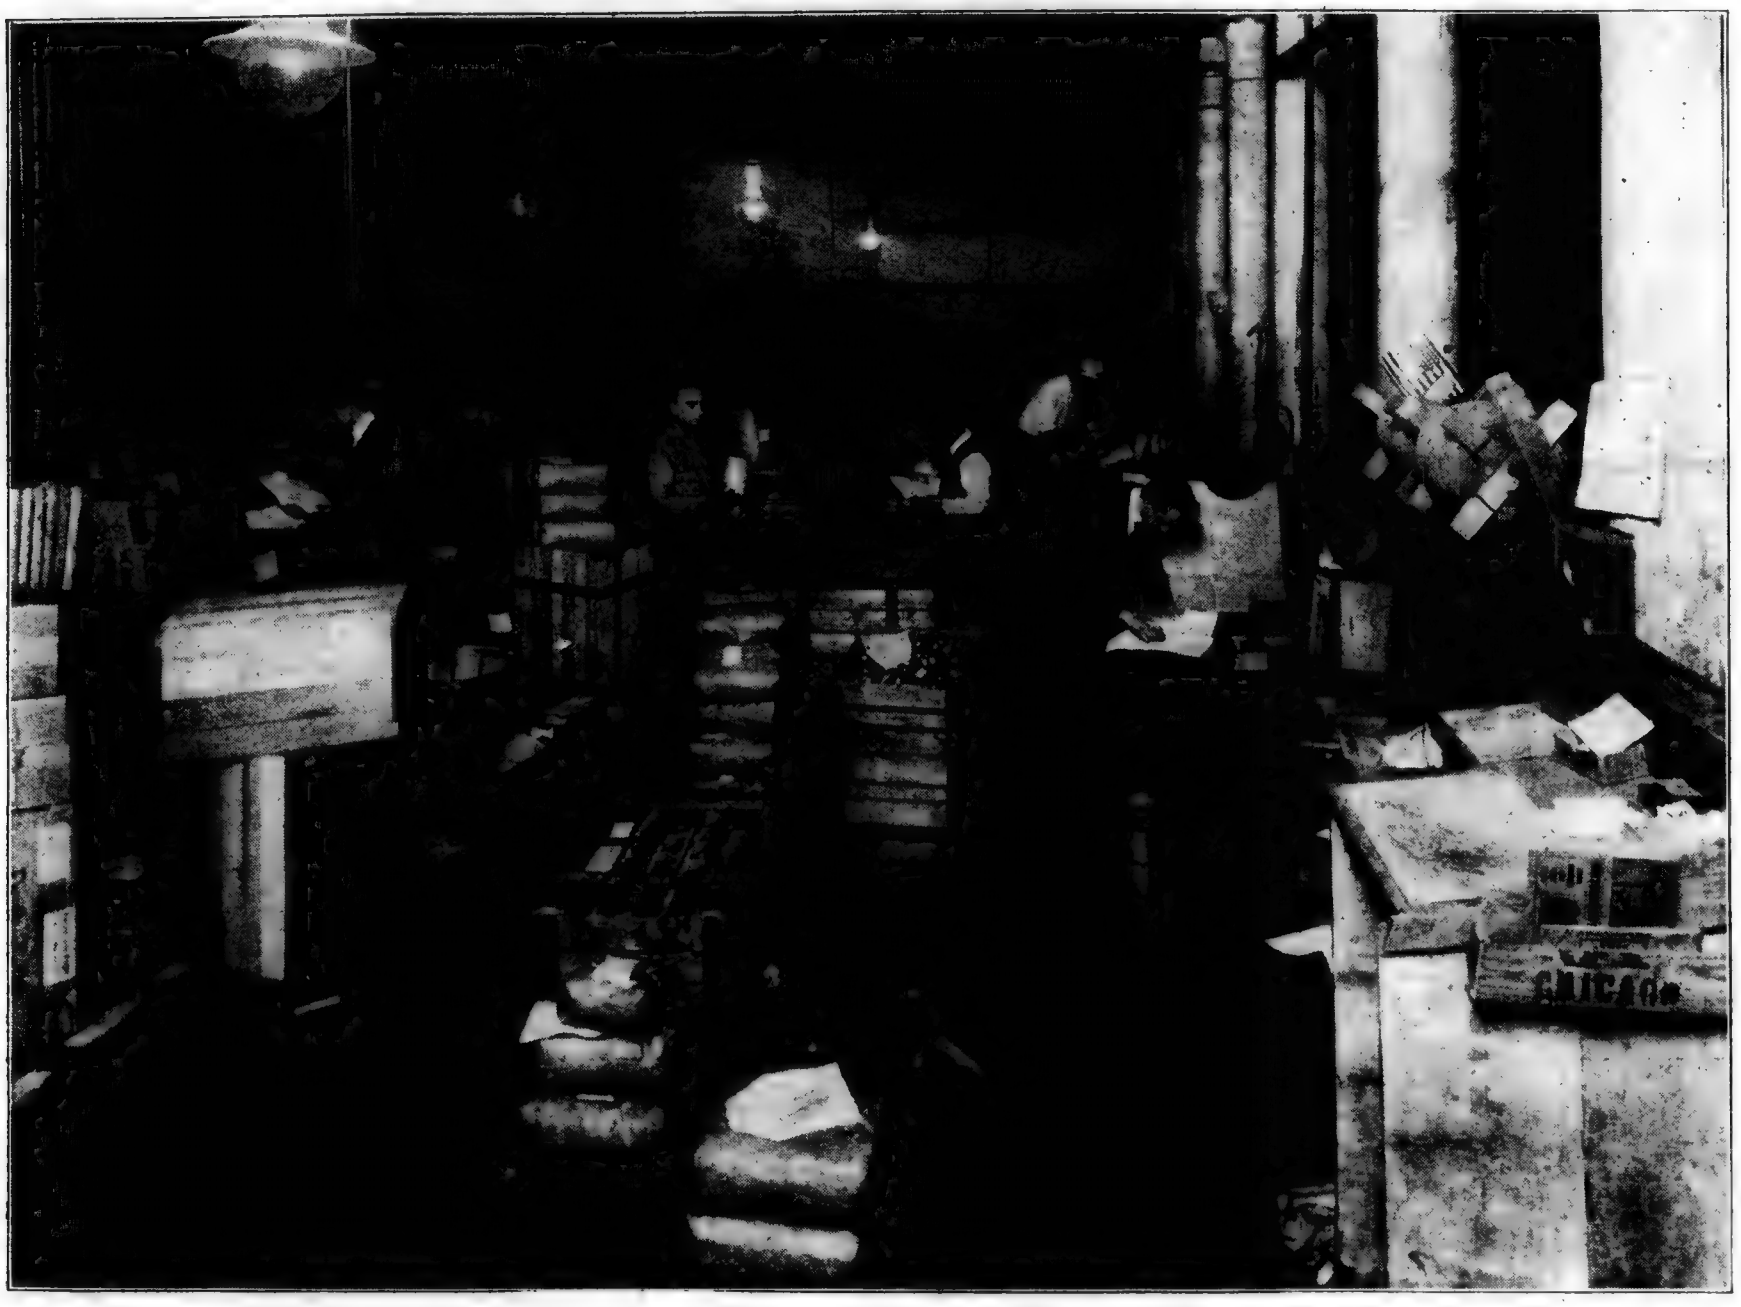
AMERICAN BULB CO.,

Grading and Packing our Lily Bulbs in Japan under the Personal Supervision of A. Miller, President American Bulb Co.

The House That Made Advance Preparations and is Now Delivering the Goods

ANNOUNCEMENT

We have received up to date 2286 Cases of Lilies



We had, prior to last week, delivered to our customers 997 Cases, and the balance of shipments are now in transit by rail to these cities: One car to Minneapolis, one car to Detroit, one car to Cincinnati. From these points we deliver to our customers in order to save them freight charges. Ohio and Eastern shipments are shipped from Cincinnati. Michigan and nearby Ohio towns are shipped from Detroit. Middle West are shipped from Minneapolis and Chicago. Extreme western orders have been taken care of from ports of entry, which are Seattle and San Francisco. Canadian shipments have been taken care of from Vancouver.

Not only are we supplying the very best Lily Bulbs grown in Japan, but we work hard to save our customers where we can, to reduce the price by reducing freight charges, which is an item these days.

WRITE OR WIRE — WE SHIP SAME DAY

A·B·C TRADE MARK "WATCH US GROW"

Night Scene in the Shipping Department of the American Bulb Co., Filling Dutch Bulb Orders.

Dutch Bulbs Grown in Holland

Florists who have orders with us for Dutch Bulbs can now feel encouraged that we have been able to release two-thirds of our shipment that was held up in New York due to the strike of stevedores. This will enable us again to start filling orders at the end of the present week.

Strike conditions are beyond our control. We thank you for your co-operation and you can rest assured that we have done everything in our power to remove any obstacle, to deliver to you the highest quality bulbs and to give good service.

LILY BULBS we can deliver on a moment's notice. We have the stock and are not offering what we have not in our hands to deliver.

White Trucks

This White has been in the service of the John Bader Company for four years

"We have used two White Trucks, one for four years, the other for two years, and in that time have not had a minute's trouble. Repair costs have been very low. We have used other trucks, but never again. When we need another truck it will be a White."

John Bader Company,
Pittsburgh, Pa.

THE outstanding reason why White Trucks are so widely used by florists is that they do the most work for the least money.

Where cost records are kept, Whites invariably show lower operating and maintenance costs and a higher percentage of days in active service. Experienced truck users buy Whites because they are known money savers.

THE FLORISTS' REVIEW

CAN KENTIAS COME FROM THE COAST?

Six years of studied and steady development at Sierra Madre, Cal., have gone far toward demonstrating that the Belgian palms shut out by the quarantine can be replaced by production there under slat shade. Principally a matter of patience, perseverance and depth of the producer's purse.

WHETHER or not palms can be grown on a commercial scale under the conditions of southern California depends on the ability of the growers to "establish" the plants without bottom heat. That bottom heat is necessary has been the belief of most plantsmen, both on the coast and in the east, but on his return to Philadelphia, after a recent inspection of what is being done in the vicinity of Los Angeles, so good a judge as Jacob D. Eisele made the statement that the experiments of Bassett & Washburn seem in a fair way to revolutionize palm production for the trade in the United States.

The subject is of special interest now, since the plant quarantine has shut off the importation of palms from Belgium and from the finishing factories of the British Isles, but it is worth while noting that the experiments at Sierra Madre were begun in 1913, long before the quarantine was thought of.

Ante-Bellum Ways.

Probably everyone who keeps in any way in touch with trade affairs knows that one of the specific objections to the general quarantine when it was proposed, was that it would close the channels through which the trade and the American people had been accustomed to obtain their supply of palms. Of course palms can be grown from seeds in greenhouses, but the production of a plant of salable size is a matter of years. At pre-war prices for building material, fuel and labor no great number of growers persisted in the business; by far the greater part of the stock handled in the United States has been imported.

Before the Germans overran Belgium more palm seeds germinated in the vicinity of Ghent and Bruges than in all the rest of the world, commercially speaking. As soon as the seedlings were established in 2½-inch pots they became salable and from then on they might, as they grew, change hands several times. But with each shift they had the accelerating assistance of more or less bottom heat, either in greenhouses warmed by hot water or in beds made genial by an underlayer of fermenting manure.

Whence Imports Came.

Belgian palms in small sizes frequently went to Scotland or England for a finishing process before they came to America, but a far larger number in all sizes came direct to the United States, the larger sizes fully established in tubs and ready for sale, the smaller sizes usually needing a pot and a few weeks or months in a greenhouse to put them in shape for the trade's uses.

An unestablished plant may look all right in a greenhouse, but put it in a store or a dwelling and it goes quickly to pieces.

German occupation and the British blockade temporarily shut off the Belgian plant exports and, just as the war lifted, our Federal Horticultural Board clamped down the lid for keeps, as it said, by its sweeping quarantine order.

It seems quite clear that if American firms would not invest in growing palms under glass under pre-war conditions, they will not do so under the quarantine, because the cost of greenhouse construction and of greenhouse operation has increased in the last five years as much as the price of palms has advanced, even with the starved supply and accelerated demand of the last year. In 1914 representative firms advertised in The Review 5-inch kentias, 50 to 75 cents; 6-inch, $1 to $1.50 each. In 1919 the same growers offered 5-inch at $1.25 each and 6-inch at $2 to $2.50 each.

Westward Ho!

Under such conditions it is natural that thoughts should turn toward those parts of the United States in which the climate is such as to suggest the hope that palms can be grown without artificial heat, which means, so far as the kentia is concerned, southern California, for the kentia never has seemed at home in Florida.

Palms have come from California for years, but to the average manager of a first-class flower store the mention of them suggests plants fresh from their hair cut, but which have not yet had their bath. The botanical encyclopedias tell us twenty-six genera and eighty species of palms grow in the gardens of southern California, but from the retail florists' point of view there is only one palm, the kentia, and outdoor culture has not given the requisite perfection of finish.

It was in 1913 that Edgar B. Washburn, a graduate of the agricultural college of the University of Wisconsin and a member of the firm of Bassett & Washburn, Chicago, undertook the growing of kentias in California. Mr. Washburn had located at Pasadena to escape the unlovely winters at Chicago. He found the climate so beneficial to his health that he decided to remain, and the palm-growing enterprise developed from an inclination to employ his energies in the line of his education and business training. Thus the quarantine found Bassett & Washburn with a stock of close to 400,000 kentias in all sizes, from seedlings to 6-inch pots, and a going establishment capable soon of turning out 100,000 6-inch plants per year.

Six Years of Study.

Except for eighteen months spent as a lieutenant in the airplane production service, Mr. Washburn has devoted all his time for six years to growing kentias on the coast. His first step was to look over the work that was then being done in growing palms in the open and in lath houses, mostly for garden use. From this survey certain well defined ideas were obtained and a site for the undertaking was selected.

Twenty-five acres were purchased at Sierra Madre, about fifteen miles northeast of Los Angeles. Mr. Washburn's home is in Pasadena, midway between, and in the course of time a business office was established at 611 Central building, Pasadena. There is a boulevard from the office to the nursery, which is located on the foothills of Mount Wilson. It is 300 or 400 feet above the bottom of the valley, which is three or four miles away, and the frosts slide down the slope just like water down a hillside. Frost damage is not infrequent in the valley, but at the nursery it has left its mark only once; that time not on the tips of the leaves but in the shape of a seared streak on the upper side of the topmost curve of the arching foliage. The thermometer registered 29 degrees that morning.

Kentia at the Sierra Madre Potting Stage, Soil Washed Out.
(Insert, enlarged photo of root system which must be cut down to fit 6-inch pot.)

Conditions Nearly Perfect.

The soil at Sierra Madre is a deep sandy loam made up of decomposed granite. The subsoil is sand or gravel. There is good drainage. The place is known for the high percentage it receives of the possible number of hours of sunshine, for its freedom from fogs and for its low humidity. It is warm in the day, cool in the night, summer and winter. In the summer the daily temperature usually ranges between 60 and 100 degrees, in the winter between 40 and 90 degrees.

The kentias are grown in the open ground at Sierra Madre, the seedlings being planted out far enough apart so they can make five years' growth undisturbed, protected only by lath houses. The purpose is to protect from the sun, not from the frost.

The Lath Houses.

The structures common in California get their name from the fact that they are made of ordinary plasterers' lath, supported by a frame of redwood posts and stringers. Redwood is used because of its splendid lasting qualities. Growers of Asparagus plumosus use such houses and so do others whose crops require partial shade. Bassett & Washburn soon adopted a new style of lath house, consisting of a double roof, the laths running at right angles and the two roofs, one above the other, about nine inches apart. The laths are spaced about four inches apart in each level, so that the light is diffused except for small squares which travel with the sun. The structures have side walls covered with building paper, to serve as windbreaks.

Commercial Possibilities.

Bassett & Washburn have built their lath houses in units of three acres, each unit planned to shelter 100,000 plants. There now are four units in the establishment, housing plants ranging from seedlings to stock 6 years old and thirty-six to forty-eight inches high. As it takes five years to grow plants to the potting stage and another year to establish them in 6-inch pots, the completion of two more 3-acre units of lath houses will put the growers in position to turn out 100,000 finished plants per year.

The idea is to plant one 3-acre unit each year with 100,000 seedlings out of 2½-inch pots, each year to pot up all the 100,000 5-year-old plants in another unit, and to sell out the 100,000 plants in the unit that was potted up the year before.

Palm growers who have watched the development of the establishment at Sierra Madre have expressed many doubts, some as to the possibility of finding a market for such huge quantities of stock as are now contained in the slat houses, but mostly as to the ability to establish the plants in their pots without bottom heat. For, be it understood, a palm must have a good root action, must have filled its pot with fine, healthy working roots—in a word, it must be established—or it will not give satisfaction to its purchaser.

The Method Employed.

Bassett & Washburn say the production schedule they hope to reach in a year or two will go only a short way toward meeting the demands of the trade and they point to the records of the Federal Horticultural Board, which show annual pre-war imports of many hundreds of thousands of palms. As to their ability to establish the plants without bottom heat, they believe they have proved it. Two of the accompanying illustrations show plants at the potting stage and after ten months in the pot.

The seedlings are, when ready, potted into 2½-inch pots and are kept there twelve to eighteen months, at which time they have a strong ball of roots and are planted out in the place they are to remain four to five years. When they are dug for potting they have four or six large tap roots, six to eighteen inches long, too stiff to bend for potting into 6-inch. One of the illustrations shows such a plant so dug as to preserve the roots, with the soil washed out. The native sons have not thought such a plant could go into a 6-inch pot; they have used 7-inch or 8-inch and produced the overpotted effect most retailers are familiar with. Bassett & Washburn root-prune the plants with the spade when digging. They cut the ball of soil and the roots to fit the pot, a 6-inch. In a way, it looks like murder, but it proves to be not hurtful. The cutting of the tap roots by a skillful man seems to result in increased production of fine, hairlike roots, which, in a year, plunged to the rim in the lath house, completely fill the pot. The second illustration shows a plant after ten months in the pot, with the soil washed out to let the root development be seen.

Of course bottom heat could be applied if it proved to be necessary or desirable, but the merit of the natural method lies, first of all, in its economy and, secondly, in the hardy character of the plants produced.

Heat for the Seedlings.

As a matter of fact, Bassett & Washburn have recently arranged for heat in the earliest stages of the growth of the plants. Heretofore the seed beds were made in the lath houses, but the germination was not satisfactory. Proverbially the slowest of the palms to germinate, their kentias did not give them more than thirty-five per cent. A majority of the seedlings came in the first year, but germination continued during the next two years at such a rate that the duds were not thrown out until three years had passed. In the expectation of better results, some of the material from greenhouses the firm dismantled at Hinsdale, Ill., was shipped to Sierra Madre and reërected for the seedlings. The seed beds recently brought into use are of the type employed in the east, with pipes below and boarded in. There is space under glass also for the seedlings during their time in 2½-inch pots.

To raise the percentage of germination will be important. As many as 150 bushels of seeds have been imported and planted in a single year. Double the germination and half as many seeds would have sufficed.

It is said that Bassett & Washburn obtained the greater part of all the kentia seeds which came to the United States this year. The importations did not begin to arrive until after the quarantine went into effect and the Federal Horticultural Board did all that it could to smooth the way, because it is on the success of such undertakings as this that the board depends, in a way, for justification of its action in prohibiting plant importation.

Source of the Seeds.

The seed thus far obtained has been of decidedly poor quality. It has looked as though it had been scraped up from the ground beneath the trees and shipped without cleaning. Each bushel contains from 4,000 to 4,500 seeds. There is only one place in the world whence comes the supply of seeds. This is the Lord Howe Island, from which these palms take the name, howea, by which they are known in the botanical dictionaries. The modern name, kentia, is for William Kent, founder of the English style of landscape gardening. The Lord Howe Island is located in the Pacific ocean about 500 or 600 miles northeast of Sydney, Australia. It is only five square miles in area, but the kentias in this little island grow to the height of fifty to sixty feet and produce the seed supply of the world. These seeds are gathered by the natives, bought by traders on the island and shipped under the care of the British government, as the Lord Howe Island is British territory. The seeds are shipped to Sydney on small steamers which only call at the island once a month or once in two months, so that there is considerable delay from the time the seeds are gathered until they arrive in Sydney. They are then sold to exporters, who ship them to all the palm-growing countries of the world. The whole proceeding usually takes from three to six months before the seeds are delivered in the United States.

Seedling Kentias Under Glass at Sierra Madre, Cal.

Genesis of the Industry.

In his investigation of palm growing in California, E. B. Washburn found that the first kentia seeds that were planted there seem to have been started by the venerable chaplain of a Catholic school for girls, at that time located at Riverside, Cal., but which afterwards was removed to Hollywood, Cal. This old priest is still alive and was called on by Mr. Washburn and Roy Wilcox and a highly interesting history of the growing of kentias was told. This priest started, some twenty or twenty-five years ago, at Riverside, but found that the severe changes in temperature due to Riverside being located so near the desert resulted in his palms being damaged every few years. When the school was removed to Hollywood the nursery was located on the top of a hill overlooking the town. This priest stated that at Riverside the temperature would drop below freezing for several days almost every winter, while at Hollywood this occurs only once in seven or eight years. The old chaplain finally induced two young men, brothers, from Belgium, to take over the nursery, as it was becoming too large for him to take care of. This was the start of the growing of kentias in southern California.

Cleanliness Essential.

To Mr. Washburn it seemed that one of the best features of growing palms in southern California is that they can be given plenty of space to develop in these lath sheds. The plants then grow symmetrically. They do not lose their lower leaves and spread out more than where crowded in costly greenhouse space. They also are hardier and should stand more handling and shifting around, thus making them better for decorative purposes.

It seemed to Mr. Washburn that all the faults of California palms could be corrected by careful culture and he set out to demonstrate that such stock can be as clean and as perfectly finished as any grown in a greenhouse. He found that all they require is ordinary good care and plenty of water. The lath houses are fitted up with lawn sprinklers in sections, some of the revolving type and some in fixed position. With these any area may so easily be watered that the plants never are neglected; they need it frequently in summer and scarcely ever in winter.

The Proof of the Pudding.

The principal work is to keep the plants clean—free from dust and free from scale and mealy bug. There are three kinds of scale, red, black and the kentia scale, the latter taking its name from its fondness for this plant as its host. To keep the scale in control, a spray of rosin, soap and caustic is applied twice each spring and fall, using a force pump. At other seasons the plants are gone over frequently by hand, using the same mixture as a wash, except that in the heat of summer spraying with water and the hose is relied on, to avoid injury to the leaves. They are washed with the hose every few weeks to remove dust. The mottoes at Sierra Madre are: "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" and "Cleanliness is next to godliness." Kentias given this care need no "hair cut."

C. L. Washburn believes that the feasibility of palm growing in southern California already is demonstrated and that its commercial success will be proven soon, when their first lot of 6-inch stock is ready for shipment east by fast freight in refrigerator cars. He predicts that it will not be long before southern California makes palms more plentiful than ever before in the history of the trade in America—and probably cheaper—but it should not be forgotten that six to eight years must elapse from seed sowing to finished plant and that not many men in this hectic era are content to wait so long for returns on their investments.

It is, of course, inevitable that the development of an enterprise of such magnitude as that of Bassett & Washburn at Sierra Madre should entail a considerable expenditure of capital, but C. L. Washburn only smiles when that phase of the matter is referred to. "We have proved," he says, "to our own satisfaction, that to grow palms commercially in southern California only three things are necessary: Patience, persistence and a long purse."

LANCASTER FLORISTS VISIT.

Chester County Entertains.

At the invitation of the Chester County Florists' Club, forty-eight florists from Lancaster county, Pennsylvania, and their wives, motored to Chester county Thursday, October 30. The first call was upon the Conard & Jones Co., of West Grove, where Robert Pyle acted as host. Their houses excited great interest with the large variety of plants grown in small pots for their extensive catalogue trade. Antoine Wintzer, who has been so successful with his hybridization of cannas, showed his new varieties. These plants were benched indoors and were covered with a profusion of marvelously colored blooms.

The party stopped next to see the carnation establishment of Richards Bros., Toughkenamon, where an iron-frame house, 50x400 feet, filled with 35,000 Matchless, White Perfection, Mrs. Ward and Sagamore, was inspected. The plants showed exceptional vigor and high quality.

At Kennett Square.

Howard Thompson's home and range in Kennett Square were interesting, not only for the flowers, but for the fine old mansion, the well-kept privet hedges and the flock of fifty plump turkeys. The chief flowers here were carnations and sweet peas. A number of specially constructed tile houses are being built to allow for the more extensive growing of mushrooms. At Lawrence Thompson's, several houses of excellent carnations were inspected.

The party was then entertained at dinner in the Hotel Kennett, after which there were short addresses by the Rev. Mr. Wilkinson, Robert Pyle, S. S. Pennock, Mrs. Albert M. Herr, Arthur Niessen and Elmer J. Weaver.

The next stop was at William Swayne's range, where a profusion of excellent mums was seen, including some particularly good-looking pompons. There were also large quantities of potted 6-inch callas on benches, already blooming. Another call in Kennett Square was on Yeatman & Way, where there were immense houses of peas and mushrooms and a large house of tomatoes, well set with fruit.

Further visiting in Kennett Square was prevented by the desire of a majority of the party to call on A. Harvey & Sons, at Brandywine Summit. At this last range, Edmund A. Harvey showed them through the large and attractive rose houses. Then, finally, the forty-eight representatives of Lancaster county started homeward exceedingly well pleased with Chester county and its growers, whose hospitality they hope soon to return. H. K. R.

A Kentia Made Up from Plants Grown Separately in the Open.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

The Market.

There has been a great demand for American Beauties. Swainsona is scarce; it is almost impossible to get it. Orchids are getting scarce and bring from $1.25 to $1.50 each. Paper Whites and sweet peas are coming in. The market continues to pick up as cool weather comes. The rose and carnation supply is still on the increase. There has been an increase in out-of-town business. A number of good orders were shipped during last week.

Various Notes.

The "Say It with Flowers" week campaign has kept all the florists busy during the last week. The delivery trucks are decorated with laurel and carry large signs advertising the campaign and inviting the public to visit the florists' establishments. The shops are highly decorated for the occasion. The public has been greatly interested and the florists have worked hard to impress the real meaning and value of flowers upon the people. At a recent meeting the florists unanimously voted in favor of decorating every church and hospital in the city. This was done free of charge and the delivery was made to the churches in time for the services.

George C. Shaffer has several large decorating jobs on hand.

George A. Comley has been having a large amount of funeral work, in addition to several important weddings.

The S. S. Pennock Co. is receiving a fine supply of mums.

The first Paper Whites and sweet peas of the season arrived at the Leo Niessen Co. store last week.

The Department of Agriculture's eighteenth annual chrysanthemum show opened October 28 and lasted one week. Two of the finest seedlings ever produced at the government greenhouses were reserved to be named for the king and queen of Belgium. Last year the show was not held, on account of the flu epidemic, and accordingly larger crowds were present during the current show to view the great number of varieties of chrysanthemums developed by specialists of the Department of Agriculture. Many of the local florists attended the show and showed great interest. There were on exhibition 126 varieties of large Japanese mums and 120 varieties of the smaller-sized flowers. The outstanding feature of the show was the attractive white mum which is called Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, a cross of Queen Mary and James Wilson. The show also had a war touch, many of the flowers being dedicated to the leaders and soldiers of the late war. A bloom of outstanding importance was the General Pershing, which was named after the general at the 1917 show. Another handsome mum is the Betsy Ross, from Adrian, Mich.

The Florists' Club of Washington held its dinner party at the Dewey hotel on the evening of October 27. A good many out-of-town florists attended the banquet, including several prominent florists from Baltimore. They all expressed their hearty appreciation and wished the Washington boys great success with their flower week campaign. The banquet room was elaborately decorated with flowers and paintings of the flower week posters. The florists, true to their slogan, "Say It with Flowers," were satisfied to make their after-dinner speeches brief. Sufficient flowers were subscribed to provide a large bouquet for each ward of soldier patients at Walter Reed hospital. G. V. S.

William F. Gude was authorized by the Washington Chamber of Commerce to act as its representative at the international trade conference at Atlantic City, where he was already representing the S. A. F.

DULUTH, MINN.

The Market.

There was a slowing up of business the first part of the week, owing to the unusual weather for this time of the year. Snow fell for two days and was fifteen inches deep in some parts of the city. About the middle of the week a change came and things brightened wonderfully. Chrysanthemums are in full swing and some fine stock is being handled. The leading varieties are Yellow and White Turner, Pink and White Chieftain, Golden Queen, Chrysolora, Bonnaffon and a few Marigold, which are of exceedingly good quality. A splendid lot of pompons are coming in, which move quickly. Chrysanthemums have been much better in quality than in other years.

Carnations continue to improve and sell well at $1.50 per dozen. The first shipment of double violets arrived last week, but they are only of moderate quality, being a little early. Valley is still scarce and cattleyas are a little easier.

The quality of all grades of roses was better last week and some fine stock was seen. Such varieties as Columbia, White Killarney, Premier, Russell and Ophelia are extra good, both long and short-stemmed, and are selling exceptionally well. American Beauties are in plentiful supply and the stock is good.

In plants, primulas and cyclamens take the lead. The supply is equal to the demand. Potted chrysanthemums are also coming along. Funeral work has been brisk all the week. In greens the supply is equal to the demand, except smilax, which is scarce. There was a slowing up in the sale of bulbs, on account of the heavy fall of snow.

Various Notes.

The Alpha Floral Co. reports business exceedingly good and a great improvement over last year. They are showing some extra fine chrysanthemums and roses. A basket of single pink chrysanthemums artistically arranged in the center of the window was quite effective.

The Duluth Floral Co. is showing a fine lot of cemetery wreaths made of magnolia leaves, pine cones, cycas leaves, etc. At this time of the year this kind of wreath is in great demand.

The Quality Flower Shop reports business entirely satisfactory. They have a large display of chrysanthemums and roses. They have decided to give up the candy department entirely and will remodel the store with mirrors and wall fixtures suitable for the florists' business. J. E. S.

MEETING AT DES MOINES.

The Iowa Horticultural Society, working with the Society of Iowa Florists, will hold its annual autumn show November 11 to 13 at the Coliseum in Des Moines. The officers are looking forward to a splendid meeting, one full of "pep" and enthusiasm.

At the banquet Wednesday evening, November 12, J. F. Ammann, president of the S. A. F., will give an address on the subject, "Coöperative Publicity." Mr. Ammann, having just returned from the meeting of the F. T. D. in Buffalo, will be eager and enthusiastic to pass on to Iowa florists some of the many good things from that meeting.

Let us have a good number of Iowa florists present and show our national president that the florists of this section are alive. J. T. D. Fulmer, State Vice-president, S. A. F.

THE WORLD AROUND.

For some unexplained reason, advertisers never cease to be specially interested in the inquiries they receive from readers at the ends of the earth. Of course The Review is read in every country where there are people who want to keep in touch with trade affairs in America and correspondence comes to advertisers from everywhere. Like this:

We don't know where The Review does not circulate—we get good business through it from readers in England, New Zealand and Canada who answer our ad.—Reeves Foliage Co., Breton, Ala., October 25, 1919.

It is an old saying that "it isn't where a paper is printed, but where it is read, that counts."

BRIEF ANSWERS.

O. & S., Wis.—One of the standard nicotine extracts, used according to the directions on the can, probably will rid the ferns of the "white bugs" in two or three applications.

J. B. T., Ill.—Fumigate with tobacco.

MOTT-LY MUSINGS

E. A. Richards, of Greenfield, Mass., had just returned from Boston, where he had attended the annual dinner of the stockholders of the Boston Cut Flower Exchange, and observed that both the repast and the dividend declared were satisfactory. The chrysanthemums grown by William Nicholson, of Framingham, Mass., were a show in themselves. Bonnaffon brought $8 per dozen wholesale and Touset, Early Frost and Brutus ranged from $5 to $8 per dozen, with quick sales at that. Some stock was noted that sold at the rate of five dozen for $2.50, a price that gives one an idea of the range of prices and quality of stock.

* * * *

Charles A. Thayer, who has been the grower at the range of E. A. Richards, Greenfield, Mass., for several years, has succeeded to the business. He has some promising seedling chrysanthemums and standard varieties coming along in fine shape.

* * * *

H. F. A. Lange, of Worcester, Mass., is in the optimistic class. The houses are stocked with the best that money could buy, but it was a difficult job. There does not seem to be any prospect of a let-up for some time, although much depends upon a mild winter. The windows of the Lange store are notably attractive in their autumn dress.

* * * *

D. M. Potter, of Auburn, R. I., is changing his heating apparatus to use oil as fuel. This has become popular in Rhode Island; several ranges have already been adapted to oil heating for this winter.

* * * *

The Ritter Flower Shop, of Fitchburg, Mass, reports an unusual amount of funeral work of late.

Joseph Fuller, of Leominster, Mass., assisted by Robert Edgar, will make a special effort to produce enough flowering pot stock to offset the dearth of lilies. White lilies, whether in pots or as cut flowers, will be none too plentiful this season, in their opinion.

* * * *

"Just as fast as they come in, they go out again," observed Alexander Dallas, of Alexander Dallas & Son, Waterbury, Conn., referring to the fine lot of chrysanthemums. His remark, however, was applicable also to the general condition of business.

Mark Aitken's shop at Springfield, Mass., set up a handsome memorial window in honor of ex-President Roosevelt. Some of the finest chrysanthemums, the pride of the grower, Eber Holmes, did excellent service.

"Keep pricking," remarked William Schlatter, of Wm. Schlatter & Son, Springfield, Mass., referring to the big demand for staples and pins. "We cannot fill the orders, they come in so fast. It is the result of pin pricking, publicity or advertising in The Review, depending on the way one looks at it, but anyhow we have to enlarge our space for this branch." A fine stock was noted in the houses. A novel idea in lined baskets, filled with ferns and small pompon chrysanthemums, caught the eye of buyers as soon as it was exhibited.

STRIKE REVIVES COAL ORDERS

PRICES FIXED ON FUEL.

Priority Classes Revived.

When the strike of bituminous coal miners throughout the United States became a certainty, the federal administration reverted to war-time measures to provide as far as possible for the normal needs of the public and of industry. Fuel Administrator Garfield signed an order October 31 which revived the distribution and diversion orders of the fuel administration, under which the old list of priorities immediately became effective. President Wilson signed an executive order setting maximum prices for soft coal in various states.

The seizure of coal in transit was made the subject of a general order to all roads under government control, and such coal will be taken by the government as an eminent right to protect the public from injury and suffering. As soon as it appears that stocks of coal are being dangerously reduced in any section of the country, or in any vital industry, the government will proceed to control all distribution, not only of what coal may be mined while the strike is in progress, but also of coal held in present stocks. The railroads are cautioned not to seize coal unless their own stocks are depleted to a point that makes the summary action necessary in order to keep trains moving.

Summer Prices Maintained.

The maximum prices set in the executive order of President Wilson are those which have been prevailing during the summer and in the autumn up to the time the proximity of the miners' strike caused increases. These figures are set merely to prevent profiteering by coal dealers when the scarcity of coal would enable them to push fuel prices to an extortionate degree.

As yet, anthracite prices are not affected. Should the scarcity of soft coal influence them, the administration will, Dr. Garfield says, thereupon set maximum figures to prevent profiteering.

The maximum prices are fixed by states and for prepared sizes range from $4.60 a net ton at mine mouth to $2.60.

Distribution of Coal Directed.

Director-General Hines has issued an order to the railroads instructing them in regard to the distribution of coal now in transit. For the present the regulations of the administration will affect only coal now in transit or such as is mined while the strike is in progress. Mr. Hines' order was as follows:

"In order to interfere as little as possible with the normal course of coal traffic, the railroad administration up to the present time has permitted coal to go to the designated consignees. For the last two weeks open top equipment has been devoted to coal loading to the exclusion of other classes of traffic and the movement of such equipment has been expedited so as to facilitate the maximum production of coal. The result has been an exceptionally heavy coal production.

"It having become necessary, however, to be prepared to insure against all temporary contingencies, that the transportation service be protected, regional directors have now been instructed to see that each railroad shall accumulate a necessary reserve of coal when it is not already on hand, purchasing such coal if possible, and otherwise holding coal in transit. The practice thus resorted to is a practice which railroads have always employed in emergencies whether under private or public control and has been recognized as indispensable to the maintenance of an essential public service.

Priority Order.

"In holding such coal, exemptions will be made as far as possible of coal destined to certain classes of consignees in the following order of priority, which is the basis of priority adopted during the war by the fuel administration:

"1. Steam railroads; inland and coastwise vessels.

"2. Domestic, including hotels, hospitals and asylums.

"3. Navy and army.

"4. Public utilities, including plants and such portions of plants as supply light, heat and water for public use.

"5. Producers and manufacturers of food, including refrigeration.

"6. National, state, county and municipal government emergency requirements.

"7. Bunkers and other marine emergency requirements not specified above.

"8. Producers of newsprint paper and plants necessary to the printing and publication of daily newspapers.

"Coal held in transit is not to be unloaded in storage nor used until actually needed, so that if its use is later found necessary it can be forwarded to destination whenever practicable.

"Instructions issued provide that there will be as little disturbance as possible in the distribution of coal, but at the same time protecting the necessities of the railroads, which have a public duty to perform."

Shipments Cut Off.

This order cuts off further delivery to coal yards or to commercial consumers except by order of the administration's representatives. Coal will be distributed only to commercial consumers who have no reserve supply.

Such florists as have in their season's stock will not be concerned in the administration's orders, for no seizures will be made until the coal in transit, which is a large quantity, is used. Greenhousemen who are not provided for the present emergency should make application at once to the railroad by which their deliveries are made for additional supply.

A regional coal committee is to be set up in each of the regional railroad districts, with centers in Chicago, St. Louis, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Atlanta, Roanoke, Philadelphia, Boston and New York.

Dr. Garfield will have a representative on each and the regional directors will appoint the other members. These eight bodies will act in conjunction with a central coal committee in Washington.

System of Distribution.

The system of distribution outlined by Director-General Hines is as follows:

"Bituminous coal, including lignite, taken and held in accordance with the instructions of the director-general of October 29 and 31, will be handled by the director-general and the regional directors through the agency of a central coal committee at Washington and regional coal committee which will be established jointly by the regional directors and the fuel administration. Such regional coal committee will comprise the following representatives: One appointed by the United States fuel administration and such others as the regional director may select to handle matters of purchase, distribution and accounting.

"The bituminous coal held must be distributed only to those consumers who have no reserve supply and must have coal to meet their emergency needs. The following order of preference shall govern the regional coal committee in such distribution as they may make within their jurisdiction for emergency consumption in the United States and Canada:

"(a) Railroads, (b) army and navy, together with other departments of the federal government, (c) state and county departments and institutions, (d) public utilities, (e) retail dealers, (f) manufacturing plants on war industries board's preference list, (g) manufacturing plants not on war industries board's

SOFT COAL PRICES FIXED

Maximum prices fixed by the executive order of President Wilson October 31 govern bituminous coal. Prices of anthracite are not affected. The lowest and highest prices by states are as follows:

Alabama	$2.45@4.35
Colorado	1.60@4.60
Illinois (lowest)	2.05
Kentucky	2.30@4.50
Ohio	2.65@3.65
Pennsylvania	3.25@3.65
Tennessee	2.75@4.50
West Virginia	2.45@3.00
Virginia	2.10@3.90

The maximum prices restored are approximately those prevailing during the summer and until recent rises owing to the threatened strike. The object of the order was to prevent profiteering or increases.

preference list, (h) jobbers, (i) lake, (j) tidewater.

Directions for Shippers.

"When commercial coal is diverted to other than original consignee, promptly notify shipper and original consignee of each car and keep adequate record for later settlement.

"Originating coal roads should hold a considerable portion of the commercial coal near coal way billing points, available for prompt distribution.

"Intermediate and terminal carriers should, as far as practicable, move commercial coal to and hold it in the vicinity of points most convenient for prompt rehandling and distribution.

"Coal must not be delivered to commercial consumers either in accordance with the priority list or otherwise except with specific authority from the coal committee having jurisdiction.

"Regional directors will immediately notify each railroad under federal control of the regional committee with which it shall deal.

Applications for Delivery.

"Applications to regional coal committees for delivery of coal to commercial consumers must be made through the railroad which will make delivery of the coal; such applications must show complete and accurate information with respect to the preferred nature of the requirements, the amount of coal which the applicant has on hand, and the amount which the applicant requires for the preferred use, together with the rate of consumption and the kind and size of the coal desired.

"Coal diverted for commercial uses shall be paid for in accordance with the fuel administrator's order dated January 14, 1918. In order to insure payments, coal shall be diverted for commercial use to such applicants only who shall satisfy the federal or general manager of their financial responsibility or who shall deposit a certified check or other satisfactory security in such sum as will insure full payment for any coal furnished. The applicant shall make definite written obligation to pay the shipper for the coal promptly upon presentation of bill. The legal transportation charges, including war taxes, from mines to point of delivery to the applicant, will be collected on delivery in the usual way."

Normal Stock on Hand.

The government reports show that stocks of bituminous coal are not far from normal at this time. It is true that production this year has been only seventy-four per cent of that of last year, but it must be remembered that there has been a tremendous cessation of war-time manufactures and a consequent slump in demand for coal. The reports all summer have shown this. Production down to October 18, the last week for which there are reports, was 378,000,000 tons for 1919, as compared with 482,000,000 for the same months last year. There has been a heavy shortage every month this year in bituminous coal. In January it was 11,000,000 tons; in February, 12,000,000; March, 15,000,000; April, 13,000,000; May, 14,000,000; June, 14,000,000, and July, 12,000,000 tons.

Supplies held by florists are, as a rule, good for this time of year, most of the trade having heeded the warnings of a fuel shortage given in the late summer. If the strike is not of long duration the trade will not suffer much. Should it be prolonged, however, those who put off securing their season's requirements will have to seek further supplies in accordance with the method outlined above.

TORONTO, ONT.

The Market.

Business has been excellent and the supply of flowers is improving, but is not yet up to the demand. There have been some big receptions and weddings, making a good demand for the finer varieties. The increase in the supply of mums has helped considerably. There have been some beautiful specimens of Turner displayed in the windows during the last week.

The stores along Yonge street, King street and Queen street all report a greater volume of business this fall than in any previous autumn and state that the only thing preventing a greater sale of flowers is the short supply. This will be overcome to some extent by the greater glass area which will be available for growing at an early date.

Club Meeting.

The Toronto Retail Florists' Club will hold a "Say It with Flowers" day Friday, November 7, and it will be celebrated in a rather unusual manner. The members will assemble at the club rooms at 2 p. m. and then, with their motor cars and trucks all decorated, will proceed to the different hospitals, where the lady members will distribute flowers. J. A. Neal will act as flower secretary.

A combined business and social meeting of the club was held October 27, with President Dillemuth in the chair. One of the chief items of business was the discussion of arrangements for the big flower show to be held in Toronto, November 11 to 15, under the management of the Ontario Horticultural Exhibition Association. A carload of trees for decorative purposes has arrived and has been unloaded by George Gard and J. J. Higgins.

Alex. Simpson, secretary of the Gardeners' and Florists' Association, was present at the meeting and brought with him several suggestions. One of these was that the club take charge of the light refreshment booth. This will be done under the chairmanship of Miss Gaffikin. Another was regarding the signs. These will be supplied to the club in two sizes, the large ones for the store windows having on them baskets of mums in colors. A committee, consisting of Messrs. Geraghty, James and Higgins, will take up with the growers the question of other signs.

The treasurer reported a handsome sum on hand, in addition to over $350 for a piano for the club rooms.

On account of the show, a combined meeting will again be held November 17.

J. J. H.

Wilmington, Del.—Henry C. Krueger was unexpectedly stopped by a revolver and a man Monday night, October 20. Mr. Krueger explained that he had no money. The would-be highwayman at once lost interest and walked quietly away.

Santa Fe, N. M.—R. V. Boyle has completed the addition of two houses to his range, one carnation house 25x70 and a rose house 21x70. The young stock in these houses is coming along nicely and from the present outlook Mr. Boyle will have a splendid cut by Christmas.

West Mentor, O.—The New York Central greenhouses have been purchased by the Carl Hagenburger Co. and will be used as cold storage houses this winter. In the spring, Mr. Hagenburger plans to move this range and set it up next to his establishment on Hart street.

Ellwood City, Pa.—The block on Lawrence avenue formerly occupied by the branch store of the A. Krut Floral Co., Butler, Pa., has been purchased by Gus Paris. A flower stand will still be conducted, as a department of the confectionery store which the new owner will soon open there.

Lake Geneva, Wis.—The fourteenth annual chrysanthemum exhibition of the Lake Geneva Gardeners' and Foremen's Association will be held in Horticultural hall November 7 to 9. The officers of this association are as follows: President, Robert Sampson; secretary, Frank Brady; treasurer, Axel Johnson.

Des Moines, Ia.—The Mid-West Horticultural Exposition will be held in this city November 11 to 14, under the auspices of the Iowa State Horticultural Society.

Quincy, Ill.—The Quincy Art Willow Ware Co., capital stock $5,000, has been organized to engage in the manufacture of willow baskets of all descriptions. F. W. Heckenkamp, Jr., the widely known Quincy florist, is president of the new corporation.

Helena, Mont.—The greenhouses and fields of the State Nursery Co. occupy considerable space in the state fair motion picture. A view of the entire establishment is followed on the screen by carnation houses, asters, fields of alfalfa and finally the firm's exhibit at the fair.

Uniontown, Pa.—W. H. Mahoney, formerly with the W. R. Barton Greenhouse Co., and N. H. Jaquette, Jr., of Greggs Station, Ill., entered partnership October 15 and took over the Fair Chance Greenhouse Co., at Fair Chance, Pa., formerly owned by A. M. Fredericks, who will retire.

Vineland, N. J.—John De Martini has recently started in business with a range of five houses, each 25x150 feet, on Wheat road; he is now cutting from 17,000 chrysanthemum plants. Mr. De Martini has also opened a store in this town for the retail end of the business. W. F. Sheain is associated with him in this enterprise.

FIRST FALL SHOWS

CHRYSANTHEMUM SOCIETY.

Annual Exhibition at New York.

This week the Chrysanthemum Society of America holds its annual exhibition in conjunction with the show of the American Institute at the Engineering building, New York. The exhibition opened Wednesday evening, November 5, and continues until November 7.

On the opening night the annual meeting of the society was held. The officers of the organization are: President, William W. Vert, Greenwich, Conn.; vice-president, William Turner, Oceanic, N. J.; secretary, Charles W. Johnson, Chicago, Ill., and treasurer, John N. May, Summit, N. J.

Work of the Committees.

The examining committees of the C. S. A. have submitted reports on new varieties as follows:

At Cincinnati, October 25, No. 110-17, pink, Japanese reflexed, submitted by Baur & Steinkamp, Indianapolis, Ind., scored as follows on the commercial scale: Color, 16; form, 12; fullness, 10; stem, 15; foliage, 12; substance, 11; size, 8; total, 84.

At Chicago, October 27, Clarice, light pink, pompon, submitted by Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., scored as follows: Color, 36; form, 17; stem and foliage, 16; fullness, 17; total, 86.

Chas. W. Johnson, Sec'y.

MORRIS COUNTY EXHIBITION.

Largest in Society's History.

The twenty-third annual flower show of the Morris County Gardeners' and Florists' Society was held in the Armory, Morristown, N. J., October 29 and 30.

The annual exhibition of this society is usually one of the most important of the season and it lost nothing from its rating this year. Customarily, it is held in James hall, Madison, and comfortably fills that hall. The Armory is two and one-half times larger than James hall, and practically every available foot of floor space was used for purposes of the exhibition, which was the biggest in the history of the society.

No New Mums.

The chrysanthemums were somewhat poor in quality, owing, no doubt, to the excessive temperatures for some time experienced, and many rainy days just preceding the show dates. There was little or nothing in the way of novelties to be seen in this section, but Sergeant Young, light bronze, of 1918 introduction, and Corporal Piper, an incurved yellow, also of the 1918 list, were prominent among the best varieties exhibited, the latter, perhaps, being the best in the show. Both were shown by the C. H. Totty Co., Madison, N. J., which also exhibited a splendid group of singles and pompons, not for competition.

Six handsome new chrysanthemums in the single and pompon section were shown by the C. H. Totty Co. and were scored by a committee of the Chrysanthemum Society of America for certificates. They were: Nelma Putnam, pink shading to white at center; Miss Anna L. Moran, chestnut bronze; Mrs. Harrison, blush white; No. 116, light bronze; No. 10, wine red, and Mrs. C. Jameson, deep gold.

No Orchid Competition.

The display in the orchid class was quite good, and the staging excellent. There were no commercial entries, although the class was open. Joseph A. Manda, West Orange, N. J., however, staged a table of Cypripedium insigne Sanderæ (not for competition), and Lager & Hurrell, Summit, N. J., had a small group of cypripediums in different varieties.

As might be expected from such a rose-producing district, the rose display was extensive. Competition in a special class for a silver cup offered by Miss Ruth V. Twombly, calling for a display of roses on a table five and one-half feet in diameter, was exceedingly keen. The cup was taken by the C. H. Totty Co. with a table of Premier, Butterfly, F. W. Dunlop, Double White Killarney, Columbia and Hadley. Noe & Ruzicka were second.

In the vase classes there were some good exhibits, but the quality of the roses was not up to the usual standard at this show.

Commercial Awards.

The following were the awards to commercial exhibitors:

CHRYSANTHEMUMS.

Ten blooms, any yellow—C. H. Totty Co., Madison, N. J., first, with Bob Pulling.
Ten blooms, any pink—C. H. Totty Co., first.
Ten blooms, any other color—C. H. Totty Co., first, with W. H. Waite.

ROSES.

Eighteen American Beauty—Noe & Ruzicka, Madison, N. J., first.
Twelve American Beauty—Noe & Ruzicka, first.
Twenty-five any white—Duckham-Pierson Co., Madison, N. J., first.
Twenty-five any red—Duckham-Pierson Co., first, with Hadley; L. B. Coddington, Murray Hill, N. J., second, with Hadley.
Twenty-five Mrs. Aaron Ward—L. B. Coddington, first.
Twenty-five Ophelia—Duckham-Pierson Co., first; L. B. Coddington, second.
Twenty-five Premier—Duckham-Pierson Co., first; L. B. Coddington, second.
Twenty-five Mrs. Chas. Russell—Duckham-Pierson Co., first.
Twenty-five Columbia—Duckham-Pierson Co., first; C. H. Totty Co., second.
Vase of twenty-five blooms, one or more varieties, arranged for effect—Noe & Ruzicka, second.

CARNATIONS.

Twenty-five light pink—The Rose Shop, Summit, N. J., first, with Enchantress Supreme.
Twenty-five dark pink—The Rose Shop, first; David Francis, Morristown, second.
Twenty-five red—The Rose Shop, first.
Twenty-five variegated—C. H. Totty Co., first, with Benora.
Vase of fifty blooms arranged for effect—The Rose Shop, first.

For table decorations first prize was won by J. M. Barker, Morristown, N. J., with a splendid table decorated with Ophelia Supreme roses, Bouvardia Humboldtii and maidenhair fern; second by the Rose Shop, Summit, N. J., and third by David Francis, Morristown.

The C. H. Totty Co. staged the new rose, Frank W. Dunlop, in a tall pedestal basket with a bronze ribbon for decoration. It was alone on the floor and was much admired.

J. M. Barker had a handsome display of filled baskets, centerpieces and other artistic work.

H. C. Holmes staged a fine group of decorative plants.

The leading feature of the show was a well-arranged group of chrysanthemum plants in flower, arranged with foliage plants for effect, in a space of seventy-five square feet or more, staged by Robert Tyson, gardener to Mrs. H. McK. Twombly, Madison, which won first prize.

The committee in charge of the show was Wm. H. Duckham, Charles H. Totty and Arthur Herrington, all of Madison.

J. H. Pepper.

NEW YORK FALL SHOW SMALL.

Entries Not Numerous.

The fall show of the Horticultural Society of New York, held in the American Museum of Natural History, New York, October 30 to November 2, was disappointing to those accustomed to seeing a fine show staged by the society. Many of the classes were unfilled and the exhibits were anything but numerous. The immense chrysanthemum plants usually exhibited by Adolph Lewisohn and Captain De Lamar were missing, and the beautiful foyer of the museum presented a bare appearance in consequence. The eastern corridor was without exhibits at all and the western corridor was not wholly used; had it not been for a fine exhibit of dahlias by Mills & Co., of Mamaroneck, N. Y., the display in this corridor would have been small. One or two stagings outside of the classes helped materially in the make-up of the show.

There were no carnations at all, no roses in the commercial vase classes, except in the class for new varieties; an extremely small display of orchids, and but little in the way of decorative plant exhibits. A few small specimen trained plants of chrysanthemums were disposed to advantage in the foyer, the center location being given to a collection of orchids from Lager & Hurrell, Summit, N. J.

The Awards.

In the chrysanthemum classes, the C. H. Totty Co., Madison, N. J., won firsts for collections of singles and pompons, and A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., won a special prize for a collection of pompons.

Joseph A. Manda, West Orange, N. J., was awarded a gold medal for a fine exhibit of Cypripedium insigne Sanderæ and showed also a plant of a new hybrid cattleya, Prince John.

A. N. Cooley, Pittsfield, Mass., won the Moore medal for a new orchid plant, showing Læliocattleya luminosa Golden Glory, crimson purple lip with crimson shading on orange yellow sepals, a most beautiful variety.

A. N. Pierson, Inc., staged vases of the new roses, Pilgrim and Crusader, gaining a silver medal for each. The C. H. Totty Co. staged vases of the new roses, Mme. Butterfly and Frank W. Dunlop, each of which was awarded a silver medal.

The C. H. Totty Co. won first for a vase of twenty chrysanthemums, one variety.

Sweepstakes Medal.

Lager & Hurrell won the society's silver cup for a collecion of not less than twenty-five species and varieties of orchid plants, covering fifty square feet of table space. The firm was awarded the sweepstakes silver medal for the best orchid plant exhibited, on Vanda Lowei.

Robert G. Wilson, Brooklyn, N. Y., staged a group of a new fern, a type of Pteris terminalis, for which he was awarded a silver medal.

Some commendable table decorations were exhibited by private exhibitors in the open class provided. It is to be regretted that no commercial showing was made in this class.

Anthony J. Manda was manager of the show. J. H. Pepper.

DENVER ANNUAL SHOW.

Most Successful on Record.

Denver's annual flower show at the City Auditorium October 29 to 31 was the most successful ever held, both in quality of the exhibits and in attendance. The show was free to exhibitors and to the public, the City Auditorium being donated under those conditions.

Two prizes were offered, one for fifty Premiers and the other for fifty Carnation Denver. The prize for the best fifty Premiers was won by the Mauff Floral Co. The Elitch Gardens Greenhouses also had a splendid lot of Premiers, but they were cut a little tight. The prize for the best fifty Carnation Denver was won by Geo. Brenkert, the originator of this variety.

C. F. Maler showed a table of ferns, cyclamens, cypripediums and cattleyas. One plant worthy of special notice was a Cattleya labiata with fourteen perfect flowers.

S. Knudsen, of Boulder, Colo., had a splendid exhibit of Cattleya labiata, Cattleya Trianæ and a fine specimen of Oncidium varicosum Rogersii.

The City Park Greenhouses had several tables of novelty mums. They also sent in large palms, begonias, ferns and a large number of good mum plants.

The Barteldes Seed Co. filled a table with ferns, bulbs, wreaths and autumn foliage.

Attractive Baskets.

The Alpha Floral Co. showed several artistic baskets. The one that attracted the most attention was filled with fruits and flowers.

George Cooper exhibited some fine baskets that brought the people back for another look.

Boldt & Lundy showed some fine cyclamens, Begonia Cincinnati and baskets of mums and roses.

T. H. Trimmer & Son had several good vases of roses.

D. S. Grimes' Son had a table filled with fine mums, pompons and carnations.

Graul Bros. had a fine collection of carnations and roses, including some good Columbia and Premier.

Many Good Mums.

The Fairmont Cemetery Greenhouses showed a splendid lot of mums and pompons.

The Crown Hill Greenhouses had a splendid showing of mums, pompons, carnations and roses. One vase of Marigold was especially good.

The Elitch Gardens Co. exhibited a fine lot of mums, carnations and roses, including some splendid Premier, Key and Columbia. This firm also had a large collection of palms, ferns, araucarias, cyclamens, Begonia Cincinnati and Begonia luminosa.

The Mauff Floral Co. had a fine exhibit of palms, ferns, adiantum, crotons and cattleyas; also some splendid mums, carnations and pompons. One pompon in this collection, called Acto, was much admired by the florists. This firm without a doubt had the best collection of roses ever seen in Denver, including Ophelias and Columbias with 4-foot stems and perfect flowers.

Fine Retail Display.

The American Flower Shop had a large signs, "Say It with Flowers," the only one in the whole show. They gave out a little folder, urging the people to "Say It with Flowers" and calling attention to the F. T. D. Their meritorious exhibit included nearly everything a flower shop is supposed to handle—vases and baskets of flowers, bouquets and corsages, and Parisian winter baskets, a specialty of this firm. The whole exhibit was tastefully arranged. The firm also showed for the first time gypsophila prepared in all colors by a process of their own.

The Park Floral Co. had a large showing of plants, palms, mums, Begonia Lorraine, Begonia Cincinnati and a fine lot of 6-inch Begonia Chatelaine; also a fine exhibit of corsages, wedding bouquets, tastefully arranged baskets, some vases of mums and roses and a splendid table decoration of Ophelia, cattleyas and Adiantum Farleyense.

From Colorado Springs.

Frank Crump, of Colorado Springs, showed some good carnations and mums.

The Glen Eyrie Greenhouses, of Colorado Springs, exhibited the finest mums at the show, William Turner, Yellow Turner and white and pink Chieftain.

The Pikes Peak Floral Co., of Colorado Springs, had a meritorious collection of mums, pompons, roses and carnations, two artistic baskets of Bonnaffon mums and Ophelia roses and a fine table decoration of Columbia roses and double violets.

Mrs. S. B. Walker showed her famous collection of Colorado wild flowers.

R. Forrest showed some seedling trees, grown in Denver from seed, including bur oak, scarlet oak, white oak, laurel-leaved willow, English hawthorn and the native hawthorn.

Visitors.

Visitors to the show included Mr. Johnson, of Greeley, Colo.; S. A. Knudsen, Boulder, Colo.; Geo. Fleischer, Pueblo, Colo.; Mr. Shepard, representing Frank Crump, of Colorado Springs; Wm. Burkhard, grower for the Glen Eyrie Greenhouses, Colorado Springs; Edward Johnson and family, Wm. Crump, and Mr. Armstrong, all of the Pikes Peak Floral Co., Colorado Springs. R. S.

BUFFALO, N. Y.

The Market.

The peculiar character of the fall market is again showing itself. Supply and demand were going nicely hand-in-hand during the first part of the week, with a liberal supply in fancy roses only. Now it is almost a glutted market, with only one possible outlet: If the demand for funeral flowers increases materially, perhaps we can again sail smoothly. But of course the chrysanthemum season is likely to bring a glutted market. It is a time when every grower's stock gets a setback, including that of the plantsmen. At this time, however, whether there is a glut or not, the prices are fairly firm. Stock either sells or does not sell. The dealer who used to peddle stock to the public at a song has awakened to the fact that selling anything below production prices is a losing game.

Growers and Retailers Meet.

The growers and retailers met again October 30 at the store of the Wm. F. Kasting Co. for the purpose of considering what procedure should be adopted in order to raise a substantial advertising fund. While the gathering was not as large as the former meeting, it was large enough to indicate that the subject had made a real impression. It was a stormy night and no doubt many who lived on the outskirts could not come. After some discussion it was unanimously agreed that subscriptions should be made voluntarily, with the object in mind that it would be an investment on which liberal returns could be expected. The principal obstacle to the plan proved to be the friction caused by the fear that the other fellow was not giving enough. But after all was said and done, it was felt that there would be a liberal subscription, even beyond the expectations of the most optimistic.

Various Notes.

The Neubeck greenhouses, in Williamsville, N. Y., were sold last week to Charles Sandiford and Oscar Loewendorss. Mr. Loewendorss has been for many years grower at the Newlands greenhouses. It is expected that he will soon take charge of the Neubeck range.

The death of Leon W. Neubeck October 30 was a shock to his parents and his many friends. Leon was the son of L. H. Neubeck and conducted a shop at 360 Connecticut street. The funeral took place November 2 from the parlor of Henry Sauerwein, at 934 Niagara street.

J. T. Salach, who recently opened a shop at 1185 Genesee street, has put up a large electric sign. In addition to handling cut flowers, Mr. Salach will manufacture artificial flowers for wholesale trade. He occupies the entire building, which was formerly a saloon.

J. E. Meredith, formerly of the Meredith Flower & Vegetable Co., Libertyville, Ill., is now at 40 Greenwood place. in this city .

NEW YORK.

The Market.

There is a notable decrease in the supply of outdoor flowers, due largely to the heavy rains of the last few days, as up to the time of writing this report the expected killing frost, now considerably overdue, had not arrived. The end of the outdoor supply, however, is believed to have been seen, and the market is stronger in all lines, although there is little, if any, improvement in the general demand. The reason for an unusually poor demand for flowers at this season is hard to find, but many believe that the labor troubles now so disturbing in New York and elsewhere are to some degree responsible.

Chrysanthemums now dominate the market. Arrivals are heavy, but clearances are, on the whole, satisfactory. Prices are fair, with little stock moving at what might be called fancy figures; indeed, the flowers coming in are hardly up to the standard of quality which has been seen in other seasons and which has demanded fancy prices. The variety Bonnaffon is seen in fairly good shape and brings as much as $4 per dozen. Ivory, McNiece, Marigold and Oconto are prominent among other varieties offered. There is a wealth of pompons and singles. Among the latter are some choice varieties, one or two realizing 50 cents per spray. Pink and white Doty appear to be leaders among the pompons.

Paper White narcissus is arriving in quantity and sells fairly well at 75 cents per bunch for the best. Several growers of these flowers report that much planted stock is coming blind.

Roses are plentiful and for several days have been slow in movement, necessitating concessions in price to effect clearances. The weather has been responsible for much open stock, which has been difficult to move at any price, resulting in considerable waste. Good American Beauty is only in fair supply and the price for specials has moved upward a few points, $60 per hundred being about the top figure. Hybrid teas are in slightly better demand, with prices a little stronger. Short grades are still in heavy supply, but move fairly well when the stock is good, especially white varieties.

Carnations are fairly plentiful, but the quality is nothing to boast of. Flowers are soft and much inclined to sleepiness, for which the weather is blamed. The best Mrs. C. W. Ward and Matchless bring $3 per hundred, the rest $2 and lower.

A few multiflorum lilies are arriving and bring 30 cents or more per flower, but it is exceptional business which promotes sales at such a price. The Easter lily problem is a serious one, as with the high prices asked for bulbs plantings are likely to be limited. Rubrum lilies are plentiful; the best bring $6 per hundred, with other grades down to $3. Lily of the valley is in better supply, with 20 cents per spray the top price.

Orchids continue on the scarce side and the supply is irregular. There are not enough cattleyas to go around, and the top price remains at $2 each, with little available below the $1 mark. Some good oncidium sprays are coming in, the best bringing from $8 to $10 per hundred flowers.

There is an increased supply of sweet peas, and the quality is somewhat improved. The best bring as much as $2.50 per hundred sprays. Violets are in good supply, but sales are not active, as the quality is off; the best move at 75 cents per bunch, the remainder at anything down to 30 cents. Bouvardia is moving fairly well, Humboldtii bringing 50 cents to 75 cents per bunch.

A few dahlias are still coming in, but the trade appears to have tired of them. Calendulas and snapdragons are in small supply and meet a good demand.

Various Notes.

The lifting of the longshoremen's strike is expediting the delivery of shipments of Dutch bulbs, which have been tied up for about a month. There is much speculation as to how the cases will open up.

Frank H. Traendly, of Traendly & Schenck; Eugene Dailledouze, of Brooklyn; Peter Duff, of Orange, N. J.; Wm. Turner, of Oceanic, N. J., and Wm. H. Waite, of Yonkers, visited Morristown, N. J., October 29, and were judges at the show of the Morris County Gardeners' and Florists' Society. Others who visited the show on the first day were Joseph S. Fenrich, Harry Hoffmeier, John Miesem, of Elmhurst, and John Donaldson, of Patchogue. It was Mr. Donaldson's first real visit to Morristown since the time when, thirty-five years ago, he was connected with an estate there.

Frank Golsner, the new wholesaler, opened for business November 3 in the quarters he has secured on the floor of the New York Cut Flower Exchange, in the Coogan building.

Fred Vogel, for some years on the staff of Thomas Young, Jr., when in business as a retail florist on Fifth avenue, recently bought out the business of M. Hendberg, 415 Washington street, Hoboken, N. J., and is conducting it under his own name.

Many of the friends of Henry Weston, of Hempstead, helped him on the evening of November 1 to celebrate his thirtieth wedding anniversary.

At the meeting of the New York Florists' Club to be held Monday, November 10, the nomination committee will report its selection of candidates for office during the ensuing year.

The florists of Brooklyn are arranging to hold a "Say It with Flowers" week, November 17 to 22. Present plans provide for some elaborate street-car and poster advertising, a parade Monday, November 17, with music and a police escort, in which it is expected that a corps of motor girls will also take part. Frequent meetings of the committee are being held, and it is proposed to carry out the undertaking in good style. The following are included in the committee: Wm. A. Phillips, chairman; Hugo H. Jahn, Robert G. Wilson, Eugene Dailledouze, A. M. Danenheim, Herman Wipperman, Charles Uber, Wm. H. Kuebler, George Blake, Chris. Bonnet, Ed. McCarty, Chas. Applegate, Geo. Mitres, Joseph H. Van Mater, Frank Van Mater, Charles Abrams and Joseph Trepel.

David Francis, a prominent exhibitor in the private classes at the various New York shows, is now in business for himself as a florist and landscape gardener at Morristown, N. J., with greenhouses at the corner of Franklin and Ford avenues, in that town.

The Nassau County Horticultural Society held its annual flower show at Glen Cove, L. I., October 30 and 31.

The Market.

The market was considerably overstocked last week and many flowers went to the street venders, who were in their glory. The weather was bad throughout the week and retailers report business dull. There has been no killing frost and dahlias continue to arrive in quantity. Outdoor pompons are plentiful and inquiries come every day from small growers who have a few and would like to sell or consign them; it keeps one busy trying to convince them the market is overloaded. Chrysanthemums continue to arrive in quantity. Some fine Turner and Old Gold are available. Carnations are moving slowly. Roses continue to arrive in quantity, the demand being mostly for the better grades. American Beauties clean up fairly well. Single violets sell readily, but doubles are moving slowly. Calendulas, marigolds and zinnias clean up well. A few asters still are available. Boxwood is now offered in quantity. Asparagus plumosus has been much in demand. Adiantum is in good supply.

Various Notes.

John Scott, of Lisbon, was in the city on business last week. Mr. Scott recently returned from a visit to England, where he was with his parents, whom he had not seen for thirty-two years.

H. J. Alford, of Garrettsville, was a visitor last week.

The Park Flower Shop is being remodeled.

The Daisy Hill Farms are cutting some fine pompons and Turners. W. F. B.

RESULTS.
We give them. You get them.
We both have them.

OCTOBER was not far behind June this year in the number of weddings.

SOME growers of Paper White narcissi report that much stock is coming blind this season.

ABSENCE of valley for wedding decorations has resulted in numerous inquiries by retailers for swainsona.

OUTDOOR stock is coming to an end without the help of killing frosts, which have not yet arrived in a number of localities.

IT will be in line to get your ruscus while you may. It is an Italian specialty and the crop was small this year. Immortelles also are scarce.

NEITHER lycopodium nor holly will be so scarce as in the last two years, but the price must continue high because of the increased demands of labor.

WITHOUT a mortality demand, October sales records set high marks in some florists' stores. Those whose totals were not up to those of a year ago find them well above any other previous season.

THE expert and fluent pen of Secretary A. P. Saunders makes the bulletins of the American Peony Society interesting and instructive reading. Bulletin No. 9, bearing date of August, 1919, just out, carries the proceedings of the annual meeting and report of the society's exhibition, which are put in a form that is far from dry.

IN the printed roster of its 164 members, the St. Louis Florists' Club indicates by one, two or three stars after his name whether a member belongs to the St. Louis Club, the S. A. F. and the Missouri State Florists' Association, and asks, "If you have not three stars, why not?" Membership of 200 is hoped for by the thirty-fourth anniversary, June 28, 1920.

MOVING THE GLUT.

When frosts hold off and the weather is bright, outdoor stock, chrysanthemums and the first heavy crop of roses combine to flood the markets. Two of the factors cause difficulty; the three together make much trouble. The stock that is too abundant to be moved is often of good quality—better than deserves to be sacrificed or wasted.

Is there a way to move this stock? Milwaukee thinks so. At such a time coöperative advertising comes to the fore. By using space in the daily newspapers at the critical period, the local club arouses the public's interest and gives just the addition to the natural impulse to buy flowers that is needed to effect sales.

In every city live retailers take advantage of full stocks and low prices to advertise sales and thereby aid themselves and the market. But vastly more could be done if the work of these few individuals could be multiplied by the coöperation of all the florists of the community. Sufficient space could then be taken to benefit the entire city's retailers and to move stock in such quantities as to make a decided impression on the glut.

The number of florists' clubs which are discussing raising advertising funds this fall make one hopeful of widespread results. If they realize they hold in coöperative advertising a means not only of developing business gradually but also of combating that periodical bugbear, a glut, they will consider the project much more interestedly.

EXPRESS CLAIMS.

The unsatisfactory manner in which the attorneys of the Adams Express Co. are attempting to dispose of claims for loss and damage against it is causing much concern among shippers all over the country. Anxiety is felt on account of danger of the limit for filing suit, two years and one day, expiring. After that period there is no recourse. As suits must be filed in New York, the expense involved would be too great in proportion to the amount of the claims to warrant such action by indiviual florists.

For this reason it is suggested by T. P. Langhans, of the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., that some concerted action might be taken, perhaps through the S. A. F. Various chambers of commerce of cities distant from New York are asking local shippers to advise them of claims, so that steps may be taken to protect their interests. An aggregate sum of money of considerable size might be gained for the trade should its shippers unite in action against the express company.

RAILROADS TO BE INVOLVED?

Whether the coal strike will bring to a crisis differences between the administration and the railroad trainmen is a question of concern to florists. Not only would the shipping business, which is increasingly large as cold weather comes on, be affected, but general trade would assuredly suffer from a tie-up of transportation at this time.

At conferences during the last few days in Washington Director-General Hines and representatives of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen have failed to reach any basis of agreement. Indications are that Mr. Hines will follow the policy adopted by President Wilson on the labor situation during the shopmen's strike and refuse to meet the trainmen's demands for increased wages. The trainmen are likely to push things while the government is in charge of the roads, realizing that failure now will mean the passing of their best opportunity. The railroads, immediately after their return to private operation, are not expected to be so placed that demands of labor at that time would create any public sympathy, while the period subsequent to January 1 is that of the slackest traffic, when a strike would be least effective from the standpoint of tying up the nation's arteries.

Officials of the brotherhood have not stated whether a strike would be called in case the demands were not granted, but they characterize the situation as dangerous. Though they stated also before November 1 that no strike would be called in sympathy with the coal miners, upon the resort of the government to the use of injunction against the leaders of the striking mine workers, Warren S. Stone, head of the Brotherhood of Railroad Engineers, informed Attorney General Palmer that he could not guarantee that the membership of the railway brotherhoods could be held in check if the government intended to deal with labor disputes by the injunction process. He did not threaten a railway strike, but he left no doubt that it was a strike he had in mind.

The situation is fraught with a number of possibilities, any one of which may prove as a lighted match to the powder magazine.

ARMISTICE DAY.

Armistice week or Armistice day, November 11, will be celebrated in many cities in the country. Whether it is observed to any marked degree or not by civic authorities, it may be made an occasion of extra business for the florist if he will take steps to cultivate it. As a day when those who served in the war may be honored, when the memory of those who still lie in foreign soil may be recalled, when the mothers who mourn them may receive tokens of sympathy in their loss, Armistice day offers opportunities to the trade dependent only in part upon the extent to which the community takes steps to observe it. The florist himself can develop the observance of the day with flowers by newspaper advertising, by circularization and by suitable window display.

Many have been the splendid window decorations made by florists upon the occasion of soldiers' home-coming during the spring and summer. Ones similar to those which stirred up so much interest then will be effective in stirring up trade for the retailer now.

What the trade makes of this first anniversary of Armistice day will measure largely what it can do in coming years on this occasion. Impetus that is given its observance this November will add to the likelihood of its becoming a yearly benefit to the trade. It is a ground-floor occasion. The trade should endeavor to make the most of it.

SURE FIRE.

The Classified ads in The Review are sure fire, the most dependable of salesmen; as one user said, "The cost and the returns to advertisers have no relation whatever." They work like this:

One insertion was enough to clean up 10,000 plants.—H. J. Potomkin, Muncie, Ind., October 25, 1919.

Am much pleased with the results. Sold out all my stock and had orders amounting to $75 I could not fill.—Ward B. Davis, Oshkosh, Wis., October 24, 1919.

If you hear a man complain of the cost of advertising you can be pretty certain he spends a good bit of money elsewhere than in The Review.

OBITUARY

Leon W. Neubeck.

Leon W. Neubeck, of Buffalo, N. Y., died October 30. He was the son of L. H. Neubeck and conducted a shop at 360 Connecticut street. The funeral took place November 2 at the parlor of Henry Sauerwein, at 934 Niagara street.

James Nolan.

James Nolan, for nearly forty-nine years gardener in charge of the grounds of the Rumford Chemical Works, in Rumford, East Providence, R. I., died at his home in that village Saturday morning, November 1. He was born in County Fermanagh, Ireland, but came to this country with his parents when only a few years old and settled at Pawtucket, R. I. He attended the public schools of Pawtucket until his sixteenth year, when he took a position on a private estate as assistant to the head gardener. After a few years he became head gardener for the Rumford works. He is survived by his widow, two daughters and three sons and sixteen grandchildren, as well as two brothers.

The Market.

The report of many retailers is that business for October was better than ever. There were a dozen or more large jobs, averaging $500 or over, together with a good amount of regular work. The market was steady during the month, with practically no gluts. Chrysanthemums are on the increase, with greater amounts being sold, which leaves the market fairly well cleared. Pompons are about equal to their increased demand; only the poorer varieties are slow to move and at times even those find a buyer. A good amount of Chieftain is coming into the market and is quickly disposed of. This is true also of a large white variety named Emperor, bringing $5 per dozen. Good yellow mums, such as Chrysolora, C. C. Pollworth, and a golden yellow, are scarce, with a large demand and only a medium grade in the market.

Roses of all kinds are plentiful. American Beauties of the best quality even find the demand slow, but during the day almost all are sold. The short-stemmed Beauties are in a glut. Long-stemmed Hoosier Beauty and Premier are also in oversupply. Columbia roses are few, being off crop; the few long-stemmed ones that come in are quickly sold. High-grade Shawyer and Ophelia are in oversupply, the demand being slow, as is usually the case during the mum season. Ward is scarce. Sunburst is used to fill in instead of Ward. White roses of high quality are plentiful, as several growers are cutting them in quantity. Killarney and short-stemmed Russell are to be had, but are not much in demand. Safrano and Bon Silene buds are plentiful, but they, too, are a bit slow to move.

Carnations stacked up during the week and the price came down to $2 to $6 per hundred, compared with $4 to $8 per hundred last week. Several carnation growers are cutting elegant stock in large quantities, but, as the demand is more for pompons, the carnations tend to glut the market. Fortunately, several large orders calling for carnations moved a good quantity of them.

Sweet peas are of best quality, but they, too, move slowly. Violets clear each day, though the quality is poor. Dahlias continue to reach the market and are quickly disposed of, as they are short in supply.

Calendulas sell well, a good quantity of them clearing each day. Snapdragon and bouvardia are scarce and are quickly disposed of. Cosmos is in oversupply, since the demand has stopped suddenly. The first cut of Paper Whites came in during the week, bringing the high price of $8 per hundred.

Bowling Club Meets.

The Detroit Florists' Bowling Club met Thursday evening, October 30, with the following scores for the evening:

American Beauties	7	8
Tigers	5	10

Louis Charvot rolled high game with 198 and also had high average at 166. E. A. Fetters won a special game against Joe Streit, his famous slow ball having more stuff on it than Joe Streit's speed ball.

Various Notes.

R. Y. Leslie, of the Detroit Greenhouses, Redford, Mich., is bringing in the first of his sweet peas. He has recently added two new houses.

The Highland Park Floral Co., 2571 Woodward avenue, held its annual fall opening October 18 and 19. The store was well stocked with baskets of mums, etc., also a good line of mum plants and primroses. Henry C. Wustrow, the proprietor, had special shipments of mums from Krueger Bros., of Toledo, O., which were specimen stock.

Albert Stahelin, of Redford, Mich., has returned from his trip to Chicago, where he visited the trade. He continues to supply the market with fine long-stemmed Premier and Hoosier Beauty roses.

T. Browne, of Greenfield, Mich., is cutting excellent mums for this market. His Chieftain and his white Emperor are of high quality. His carnations are in full crop and he is cutting them by the thousands.

George Bayer, of Toledo, O., is shipping fine mums, both large and pompon, to this market.

Sidney Beard, of Beard Bros., has a good lot of plants, especially cyclamens. He entertained the Detroit Florists' Club Tuesday, November 4, at the range out on Fort street, west.

The L. Bemb Floral Co. had much work for the opening of the Parisian Co., on Woodward avenue, as did several of the downtown retailers.

John Breitmeyer's Sons had orders for the opening of the Parisian Co. and decorations for several weddings and other social affairs. Philip Breitmeyer is back after a motor trip to Indiana. Elmer Reinhardt, one of the old reliables of John Breitmeyer's Sons, is at home under a physician's orders. After a quiet rest he is expected to be back on the job.

A dozen or more local florists were disappointed by express shipments from the Chicago market, in that they did not arrive until Saturday night, too late for Saturday's rush business.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

The market has been heavily supplied with stock. Except for one or two cool days, the weather has been unseasonably warm and flowers of practically all kinds have been brought to maturity ahead of the natural time. That there has been an immense volume of business no one will question who has noted the great quantities of stock which have been handled each day. Business has been big, but the demand has not been large enough to take up all the flowers offered, with the result that prices have sagged. Nobody wants to see values go down to a point where the growers will not have an incentive to work, but there have been times when sacrifice sales were necessary to clean up the accumulation. This has been particularly true of the low grade stock. In times of abundant supply the grower who produces the highest quality always has the best of the demand.

It is the height of the chrysanthemum season. Bonnaffon and the popular midseason sorts began arriving in quantity last week. There are extremely large daily receipts and it is not possible to find a first-class market for them all. There are too many white. Except for All Saints' day, which made no great demand on this market this year, white chrysanthemums are not in strong request; the buyers want as many yellow as all other colors combined. The only chrysanthemums that are not in oversupply are the finest grade of big exhibition blooms. The moderate quantities of this grade find quick clearance at prices which make small, soft stuff look ridiculously cheap. There also are tremendous quantities of pompons. They sell well, but not at high prices and the market never is clean.

The warm weather has hurried the rose crops along. The supply has been large and much of the stock has been softer than anyone liked. Selling has been large and steady, but it could not hold prices up. Roses certainly have afforded excellent values in the last week. Carnations also are more plentiful, of improved quality and lower in price.

Sweet peas have become sufficiently abundant so that they now are an item to be reckoned with. The quality is good and they hurt the sale of New York double violets. Calendula is much more abundant. Small lots of Paper Whites are seen in most of the wholesale stores, held for better prices than the retailers like to pay, but necessary if the grower is to break even with bulbs at this year's cost.

Cattleyas have shortened up to such an extent that it is difficult to tell the market price. Many of the retail stores have stopped handling cattleyas as a regular item of stock. The same can be said of valley and lilies. All three are too scarce and too high for the average retailer to do much with. There are large supplies of greens, boxwood having come in quantity. Most of the wholesalers note that they are not selling so many greens this year as last. Last season the retailers used more green stuff because flowers were scarce; this season it is the other way around.

October Business.

Taking the Chicago market as a whole, October was a better month than most of the wholesalers expected. Along in September almost anyone would have been glad to insure an October total seventy-five per cent as large as that of last year. In most cases the record is better than that, two or three houses actually reporting increased cut flower sales for the month. Of course such increases were the result of increased supplies of stock, and of securing a larger share of the total business in the market by means of strong advertising, as prices for the month averaged considerably below those of October, 1918.

The growers are not so well satisfied as the wholesalers. They cut much more stock than in the month of last year and did not receive, on the whole, as much money for it. It is probable that from three to four times as many flowers were sold as in October, 1918. Roses did not average, on the whole, above one-third of last October's average prices and pompons make fully as bad a comparison of returns. Last year the market was bare every minute and growers cut everything a little before it was really ready. This year the market was well supplied at all times and oversupplied a considerable part of the time.

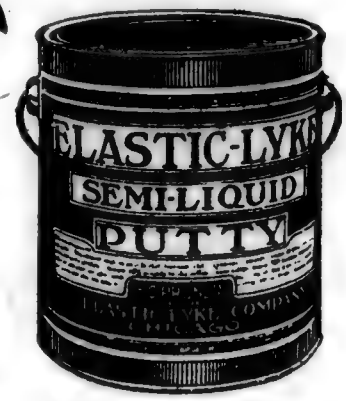
With the Allied Trades.

A visit to some of the concerns which, in former years, were strongly heard from as the result of the business done with florists developed some interesting facts, nearly all in line with earlier predictions that merchandise will be scarce this winter.

The Raedlein Basket Co., once one of the strongest bidders for florists' patronage, reports that the shortage of willow, rattan and weavers necessitates putting the effort on the manufacturing instead of the sales end of the business.

C. M. Tillman, whose specialty was tall Beauty vases and zinc-lined woven window boxes, says material and labor are so hard to get he cannot push his business.

Joseph Ziska & Sons report greater difficulty to obtain prompt delivery of florists' staple supplies than to sell them when they are in the store.



Mrs. Cooper, of the Auburndale Goldfish Co., says retail florists, and others handling goldfish, are doing so brisk a business that it is difficult to keep them supplied with fish.

Works, which made a popular steel boiler for greenhouses, discontinued its manufacture during the war and now is wholly engaged in another line.

"Follow My Leader."

John G. Wittbold announces that the Buckingham place store of the George Wittbold Co. will not be open on Sunday this season. "We believe all the larger Chicago florists are willing to remain closed on Sunday," says Mr. Wittbold, "and of course the leaders have taken individual action, but there are a great many smaller florists who do most of their own work, who have not yet seen the light."

When a florist gets the habit of doing all the work in the place, it is hard to get him to rest or play, but if he hires help, the help leaves if the hours per week are too many.

October Weather.

October was a difficult month for the growers. There was no killing frost near the lake until October 29. The mean temperature was 4 degrees above normal. Rainfall, 6.41 inches, was more than twice normal, the greatest for October since 1883. The percentage of possible sunshine was only fifty-one, against sixty as normal. It was a warm, damp, dark month, the kind of weather that increases production of flowers and makes them soft.

Various Notes.

W. H. Hilton, who is now at 1509 East Fifty-third street and has been in business in Hyde Park for more than thirty years, intends to move to San Diego, Cal.

Mrs. Joseph Kohout, of Libertyville, Ill., was successfully operated on for appendicitis last week, at the Garfield Park hospital. A daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kohout was operated on for the same complaint about a month ago.

F. M. Johnson says October made another new record in the matter of billings in florists' supplies and other merchandise departments of the A. L. Randall Co. Month after month this year's business has been exceeding all previous high marks.

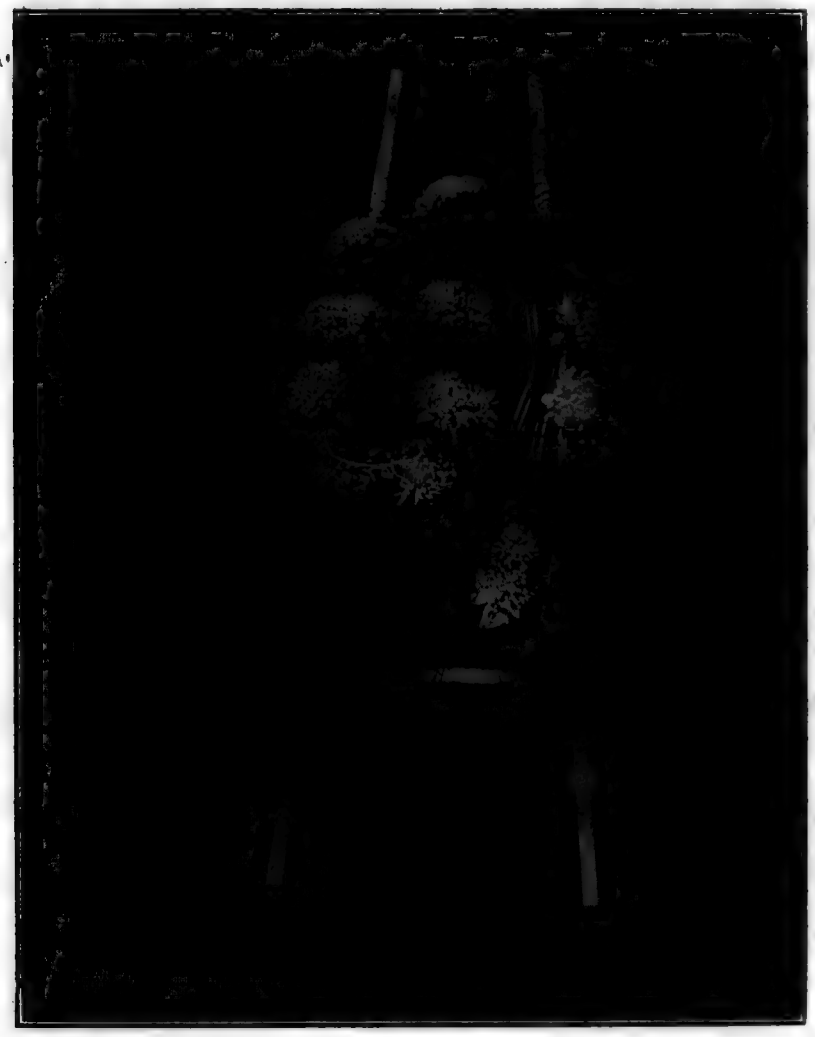
south last week for All Saints' day. Paul Klingsporn says they foresaw last week's market conditions and made a special effort for the southern business on that account. It is his belief, however, that the bulk of the southern demand was filled this year by chrysanthemums from the Pacific coast, and he says they have encountered several concerns wholesaling cut flowers direct from the greenhouses who are not doing anything to keep the value of flowers on the level with the value of other commodities.

Emil Buettner believes there will be a radically different market condition before Thanksgiving. He says the warm weather has rushed into the market supplies of stock which should have been spread over several weeks and that the inevitable result will be a correspondingly short supply a little later.



C. J. Michelsen says that it proved possible for the E. C. Amling Co. to roll up October sales a little ahead of last year's unprecedented record, but that it required handling at least three times as much stock as last year to do it.

When Peter Reinberg returned from his recent rest at West Baden he plunged at once into work for the bond issue projects put up to the voters at the election November 4. Mr. Reinberg devotes the greater part of his time to local improvement matters, for which a coming generation probably will erect a monument to his memory.

Frank Sedlacek is starting in business at 1543 Kenilworth avenue, Oak Park. He is stocking several lots with hardy plants and plans to build greenhouses later.

Fred Simon, formerly employed by A. L. Randall Co. and Percy Jones, Inc., was one of the last of the trade's representatives in the big struggle to come home from France. He has just made his reappearance in the market, not as a worker in it, but as a salesman for Fulton motor trucks.

The Madson Seed Co., of Manitowoc, Wis., has opened a new retail store on Eighth street, and in connection has erected three modern greenhouses. Everything is up-to-date, including an Visitors.

A visitor this week was H. B. Jones, of the Jones-Russell Co., of Cleveland, who was looking over the market in search of the best sources of supply for the large quantities of high-grade stock this concern's business requires.

H. Welke, of the E. Welke Co., Milwaukee, was in Chicago November 3, attending to business connected with the new store just opened, which is the old one completely rebuilt, at 752 Third street.

C. O. Wilcox, of Wood, Stubbs & Co., Louisville, Ky., was in town for a few days this week. He no longer sells to florists, but he likes to visit the market.

E. D. Ludwig, son of T. J. Ludwig and that progressive florist's right-hand man, was here from Columbus, O., last week, buying cut flowers and supplies. He also arranged for the publication of his book of floral designs. It is said that Mr. Ludwig has the only studio in which floral subjects exclusively are photographed. His equipment is extensive and he has taken great interest in the preparation of his book, which deals with high-class designs only.

The Market.

Because of rain and warm weather last week, business fell down considerably. The market has been well filled with seasonable stock, which has included excellent chrysanthemums, both large and pompons. This supply is not as heavy as is usual at this time of the year. Gladioli and asters are still seen, but in limited supply. There is an abundant supply of high quality roses on hand; their color and sturdiness of stem are especially noticeable. The supply of American Beauties is equal to the present demand. There is a fair demand for Cecile Brunner.

The dark weather has not improved carnations. There is, however, an increasing supply of them, with good sales. The demand is not at all heavy for violets, nor are they improving greatly in quality. Cattleyas are of good quality and meet all demands at present. There is no particular demand for gardenias. A few callas and Easter lilies are arriving, but in small quantities. Bouvardia in pink and white is seen, but it is in small supply. Quantities of oak foliage are seen this year in the various stores and it makes a good addition to chrysanthemums. Green goods are plentiful. Good cyclamens, primroses, potted pompons, cherries and peppers are seen in all stores and sell readily. Palms and ferns have a good demand.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Market.

A visit to any of the meat and produce markets, such as the one in the Reading terminal, will help to make clear the conditions in the wholesale cut flower market. In these markets many of the stalls display flowers for sale. They offer great quantities of dahlias and pompons and cosmos at moderate prices. The result is that the market for low-grade stock is overloaded to an extent that makes impossible anything approaching fair returns for the stock. The wholesalers handle as little of the outdoor stock as they can, because it is certain to cause disappointment. They prefer instead to concentrate their efforts on the better grades of flowers, those grown under glass. For them, or rather for part of them, there is a market at fair figures, with the aid of a lot of hard work.

The absence of frost so late as the beginning of November, combined with the extremely warm weather, so warm as to eclipse the weather records, makes flower selling a difficult matter. The large varieties of chrysanthemums sell best, when well grown. Turner and Rager, white; Bonnaffon, Marigold, Richmond, Chrysolora, yellow; Pink Chieftain, McNiece and Pacific Supreme, pink; Strafford, bronze, and Tohaksa, bizarre, are among the leading sorts. The pompons and the smaller Japanese varieties do not fare well. What few violets are coming in sell moderately.

Roses and carnations are neglected. Orchids are so scarce that they have had another and most surprising jump in price. Cattleya labiata is nearly over and there is no Cattleya Trianæ in sight. There are a few fancy cypripediums and a few Oncidium varicosum.

Calla lilies are here. They have met with a cordial reception. It is understood that additional Beauties can be obtained on advance orders.

Summing up the market, it is about on a par with most years at this season. This comparison excludes last year, when conditions were not normal. There is a lot of business going, with the buyers controlling the situation.

The Trip among the Roses.

George Burton gave his annual party to see the roses growing under glass Tuesday, October 28. This trip takes place each year about the time of the annual Christmas disbud, in order to measure the work done on each place and the prospects for the market's supply. The party numbered seventeen of our leading rosarians and their friends. They were John R. Andre, I. M. Brooks, John Burton, Alfred Burton, George Burton, J. William Colflesh, Jr., William H. Engler, Edmund Harvey, Evans Harvey, Robert Kift, Chas. E. Meehan, Stephen Mortensen, Frank P. Myers, Arthur A. Niessen, Samuel S. Pennock, Martin Samtman and Commodore John Westcott. They made an early start in three large touring cars, owned and driven by John R. Andre, Evans Harvey and Samuel S. Pennock, respectively. They accomplished a surprising amount of visiting between sunrise and sunset of a single day. They saw the three Burton places and Myers & Samtman, Chestnut Hill. They called on Adolph Farenwald, Victor Groshens and Edward Towill, at Hillside. They went to Alfred M. Campbell's new place on the mule farm, near Hatboro. They strolled through Stephen Mortensen's greenhouses at Southampton. They peeped into John R. Andre's houses at Doylestown. They walked through the Florex Gardens at North Wales. They traversed the range of the Joseph Heacock Co. at Roelofs. What they saw would fill a volume. What they said and what they thought would fill several more. The whole party lunched with George Burton at the Mineral Springs hotel at Willow Grove. When the day was over and the party returned to Chestnut Hill, John Burton entertained them at dinner at his home, delightfully closing a happy day.

A Retail Grower's Place.

It is a well known fact that the backbone of the florists' business is formed, not by the retailers, not by the wholesale growers, not by the wholesale commission men, but by the retail growers, the men who grow, who produce what the people require and who sell direct to the consumer. This class of florists is less prominent in a few of our large cities than the other three classes, but much more prominent throughout the country than any of the other classes. Probably this class is more prominent than all of the other classes combined.

So it was with especial interest that an invitation from Paul Geschick to look through his brother's place was accepted. Chrysanthemums were, as might naturally be supposed, the leading crop, though carnations were a good second. The mums were mainly of the large-flowered Japanese varieties, with only a moderate supply of pompons. The proportion of early, midseason and late sorts seemed to be about the same, which was somewhat surprising in a suburban section of the city where it would naturally be supposed that the home garden would make the late varieties preferable. Mr. Geschick explained this by saying that it was necessary to have something to show people at the beginning of the season and that it was also an advantage to get a little room early. The chrysanthemums were benched in the usual way, carefully spaced and tied. They looked the picture of health. About half the varieties appeared to be yellow. The remainder were about equally divided between white and pink. There were a few Tints of Gold, but no red.

The carnation benches were a sheet of buds. The plants were vigorous and clean. Mrs. C. E. Akehurst was the leader in its color, deep pink, while the light pink was Enchantress Supreme. Sweet peas have been changed from the early-flowering to the orchid type. Snapdragons are given considerable space; so are calendulas, which was unexpected. Poinsettias are fine in a variety of sizes and styles. Primulas are coming into bloom. Orchids are an important crop. Ferns and palms are well represented.

The place was clean, full of good stock and showed evidence of skillful cultivation.

Club Meeting.

The November meeting of the Florists' Club was held in the Adelphia hotel Tuesday evening. W. F. Therkildson gave an illustrated talk on publicity, with the idea of showing that progress in production went hand-in-hand with advertising. The exhibits included the new rose, Madame Butterfly, from the E. G. Hill Co., of Richmond, Ind.; Rose Frank W. Dunlop, from John H. Dunlop, Toronto; the new roses, Pilgrim and Crusader, from A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., and some choice new chrysanthemums from Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich.

California Palms.

The event of the week was the visit of E. B. Washburn, of Sierra Madre, Cal. Mr. Washburn brought with him some of those much talked of palms grown under lath houses. There were some half dozen sample plants of Kentia Belmoreana and Kentia Forsteriana. Mr. Washburn visited Riverton, Wyncote and Holmesburg Junction, piloted by Edwin J. Fancourt. The palm growers at these places, Henry A. Dreer, Inc., Joseph Heacock Co. and Charles D. Ball, were all greatly interested in the stock produced under the novel surroundings.

Various Notes.

Charles J. Theis commenced work with Frank M. Ross November 3. The clever work of Mr. Theis has attracted much favorable comment during the last season among those who are in touch with the cut flower market.

The Pennsylvania Horticultural Society resumed its annual fall chrysanthemum show by holding a two days' exhibition in Masonic hall, Ardmore, November 4 and 5.

Robert A. Craig says that the day has passed when the size of a plant sent out does not correspond with the size of the pot in which it was grown. There was once a time when an order for 4-inch ferns might bring 2-inch, 3-inch or 4-inch ferns, but grown, of course, in 4-inch pots. Happily this is no longer tolerated.

The Market.

The better grades of mums are now making their appearance on this market and are eagerly snapped up by the trade. William Turner in white and yellow and of excellent quality finds ready sale in the retail shops. Pink and White Chieftain, as well as the disbudded pompons, are used in large quantities in made-up work.

Various Notes.

The Tromey Flower Shop always presents a neat appearance, due to the combined efforts of Mr. and Mrs. Gebhard, the present owners of this establishment. Out-of-town funeral work, to which this house caters largely, was unusually brisk last week.

The business at Fred Gear's shop, as well as at the Tromey Flower Shop, is likely to be materially increased by the impending removal of the canal and the construction in its place of a high-class boulevard.

L. H. Kyrk's commission house is showing especially good roses and large quantities of southern plumosus, which arrives in good condition.

Julius Baer carried out some nice wedding work last week.

The party that visited Richmond, Ind., last week to inspect the range of the Joseph H. Hill Co. was composed of Julius Baer, C. J. Jones, Fred Gear, C. E. Critchell, H. W. Sheppard and Mr. Gebhard.

They plan to winter in southern California.

During last week C. E. Critchell received several heavy shipments of boxwood for his early winter and Christmas trade.

Another retail store is opening in this city. It is the Georgia Flower Shop and is located at 2687 Madison road, in Hyde park.

Julius Dilloff, of Schloss Bros., New York, called on the trade in this city last week. C. H. H.

ST. LOUIS, MO.

The Market.

Last week was not favorable to the trade, as it rained almost continually, and the way stock was piled up at all the local markets showed that the retailers bought only what they really needed. Transient trade was out of the question and the only real business during the week, outside of funeral work, came October 31, as many Halloween parties were given and considerable stock was used up for this occasion.

The chrysanthemum is the predominant flower in demand and the season is at its height; with the rainy season and the heavy increase of daily shipments, prices had to suffer in order to dispose of them all. The early varieties are now in. This state of affairs caused a great slaughter in prices on roses and carnations, as the receipts of these were unusually heavy every day during the week.

Roses of fine quality sold as low as $3 and $4 per hundred and even cheaper in thousand lots. Only extra fine Premier, Russell and Ophelia held their own in the early morning sales.

Carnations, too, are plentiful, but are not as yet at their best in length of stem; consequently, prices on these had to suffer also.

FLORISTS' SUPPLIES

239-241 Fourth Ave., New York

A few Paper Whites and sweet peas are coming in and these clean up at present at fair prices. Violets are arriving in limited quantities and are not yet in high enough color to sell well; steady, cold weather is needed to bring this about.

There are still a few dahlias and cosmos coming in, but in poor demand, and this week will about see the last of them for this season. Orchid, valley and lilies are scarce.

Publicity Committee Meets.

The florists' publicity committee held its monthly meeting October 28 at 1316 Pine street. Chairman Bourdet called the meeting to order at 8:30 p. m. with a good attendance, which included J. F. Ammann, president of the S. A. F.

August Hummert announced that the one-page write-up on chrysanthemums would appear Sunday, November 9, in the daily papers. It was decided to place an additional $300 advertisement in the same issues, advertising the sale of chrysanthemums. H. G. Berning, the Windler Wholesale Floral Co. and the St. Louis Wholesale Cut Flower Co. each gave $100 to be placed in the publicity fund, in addition to doing the work of collecting the funds from the retailers and growers.

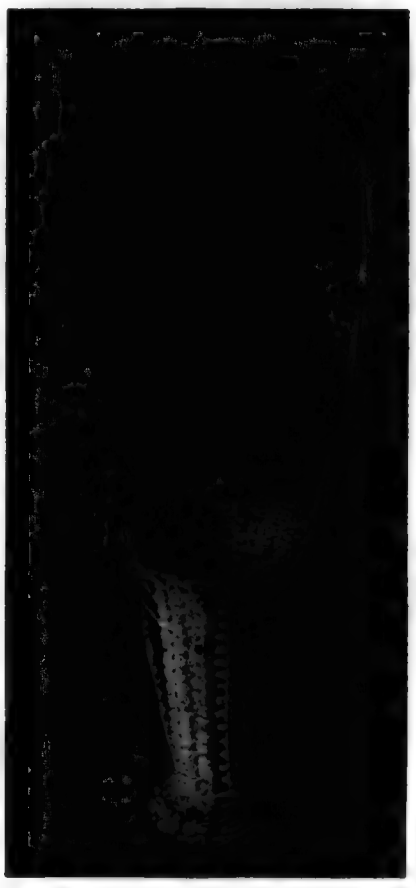
President Ammann then gave the members an interesting talk on the recent F. T. D. meeting and his eastern trip and the wonderful work that is being done by the F. T. D. and the national publicity committee.

The local publicity committee still sets aside twenty-five per cent of the money collected for the national association, which share will be turned over to the national committee at the end of the year. All advertising by this committee will be handled by Woodward's, Inc., and the sum of $3,000 was decided upon for advertising the sale of cut flowers and plants for this season.

The rest of the evening was taken up in talks on publicity, in which all present took part, and in the end all were more than ever convinced that the retailers would all be in sympathy with the new plan for raising the funds for advertising their business.

The next meeting of this committee will take place Tuesday evening, November 11, at 8 o'clock.



Various Notes.

The St. Louis Florists' club will hold its monthly meeting Thursday afternoon, November 13, in the tea room on the seventh floor at Vandervoort's as guests of Julius Schaeffer and Edward Steitz, managers of the floral department. There will also be a mum exhibition, which will include roses, carnations and other flowers. Shippers to this market are requested to send a few blooms to be staged during the meeting.

Paul Heil, for many years with F. H. Weber, has decided to branch out for himself and will open a store on Delmar avenue, in the extreme western part of the city.

H. G. Berning says that the call for orchids and valley was quite heavy last week, but orchids are hard to get and valley costs the trade $25 per hundred for choice stock. Mr. Berning did jury duty daily last week.

The large show house of Fred C. Weber, which faces Olive street, had great attraction last week for the passing public, because of the fine display of both cut mums and mum plants, which were featured daily. A card in the window read, "This store is closed on Sundays."

Andrew Hoffmann, manager for Waldbart's, celebrated his fiftieth birthday October 28.

The H. J. Weber & Sons Nursery Co. is cutting extra quality chrysanthemums. Walter Weber, who is the head of this department, says that mums in general are of better quality and in larger quantity this season than last.

Missouri at last is to have a state flower, if the state legislature acts favorably upon the request of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Their request is to name the daisy and to make this flower mean to Missouri all that the sunflower is to Kansas. The members of the legislature are considered to be favorably inclined.

Charles Young, head of the C. Young & Sons Co., reports that Mrs. Young and the children are leaving this week for Arizona, where they will spend the winter for the benefit of Mrs. Young's health.

The meeting of the Missouri State Florists' Association is not to be held at Kansas City the first week in November, as was announced. Secretary Archias, of Sedalia, Mo., will announce the date and place later. The St. Louis members of the association will meet this week and invite them to hold the meeting in St. Louis sometime this month.

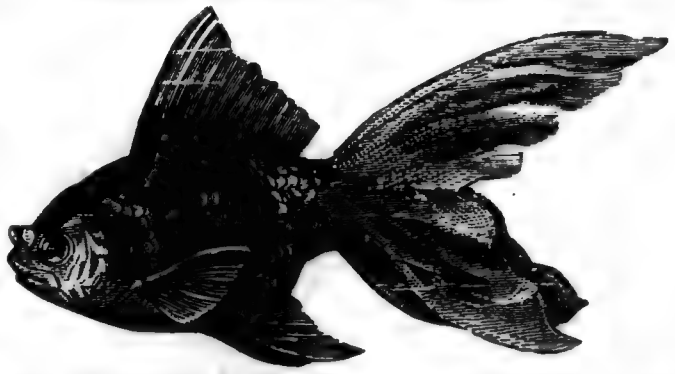
Fred Foster has added candy and fruit to the store at Seventh and Olive streets. The big display of mums increased the attractiveness greatly.

H. F. Hill is now St. Louis representative of the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago, and reports that he will open a sample room near the wholesale district.

Mrs. G. B. Windler will entertain the Lady Florists' Home Circle November 12 at her home, 4056 Delore avenue.

Charles, Henry and William Meier, of Kirkwood, Mo., are cutting a heavy supply of mums of extra fine quality. These three brothers operate separate ranges and grow carnations, sweet peas and violets of fine quality.

All of the six wholesale markets keep open on Sundays, except C. A. Kuehn, who believes in one day of rest for himself and his employees. There is a movement on foot for the other five to follow the example set by Mr. Kuehn, and it will not be long before all retailers will also close on Sundays.



Alexander Lurie and W. S. Wells, formerly of St. Louis, report that they have opened a retail store at Ann Arbor, Mich., under the name of the Blu-Maize Blossom Shop. Both men are members of the St. Louis Florists' Club.

The handicap series of the "Say It with Flowers" Bowling League started October 29, when the Roses lost the odd game to the Carnations by giving them a nineteen-pin handicap. The Daisies were given a thirty-pin handicap by the Sweet Peas and lost the odd game by only ten pins. C. A. Kuehn, one of the old-timers, came out of retirement and Captain Bourdet was surprised by having Mr. Kuehn roll with the Daisies. Carl Beyer and J. J. Beneke, two other old-timers, are with Captain Kuehn's Roses, but as yet have not shown their former skill; doubtless they will be in trim for this week, when the Roses meet the strong Sweet Pea team. The Market.

With the chrysanthemum arrivals growing heavier and demand none too robust, the flower market is not at present in a particularly strong position and prices have weakened, especially on roses and carnations. The political situation here is tense and a sweeping victory for the forces of conservatism and the rout of the radical labor element will go a long way toward improving business not only in flowers, but in all commodities. Chrysanthemums are abundant, especially such varieties as Chieftain, Rager, Yellow Rager, Bonnaffon, Pacific Supreme and Chrysolora. Pompons are in larger supply. These and singles sell well.

rates. Even Ophelia with 15-inch, 18-inch and 24-inch stems sold as low as $2 per hundred last week. Columbia, Premier, Crusader, Pilgrim and Evelyn all prove great sellers. Carnations are selling rather low, even for fine flowers, but they will soon rebound when the warm wave recedes. Violets sell at $1 and some fancy flowers have made a little more.

A few lilies are coming in, also small lots of callas. Paper Whites have also appeared from one or two growers. Small lots of marguerites and snapdragons come in, but calendulas are in better supply. A few Spencer sweet peas are arriving, in addition to the grandifloras. Asparagus sells fairly well, but, as stevia will be due in a couple of weeks, its sale will then be affected for some time. A few asters and gladioli were still offered as late as November 1.

Bouvardia sells well. Little lily of the valley comes in and only small lots of gardenias, but cattleyas are plentiful, with an ample supply of other seasonable orchids. Chrysanthemums, cyclamens and Erica melanthera are the principal flowering plants offered.

Their Russell, Hadley and Columbia roses are specially good. They report shipping trade as good, also the demand for sundries.

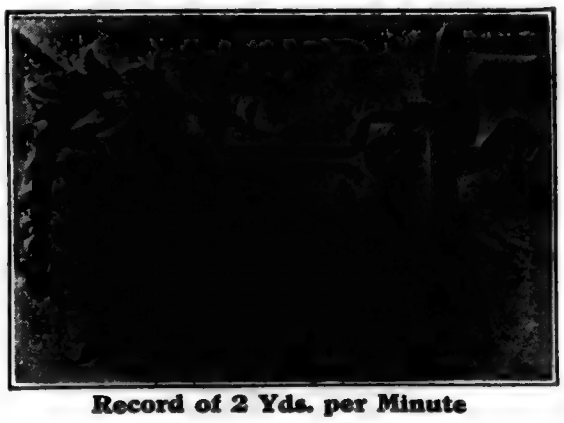
Welch Bros. Co. is receiving splendid shipments of the new roses, Crusader, Evelyn and Pilgrim. Mr. Welch says Crusader is extremely popular and proves to be a wonderful keeper. Among chrysanthemums, Bonnaffon, Charles Rager, Yellow Rager and Richmond are excellent sellers. A fine business is being done in cibotiums and Glory of Moordrecht ferns.

Henry M. Robinson & Co. report that October sales broke all former records for that month. Baskets are moving at a lively rate and their ice chests contain an immense stock of cut flowers.

The Boston Floral Supply Co. is fortunate in having a large stock of red immortelles. These and other holiday goods are now moving fast. A fine assortment of cut flowers was noted, particularly of roses, carnations and chrysanthemums.

Various Notes.

A special committee appointed by the overseers of Harvard College to consider the desirability of removing the Harvard Botanical Gardens has just reported unanimously in favor of combining it with the Bussey Institute, Jamaica Plain. The Bussey Institute adjoins the Arnold Arboretum, and the removal of the Botanical Gardens there will, in all probability, mean that the Arboretum, Bussey Institute and the Botanical Gardens will be placed under one head.



Philip L. Carbone's numerous importations from Europe are sold almost as fast as they arrive, even at greatly advanced prices.

A. M. Davenport, of Watertown, has the sympathy of his many friends in the tragic death of his mother and sister in an automobile accident at Northboro, Mass., October 25. Death in each case was almost instantaneous.

Herbert F. Sloane severed his connection with the Boston Floral Supply Co. November 1. He plans to open a wholesale store in a few days and will make a specialty of greenery of all kinds.

The Montrose Greenhouses are cutting a fine lot of Ophelia, Maryland and Columbia roses. They state that they would like the last-named better if there were fewer "bullheads" among them.

lot of giganteum lilies and Paper Whites from several growers.

The best winter-flowering Spencer sweet peas I have seen this season are coming from Andrew Mitchell, formerly of the firm of C. T. Beasley & Co., East Milton, and now located at North Sudbury, Mass.

Harry Quint states that present sales are far ahead of a year ago. He keeps his windows on Boylston street attractive at all times.

Among recent incorporations of Massachusetts companies is that of the R. & J. Farquhar Co., operating large seed stores in Boston and extensive nurseries at Dedham and West Barnstable, Mass. The capitalization is $500,000, divided into 2,000 shares of seven per cent cumulative preferred stock and 3,000 shares common stock, the par value of each being $100. J. K. M. L. Farquhar, J. F. M. Farquhar and sixteen employees who have been with the firm for fifteen to thirty years, hold the common stock. J. K. M. L. Farquhar is president, J. F. M. Farquhar vice-president, and Victor E. Nilsson treasurer, of the new corporation.

Jack Feldtman, of the Boston Floral Supply Co., is mourning the loss of his father, who died October 26 in his forty-sixth year.

The annual election and meeting of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society will occur at noon, November 15. Every member of the society is earnestly requested to vote on this occasion.

The local florists are pushing preparations for the proper celebration of "Say It with Flowers" week in Boston, which commences November 10, and for which funds have come in encouragingly.

Fred C. Green, superintendent of Roger Williams park, Providence, R. I., who has recently returned from a trip to Great Britain, paid a visit to W. E. Wallace, the noted carnation specialist, at Eaton Bray, England. He saw one large house with plants in beds planted four years ago, which had been in continuous crop ever since. The plants in late September stood seven to eight feet high, were a perfect mass of bloom and the flowers equal in quality to the best seen in America in March. Some of the varieties were of American, others of English origin.

October proved to be much lacking in sunshine, with a mean temperature below normal and a considerable excess of precipitation. The maximum temperature during the month was 84 degrees and minimum 30 degrees. November so far has not given us its chilling blasts which "make fields and forests bare," but opened its flood gates the first day. We have had the wettest summer and fall experienced for many years.

BALTIMORE.

The Market.

The weather has been more like summer than autumn. This is responsible for the market being congested with a mass of all sorts of stock. Dahlias are as fine as any seen this season and other outdoor stock is plentiful. Cosmos is in fine shape. There is not so much of this being grown by florists, but in a ride through the country cosmos is to be seen in almost every yard, together with dahlias and chrysanthemums, all in fine form. While this lasts, naturally it has its effect on the market. Chrysanthemums are about at their height and some outdoor stock seen is as fine as indoor blooms. This affects the price of mums all along the line. It would seem that everyone went in for white this year, as yellow and pink are quite scarce and anyone who has good stock of these colors has no trouble in disposing of it.

Roses, while not plentiful, are good and there are all that are needed for the demand. Carnations are not in crop, but there is not much demand for them.

Fancy Ferns

First-class stock, $2.00 per 1000.

C. W. ESPY & SON, Brookville, Pa.

There is plenty of asparagus on the market and smilax can be had in any quantity required.

What the market needs more than anything else is a good, heavy frost. Last year at this time the flu was at its worst and the death lists of the health department averaged 300 to 400 a day. This year, while a return was predicted, up to this time it has not materialized, yet last week the staff of the S. S. Pennock Co. was crippled by sickness. J. J. Perry was laid up with the grip, but is on the job again. At the same time Mr. Perry was sick, the head bookkeeper was laid up with tonsillitis. Mr. Faust, the secretary of the company, came over from Philadelphia for a few days and business went on as if nothing had happened.

Various Notes.

Quite a jolly party of Baltimore florists paid a return visit to the Washington boys on the occasion of their banquet October 27. The party went over on the electric line and it was a good time from start to finish. Wm. F. Ekas, president of our Florists' Club, responded to the toast, "Our Baltimore Neighbors," and Richard Vincent, Jr., president of the American Dahlia Society, spoke on "Dahlias." Those in the party were J. S. Merritt, Wm. E. McKissick and Fred Bauer and their wives, Miss Stevenson, Miss Rhoda Vincent, Miss Elizabeth Lorenz, Wm. F. Ekas, Thos. Stevenson and George Eberle.

The Maryland Horticultural Society met at Hagerstown last week, in the apple belt of the state. Some of the florists of this city took advantage of the meeting to make the trip over the Blue Ridge mountains, which at this season are lovely. Among those who went were Robert Graham and wife, Robert L. Graham, Jr., and wife and Miss Jessie Graham.

One of the most prominent weddings held in the city so far this season was that of Miss Mary George White and Major Bates, of the United States Army. The First Presbyterian church was handsomely decorated with palms and chrysanthemums by Mary Johnston. Miss White and the President's daughter had been chums at Goucher College and the flowers used in the home were from the White House greenhouses. Robert Johnston, who arranged the decoration, seemed to be inspired by handling flowers of such distinguished origin, as he certainly accomplished a fine piece of work.

James Glass came under the wire a winner, in being the first man to bring sweet peas to the market this fall. Mr. Glass will have his usual fine snapdragons this season.

Lohr & Fritze are cutting as fine Double White Killarney as ever were seen on the Baltimore market. Their other varieties are good, but the Double White Killarney are blue ribbon quality.

KANSAS CITY, MO.

The Market.

Cloudy, murky weather for five or six successive days has shortened the supply of roses and carnations, which were arriving in good shape lately, but chrysanthemums have been plentiful enough to make up the difference. There is no glut in any line, but just about enough to take care of a demand which is fair and steady. October has been a satisfactory month, from all available reports. It was nothing like a year ago, when influenza was raging and everyone in the flower business was working day and night on funeral orders, but not one in the business would welcome a return of the 1918 situation, even with the money it meant. The month just passed closed a little lighter than it would otherwise, on account of the drive. These campaigns affect buying in every line, it has been found. This week's prices on chrysanthemums have been from $2 to $4, roses $4 to $12, carnations $4 and $5.

Various Notes.

Arthur Newell says business is improving steadily and he likes his present location better all the time. He has received flattering compliments on his new store from eastern visitors.

J. G. Eggleston has been striving to be the first in this market with sweet peas. He cut some fine ones week before last and, had the weather been favorable, he would have had quantities of blooms since. He planted the seed August 18 and has a good stand now. The first bloom appeared October 6, so that Mr. Eggleston believes that he holds the honor this year.

W. L. Rock is one of the active workers in the Liberty Memorial and Local Charities campaign. Mr. Rock has taken part in every campaign since the war started and has given generously of money as well as time. All of the florists have been liberal contributors in every drive and have been among the first called upon for subscriptions.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Hill, of Richmond, Ind., spent October 27 and 28 in the city on their way home from California. P. A. Manson, of Pleasant Hill, Mo., came up October 28 to meet Mr. Hill.

The week of October 20 was a busy one for the force of Samuel Murray's shop. Mr. Murray says that one day of that week was the heaviest he ever put in. The funeral of the 4-year-old son of C. S. Keith, one of the wealthy residents of the city, brought a number of large orders. One was a blanket of baby roses, pale lavender and yellow orchids and maidenhair fern, made on a foundation of white satin. It was one of the most beautiful things ever made here.

W. L. Rock returned October 27 from the east. After attending the F. T. D. convention in Buffalo he went on to New York and Philadelphia. Mr. Rock, who is always on the alert for new ideas, brought back several which he means to put to practical use in his business.

William Hasselman, of Independence, Kan., was in the city several days last week.

The Pinehurst Floral Co. has bought an Oldsmobile truck to be used for carrying stock from the greenhouses, at Pleasant Hill, Mo., thirty-two miles from Kansas City, to the salesrooms here. This is the second truck purchased in the last few months, the other one being used in Pleasant Hill. They have been using a Ford for transportation purposes and the method was so successful that a larger car was desired. The truck will leave Pleasant Hill each morning at 6 o'clock and arrive in Kansas City at 8:15. In the near future an afternoon trip will also be made daily between the two points.

Carl Hagemeyer, of Paola, Kan., was a recent visitor.

Henry Kusik & Co. are receiving between 1,000 and 1,500 carnations daily. They are a little short on white chrysanthemums, but have plenty of yellow and a few pink.

NATIONAL PUBLICITY CAMPAIGN.

From the S. A. F. Journal.

The October number of the Journal of the S. A. F., delayed in its appearance through the vexatious strike in the New York printing trades, which has tied up about 1,000 publications, contains the following:

"The Influence of Our Slogan.

"Of late we have presented in the columns of the trade press evidence of the growing popularity of our slogan, 'Say It with Flowers' and of its use in the direction of publicity other than that which our campaign fund provides. George E. M. Stumpp, one of New York's prominent florists and general supporter of our campaign, is a member of the Kiwanis Club, a national organization of business men, with branches in all of the principal cities of the United States. The club has an official organ known as the Kiwanis Torch and Mr. Stumpp sends us a clipping from the August number which is further evidence that our slogan is carrying us beyond the sphere wherein we hoped to spread our doctrine. We intended in our limited space to reproduce only a portion of the article, but the sentiment embodied in it is so beautiful that we ungrudgingly present the greater part of it. It is written by the editor, who evidently wrote it while convalescing from a sickness. Here it is:

"Then, of course, I had to lie around in bed for ten days and Sim, the secretary of my Kiwanis Club, sent me some flowers and he must have passed the word to some other secretaries, for, bless me, if the wagons didn't begin to back up in front of the place with flowers until the neighbors thought I had died!

"Were you ever lying in bed, so sick you wanted to get up and bite your father, and then have your wife come to the bedside and lay a great armful of roses beside you?

"It makes a great big lump come up in your throat and makes you sniff as if you had a cold and, more than that, it makes you realize that behind all the badinage, all the kidding, all the college fraternity nonsense that permeates these organizations to which we belong, there is a real depth of love, a real sympathetic interest and a real feeling of regret that you are down on your back and suffering.

"To know that around in your town are fellows who love you, who with an armful of daisies or a great sheaf of gladioli are saying, 'Old man, mere words are but empty and meaningless things, but let this bunch of flowers show you that I have stopped in the midst of a busy day to send you these that you may know I have thought of you and want their fragrance to represent to you the fine feeling of love and friendship I have for you.'

"Darn it all, fellows, as one after another came, I found that a big tear was creeping down my face and I turned over so my wife would think it was the light shining in my eyes that did it.

"Our Kiwanis florist says, 'Say It with Flowers,' and I am in most hearty accord with the thought, for there is no way you can say it so beautifully, so sentimentally and so well. Lots of times I have sent them, but this is my first

"I never expect to need any charity from any of the organizations to which I belong. The prospects are that I shall never be in want. But if my years of activity, all my time invested, all the dues I have paid and everything I have done in all of them paid me no other dividend than those flowers when I was sick, I should feel amply repaid and feel that I have made a most wonderful investment.

and down the world, of looking at its mountains, the rivers that water it and the cities which make its prosperity. We tire of chasing the laurel wreath of fame and the bauble of prominence. But we never tire of our friends and those who smile as they look into our eyes.

"After all, the friends we accumulate are the greatest asset we have as we grow on toward the twilight zone of life. Friendship is love with his wings clipped so he cannot fly away, and as they represented these friends, those flowers were the sweetest things I have ever known."

Is George Paying for You?

And yet our committes are finding it a hard task to collect a fund big enough to carry our slogan—admittedly the best and most suggestive of all the slogans used in the business world—to the people whose minds are open to its reception and whose pockets are to furnish the material benefit which is the object of our campaign. When our large army of non-subscribers can, even in a small way, realize the vast amount of good which is being created for our industry and in which they are sharing, there will, perhaps, be forthcoming a better response to our appeals for subscriptions. It is hard for anyone who has intelligently followed the course of our campaign to understand why so many florists continue to hold aloof with their support. E. J. Steele, manager of Steele's Pansy Gardens, Portland, Ore., writes, under date of October 23: "Friend Young: I am pleased to see the good work going on and often wonder if the multitude of 'Let George do it' tightwads in America doesn't make you feel somewhat weary. Did our committees not have the greatest confidence in the ultimate attainment of their aims, they might get weary. But the excellence of their success so far is sustaining them in their work and their feet are still warm."

OUR MOTTO—THE GOLDEN RULE.

The campaign must be kept going. We have entered "the land of promise," and our reward is already at hand. Help us, Friend Non-subscriber, to our goal of $100,000, so that we may all share in the bounty which our craft so much desires. John Young, Sec'y.

perature has kept the outdoor products in the market, to the obvious disadvantage of the indoor stock. Chrysanthemums of all varieties are coming in plentifully and selling at from $1.50 to $5 and $6 per dozen. There are also lots of pompons in pink, white and yellow and a few good bronze and copper-colored ones selling at 50 and 75 cents per bunch. There are also plenty of carnations, the best going at $4 per hundred and the inferior ones at $2.50 per hundred. Roses continue to arrive in large quantities and of good quality, although the prices, of course, run low, from $4 had the decorations for the city's entertaining of King Albert and Queen Elizabeth. The table decorations at the home of Mayor Edward Vose Babcock and Mrs. Babcock, where luncheon was served, were especially handsome. Six vases were filled with a combination of cattleyas, oncidiums and Ward and Russell roses and were placed at regular intervals, the corsage bouquets being formed of the same flowers.

Mrs. E. A. Williams has returned from a week's visit in New York city, where she did considerable purchasing in anticipation of the coming social season.

Henry Meuschke, Mrs. Meuschke, and their daughter, Miss Rose Meuschke, who were to have left October 28 for a six weeks' trip through Yellowstone park and along the Pacific coast, have delayed their journey because of the unsettled conditions and general unrest. Mr. Meuschke has grave fears of a coal shortage and he believes that, in such an event, his proper place is near the Saxonwald greenhouses of the Ludwig Floral Co., of which he is treasurer. Gil-

ST. JOSEPH, MO.

The Stuppy Floral Co. held its annual opening Saturday, October 25. It was the biggest event in the history of the forty-seven years the company has been in existence. Never before had the people of St. Joseph been greeted with such an elaborate display of cut flowers, baskets and table decorations, combined with the latest of novelties. The entire 1,200 square feet of window display was filled with arrangements for luncheons, dinner parties and coming-out parties.

An orchestra, hidden by a bower of palms, chrysanthemums and oak leaves, gave tone to the occasion. One window was devoted to varieties of chrysanthemums, each group displaying the name of the flower. Another window showed designs of fruit in baskets, decorated with oak leaves. Another window displayed a dinner decoration, while a fourth was filled with novelties for coming-out parties and birthdays. All visitors were presented with flowers and the opening lasted from 2 to 8 p. m.

The opening was a surprise to the proprietor, Frank Stuppy, who, returning from a two weeks' hunting trip, followed the crowd to see the "fire." It is needless to say he was much pleased, after the first shock, and complimented the employees on their efforts.

ANN ARBOR, MICH.

The Blu-Maize Blossom Shop has been opened in the Nickels Arcade in this city by Alex. Lurie and W. S. Wells. H. W. Hawkins is also connected with this enterprise. Mr. Lurie, while at the University of Maine, brought about the organization of the Maine Florists' Society. Until recently he was superintendent of the Missouri Botanical Garden, in connection with which he was quite active among the florists of St. Louis, serving for some time as chairman of the trustees of the St. Louis

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

The Market.

Chrysanthemums are hardening again in price, but the quality is much better, Bonnaffon and Appleton especially being first-rate. Roses are also improving and are in greater supply. Carnations are plentiful, but high in price owing to a big demand. The All Saints' day demand kept all the wholesalers busy.

Various Notes.

C. E. Morton, of Phoenix, Ariz., was in this city last week and purchased some of the large plants at the Pasadena show for the Donofrio store, of which he is manager. His brother, Will, accompanied him, the latter being on his way to Seattle, where their mother is lying dangerously ill with cancer. Mrs. Morton is staying with her son, Hubert, formerly of Long Beach, Cal., where he had a nursery and greenhouses.

Harry Bailey, of Montebello, Cal., is already receiving orders for plumosus seed for next season, when he expects the seed to be unusually scarce and for sale at higher prices. In previous years he has observed that a spare year follows a prolific one.

Fred R. Hills has again had to enlarge the scope of his fern business by using more space in the lath houses for forwarding young stock. A hurried inspection showed the stock to be in excellent order. The houses are always full; as soon as the day's shipments go out, their place is taken by stock prepared under lath. Mr. Hills has a large lot of Adiantum California. A new fern, as yet unnamed, is exceptionally distinct, not only in foliage, but also in habit. Mr. Hills considers it the finest he has ever raised. It is dwarf, but a wonderful grower. A fine lot of Cattleya Trianæ is coming on, being in good condition and full of strong sheaths.

Paul C. Miller has put in a new ice-box. This new enterprise has already developed a good business, both local and shipping.

A visit one day last week to the store of W. Armacost & Co., at an hour when the daily shipment of roses was arriving from the greenhouses, found a total of 6,000 flowers for the day, all of good quality, notably Ophelia, Russell and Columbia, with long stems and fine foliage.

John Morley, park superintendent of San Diego, Cal., Mrs. Morley and their daughter, have been visiting in this city and in Santa Barbara.

H. R. Richards.

PORTLAND, ORE.

The Market.

The market at present is a little short on stock. A heavy frost completely destroyed outside stock and all that is being sold now is indoor-grown. Mums are the strong feature now. They are selling well, the retail prices ranging from $2 to $6 per dozen. Mums are of excellent quality this season. The flowers are of good quality and color and the foliage is clean and bright.

Carnations are getting better and the prices have kept pace with the quality. The growers are now demanding $5 per hundred. California violets of fairly good quality are coming in slowly.

Various Notes.

Clarke Bros. have had a nice lot of ferns and begonias on sale the last few days.

Martin & Forbes are cutting a fine lot of roses.

A. F. Lalane reports business good; in fact, it is so good that he has had to secure more help to handle it.

SAN FRANCISCO.

The Market.

This week marks the beginning of the usual winter tightening of the flower market. A general increase in price of cut stock has been put into effect and there is no longer an abundance of blooms. Chrysanthemums are not so plentiful as they were a week ago and the same may be said of practically all outdoor stock. Pompons and Chinese varieties can still be obtained in generous quantity, but the All Saints' day shipping to New Orleans has cleaned up many of the large white and yellow mums.

Roses are getting into splendid condition and are now strong enough for successful shipping. An advance in price has been placed on all rose stock corresponding to the twenty-five per cent rise on chrysanthemum listing; the demand is reported unusually strong. Russell is in fine bud now, as are Columbia and Ophelia and some of the small red varieties. Baby roses, too, are arriving in fairly large quantity, although the crop is but just commencing to be cut.

The violet season is really here, with an excellent crop, although a few rains would improve the shipping condition somewhat. Practically all of the growers and jobbers are filling orders on violets as fast as stock arrives from the fields, and all state that the eastern demand promises to be unusually heavy this year. Only a few of the double varieties are seen, however; they are carried by a small number of retailers as yet.

A substantial orchid crop is on hand, but the demand is keeping the price up to $1.50 easily and large orders have to be made in advance in order to get a choice selection.

Gardenias are in good condition and are bringing top prices. Just at present they are rather plentiful.

tive displays of yellow and bronze colorings in the retail establishments, and many social affairs for the day called for decorative schemes in yellow and black and large quantities of pompon chrysanthemums. There is a big demand for autumn leaves in many of the larger decorating contracts and some particularly artistic work has been done with the rich autumn colorings combined with mums of different varieties.

Various Notes.

A large number of special Halloween decorations were done by A. O. Steinbooks. One for a dinner dance at the Fairmont hotel was of pumpkins, pompon chrysanthemums and black velvet ribbon. In addition to the regular run of work, this shop has been commissioned to do a large Sacramento wedding. Judge McLaughlin's daughter is to be married November 14, and something particularly fine has been promised in the way of decorations.

An interesting example of telegraph service came to light in San Francisco last week. The Tonseth Floral Co., of Portland, Ore., was the recipient of a generous cut flower order to be delivered at the Palace hotel, San Francisco; at 2:52 in the afternoon the order was wired to the MacRorie-McLaren Co. The message was received at 3:12 and the flowers delivered to the guest's room in the Palace hotel by 3:30. One agrees with Fred Bertrand, manager of the store of the MacRorie-McLaren Co., that "speed" is the word in describing the incident.

The MacRorie-McLaren Co. took charge of the decorations for an exceedingly interesting wedding which was held at the Bohemian Club, November 4. A scene reminiscent of the club's own grove of stately redwood trees was set within the four walls of the clubroom; whole redwood trees were transported from the Bohemian grove. Palms and woodwardia ferns, oak and pepper leaves were combined to further carry out the forest idea, while chrysanthemums in autumn colorings brought vividness into the picture. A special nook in the room was reserved for a bower of marguerites, a graceful compliment to the bride, whose name was that of the flower.

The shop of F. C. Jaeger & Son, at 152 Powell street, while it reports no contracts of unusual size, vouches for a most satisfactory fall season.

The first dance of the season of the St. Francis Assembly, which is again active after a period of somnolence during the war, was decorated by Julius Eppstein, the St. Francis hotel florist. The Italian room of the St. Francis hotel, which was used as the reception

EUGENE'S FLOWER SHOP
SPOKANE, WASH.

Pelicano, Rossi & Co. had a striking window last week, suggesting the real beginning of the violet and rose season. A solid bank of Russell formed a foundation for violets, which were artistically arranged in broken masses among the deep pink of the roses, forming a color combination most attractive.

An original window was also noticed in the shop of the Nelligan Sisters, 1203 Sutter street. A Halloween scene was charmingly depicted with a rustic gateway arching over a low, flat banking of russet oak leaves, among which were yellow pumpkins half hidden. The outlines of the gateway were softened with sprays of oak leaves and bronze pompon chrysanthemums.

Gen. A. J. Gooch reported a large number of White Turner orders for All Saints' day in New Orleans, which kept his force busy getting the flowers on the way. He also reports a growing demand for strawflowers for the eastern trade.

J. A. Axell is busy, as usual, with rose and mum shipments. It is his opinion that roses will bring exceptionally good prices this season.

The Western Evergreen Co. is marketing some of the outdoor flowers now, and a quantity of berry-bearing greens were seen at the depot last week.

Domoto Bros. state that their violet crop is top-notch this season. Shipments are steadily growing in volume. This company is also sending a good many roses out of town, as well as the usual number of mums.

Enomoto & Co. report a slight slackening of the chrysanthemum crop, with the exception of the small varieties. Mr. Enomoto states that his violet orders promise to be heavy this year.

California Nursery Company, Inc.

NILES, Established 1865 CALIF.

Enomoto is receiving large orders from the east for dyed thistles and woodwardias.

SEATTLE, WASH.

The Market.

The outlook never appeared so favorable for volume of business as it does at present. Funeral work is the big factor in the day's work, though the sale of cut flowers is brisk and there is a good demand for attractive baskets.

Cut flowers on the whole are scarce and were it not for California mums, of which we are receiving some fine specimens, the retailer would be at a loss for stock to meet the demands of the trade. Dahlias up to October 20 were in profusion, the early frosts touching but few of the larger patches. We had the first real frost of the season on the night of October 24, which put an end to the dahlias for this year.

Roses are scarce. Local mums are few and of inferior quality. Carnations are scarce here, as elsewhere. Good stock is almost unobtainable, even at fancy prices.

Various Notes.

Rosaia Bros. are cutting a few fine specimens of orchids from their large selection of many varieties. The greater part of their big cut will not be ready for a few weeks. Gardenias are also making their appearance on the market, coming from Rosaia Bros.

Cyclamens and primroses are making the interior of the larger stores attractive with their presence. There are some fine cyclamens on display, and those who have them report that sales are made with little trouble.

H. A. Crouch, of the Woodlawn Flower Shop, reports business so good that he has taken on two extra men, A. A. Moore, formerly with the Orpheum Floral Co., and Lieut. Claud Remoyer, recently returned from France. He is also glad to have Mrs. Minet back with him again. She recently returned from

Seed Trade News

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.
President, E. C. Dungan, Philadelphia, Pa.; secretary-treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

EXPORTS of seeds from Denmark to the United States increased from $92,532 in 1917 to $198,285 in 1918.

EXPORTS of seeds from Holland shrank from the figure of 17,729 metric tons in 1916 to 6,027 in 1917 and 4,532 in 1918.

W. W. BARNARD, Chicago, is attending the Lake County Holstein Sale at Crown Point, Ind., with a view to adding to his dairy herd.

THE official roster of the Templin-Crockett-Bradley Co., Cleveland, follows the name: President, R. L. Templin; treasurer, P. J. Crockett; secretary, G. F. Bradley.

THE firm of Conrad Appel, Darmstadt, Germany, is now held in the fifth generation, having been founded in 1789. Paul Anding, the nephew of the late Ludwig Heyn, is now the sole proprietor.

A MAN who has hit it right a number of times before says the 1920 seed season will make no new record because wages are too high; he figures the people will not garden earnestly while they have too much money.

C. F. SAUL, of Syracuse, is quoted by the Packer as saying that "the current prices are highly unsatisfactory to seedsmen, who have no alternative but to charge them, notwithstanding it makes for a curtailment in the volume of the business."

ROBERT NICHOLSON, of Dallas, is working on the idea of doing an exclusively wholesale seed business outside his home city. To this end he is advertising in a string of Texas papers urging them to ask their local dealers for Nicholson's Tested Seeds.

STEVEDORE STRIKE LIFTING.

Movement of Holland bulbs from New York harbor is progressing now and deliveries are expected to be made with acceleration as greater numbers of the striking longshoremen return to work. The radical locals have presented compromise demands, while the conservative locals voted November 2 to return to work. The influence of the president of the International Longshoremen's Association, who opposed the locals' strike vote, is being felt, and more men are at the work of unloading the ships in the harbor. It is estimated 10,000 men are now on the job. Cases of bulbs are being forwarded; the question now is the condition of the bulbs when the cases are opened.

FRENCH SEEDS FROM NANTES.

In 1917 vegetable seeds to the value of $41,530 were exported to the United States from the Nantes district in France; in 1918 there was an increase in the value of the shipments to $89,620, but during the first seven months of 1919 the exports were valued at only $21,640 and the shipping season for 1919 is now over. Along the valley of the Loire, from Saumur to Angers, are many establishments devoted to seed growing.

The following table shows the quantities of seeds in pounds exported to the

WATCHING THE OTHER FELLOW.

The editor of the American Magazine calls attention to a habit that a good many business men have, in the following paragraph:

I once knew a man who ran a small business successfully in the face of great odds imposed against him by a strong competitor. He said that he never could have done it if he had not learned and mastered one thing—namely, to look at his own job and not waste time looking over the fence at the big fellow who was working against him. That is all there is to this envy and jealousy business; it is looking over the fence at the other fellow, instead of looking at the job in hand.

There is probably less excuse for anything like this in the seed business than elsewhere. There are so many opportunities for the seedsman to keep busy—to be finding new ways of increasing his own business, instead of worrying because his competitor is getting ahead. The seed merchant has one of the biggest fields to study. He must be ready to tell his customers what to plant and how to plant. And if he is informed on all these lines, he never has to worry about doing as big a business as the other fellow.—Nicholson's Notes.

CATALOGUES RECEIVED.

H. J. Weber & Sons' Nursery Co., Nursery, Mo.—Illustrated fall catalogue of nursery stock; forty pages and cover, in narrow, handy form for the pocket. About half a dozen varieties of nut trees are included. The company draws attention to present or prospective advances in prices, especially of fruit-bearing stock.

The D. Hill Nursery Co., Inc., Dundee, Ill.—An attractive wholesale catalogue; twenty-four pages, illustrated. As usual, the evergreens, being the specialty, occupy the largest space in the book and are offered in numerous varieties, forms and sizes, to suit almost every conceivable purpose. The deciduous stock also ranges from good-sized plants down to young stock for lining out. Perennials, too, are listed.

J. C. Rutenschroer, West Price Hill, Cincinnati, O.—"Select Dahlias of 1919-1920," a finely illustrated catalogue; twelve pages, in a tasteful, handsomely colored cover. The illustrations in the text also are colored, thus about a score of varieties are shown in their natural hues, with the names attached, besides a vase of unnamed sorts.

Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.—A comprehensive and attractive catalogue of florists' supplies; forty large pages, about 10x13½ inches, clearly printed on a good quality of enameled paper, well illustrated, and bound in a tasteful and substantial gray cover. The assortments offered are large enough to afford a wide choice in such requisites as baskets, flower stands, vases, ribbons, chiffons, Christmas specialties, artificial flowers, wreaths, wire designs, etc. The company's opinion in regard to the future probabilities in the prices of such goods is stated thus: "Do not hesitate to buy at present prices. You will undoubtedly save money by doing so, and lose money if you delay."

The McCallum Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.—"The McCallum Service for Florists," a handsome, illustrated catalogue of florists' supplies; twenty large pages, printed on cream-tinted paper and enclosed in an artistically designed brown cover. A prominently displayed slogan is, "Baskets direct from the weavers to you." The company offers this warning to the trade: "We strongly urge the immediate purchase of your requirements, while the opportunity is still at hand to obtain such articles as may be entirely off the market later in the season."

Robert Nicholson, Dallas, Tex.—"Nicholson's Tested Seeds for Southern Planters," a 36-page catalogue, illustrated. Prices are not quoted in this catalogue, except on flower seeds, but price lists are issued monthly, "giving lowest market quotations at time list is prepared." Vegetable, field and forage seeds predominate. Tools and sundries also are offered.

WISCONSIN STATE FLORISTS' ASSOCIATION

J. K. Rugowski, Manitowoc, Wis. September 15, 1919.

Dear Sir:---In the name of the Wisconsin State Florists' Ass'n, I wish to thank you for your exhibit of both the pink and white Asters, at our annual meeting held at Milwaukee, September 12th.

I am transmitting herewith the resolution passed at that meeting, endorsing these asters as being a very meritorious flower. It was the sense of the resolution that these Asters be endorsed by the association as having the largest flower and longest stems and in every way being superior to any aster thus far seen in the market. It is with pleasure, indeed, that I am permitted to send this message.

With best wishes for the future success of this flower, I am, Yours very truly,

WISCONSIN STATE FLORISTS' ASS'N,
H. J. Seel, Secretary.

NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

PROSPERITY brings plantings.

DECREASE of plantings in war time and present scarcity of labor has shortened most stocks this autumn.

ABSENCE of trained help affects the nursery trade more than many others, especially at a time when high quality stock is in demand.

THE nurseryman who uses advertising space to tell what he has on hand this fall is clearing out his stock. This is a time when buyers want to know where they can get what they want.

STOCK SCARCE IN EAST.

Nursery business has been exceedingly good this autumn in New England for both ornamental and fruit trees. The demand for apple trees has predominated, probably owing to the enormous crop of apples this season. Stock in many lines is scarce and difficult to get in the New England states at present, especially plants of various kinds to grow on. At any rate there is little being advertised. Buyers must either send to places at a distance and take more risks in shipping or get along without needed stock. E. E. B.

TITLE TO GROWING STOCK.

May Not Always Go With Land.

The California District Court of Appeal has handed down an interesting and important decision concerning the reservation of ownership of stock delivered to a landowner for growing and return later on. The case in which this decision was announced (Kirkman Nurseries vs. Sargent, 183 Pacific Reporter, 591) involved a transaction in nursery stock, but it is quite clear that the same legal principle would apply to other stock handled under similar circumstances.

In 1915, plaintiff nursery company and one B. F. Rose entered into a written contract, by the terms of which the plaintiff was to deliver 100,000 fig cuttings of assorted varieties free of charge, which Rose was to plant and raise upon his land. During the two succeeding winters, Rose agreed to deliver back to plaintiff such of the cuttings as should have developed into fig trees, three feet in height and free from pests or injury of any kind. Plaintiff agreed to pay Rose $30 per thousand trees. Cuttings were delivered to Rose under this contract, but he later sold his interest in the land to defendant Sargent, with the consent of the nursery company. Defendant was informed at the time as to the nature of the transaction between the company and Rose and acted under it as Rose's successor for some time. But subsequently defendant repudiated any obligation under the contract, as Rose's assignee, and refused to make further deliveries of trees to plaintiff.

Not Mere Contract to Purchase.

Defendant claimed that the transaction amounted to no more than a contract by plaintiff to purchase the nur-

Getting Up a Stock of the NEW IBOLIUM PRIVET in a Hurry

THESE are the days when hurry-up methods are in order and it is especially so within the realms of Horticulture. The Nurseryman who anticipates getting up a stock of named Rhododendrons, for instance, and beginning at the bottom, must realize that he has a several years' investment before him, with a comparatively limited demand in prospect. Not so with the propagator of some of the quickly grown hedge plants with an almost unlimited quantity demand.

The accompanying illustration is from a snapshot of the end of one of our propagating blocks of the new hardy hybrid privet, IBOLIUM. This luxuriant growth is but one year old. Its height can be visualized by noting the stake which appears in the picture, which is three feet long, the bottom edge resting on the ground.

When we decided, a year ago, to offer IBOLIUM Privet to the trade this autumn our total stock included but the original plant, some forty (40) three-year-old plants and a few hundred one-year-olds. The problem of just how to work up a stand of propagating wood with all possible haste was before us. We succeeded in getting from our available stock some two thousand buds. These were put in a section of a block of two-year-old Amoor Privet, two to three buds to a stem. These wintered well and the luxuriant growth you see in this illustration resulted, having furnished us, during the first summer, not only a quantity of wood for summer propagation, but a big supply of material for hard wood cuttings for setting direct in the field another spring.

IBOLIUM Privet grows with the same freedom as California Privet, both from hard and soft wood cuttings, and makes, under similar conditions, even more luxuriant growth and a heavier stand of both one and two-year-old plants. IBOLIUM Privet very closely resembles California Privet as to appearance and habit of growth other than the disposition to bush up a little more freely at the bottom. When it is realized that IBOLIUM Privet is quite as hardy as Ibota Privet, with all the advantages of California Privet as a hedge plant, it is easy to realize what an enormous demand is sure to follow now that IBOLIUM Privet is being introduced. That IBOLIUM Privet is going to be called for in enormous quantities is indicated by the numerous inquiries at our office for prices on thousand lots from gardeners and private buyers who have seemingly heard something about the new privet through our introductory advertisement in the trade papers.

We believe the accompanying illustration and notes will be helpfully suggestive to many who are going into IBOLIUM Privet and desire to get up a block of it for propagating purposes as rapidly as possible.

"The question as to whether the cuttings, when planted, became annexed to the real estate, so as to pass with it, turns upon the intention of the parties. * * * From the terms of the contract under consideration we think that it must be held that title to the cuttings and to the nursery stock into which they developed remained in the plaintiff, and we also think that the evidence is clear that the defendant purchased the land in which they were planted with notice of the contract and of plaintiff's rights. The contract, as already mentioned, provided that the cuttings were to be delivered to Rose by the plaintiff free of expense of any kind and were to be planted in the land described in the complaint, cultivated, and cared for, and for such of them as at specified times became merchantable nursery stock the plaintiff was to pay an agreed price per thousand. That Rose's compensation for the use of his land and for his work in caring for the cuttings and delivering them, when in suitable condition, at the price designated, should have been fixed in this manner, affords no reasonable inference that the cuttings and the young trees into which they developed were his property; and the defendant, taking a conveyance from Rose of the land in which they were growing with notice of the plaintiff's rights, stands in the shoes of Rose. That the defendant recognized that the plaintiff retained title to the cuttings after they were planted is shown by the testimony of the witnesses, who related conversations with him. When thereafter he refused to make further deliveries to the plaintiff, the plaintiff was justified in regarding the trees as its property and taking action accordingly. The trial court in so holding correctly construed the contract herein involved." S.

PAINESVILLE, O.

Nurserymen are having exceptionally fine weather this fall for digging their stock. Never before was there such a great demand for trees, shrubs and perennials, and the man of the hour is the one who used foresight and put on more steam during the business depression, so that he now has the stock to offer on the market.

The Carl Hagenburger Co., of West Mentor, recently purchased a Packard truck. This firm is devoting its entire space to potted plants and is rapidly coming into prominence in this line.

HOLIDAY PRICE LIST OF

Blooming and Decorative Plants

Every Florist realizes, or should do so, the certain scarcity of all desirable plants for the Holidays. We consider ourselves therefore particularly fortunate in being able to offer the trade at this time a large and exceedingly well grown stock of the varieties that will be most in demand.

Prices quoted are for shipment November 10th-20th. After that date are subject to change without notice. We will, however, accept orders at these prices for delivery not later than December 1st, provided draft for at least 20% of the amount accompanies the order. These orders will be set aside and held intact until date of shipment.

Business during October was not quite up to expectations, for two reasons: The unusually warm weather sent in lots of outdoor stock, and a strike of the employees of the street railway company has been in progress during the last few weeks, with a threatened sympathetic strike of all other labor organizations, and all lines of business have suffered a decrease in sales during this time.

On account of the abundance of outdoor stock, there has been an oversupply and a heavy frost would be more than welcome at this time. Much of the outdoor stock is of inferior quality and only serves to cheapen better stock.

Carnations are blooming more freely, but owing to the warm weather the quality has not improved much. These are bringing from $1.50 to $2 per dozen. There is a heavy crop of roses. Columbia, Russell and Ophelia are especially fine and the better grades of these bring from $6 to $8 per dozen. Chrysanthemums are now at their best and range in price from $2 to $12 per dozen.

THE VICTORY FERN (Nephrolepis victoria)

We take pleasure in offering this new and valuable variety of Nephrolepis. It is a beautifully crested form of "Teddy, Jr.," with fronds frequently subdivided on the ends, making a most unique, distinct, and desirable variety.

This Fern was AWARDED A BRONZE MEDAL

at the S. A. F. Convention at Detroit in August, 1919. The judges of the award reported as follows: "Special stress is laid on the new fern, Victory, with a rapid growth and a branching at end of fronds, making it a shapely plant. It should be a commercial success, and

We Recommend it Most Highly."

TO REMOVE BOILER SCALE.

I have recently taken charge of a range where the scale in the flues of the boiler is so thick that I believe it affects materially the boiler's capacity. Is there a good formula for removing this scale and what is the procedure?

H. G. H.—Kan.

In the case of many large boilers it is possible to remove a considerable part of the scale by means of cold chisels. The formation of the scale may be materially retarded by the use of some of the boiler compounds on the market. Many, however, consider that fully as good results may be secured by placing coal oil (kerosene) in the boilers. The use of a gallon for each forty horsepower at first and then half that amount every two or three months will have a noticeable effect, both in removing scale and in preventing its formation.

ONE BOILER FOR TWO HOUSES.

We have built two houses, one 17x50 feet with an 8-foot lean-to attached without any partition and the other 25x50 feet. There are three feet of brick in the north wall, three feet of wood and three feet of glass in the south wall and three feet of wood and the rest glass in the gables. A service shed extends across the end of the first house and ten feet across the second house. We wish to maintain a temperature of 50 degrees in the north house and a temperature in the other house of 65 degrees.

Please tell us the amount of 2-inch pipe required for each and also the amount required if I use 2-inch pipe for flows and 1½-inch pipe for returns. Would a 4-inch pipe connected to the boiler supply the flows? The return into the boiler will be about four feet below the bottom of the benches. R. A.—Ind.

In case 2-inch pipe is to be used for both flows and returns, twelve pipes will be required in the cooler house and sixteen pipes in the house which is to be kept at 65 degrees, using one flow to three returns, or, if preferred in the cool house, one flow to two returns. In using 1½-inch pipes for the returns we should suggest putting in three 2-inch flows and eleven 1½-inch returns in the cool house and four flows and sixteen returns in the warmer house.

While it would answer to use a 4-inch main flow pipe to supply both of the houses, branching into two 3-inch pipes to supply each house, with return mains of the same size, it would be better to carry a 4-inch main from the boiler to the warm house and a 3-inch main to the cool house, with similar return connections. Although the combined radiation in the two houses will be less than 1,000 square feet, the circulation will be quicker and better and with greater economy of fuel if flow and return pipes of ample size are used, especially in the warm house.

If the boiler were to be located at a considerable distance from the ends of the houses, thus making it necessary to use mains of considerable length, it would be advisable to put in either one 4-inch or two 3-inch mains to supply both of the houses, but as the mains will

TO THE MAN WHO NEEDS A BOILER

"The customer's interest first"—is the basis of the KROESCHELL standard. This principle makes the KROESCHELL Policy the most liberal of all in the Greenhouse Boiler business. The great variety of boilers that we make places us in a commanding position. It is the KROESCHELL principle to supply only the type of boiler best suited for the conditions. For this reason we always furnish the most efficient boiler unit in every case.

The KROESCHELL has proven its worth in many of the large establishments in this country. It has frequently been selected by the most careful buyers in competition with all other types of boilers. Its efficiency and capacity are completely beyond any other boiler.

KROESCHELL BOILERS have no bulky, soot-accumulating surfaces—you avoid the disagreeable work and trouble indispensable to cleaning boilers with complicated and tortuous back and forth fire passages.

The superiority of our boilers has resulted in the removal and abolishment of hundreds of cast iron sectional boilers—in every instance KROESCHELL BOILERS give more heat with the same piping with less fuel.

be only a few feet in length the advantages from the larger mains will make it worth while to use them.

HEATING CALIFORNIA HOUSES.

I am building four greenhouses, each 20x60 feet. The walls are six feet high, with two feet of glass and four feet of boards. The ridge is twelve feet high. These greenhouses run north and south. It never gets colder than 20 degrees above zero and there is little wind and no snow. I wish to heat these houses to 60 degrees with hot water. The boiler will be placed northeast of the first greenhouse; that is, the one on the east side. What size of boiler shall I need? Should it be placed in a pit and if so, how deep a pit? How shall I run the piping and what size of pipe shall I need? Do I need an expansion tank, and, if so, where shall I place it?

G. F. M.—Cal.

For heating these four houses, we should select a boiler rated for approximately 1,500 square feet of hot water radiation. The size of grate will vary somewhat in different boilers, but one that is 28x30 inches should be sufficiently large. If possible, have the top of the boiler lower than the lower end of the returns.

For heating each house we should run a 2½-inch flow pipe on each plate and place underneath each flow pipe, either on the walls or under the side benches, a coil of three 2-inch returns. One of these flow pipes may start from the boiler and the others may be supplied by means of a 4-inch main. The returns should be connected with the boiler by pipes of the same capacity as the flows.

Give the flow pipes a slight fall and connect each of them at the highest point with the expansion tank.

HOW TALL A SMOKESTACK?

We have a boiler, but do not know how tall a smokestack we need. The boiler is 108 inches long, thirty inches in diameter, and has twenty 3-inch flues. The place where the stack fits on is oval in shape and measures 30x48 inches. What would be the radiation and rating of this boiler? We intend to build a greenhouse twenty feet wide, with one row of glass on the sides, and a 16x24-foot house eight feet in height at the ridge. We desire to maintain a temperature of about 60 degrees when it is 10 degrees below zero outdoors.

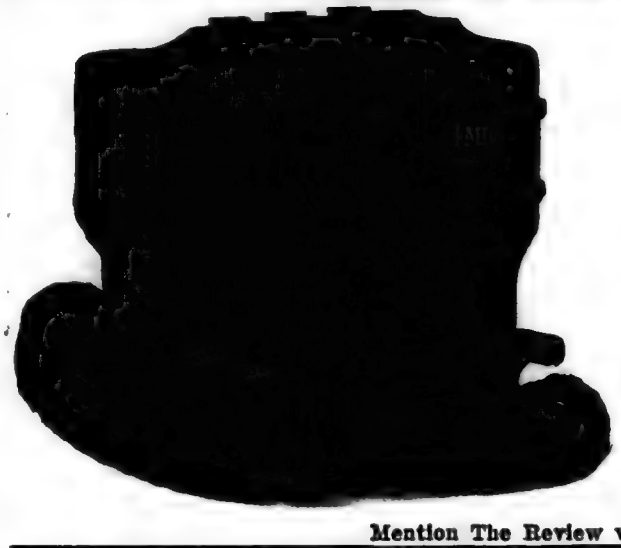
A Prominent Carnation Grower Says This About the Standard Recording Thermometer



ORDER NOW
$35.00

Lancaster, Pa.
Standard Thermometer Co., Boston, Mass.
Gentlemen: Please send me 25 record plates like the enclosed sample, and I want to say that the machine, bought a good many years back, is keeping up its good work right along. I think it a very useful adjunct to good plant growing, and it should be in every greenhouse, as reference to it may often tell what is wrong with a batch of plants. Very truly yours,
Albert M. Herr.

The actuating element of the Standard Recording Thermometer is of lamina metal, which, besides being extremely sensitive to temperature changes, is practically indestructible. Record charts are furnished either daily or weekly, and the whole mechanism is contained in an attractive metal case fitted with lock and key, which insures the record from being tampered with.
The clock movement is of extremely high grade; everything about the instrument is up to the highest possible standard of manufacture.

Fooling Fall

Winter's coming!

Won't be long now before you'll be turning on heat in earnest. Many have already.

Rust holes may have already developed in pipes that have lain idle all summer. The first real freeze may split a pipe here or there. A joint may start leaking.

The Emergency Pipe Clamp was designed for just such trouble.

Handy, easily applied and permanent, it will save you from tearing out pipe this fall.

Just slap a bit of gasket rubber (we furnish it) over the leak, apply the clamp with an ordinary wrench—and forget it. It'll hold for good.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

The Market.

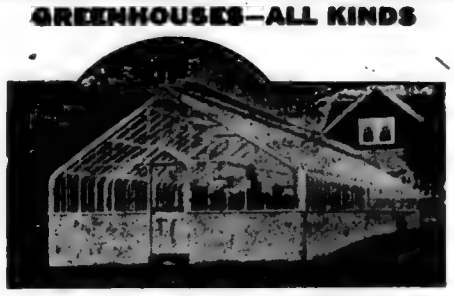
Last week stock was abundant. All grades, good, medium and poor, were in the market, but the poor ones were especially in evidence, as last week saw the cleaning up of early season mums. This week stock is more clear of riff-raff and not quite so free in supply, although plenty is available.

Midseason chrysanthemums are a little slow in coming; this perhaps has been due to the week of dark, cold, rainy weather, which has retarded all growth.

Carnations are plentiful. Chrysanthemums have hurt the sale of these and, since the supply has been increasing, they are dragging a little. The demand for roses has been slightly affected. Good ones in all colors are available and sell well, but prices were forced to drop.

A limited number of sweet peas and calla lilies are now coming in. A good frost finished the dahlias, cosmos and all remaining outdoor stock.

Various Notes.



Edwin Nelson has returned home from twenty-five months in the army, including twenty months in France.

Savey Constantine has returned from France and is back at his former position at the Claypool flower shop.

Albert Kempe is cutting some sweet peas which are excellent for this time of year.

Preparations are being rapidly completed for the exhibition to be held November 13 and 14 at the Claypool hotel. The banquet, at which the Kentucky florists will be present, will be held Friday night, November 14, in the Chateau room of the hotel. Chairmen of the various committees have been named as follows: E. E. Temperley, entertainment; Clarence R. Greene, decorations; Henry W. Rieman, reception, and Charles Pahud, banquet and dance. Mrs. E. E. Temperley, Mrs. Clarence R. Greene and Mrs. Harry Pahud will form the committee to entertain the women visitors. E. E. T.

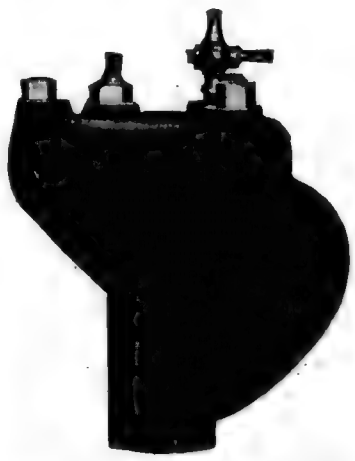
Uniform Pressure Means Even Heat



The Steam lines are the arteries of the greenhouse. They carry the steam—that makes the heat—that develops the growing things.

Maintaining just the proper temperature at every point, regardless of the location of the boiler, is every grower's problem. But it ceases to be a problem with the installation of Fisher Reducing Valves.

Fisher Reducing Valve, Type 11-A, Inverted, with Increased Outlet.

They give actual temperature control by accurate reduction of the steam pressure—regardless of the main pressure.

Fisher Air Trap, Type 30. For Hot Water Systems. Releases air instantly without any loss of water.

Give us a layout of your greenhouse indicating the location of your boiler and let us show you how, at a small cost, Fisher Reducing Valves will do just what we claim.

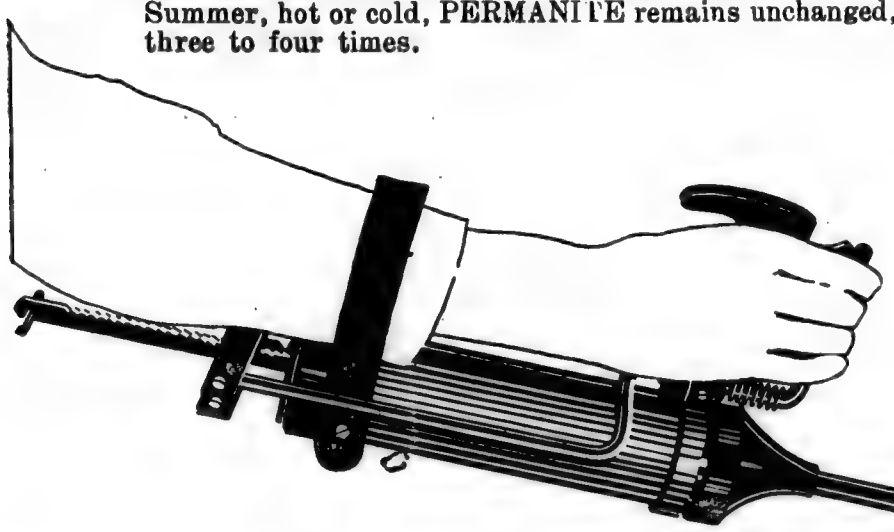
Permanite



[Trade-mark registered, U. S. Patent Office.]

A Stitch In Time Saves Nine

If you haven't gotten your houses in shape for the Winter—now is the time to do it; a house permanently permanited with PERMANITE will stand the wear and tear—it will be on the job even though it may be below zero—and the temperature on the inside will always be the same.

There is a reason for this—and you know it; PERMANITE is elastic; no matter how strong the wind may be, PERMANITE will give—and in this way prevent breakage of glass. No matter how cold the weather may be—PERMANITE does not harden, cannot fall off and consequently stays wherever it has been applied.

All in all—PERMANITE is the ideal, the most dependable and, after all, the one and only original Asbestos Glazing Cement on the market—always has been and always will be the best of its kind; Winter or Summer, hot or cold, PERMANITE remains unchanged, never hardens and is guaranteed to outlast putty three to four times.

Our latest folder on PERMANITE, which has just come off the Press, will give you further information; write for your copy to-day.

Your Beds

Unusual and valuable results will be attained by mixing a proportion of charcoal (1 bushel to 16) with the soil of beds.

Charcoal, because it is indestructible and of peculiar activity, absorbs from the earth and the air many of the essentials of plant nourishment and liberates them as the plant requires.

Many soils contain chemical combinations of plant foods that are not available unless broken up by the chemical action charcoal provides.

The Market.

A sharp frost came on the night of October 28, the first real frost of the season, sufficiently severe to make the ground hard. The killing of outdoor stock will be acceptable to many florists, since greenhouse flowers are becoming more plentiful now that chrysanthemums are out.

Business in all lines continues to be good. New store openings have been frequent, with a consequent demand for baskets of flowers. A satisfactory feature of these events is that usually the vases and baskets continue to be refilled for a time after the opening ceremonies. Tactful encouragement from the trade would probably increase this practice.

Various Notes.

The Frank P. Putnam greenhouses have now a gorgeous display of single mums; over 100 varieties are in bloom. Mrs. Putnam manages the cutting and shipping part of the business, making an entry of the number and value of the flowers from each variety. By this record these growers learn the merits of each kind and the most profitable kinds from a specified number. This firm is growing inside about 60,000 anemones and 10,000 ranunculus, all in flats. Their 30,000 carnations are in excellent condition and, being sprayed every week, are always clean. The neatest and most secure packing is done here.

Forbes Bros., of Woburn, who started in the greenhouse business this fall, have already planted over 5,000 violets and are growing some vegetables. William Forbes recently returned from overseas, where he was with the Tenth Battalion, Canadian Infantry, spending over four years in the trenches in France. Michael Forbes was a visitor here buying stock.

J. B. Halley, who was formerly in business in Lawrence, Mass., and more recently in J. J. McManmon's store, has returned from visiting in Florida and Alabama and was calling on friends in the trade in this city last week.

Miss Corrigan is now with J. L. Kenney, on Central street. E. E. R.

The Market.

One of the old-fashioned gluts has come upon us, the amount of stock coming in exceeding by far the amount going out. The early mums seem to have run into a crop of good roses and the result has been an overstocked market. The receipts of pompon mums are now heavy and add weight to the market. Prices have held fairly well on good stock, however, due no doubt to the efforts of the wholesaler to meet his last year's prices. Some cold, dark weather will check the oncoming flowers in short order and we may find conditions changed in a short time.

Various Notes.

Saturday, November 1, the new store of Anderton & Seeman opened for business at 118 Wisconsin street. The store is well arranged and carried a good stock of flowers and plants. Mrs. M. O. Seeman, who was in the employ of Currie Bros. Co. for twenty years, was busy receiving congratulations and best wishes for success from her many friends. With the excellent location and the experience of Mrs. Seeman among flower buyers, the business should be quite successful.

The trade about Milwaukee is invited to attend a sort of house-warming November 10 at the store of the E. Welke Co., at 752 Third street. Henry Welke says things are being arranged in fine shape, and he is justly proud of the fine new store.

Fred Bliese, of the Waukesha Floral Co., was in Milwaukee last week on business. Mr. Bliese says business is good and his mums are moving excellently.

Frank Johnson and H. Niebuhr, of the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago, were in the city Tuesday, November 4.

J. P. McCarthy, of the M. Rice Co., Philadelphia, is calling on the trade this week, making his last call before Christmas.

The Florists' Advertising Club is running newspaper copy again, fighting the low cost of flowers.

The Fox Point Floral Co. and the Kamp & Spinti Co. are consigning some excellent bunched mums to this market.

There seem to be as many flower sales as formerly, maybe more, but the overabundance of flowers makes business seem quiet. A. H. M.

The Market.

Business continues good, with plenty of stock of all kinds, including good carnations and extra fine chrysanthemums, both large and pompon. A few callas are seen. Violets are coming in much better. Prospects for the remainder of the fall and for the winter are good and everybody is stocking up for the holidays.

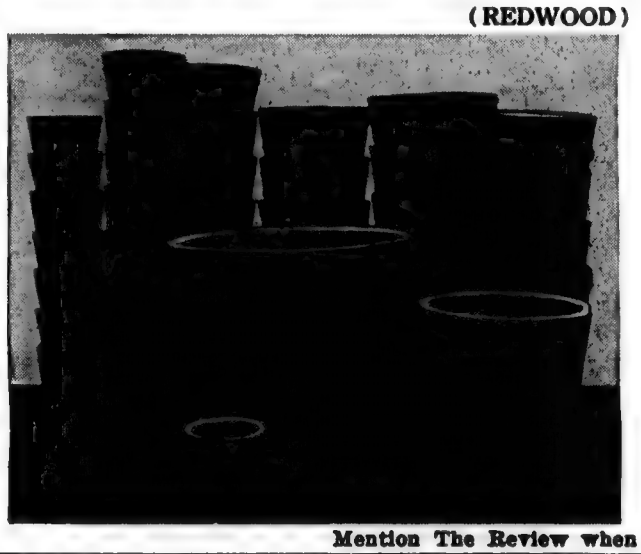
Various Notes.

Since Sunday was the day after All Saints' day, most of the downtown florists were open to meet the large demand for flowers, but no deliveries were made.

E. R. Sackett, of the Fostoria Floral Co., Fostoria, O., and his assistants have been busy with funeral work. This firm is showing a fine lot of plants, including primroses, begonias and poinsettias.

J. L. Schiller's store is displaying some attractive Scotch heather in various sizes for Christmas.

Jack Helmer had the decorations for the McDowall wedding Monday, November 3, while Mrs. J. B. Freeman had the bridal bouquets for the same event.



Mrs. Henry Klunder left Tuesday, November 4, for Cincinnati to join Mr. Klunder, who is now with Henry W. Sheppard.

Visitors last week included Rolf Zetlitz, of Dayton, O.; J. J. Karins, representing Henry A. Dreer, Inc., Philadelphia; Irving Aronson, of Schloss Bros., New York; Julius Dilloff, of Wertheimer Bros., New York, and Gustav Reising, of the L. Baumann Co., Chicago, Ill. C. M. B.

Laurel, Del.—L. M. Smith & Co. have just received their new stationery, designed by an artist and done in three colors from steel engravings. They believe the distinction it gives their business compensates for the greater cost.

NEWARK, N. J.

The Market.

Chrysanthemums are better than heretofore this season and of many varieties, ranging from the small ones to the largest. Prices are not so high as a year ago at this time. Dahlias are also excellent and find a ready sale. Carnations look well when they first come into the market, but do not stand up well. Fresh-picked flowers of first quality will begin to go to sleep in less than twenty-four hours; their lack of vitality is laid to the warm, open fall. Autumn foliage, for the same reason, has not been up to par this season. Because of the lack of sharp frosts, the oak and other foliage generally used at this time of the year in large quantities partially turned and then began to dry up.

Various Notes.

A timely Halloween display in one of the windows of Philips Bros., 938 Broad street, attracted much attention. The display consisted of cornstalks, pumpkins, autumn oak foliage and calendulas. This firm reports that October was a big wedding month with it this year, a number of the weddings being large ones.

Incorporation papers have been filed for F. W. Massman, Inc., 525 Main street, East Orange, florists and nurserymen. The incorporators are Harry H. Picking, Charles O. Beyer and Stanley L. Gedney, Jr.

All last week there was an exhibit of beautiful, rare begonias at the city greenhouses at Branch Brook park. A large number of people visited the exhibit. R. B. M.

Redford, Mich.—Frank Lee and Frank J. Elton, the latter of whom has recently returned from France, are planning to put up three large rose houses next spring.

CYPRESS "THE WOOD ETERNAL"

CYPRESS RESISTS ALL ROT INFLUENCES

A wise business man figures costs by the year, right down the line, and especially so if his business has to do with greenhouses. He knows, either by experience or from a close study of the subject, that the only businesslike method of determining material costs in greenhouse building is by the year—first cost and up-keep cost.

CYPRESS, "the wood eternal" for greenhouse construction, is positively the cheapest wood to use, figured by its years on the job, without repairs or replacements.

All good constructors in these days are insisting on genuine "Tide-Water" Cypress, "The Wood Eternal"—every board and bundle bearing the famous Cypress Trade-mark.

Vol. 3, CYPRESS Pocket Library, is a little book filled with a big bunch of facts and figures about greenhouse construction—profitable reading. There are 43 books in the "Library," all of which give useful facts and plans about HOW, WHEN and WHERE to use CYPRESS, "The Wood Eternal," AND WHY. Which one shall we send you?

The Market.

Market conditions remain about the same as last week, with an ample supply of local stock for all purposes at regular prices. Weather conditions have been somewhat unseasonable, being several degrees above normal in temperature, accompanied by considerable mugginess. Chrysanthemums are now in good quality and quantity and find ready demand. Zinnias have been showing to good advantage, being a somewhat new offering for this market in such quantities and variety as has been the case this month.

Various Notes.

William Chappell, of Branch avenue, has had decorations for several Masonic dinners in the last few weeks.

Willis S. Pino, 41 Washington street, received a large consignment of Dutch bulbs last week.

Walter Mott, representing Hammond's Paint & Slug Shot Works, Beacon, N. Y., was a recent visitor in this city.

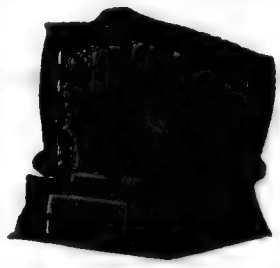
The Quidnick Greenhouses, Quidnick, are shipping some fine roses to the Boston market, including Double White Killarney, Russell and Prima Donna.

Lawrence Hay, of East Providence, had the decorations and bouquets for a large east side wedding last week.

Ed Brooke, of T. J. Johnston & Co., has been on a trip through New England in search of novelties for the holidays.

Louis D. Pierce has been elected commodore of the Rhode Island Yacht Club.

William Doel, of Pascoag, was a business visitor Saturday, November 1, after supplies.



Timothy O'Connor has added a new delivery automobile to his shipping department.

Johnston Bros. have newly painted their store, on Dorrance street, and are showing a fine line of mums, which have a brisk demand. W. H. M.

Great Saving in Preparing Land for Carnation Stock

Following is what Kretschmar Bros., of West Nyack, New York, say of the System:

"It has always been a great expense to prepare our land for the carnation stock before planting, as each day we would only plow enough for the day's planting so that we could work in moist soil. This also would be all hand raked to get it in the best condition. We can now plow the whole strip and harrow with a spiked tooth harrow and use the Skinner System after each day's planting to water them down."

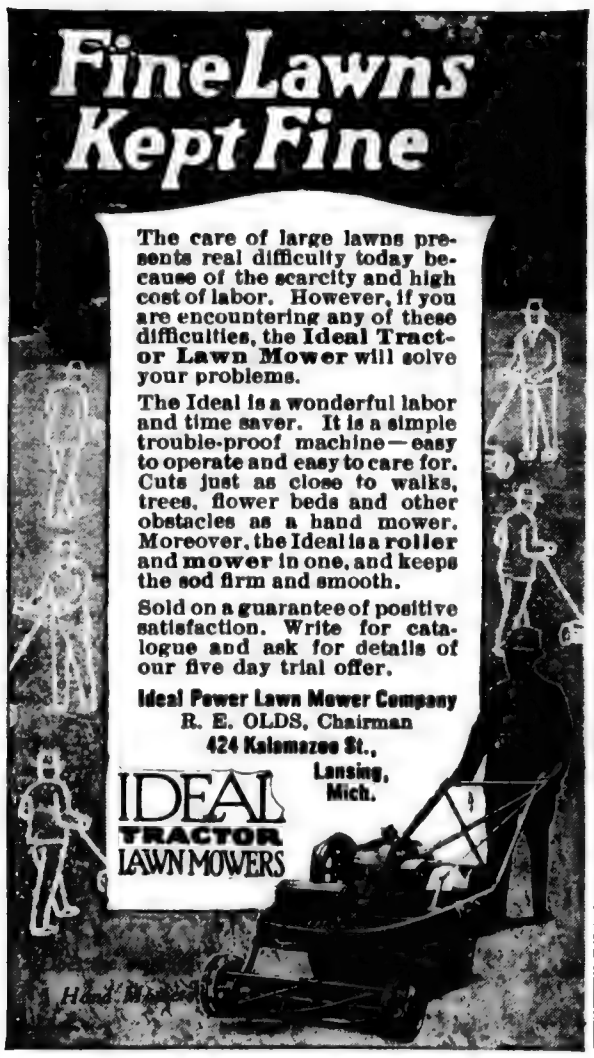
Fine Lawns Kept Fine



The care of large lawns presents real difficulty today because of the scarcity and high cost of labor. However, if you are encountering any of these difficulties, the Ideal Tractor Lawn Mower will solve your problems.

The Ideal is a wonderful labor and time saver. It is a simple trouble-proof machine—easy to operate and easy to care for. Cuts just as close to walks, trees, flower beds and other obstacles as a hand mower. Moreover, the Ideal is a roller and mower in one, and keeps the sod firm and smooth.

Sold on a guarantee of positive satisfaction. Write for catalogue and ask for details of our five day trial offer.

IDEAL TRACTOR LAWN MOWERS

A Glazing Putty of Real Value

In all our experience and investigation we had never found a preparation for bulbing over the outside of a greenhouse that was quite satisfactory, until we ran across PERMANITE. This was about four years ago. At that time we set about investigating the merits of PERMANITE and proceeded to watch the results of its application to greenhouse roofs.

Last year we were entirely convinced of its high quality and durability, and accepted the western agency for the sale of these goods.

We applied PERMANITE to hundreds of greenhouse roofs, over almost every part of the United States.

The results obtained were highly satisfactory indeed. Glass roofs of all kinds, both old and new, were made water-tight and air-tight, saving thousands of plants from being spoiled by water dripping on them and saving many hundreds of tons of coal by making the roofs proof against the wind and storms of winter.

We give PERMANITE our unqualified endorsement and recommend it highly for all kinds of glazing.

We have a very large stock on hand in our warehouse and can ship immediately.

Why are the Michigan grown bulbs better than Holland bulbs?

(1) No ocean trip to hurt the bulbs.

(2) The bulbs ripen better in Michigan than in Holland. Owing to the dry climate in Michigan, the bulbs shrink more but give you a better flower and are better for forcing and cheaper.

CALLAS

WHITE CALLA BULBS. Clean, sound bulbs of Calla Aethiopica, the popular white Calla, all with crown shoots. Plant now and they will begin blooming in December. Figure a little; suppose you plant 1000 bulbs, 6 inches each way and get 6 flowers to a plant, (a fair average) you are making $750.00 gross on 250 square feet of bench space even if you sell the flowers as low as $1.50 per dozen, and you have your bulbs to use year after year.

Diameter of Bulbs.	100	1000
1 to 1¼-in.	$ 6.00	$ 57.50
1¼ to 1½-in.	10.00	95.00
1½ to 2 -in.	15.00	145.00

YELLOW CALLA BULBS. The true Elliottiana, brilliant yellow, with green foliage. Makes an attractive, easily grown, pot plant novelty that sells itself.

Diameter of Bulbs.	100	1000
1½ to 2-in.	$17.00	$160.00
2-in. and up	25.00	240.00

Cheap, poor quality bulbs take as much space and more care than good ones. Why not buy the best?

NEW FERN "LIBERTY"
We take great pleasure in offering this new Fern. We were the introducers of the Big Four, Baby's Breath, Roosevelt, and Teddy Junior. The latter is conceded to be the very best of all Ferns, and now we introduce the distinct new Fern Liberty. The foliage is of a decided bluish cast. The pinnas are beautifully crested, while the fronds are quite frequently subdivided on the ends, often into as many as six points, giving it a very distinctive appearance. This Fern will rank right up with Teddy Junior and give you something entirely different.
2½-in. Pots, per dozen, $3.00, per 100, $20.00.

The Flower Garden, Russell, Mass.

Forget-me-nots, Barker's True Winter Flowering. We have reselected this stock for the past five years by propagating from only the earliest and largest flowering plants, allowing us to offer without question the finest Myosotis that has ever been shipped to any market. This variety should be planted twelve to fifteen inches apart each way, as it is a strong and vigorous grower, producing stems from twelve to eighteen inches in length. A good crop to follow Chrysanthemums, and will give excellent results in same soil.

Strong plants ready for immediate shipment, out of 2¼-in. pots, $6.00 per 100, $55.00 per 1000.

PANSIES

PANSY PARK PERFECTION is a mixture of more than 50 thoroughbred varieties of Giant Show and fancy Pansies and includes the new varieties from American and European specialists. I have received thousands of testimonials from florists and amateurs in all sections of the country. Many of my florist customers say that my Pansies are the best in all respects that they ever had. See samples of these in my Review ads during the past month. Pansies a specialty for nearly 50 years. My plants were grown from seed sown broadcast in light sandy soil and have extra fine roots. Plants 10 weeks old, 5 to 8 leaves. 1000, $4.50; 500, $2.50; 5000, $20.00.

My Special Cut Flower Strain produces enormous flowers on extra long stems, and the best colors mixed in the right proportion for the cut flower trade, $7.00 per 1000; 500, $3.75; 250, $2.25. Cash with order.
L. W. GOODELL, PANSY PARK,
DWIGHT, MASSACHUSETTS.

500,000 Fine Pansies, have been heavily frosted and will now carry any distance. Have grown Pansies for the market for over thirty-five years and believe we are justified in claiming to be experts in growing and packing. We also believe our strains to be the equal of the finest on the market. Can ship day order is received, weather permitting.

Nelrose, similar to Keystone, little deeper.
Enchantress, light pink, grand in every way.
Silver Pink, standard light pink.
Buxton's Pink, strong silvery light pink, fine.
Phelps' White.
Phelps' Yellow and Giant Yellow.
Bronze Beauty, very strong grower.
Garnet, beautiful shade red.
Seneca, creamy white, compact, strong grower, $4.00 per 100. Packing free. Liberal extras.
Geneva Floral Co., Geneva, N. Y.

Let Snapdragons follow Mums. Shortage of Carnations will bring big demand for Snaps. Very useful for decorations, designing, sprays and corsages, and pay big. They are of easy culture, require little heat. We specialize in Snaps, growing our own seed from carefully selected plants, continually improving them, especially in regard to color and winter blooming qualities. Strong, healthy, rust free plants like ours are scarce this year. Order now, delivery when you want them.

Colors, Silver Pink, Rose Pink, Enchantress Pink, lavender shades, garnet, Giant White and Yellow, 2½-in., $4.50 per 100; seeds, 50c per trade packet. Cash, please.

LA CROSSE, WISCONSIN.

SNAPDRAGONS

The shortage of field grown Carnation plants and the extraordinary high prices asked for same can be turned to good advantage by filling a bench or two in your Carnation houses with Snapdragons. We offer for September and October delivery, plants that have been grown from carefully selected seed and the kind that will start growing the minute you plant them.
Keystone, Enchantress, Silver Pink, Phelp's White, Giant Yellow and Garnet, $5.00 per 100, $45.00 per 1000.

Greenhouse Builders

The bars are firmly held to the ridge by this steel ridge bracket, which takes all the weight and strain, which otherwise causes toe nail splits.

Detail showing Giant Arch fittings.

Roof bar splice plate, used at the purlin. In addition to the cap at the top there are two metal inserts that keep the joint tight, even if the ends dry out and spread.

Three-bolt malleable clamp fitting. They bite into the pipe, as well as friction grip it.

Purlin showing the end cap, which keeps out moisture and insects.

Side view of malleable clamp fittings.

Some Things No Other Builder Does

Just because one builder does things that no other builder does, may be because no other builder thinks they are worth doing.

Then again some builders don't do some of the things others do, because it costs too much to do them, and leave the larger profit they are bound to make you pay them.

The things we do are worth doing.

Worth it to the house.

Worth it to you.

In our Semi-Iron House—here are four things that we do, that no other builder does:

1. The bars are fastened to the ridge by a steel bracket.
2. Where bars need to be spliced, it is done with a special no-leak clamp tight joint.
3. The clamp column fittings are malleable iron, made to carry three bolts (not just one or two).
4. The capping over the pipe purlin end, keeping out moisture and preventing insects from lodging there.

These are not all the things we do different. Just some of them.

FLOWERS of SUPERIOR QUALITY

Armistice Anniversary

THANKSGIVING

While perhaps not so publicly demonstrative, will be celebrated more sincerely and widely in the homes than ever before—and what is more expressive of gratitude and happiness than large, glorious Chrysanthemums or dainty Pompons tastily arranged?

Golden and White Chadwick Chrysanthemums and Pompons in all colors and leading varieties —"Flowers of Superior Quality" will be available in large quantities from now until Thanksgiving, but as we anticipate an extraordinary demand we suggest placing your orders early.

Our home-grown Smilax, fresh, clean, heavy strings, will answer the decorative green question for you. Per dozen, $2.50.

Weekly Price List of Flowers and Greens of every commercial variety sent on request.

Home-grown Flowers

Roses - Carnations - Beauties
Chrysanthemums and Fancy Pompons

WHY THEY ARE BETTER

The superior value of home-grown flowers is that they are perfectly fresh. We bring them direct from our greenhouses to our store three and four times per day, a few hours after being cut. On perishable stock like flowers, this is a big item regarding Quality. We pay our growers ten to fifteen per cent higher wages than is paid in the Chicago district. We have better men and they grow better flowers. We are Rose specialists and are now cutting from 245,000 Rose plants all in one range of glass, besides quantities of Mums, Carnations and Beauties.

With all these advantages for our stock our prices are never higher than other houses ask, and in a number of instances lower.

PRICE LIST:

CHRYSANTHEMUMS, all colors, extra large fancy .....$3.00 to $4.00 per dozen

Some Pertinent Facts

Lilium Giganteum

The question to decide is this: "Is it Price or Quality you are looking for in Lily Bulbs?"

Before our Mr. A. Miller left for Japan, he was asked by our many customers to bring back only the best of this year's small crop. To enable him to accomplish this, it was necessary to reduce the quantity obtained to less than one-half what he started out to purchase. It required more than $100,000 investment, which the American Bulb Company has made. We invested this large sum for a small quantity of Bulbs.

A Field of Healthy Lilies, Purchased by the American Bulb Co., for its Customers.

Lily Bulbs could have been purchased in Japan at a much lower price than we paid, but the price paid governed the quality obtained.

We herewith show photographs, one of a field that is diseased, another of a healthy field. The diseased field shows the tops entirely dead. On the healthy bulbs the tops remain until dug; only the foliage turns yellow at maturity. In diseased fields, the stem starts to die. The bulbs in a diseased field swell and when dug have a very deceptive appearance. This is due to the fact that the diseased plant has no top whereby evaporation can take place. In the healthy plant evaporation goes on continually, and after the Bulb is dug, it starts to shrink. So size does not determine the exact quality of a Lily Bulb, nor does appearance.

A Field of Diseased Lilies Actually Dug and Shipped, but NOT to the American Bulb Co.

Satisfaction

Some people are satisfied and made happy with a low price, then made sad with the results. Others know and demand quality. The stability of the American Bulb Company is being built on the rock of quality. Its clients embrace a country-wide list of Florists who have learned that every purchase made from the American Bulb Company is a satisfactory purchase.

Don't let a few dollars stand in the way of your possessing the best quality of Lily Bulbs to be had this season.

About Lily Bulbs

Remember

Our shipper not only controls the best quality, but our shipper has 18 years' experience, and we offer both to you.

Notice

Our shipper has received letters and holds offers in his possession from the most reliable concerns in America, who are fighting hard to secure his Bulbs away from us, knowing that he possesses and controls the real quality of Lilium Giganteum grown in Japan.

Inspecting Lily Fields in the Mountains of Japan. (Our Mr. A. Miller, Lily Bulb Experts and the Horticultural Inspector.)

Is not all this evidence? Do not competitors, in trying to get our source of supply away from us, admit that they realize and know that there is only one place where the assurance of high-class Lily Bulbs can be had, and that this is the source that the American Bulb Company has?

This letter came to us unsolicited:

The Sign of Quality

But it was no surprise—we knew the Bulbs

Do You Sell Flowers?

Or Do You Merely Let the Public Buy Them?

Too many florists "accept orders" for flowers—they don't force their sales.

Those whose books show real profits are the ones who really sell their stock. They "arouse interest" and "create desire" for their merchandise.

That which makes the public pay you its money for your flowers is their beauty. The corner grocer displays his cabbages, but too often the florist hides his flowers.

To increase the flower business and to promote the display and sale of flowers, we submit—

The RANDALL STANDARDIZED DISPLAY REFRIGERATOR

(Illustrated on opposite page)

This refrigerator is the size and design which long experience in flower store equipment has taught us to be the best. It's best from the standpoints of floral display, economical operation and the keeping of flowers. It's just the right size for 90% of the retail stores.

We have standardized this box. Every detail has been developed to perfection. We build them in quantities under the "continuous production" method, and so reduce the cost—you get the benefit.

Don't wait until you think you need a refrigerator- get in touch with us on this proposition today, if you know you want to sell more flowers.

A postal card reading

"Send details about Standardized Refrigerator" will bring the whole story.

The needs of merchants have guided National Cash Register improvements

"WHAT the merchant needs" always has been—and always will be—our basic idea in making cash registers.

This business, as it stands today, is the result of constant study of merchants' needs.

Every suggestion that we receive is investigated. The practical ones are adopted and given very exacting mechanical tests before they are manufactured.

During the past 10 years we have made 6,508 improvements in our product.

These improvements were added so that National Cash Register users could be supplied with machines that would give them the utmost possible service.

Modern National Cash Registers are practical, useful, accurate, and durable—the best we can make.

Nationals are now used in 296 lines of business

Florists find Stewarts cost less to run

Simplified design saves $200 to $300 in first cost

Stewarts are doing wonderful work for Florists everywhere. They choose Stewarts because:

The truth—

Stewart design eliminates hundreds of needless parts, thus saving $200 to $300 in first cost.

You get a truck with greater strength—fewer parts to wear—less dead weight.

With less weight to move, you buy less gas, oil and fewer tires.

The proof—

One Florist's experience:

I have had my Stewart truck for six months and can say that I am more than satisfied. It has done heavy work every day and I haven't spent one cent on repairs. It runs almost 14 miles per gallon of gas with a load.

Extra Christmas Trade for You

Florists, Seedsmen and Nurserymen can gather extra profits this year.

Sell this fine, convenient—yes, necessary Christmas Tree Holder. Every tree should have one. It sells easily, right along with the tree. Get your stock now and begin the display. You'll profit big and so will the user.

Patented March 24, 1914.

Holds the tree firmly. Water or wet sand keeps the tree green and fresh, preventing dropping of needles—protects from fire—saves needless work and fretting to erect trees—saves skinned fingers and torn tempers.

Just explain it fully—the sale is easy. Retail prices, $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50.

MILADY

"Say It" with the Finest of Red Roses

THERE never was a better Red Rose than well grown Milady—and Milady is perfectly at home at our place. Milady of our quality is one of the best money-makers Retail Florists ever have handled. No other Red Rose can compare with it for popularity with the public. We welcome Buyers of Roses who wish to see Milady growing, but—

We have nothing to sell at the greenhouses

Our entire cut is sold by

E. C. AMLING CO.

Chicago's largest and most centrally located wholesale cut flower house.

Our Milady Roses are not only the very finest Red Roses in the Chicago market (stems 12 to 36 inches, big, solid heads, perfect, rich velvety color), but we are cutting heavily each day. For us Milady not only gives splendid quality, but a large and steady cut.

TERMS: Cash with Order—Kindly send sufficient to cover the entire bill. We do not make shipments C. O. D. unless remittance has been made on account to guarantee acceptance. This does not apply to regular customers. Remittances—Remittances should be made by money order or New York drafts. If money is sent, letter should be registered. All prices quoted in this list are strictly net. Shipping Instructions—Give your name, post office, county and state, and the name of your nearest express office to which shipment is to be made. We have always made it prominent in our printed terms that our goods are sold F. O. B. cars at the point of shipment, and are at the purchaser's risk while in transit. Because of the present unsettled conditions we wish to emphasize still further that we do not guarantee safe delivery. The ownership of all goods sold by us passes to the purchaser on delivery by us to the carrier and the issuing of the receipt by the carrier ends our responsibility. Any claims for damage should be made promptly to the agent at the point of delivery. Correspondence—We endeavor to answer all correspondence promptly, but owing to the pressure of business during the Fall rush we ask that all requests be clearly and concisely stated. Errors—Keep a copy of your order. We aim to have our orders correctly filled. Where we are at fault we shall make satisfactory correction.

THE FLORISTS' REVIEW

AUTUMN OUTLOOK AUSPICIOUS AUGUR

Consideration of the factors which affect the prosperity of the trade induces confidence in the belief of many florists that the coming season will set a high mark for normal business. To the busy florist this glance at the industrial barometer will be reassuring.

KEPT on the jump by the necessity of meeting the everyday problems that attend the increasing business of autumn and the difficulties of the present commercial situation, the busy florist wonders occasionally if he is going aright, if his hurried judgment of current affairs is correct. One day a newspaper scarehead causes doubt and depression; another day's report gives rise to corresponding elation. It is hard, in the midst of these actions and reactions, to strike a balance.

Many florists, like successful men in other lines, have an uncanny ability to size up the situation on the move, their subconscious impressions steering them in the right channels. They look far enough ahead to see out in the open, beyond the present hurry and bustle, and so anticipate conditions which have a vital effect upon their businesses. They are the florists who last season kept their ranges going, to their present advantage; who last summer laid in coal, and don't worry now; who were not deterred by high prices of supplies from buying early, and rest easy in consequence at the present time. Their faith is in a bounteous season ahead. What is the justification of it? Cast up the business balance and see.

Crux of High Prices.

In the minds of the people of this country no commercial factor is more prominent than that of present high prices. To some they are a menace; to others they are a boon, the difference in viewpoint arising from the personal advantage or disadvantage of the individual. High prices in themselves are not nearly so important as the causes of them. Insofar as they represent a higher living scale, they are innocuous. Insofar as they are the result of unsound financial or commercial methods, they represent danger, but the danger lies not in the high prices but in the cause of them. For the florist who pays high prices and receives high prices, the only problem involved is the greater capital necessary to carry on business.

Actually for the retailer the prime consideration is not the cause of high prices, but the possible effect on the public. Will the public pay for flowers prices high enough to make profits for grower and retailer? Can the grower pay the high prices asked for giganteum lily bulbs and pass the increase along to the consumer?

Public Is Spending.

For a reply to this question one has only to look for reassurance to other retail trades and observe the public's spending proclivities. The dry goods trade reports unprecedented sales in luxury lines; the shoe manufacturers complain that their high prices exist because there is no sale for the cheap products even to the working man; butchers say everyone buys porterhouse steaks and veal chops and no one takes boiling beef and rump steak at ridiculous figures; silk and wool manufacturers are behind on orders, but cotton clothing does not have nearly the same demand. Whatever one may think in regard to such method of expenditure, he will hardly doubt that a public which buys thus will pay proportionate prices for flowers.

That the public spends thus is not so much a cause for wonder when one considers the favorable factors in the business situation. This country is enjoying an export trade greater than it has ever had in history; its crops this year were all excellent, if not record-breakers; a larger number of people are employed than were ever before, and at better wages. Though anticipated with grave concern, the steel strike actually caused little disturbance in the general business conditions of the country. The coal strike, beheld in similar manner beforehand, proved short-lived. Its effect on the country's industry was less than expected. These are two nation-wide examples out of a series of many strikes in recent months. It is remarkable evidence of this country's firm industrial prosperity that the labor unrest has in reality affected it so little. A nation on the brink of commercial disaster would never pass through such disturbances so steadfastly and calmly as this country has in the last few months.

There is much talk of money spent, but at the same time savings banks deposits show greater totals than ever and investments have reached marks never before dreamed of.

Large Investments.

The remarkable business transacted day after day on stock exchanges is attributed to the vast amount of buying by the public in addition to the manipulators' activity. Figures quoted on another page of this issue tell of the enormous capital issues authorized in new corporations. And Dun and Bradstreet report fewer commercial failures than ever before in the decades during which records have been kept.

Families today are earning far more than before the war. While our soldiers were abroad the daughters and sisters, and often wives, supplemented or replaced the earnings of the male workers, whether they were absent or not. Many of them

Balancing the Business Budget

DEBIT	CREDIT
High cost of commodities.	Unparalleled retail buying.
Scarcity of materials.	Demand in luxury lines.
Labor shortage.	Increased family earnings.
Strikes.	Highest total of bank deposits.
Credit expansion.	Increased investment.
Unsettled railroad status.	Enormous capital issues.
Uncertain foreign situation.	Largest export trade.
Hesitation on account of unstable conditions.	Fewest failures on record.
	Big crops.
	Favorable legislation.

remain in offices and factories after the war is over and the men have returned. Thus a household may now receive total earnings twice to several times that of ante-bellum days, according to the number of workers in the family. Hence the abundance that leads to purchases of luxuries of all kinds. Truly, in such a situation, the outlook for the florist is bright. When more families are buying homes than ever before, when indulgences never contemplated previously can now be gratified, the sale of flowers promises to surpass all normal demands.

Such general factors as prevented some businesses from feeling confident in the future are being settled by legislation now being enacted. Action on the peace treaty is expected to be definitely determined within a short time; railroad legislation is before Congress and other such matters as affect florists only as they affect the prosperity of customers' businesses are being similarly settled. Elections in Massachusetts gave confidence to citizens of that commonwealth and indicated to those of other communities that the radical spirit of the country was not so strong a danger as some supposed.

The florist's problem, then, is not one of trade difficulties, but merely one of getting prices high enough to meet his advanced costs and still yield him the profit to which he is entitled. If he is able to pass along the increases in prices which affect him, his problem is solved. In the present situation there is basis for confidence that he can get such prices as remove his worries. Though valley has advanced to 20 cents a spray, all that can be had is sold. Similarly, other stock which increases in price for like reasons, will be disposed of. Facing increased prices on all sides, the public will not be deterred by higher prices for flowers, particularly when they have the money to spend as now.

THE RETAIL FLORIST

A WARNING FROM THE F. T. D.

At the recent business meeting held at Buffalo, N. Y., it was unanimously decided at the annual meeting of the board of directors, which immediately followed the final adjournment of the regular session, that it was the sense of the meeting that more drastic action was necessary to bring habitually slow-paying members to the realization that payment must be made according to the constitution and by-laws—article 11, sections 6 to 10, inclusive—which fully explain the duty of the secretary relative to overdue bills. Disputed bills, of which many are received at the clearing house, shall be disposed of either by the secretary or through the regular arbitration committee.

The association has grown too large and its responsibilities too great to allow some members to have their names perpetually on the clearing house records; it is bad business and should be overcome. Always keep this slogan in mind, "Say It with Flowers—at the end of thirty days, Say It with a Check."

The secretary does not care to use his official prerogative unless it is absolutely necessary. Leniency has always been practiced to those who have shown any tendency toward improving their business standing. The truly unfortunate one will always receive courteous treatment, provided he can and will prove to this office that his case is one of misfortune. We have been bitterly criticised many times for not exercising and fulfilling the exact meaning of the by-laws. The time has come when the provisions of the by-laws relating to the clearing house will be executed.

Albert Pochelon, Sec'y.

P. S.—All members who have been officially warned to settle all overdue bills and failed to do so, will find that their names will not appear on the Christmas membership list, which will be issued on or about December 10.

WEDDINGS REPLACE FUNERALS.

Every florist, even if he this year fails to count the large October total he did a year ago, is glad funerals for the last month were not up to those of a year ago. He has had, records show, a good substitute for funeral trade—one that he can really rejoice in—wedding orders. For statistics from nineteen of the largest cities in the country show an increase of nearly seventy-five per cent in number of marriage licenses taken out this October over the same month a year ago.

In Chicago, 4,480 couples marched to the altar last month. A year ago only 1,961 licenses were taken out. In Denver the figures more than doubled—307 marriage licenses this October to 147 last year.

Whether you got your share of wedding orders in your town or not you can tell by comparing your two years' records and the increase in marriages in your city if it appears in the table below. Statistics as reported by city officials follow:

	1918	1919
Chicago	1,961	4,480

Store which has Proved Anew that Business Follows Provision of Facilities.

SEE SCHEINUK SHINE.

That an improvement in surroundings and equipment is followed by a prompt increase in the volume of business has been the pleasing experience of many florists. It again has been demonstrated in the case of Max Scheinuk, of New Orleans. This enterprising young man started in the trade as a florist and nurseryman something more than a decade ago and he has taken many steps along the path of progress until now his facilities deserve to be classed among the best. His new store, the front of which is shown in the accompanying illustration, recently was opened at 2600 St. Charles avenue, in the best section of the Crescent City. Each time he has moved he has sought a better locality, with the purpose of improving the quality of the trade handled, and he has at each successive step provided better equipment. The new location is at the corner of the avenue and Third street, the store building being set back from the street to provide the opportunity for attractive planting. The display refrigerator, which is the principal feature of the equipment, was designed by W. Abrahamson, of the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago, and there is a large electric fountain in the center of the store. Mr. Scheinuk is a man of action—the new store was built, equipped and occupied in forty days—but he is no more prompt than was the public in responding to the invitation provided by the attractive new facilities. Business has increased far beyond his most sanguine expectations, proving anew that in this line of business any reasonable expenditure in the provision of high-grade surroundings and service is quickly repaid by the prompt increase in the volume of business handled. There is nothing too good for the public.

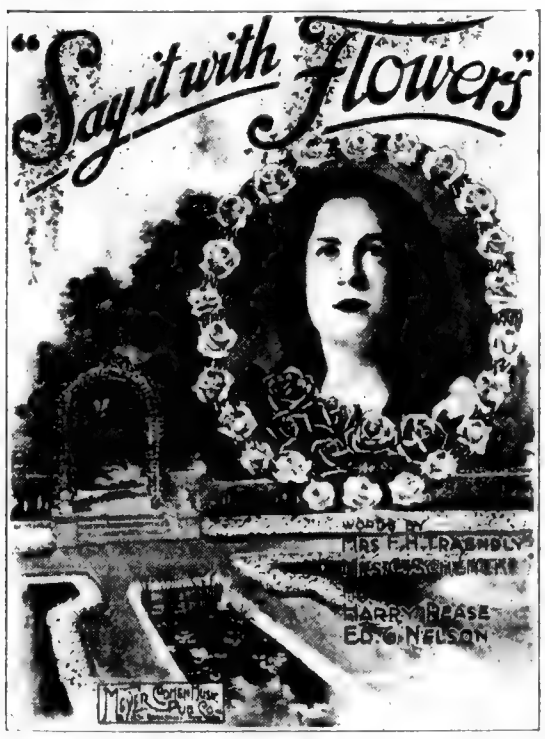
HOME OF THE RED C.

The business that was started forty-seven years ago in St. Louis by Fred C. Weber has kept growing all that time because Mr. Weber followed the pace of leaders of the trade. When Sunday closing was discussed by the St. Louis Retail Florists' Association, President Fred C. Weber, Jr., said he would begin by closing his store on Sunday at once. In the movement for better working conditions for employees, to make the trade attractive to capable workers, he has been active, taking the initiative in his own establishment. With the growth of the trade, this store, like many others, has been improved and remodeled, so that today the "home of the red C," as may be seen in the accompanying illustration, is a shop from which other retailers glean ideas as to what a first-class establishment may be.



In advertising and trade publicity work, Mr. Weber keeps to the fore. The fact that in St. Louis there are two Webers in the trade whose only difference in name is in their middle initial had given rise to an advertising point made much of, the red C, so printed on stationery and so displayed on the store front.

THE SLOGAN IN SONG.

Those who heard it at the Detroit convention last August, as well as those who did not, will soon be able to obtain copies of the song, "Say It with Flowers," which was sung there with great success. The words, which are given below, were written by the wives of the members of the New York firm of wholesale florists, Traendly & Schenck. Mrs. Frank H. Traendly was at one time president of the Ladies' S. A. F. and her husband was president of the S. A. F. in 1908. Mrs. Charles Schenck is also well known, and her husband was president of the New York Florists' Club in 1918. The music is by two popular song writers, Harry Pease and Edward Nelson.

Popular Song Bears Slogan.

The publishers of this song, the Meyer Cohen Music Publishing Co., New York, intend also to issue it in adapted form for dance orchestra, so that the public may dance to "Say It with Flowers."

The words follow:

"SAY IT WITH FLOWERS."

In a garden so fair with its fragrance so rare,
I watched the flowers grow,
Thinking of someone, some certain someone,
A someone I love so;
As I wandered along on my way,
I seemed to hear each flower say:

When the wedding bells chime and the world seems in rhyme,
And true love is all in bloom,
Beautiful flowers from nature's bowers
Are worn by the bride and groom;
As they journey along life's sweet way,
Each flower they see seems to say:

REFRAIN.

"Say it with flowers, beautiful flowers,
Secrets of love they reveal;
Bring her sweet roses or violets blue,
Orchids, carnations or pansies will do.
In gloomy hours, sweet-scented flowers
Change the darkness to light;
So, say it with flowers, beautiful flowers,
And make someone happy tonight."

DO YOU USE POETRY?

The spread of the florists' slogan is wider each day and its paraphrase in poetic form is adding to its popularity. Already one set of verses has been printed and reprinted in retailers' newspaper advertising in various cities. The publicity and sales value of such verses is not easy to reckon, but it seems to be appreciable. Therefore, The Review has printed such poems, not because it wished to emulate the general magazines' poetry page, but to make available to all the trade material for what so many have found to be worth while using.

The latest contribution comes from a member of the trade, John S. Polland, of Fort Dodge, Ia.:

A bunch of chrysanthemums stately and tall
Is a message of peace from the queen of the fall;
Their beauty speaks volumes and has soothed many hours;
You gave nature's diploma and said it with flowers.

A bunch of carnations—plumosus for green—
Enriches with fragrance and makes all serene;
Their tight-armored buds in woodlands and bowers
Awake from their slumber to say it with flowers.

'Way up on the mountains, clear cataracts flow,
Where the mist spreads like dew breath on the violets below,
A beckoning emotion over me towers,
Bids me rest in that valley 'mid mantles of flowers.

Say it with flowers, oh, say it with flowers.
Nature's sweet message tells love by the hours,
On my pillow exhaling their fragrance in showers,
Oh, tell me thou lovest, but—say it with flowers.

Oh, how bright are fresh posies, the gifts from above!
Give them and take them as a message of love.
When earth's glittering luster has spent her last powers,
There's a whisper, a message, to say it with flowers.

PALMER'S DESIGN DISPLAY.

From the fertile brain of Mark Palmer, of W. J. Palmer & Son, Buffalo, N. Y., has come a device for showing customers in the flower store what they will get when they order a funeral spray, a corsage, a wedding bouquet or some such piece. Against the wall of Palmer's store stands a case about three feet square and about eight inches deep, supported at a convenient height for inspection by a person standing. Panels in the face of the case contain transparent slides, or photograph negatives, each of a different piece of floral work. In the case behind the panels are electric lights which when switched on shine through the slides, displaying the designs.

Each row of slides may be shown while the others remain dark, since there is a switch for each row. One row, according to Mr. Palmer's idea, contains funeral sprays, another corsages, another wedding bouquets, another table decorations or miscellaneous pieces. Thus only the type the customer desires to see is shown when the lights behind that row are switched on. The case in Palmer's Delaware avenue store contains four rows of four designs each.

Patents have been applied for by Mr. Palmer on this device. As soon as these are obtained he will put it on the market, since several retailers from large cities at the F. T. D. convention wished to place orders for it when they saw the display work.

PUBLICITY PLAN

BUFFALO BEGINS BIG.

On Coöperative Advertising.

Starting what Robert A. Scott termed "the biggest thing ever started by any city in the country," Buffalo florists have embarked on a coöperative advertising plan in which, says Mr. Scott, "our success is absolutely assured, for we are all up to fever heat and we are getting the money."

The temperature of fever heat seems to be correctly stated, for the organization, though just effected, has already raised $6,500 and has ambitions of $12,000; it used a full page in the Buffalo Courier for November 9 to boost the idea of wearing flowers Armistice day, and it is carrying out a "Say It with Flowers" week, which began November 10.

Bigger Than City.

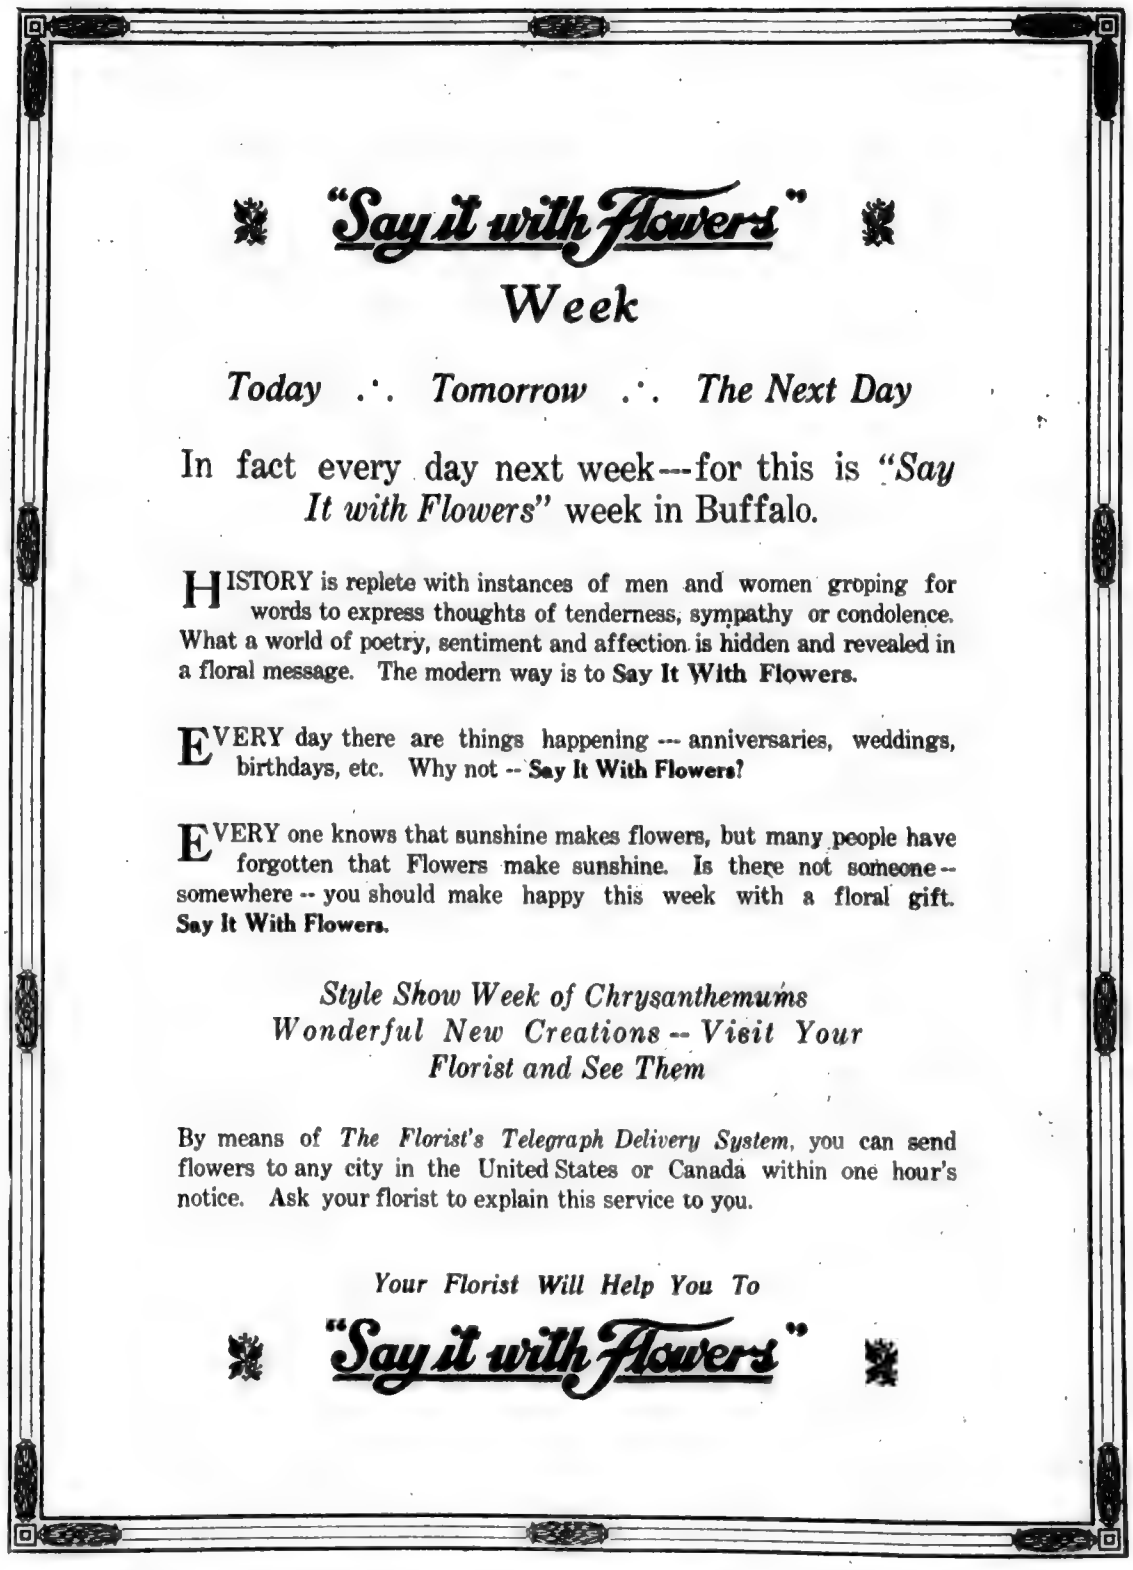
The plan includes not only the retailers and growers of the city of Buffalo, but also all growers who ship stock into the city and, in addition, the nurserymen and seedsmen of Buffalo. The name of the organization is the Western New York Florists' Publicity Fund. It is a voluntary guarantee fund, "to be used solely for the purpose of promoting the sale of flowers in western New York." A part of the fund is to be set aside for national publicity.

The fund is to be in the hands of a committee of seven. Three of the members are to be growers who ship to or sell their products in the city of Buffalo. Three of them are to be retailers in Buffalo and the remaining member to be a wholesaler of the city. The subscribers elect the members of this committee on the last Thursday of October of each year, their term of office beginning November 1.

At least once each three months the committee is to call together the subscribers to give a detailed accounting of the expenditure of the funds.

Give Till It Hurts.

The subscriptions to the fund made at the meeting October 30 amounted to $6,500 and represented twenty-five per cent of the retail florists of the vicinity. The aim of the committee, of which Wallace H. Eiss was temporary chairman, is to raise at least $12,000 to be used for publicity work in the next year.



A provision in the resolutions adopted at that meeting states that subscriptions will not be binding unless at least seventy-five per cent of the retailers and growers in the city and of the growers who ship to the city subscribe to the fund. Enthusiasm is at such a pitch that the enlisting of that percentage seems sure. It is by force of example and enthusiastic purpose that the work is being carried forward. "We do not force any man," a member says. "He gives till it hurts."

Investments, not donations, are what the subscribers are working for, according to their terms. And they state it as the duty of each one to subscribe in accordance with the measure of his individual business.

Resolutions State Plan.

The Buffalo florists believe theirs is a plan that will be followed in other cities, for they stanchly affirm the strength of their organization. The outline of the plan is clearly stated by the resolutions unanimously adopted by the subscribers of the Western New York Florists' Publicity Fund at the meeting held October 30:

1. That a voluntary guarantee fund be raised by the retail florists of Buffalo and the growers of cut flowers and plants who grow and sell their products within the city and the growers of cut flowers or plants who ship to or bring their products to Buffalo and the seedsmen and nurserymen of the city of Buffalo.
2. That the name of the fund be "Western New York Florists' Publicity Fund."
3. That this guarantee fund is to be used solely for the purpose of promoting the sale of flowers in western New York, and a certain part of the fund is to be set aside by the committee for national publicity.
4. That the moneys so guaranteed be turned over to an advertising committee, who will have in charge the matter of properly using the fund collected for advertising purposes in promoting the sale of flowers and plants.
5. That the advertising committee consist of three growers who ship to or sell their products in the city of Buffalo, three retail florists who have their business in the city of Buffalo and one wholesaler of the city of Buffalo.
6. That the subscribers of this fund elect this committee by ballot on the last Thursday of October of each year.

7. That the term of the committee be one year, starting November 1, 1919, or until their successors are duly elected.

8. That the committee so elected call together the subscribers to the fund at least once in every three months and make a detailed report of moneys collected and expended.

9. That the subscriptions to this fund are not to be binding unless at least seventy-five per cent of the retail florists of the city of Buffalo and seventy-five per cent of the growers within the city of Buffalo and seventy-five per cent of the growers who ship to or sell their products in the city subscribe to the fund.

10. That the subscriptions to this fund be for one year.

11. That the subscriptions be paid to the committee in four equal payments.

12. That the payments be made every three months in advance.

13. That the subscriptions made to the fund by the several individuals be binding.

14. That the subscribers to the fund reserve the right to call a meeting of the subscribers at any time upon presenting a written petition to the elected committee, if signed by at least twenty-five per cent of the subscribers to the fund.

15. That these resolutions can be amended at any regular meeting of the subscribers by two-thirds vote of the subscribers present at that meeting.

FLOWERS SEEK TO RULE.

Weeds may crowd out flowers, but the illustration shows flowers crowding out the other departments in the shop of Laura H. Hubble, Springfield, Mo. Her original business interest lay in hand-made blouses and various novelties relative to the needle-and-thread side of domestic art, but a short time ago she added flowers to her business. The picture tells the story. The natural tendency of all people to "Say It with Flowers," to use the living blooms as their colorful messengers, affected her trade as it has affected other similar enterprises. The flower side of the house is growing daily.

The furnishings of the store add, of course, to its attractiveness. The fixtures are of mahogany finish and the large French bevel plate glass mirrors and McCray refrigerator increase the effectiveness of the displays. In addition to all seasonable cut flowers, the shop has a full line of artificial flowers and fruits for decorative purposes.

USINGER'S UTTERANCES.

W. E. F. Weber, of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., is getting ready for his annual camp in the woods in search of deer. Business has been a little slow during the last two months, but a noticeable increase has been apparent in the last week or two. The greenhouses are in good shape and some fine stock is being cut.

• • • •

Mr. Freyling, of the Wealthy Avenue Floral Co., Grand Rapids, Mich., has for many years designed gardens and estates for the people of that city, but at present he is busy constructing one of his own, in the rear of his residence. It is to be an Italian garden and will adjoin the side entrance of the store. This will be an attractive feature for this store and incidentally be a good advertisement.

• • • •

"Business is going strong," commented Arthur Crabb, of Grand Rapids, "both in funeral work and social functions." Mr. Crabb recently welcomed the third member to his household, a girl.

• • • •

A fine display of cut flowers was seen in the store of Henry Smith, Grand Rapids. The continued rush of business keeps everyone in the store busy.

• • • •

Crabb & Hunter, Grand Rapids, have recently moved into the Pantlind hotel building. The store has a large window display at the main entrance of the hotel and a good view can be had from the lobby. Three sides of the store are windows.

• • • •

Wm. Gregory & Son, of Ludington, Mich., had a rush of six funerals, all in one day, last week. With a happy family all working at top speed, it was being turned out in good order.

• • • •

G. H. Harrison & Son, of Cheboygan, Mich., have no worries on account of the coal strike, for Mr. Harrison has always burned wood and, being in the heart of the forest, he has little trouble in getting it. W. T. U.

SCHOLARSHIPS FOR GIRLS.

The School of Horticulture for Women, at Ambler, Pa., writes to The Review that two scholarships are available for girls who wish to study floriculture during the year 1920. One pays $150 and another $450. The scholarships carry light duties with them.

The curriculum at the School of Horticulture for Women was outlined in an article on "Women's Way to Florists' Work" in The Review for August 7. The requirements for entrance and a complete description of the courses will be found in the catalogue, which may be obtained by writing Elizabeth Leighton Lee, director, School of Horticulture for Women, Ambler, Pa.

TATE'S TIPS

PUSHING PUBLICITY.

Where the Energy Goes.

The Review in its issue of October 23, reporting on the F. T. D. convention at Buffalo, has the following: "The national publicity committee was in session till midnight during the first day of the convention, considering the matter of raising funds more expeditiously."

Aside from the results that have been obtained from national advertising thus far, the thing that must strike every business man most forcibly is the amount of effort such men as Henry Penn, John Young and others on the committee are obliged to exert each week in order to raise funds to carry on the campaign. That those composing this committee are big, unselfish and broad-minded business men goes without saying. If they had not been men of unlimited patience, I am afraid they would have thrown the work over before this. The little country circuit rider does not have to preach harder to his congregation to raise his salary than do these men. Here, indeed, is one of the most dignified businesses of the country, whose members have to be coaxed and persuaded to do their part in furthering a campaign that has proven already that it will pay big returns on the money invested. Now let us look at this whole thing honestly for a few minutes.

Lost Motion.

The energy which the committee is obliged to spend in raising funds to conduct this campaign might much better be spent on the campaign itself. In any of the large business enterprises of our country this would be considered lost motion and, in these days of modern business methods, lost motion is one of the things that cause the man of brains to lie awake at night seeking ways to eliminate them.

The committee should be in a position to go ahead and make contracts for space and not be obliged to depend on, I might say, the benevolence of a small percentage of the 15,000 florists of the country. Might it not be possible to have some discussion through these columns as to a better way to provide the "sinews of war" for this worthy cause?

Would it not be possible to work out a scheme of assessments, say, for each city? This could be governed by the number of inhabitants of a community. The F. T. D. now has this system working in its guarantee feature. Let the national organization look to the local florists' club, whether state or city, for this assessment. Let each club undertake the work of securing contributions from all the members of the trade in its locality and surrounding territory.

Everybody Gives, Everybody Gains.

If a local club were assessed a specific sum, how would it be raised? That would have to be left to the club, but there have recently appeared in these columns plans that seem equitable to me. I refer to those in Milwaukee, St. Louis and Philadelphia; that is, to tax the grower one-half of one per cent on his sales and the purchaser a like amount on his purchases, with the wholesaler, as his contribution, collecting and forwarding the assessment to the treasurer of the local organization. This would certainly add dignity to the campaign and make everyone feel that he had an interest in it. This is merely my suggestion. Other plans for doing the work that now falls on the shoulders of a few men might be proposed by others and might be more feasible and effective than this. In these times of business unrest, even though everything is prosperous, with labor making demands that to some of us seem absurd, it behooves the business man to look ahead, for history will repeat itself, the slump is bound to come, and when it does we shall find the gospel of "In union there is strength" to be a gospel of truth. It was team-work that won the war, it was team-work that financed it, it was team-work that fed the world, and this same kind of team-work will make the florists' business one of the greatest in the country.

ADIANTUM PELICANI.

The new fern, Adiantum Pelicani, a specimen of which is shown in the accompanying illustration, has been recently announced by Frank D. Pelicano, of San Francisco, Cal., who raised it. This particular plant attained a spread of three feet in eighteen months. Adiantum Pelicani is said to be a marked improvement on Adiantum Roenbeckii, resembling it in habit, but being of superior color and more profitable for cutting. Its light green color, it is said, gives it a freshness of appearance that makes it highly desirable for work of the best sort.

SMITH BURNSIANA OPEN.

Wm. F. Gude believes the following announcement of the opening of the Smith collection of Burnsiana to the public in Washington, D. C., is not only of interest to older members of the trade, but also will be an inspiration to the younger element who may not have had the pleasure of knowing William R. Smith, the father of the S. A. F. charter:

Announcement is made through John H. Cowles, secretary general, Supreme Council of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite, that the William R. Smith Burnsiana is now accessible to the general public, between the hours of 9 a. m. and 5 p. m., Sundays and holidays excepted, in the Burnsiana room at the House of the Temple, Sixteenth and S streets, northwest.

The Burnsiana room is located on the south side of the ground floor of the temple, immediately below the offices of the secretary general. Application must be made to the librarian on the main floor for access to the books in the locked cases.

BRIEF ANSWERS.

I. A. T., Wis.—Turn the leaves under.

C. F. C., Miss.—The specimen seems to be a denuded stem of Asparagus plumosus. There is nothing in your letter to account for its condition.

F. M. C., Ill.—It is the snapdragon rust. Send a stamped self-addressed envelope for an article from The Review discussing the disease.

COST OF IMPORTING.

There is a somewhat misused saying, "Every man to his trade," which seems more or less applicable to the present situation in the matter of importing Dutch bulbs. Here are two phases of it:

From C. D. Otis, Lake Charles, La.: "In a recent Review I noticed someone complaining about a charge of $3 per case for the packing boxes in which his Dutch bulbs came. My charge is worse than that, eleven cases costing $37.80. What is far worse, I cannot learn that they even have been unloaded yet at New York. When the bulbs finally arrive, there will be a lot more charges. This is my first experience in buying direct from Holland. I know what the duty is, but that is all; I have not the least idea what the bulbs finally will cost me."

From Gould Bros., Glenview, Ill.: "We recently received an invoice for Holland bulbs with duty added at the rate of $2.50 per thousand on hyacinths, 50 cents per thousand on tulips and $1 per thousand on daffodils. As the first charge seems exceedingly high to us, we are writing to inquire if these charges are correct. As you no doubt know, all bulbs were sold this year f. o. b. Holland and, with duty, ocean freight, inland freight and numerous other charges, the delivered price is exceedingly high."

THE CHRYSANTHEMUM SOCIETY

ANNUAL MEETING.

Held in New York.

The annual meeting of the Chrysanthemum Society of America was held in one of the meeting rooms of the Engineering building, at 4 p. m. November 5, with a small attendance. The president, Wm. Vert, read his address and the secretary and treasurer presented their reports, all of which were discussed. No new business was brought up, and the proceedings were more or less of a formal character.

Officers Elected.

The following officers were elected:

President—Thos. W. Head, Lake Forest, Ill.

Vice-president—Z. D. Blackistone, Washington, D. C.

Secretary—Charles W. Johnson, Morgan Park, Ill.

Treasurer—Charles H. Totty, Madison, N. J.

The next meeting and exhibition was voted to be held in Washington, D. C.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

[The president's annual address, delivered by William W. Vert, at the meeting of the Chrysanthemum Society of America, at New York, November 5.]

Another year has rolled around and we find ourselves once again attending the annual meeting of this society.

It will be recalled that at the last meeting no invitation was extended to hold the exhibition in any other city; so the management of the American Institute kindly volunteered to give us this building again, and their offer was gratefully accepted.

We have experienced this fall a most peculiar season, such as we have never had before to the best of my recollection. The warm, muggy weather seems to have injured blooms in many sections and some of our finest flowers will, I am afraid, be missing from the exhibitions this year. The exceedingly warm fall has also operated to the disadvantage of the commercial growers, because we still have blooming in excellent condition dahlias, gladioli and other fall-blooming plants, which come into competition with the chrysanthemums in the market and which have made a poor market for the earliest flowers this year. The influenza epidemic, which created considerable demand for chrysanthemums last year, is also missing this year, but for this we are thankful.

Need of Greater Interest.

It is a matter of regret that a larger interest cannot be created in this society to make our annual meeting better attended. If any member has suggestions to offer along this line, we shall be happy to receive them.

I should like at this time to say a good word for the secretary, who has been so instrumental in keeping the society together. I feel some recognition should be given him, since the salary he receives at the present time can only be considered more as a joke than anything else. I hope this motion will prevail and that he will be compensated in some reasonable degree for his valuable services.

The action of the Federal Horticultural Board in shutting off all imports from foreign countries will possibly limit to some extent the number of new varieties distributed in America. I hope this will be the means of getting more members interested in hybridizing for new varieties. I do not feel that enough work is being done along these lines.

Stanch Support.

In closing I want particularly to thank the members of the committees, who have done and are doing their work without any recompense in the different large cities in judging the new varieties.

I am much obliged to the members for their support in the past and will say at this time that I am no longer a candidate for reëlection, on account of the nature of my business, as I do not grow chrysanthemums to any extent any more. I am sure that you will find a worthy successor, one able to carry on the work of the society better than I have done in the past.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

[This is the report of Secretary Charles W. Johnson, presented at the meeting of the Chrysanthemum Society of America, New York city, November 5.]

Since the society decided at its last meeting to hold the eighteenth annual meeting and exhibition in conjunction with the American Institute of the city of New York, the first work of the secretary for the year was the solicitation of the special premiums and the arranging of the special premium schedule, which, through the courtesy of William A. Eagleson, secretary of the board of managers of the American Institute, was mailed to all members of the society.

During the season of 1918 there were submitted to the examining committees for examination forty varieties, of which thirty-four were seedlings and six were sports of existing varieties.

Four Varieties Registered.

Four varieties were offered for registration, as follows:

November 11, 1918—Victory, seedling, white, Japanese incurved, by Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich.

November 22, 1918—Marie Louise, bronze, sport of variety Patty, by the Davis Floral Co., Davenport, Ia.

February 7, 1919—January Gold, golden yellow, sport of variety Mistletoe, by the L. M. Smith Quality Flower Co., Laurel, Del.

February 7, 1919—Dr. Hitch, white and lavender pink shading to yellow, sport of variety January Gold, by the L. M. Smith Quality Flower Co., Laurel, Del.

Coöperation Against Pests.

The season of 1919 has been a good growing season for chrysanthemums planted for commercial and exhibition purposes and many more have been planted than heretofore. The depredations of the insect pests are a difficult problem for the growers to overcome and form a subject that should receive consideration by the members of the Chrysanthemum Society, which should have the support of all growers of chrysanthemums to help find out the best methods of combating the many insects that now attack the plants. If the numerous chrysanthemum growers of the country who have these difficulties to overcome will only coöperate with the society, their coöperation will be of benefit to themselves as well as to the members of the society.

The routine work of the secretary's office, consisting of sending out statements to the members, recording the varieties disseminated, getting out the report of the seventeenth annual meeting and soliciting special premiums, was attended to in due season.

Appreciations.

Your secretary wishes to acknowledge the kindness of Elmer D. Smith in furnishing him with a complete list of varieties disseminated in 1918, which was a great help in getting up the annual report.

To the examining committees is due the appreciation of the society for their most efficient work in the judging of the new varieties submitted to them.

The trade papers, as heretofore, generously published all notices sent to them from time to time during the year, for which courtesy we owe to them a vote of thanks.

The Society's Loss.

Since our last meeting we have suffered a great loss through the death of Frank A. Friedley, of Cleveland, O. Mr. Friedley was a leader in all the trade activities of Cleveland and was in charge of a great deal of the work at the shows held at the time of our meetings there. He was also vice-president of the Chrysanthemum Society of America in 1914-15.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

At the meeting of the Chrysanthemum Society of America in New York, November 5, Treasurer J. N. May submitted a detailed report of the receipts and expenditures of the society during the year. A summary of his report follows:

COMMITTEE ON EDUCATION.

Promulgates Policy.

The Canadian Horticultural Association, under the leadership of President E. B. Hamilton and a group of live wires associated with him, is certainly out to make history this year. As in other similar organizations, commercial reconstruction is claiming attention, and ideas for aggressive work in this connection, hitherto unthought-of, are continually being unearthed. Statistics, registration, publicity, educational and experimental work is allotted to separate small committees, each doing important and useful work. Further notice will be given these later; for the present a few notes on the educational work are given.

For some time in Canada it has been obvious to leading horticulturists that there is a great need for some definite steps towards providing real facilities for horticultural education. The present college training is so thoroughly agricultural that horticulture is almost a by-product. While this is to some extent a necessity, the time seems to have arrived when the æsthetic as well as the utilitarian should receive a little attention. At the present time the need is intensified on account of the fact that Great Britain, the supply source of many of the best gardeners, seems for a while to be closed, the better type of worker rather emigrating than immigrating. At its last convention the C. H. A. gave some serious thought to the matter, appointing a committee to consider and, if possible, suggest methods for meeting what threatens to become a real problem in the near future. W. W. Gammage, of London, who was the first president of the C. H. A., consented to be chairman. With a fine outlook, realizing the importance of the subject, his inspiring leadership, well supported by an enthusiastic committee, has resulted in solid progress.

Conference Adopts Resolution.

A conference recently held was presided over by Mr. Gammage, among those present being Professor R. P. Thomson, Toronto University; Professor J. W. Crow, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph; H. B. Sifton, M. A., of the Seed branch, Ottawa; F. Carr, F. R. H. S., Oakville, and President E. B. Hamilton, of the C. H. A. Previous to this meeting the chairman had spent some time at Cornell, Illinois and other United States institutions, collecting valuable information as to the methods best calculated to be successful. These he fully detailed in his opening address and emphasized the importance of the subject, appealing for a frank discussion and thorough coöperation. A long afternoon was spent in conference, taken part in by all present, the conclusions reached being embodied in the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted:

Whereas, A well-developed horticulture is recognized as essential to the welfare and prosperity of Canadian home life, and

Whereas, "Horticulture is a definite craft in itself and is not a branch or department of agriculture and consists of the more intensive cultivation of fruits, flowers, vegetables and ornamental plants," and

Whereas, There is a great shortage in Canada of trained horticulturists, and

Whereas, Scientific research in plant physiology, plant pathology and entomology is of vital importance to the future development of horticulture in Canada, and

Whereas, Systematic plant improvement and plant introduction are likewise of fundamental importance to the future of Canadian horticulture,

Therefore be it resolved that this committee recommends the establishment of special facilities for the practical and scientific training of men in horticulture along the lines followed at Kew Gardens, England, the eminent service of whose men is recognized the world over, and further recommends that all horticultural organizations in Canada be requested to appoint special committees to confer with this committee with a view of formulating definite plans in this direction for presentation to the federal and provincial governments.

As a statement of policy this pronouncement is of itself one of the most important formulated in the horticultural history of the Dominion, and whatever the final result may be, the committee must be congratulated on the fine conception manifested. A further conference is being arranged to meet at Toronto at an early date, when representatives of other provincial and national organizations are to be in attendance. Added to this, it is hoped to secure the assistance of boards of trade, chambers of commerce, Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs, and it would not be surprising if direct representation in the legislature were before long an accomplished fact. The committee is, however, under no illusions as to the need for real spade work, and if this spells success the ultimate result is already sure.

MOTT-LY MUSINGS

The community floral float decorated by Fred A. Danker and his aids created a stir as it paraded the principal streets of Albany, N. Y., Thursday, November 6, preceded by a bugler. "We are making strenuous efforts to arouse the apathy of the public and believe this means of publicity, to which all in the trade have contributed, will help stir up business," observes W. C. Gloeckner.

* * * *

Schenectady and Troy, N. Y., have asked for the loan of the Albany float. Henry Eberhardt, of the Rosendale Flower Shop, will have charge of it in the Electric City. John Sambrook will be master of ceremonies in Troy.

* * * *

Geo. Sambrook has been elected councilman for Watervliet, N. Y., the home of Sambrook Bros., also the location of their greenhouses.

* * * *

The Rosendale Flower Shop, of Schenectady, N. Y., staged an appropriate window at Halloween and received many favorable comments. "It is publicity," observed Manager Henry Eberhardt, "and in consequence, several of our patrons have already committed themselves for Thanksgiving, which is likely to be in line with present satisfactory business."

* * * *

Julius Eger, of Schenectady, N. Y., is giving much space to bulbs and reports good sales, since a frost has stimulated orders for planting.

* * * *

The Empire Seed Co. and the Schenectady Seed Co., at Schenectady, N. Y., both express satisfaction with the season's business, which was normal, settling down to pre-war conditions.

The flower shops of Schenectady, N. Y., advertised a "Say It with Flowers" week, November 3 to 8, with an invitation to visit the several establishments.

* * * *

E. V. B. Felthousen, Schenectady, N. Y., reports the best prices for early chrysanthemums this season, owing to the fact that many growers' plants in this section have been suffering from mildew. The continuously damp fall weather affected many of the early varieties. His mums, however, happened to escape.

* * * *

The Chatham Floral Co., Chatham, N. Y., specializes in carnations. Stock is in fine shape and the demand satisfactory, with prices holding up well.

* * * *

The J. W. Adams Co., Westfield, Mass., is winding up the planting season with some good sales. The demand for choice nursery stock is satisfactory.

* * * *

F. I. Drake, of Pittsfield, Mass., commented upon the necessity of carrying a variety of stock to accommodate various tastes, when a funeral wreath, composed of magnolia leaves and a bunch of Tritoma Pfitzeri, was much admired. Carnation Matchless is well grown. Non-arrival of a boiler is causing some anxiety. Transportation is exceedingly slow.

* * * *

W. W. Hannell, of Watervliet, N. Y., is growing the usual stock of heather, cyclamens, Begonia Glory of Cincinnati and poinsettias for holiday trade, and predicts a good plant season. Roses for Easter will be on the short side, judging from inquiries for stock, especially baby ramblers.

FEW FALL TRADE SHOWS

TARRYTOWN'S ANNUAL SHOW.

Chiefly from Private Estates.

The twenty-first annual exhibition of the Tarrytown Horticultural Society was held in Music hall, Tarrytown, N. Y., November 5 to 7. Notwithstanding the unfavorable conditions, owing to the coal situation, of the last year or more, the hall was well filled with choice plants and flowers equal in quality to any previous exhibition held by this society. The chrysanthemum blooms were gorgeous and equal to those exhibited at any exhibition in the vicinity of New York city.

Practically all of the exhibits were from private estates. Among the prize-winners were George Wittlinger, gardener for John D. Rockefeller; Charles R. Russell, gardener for Finley J. Shepard; John Mair, for H. M. Sidenberg; Andrew Strachan, for William B. Thompson; Alex Thompson, for E. S. Bayer; William Jamieson, for E. Berolzheimer; John W. Dowlan, for S. M. Lehman; J. W. Smith, for Mrs. F. E. Lewis; George McIntosh, for Dr. C. C. Brace; Chas. G. Wood, for Mrs. Stanley McCormick; James Linane, for Mrs. F. H. Allen; Alfred Townsend, for Stanley G. Mortimer; John Woodcock, for J. I. D. Bristol; Frank Barcino, for J. E. McKinney; Robert Williamson, for Mrs. A. A. Anderson; T. J. Morris, for D. G. Reid; J. Tansy, for H. M. Tilford; William Graham, for Mrs. E. C. Converse; William Smith, for Robert Mallory; William Wile, for C. Whitman; John Holgerson, for W. H. Brown, and Thomas Ryan, for John I. Downley.

Special Awards.

The largest chrysanthemum bloom in the exhibition was Louisa Pockett, exhibited by Alexander Thompson, gardener for E. S. Bayer.

A certificate of merit was awarded F. R. Pierson for a vase of Premier roses. He was also awarded a cultural certificate for his entire exhibit, which consisted of Columbia and Francis Scott Key roses and ferns.

Joseph Manda, of West Orange, N. J., received honorable mention for an exhibit of Cypripedium Insigne Sanderæ.

Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., received honorable mention on an exhibit of pompon chrysanthemums.

Cultural certificates were awarded Mrs. E. C. Converse for specimen ferns, for vase of single chrysanthemums and vase of seedling chrysanthemums, and honorable mention for vase of bouvardia. A. L. Gifford received honorable mention for exhibit of chrysanthemums in tubs and vase of cut blooms; Mrs. H. Ollesheimer for exhibit of double-flowering cosmos, and Mrs. Stanley McCormick for exhibit of vegetable marrow and for exhibit of Squash Cocozelle de Napoli. Finley J. Shepard exhibited a beautiful specimen of Dracæna Victoria and was awarded a special prize on the plant.

The judges the first day were Alexander McKenzie, of Oyster Bay; Thomas Proctor, of Oyster Bay, and Robert Angus, of Rye; the second day, P. W. Popp, of Mamaroneck; Arthur Griffin, of Yonkers, and Thomas Wilson, of Tarrytown.

MUM SOCIETY'S SHOW.

Draws Few Commercial Growers.

The annual exhibition of the Chrysanthemum Society of America was held in connection with the eighty-eighth annual show of the American Institute, in the Engineering Societies building, 33 West Thirty-ninth street, New York, November 5 to 7.

While at previous shows the exhibits have been larger in number, seldom has the quality of the exhibits approached that noted at this show. It was noticed with regret that commercial exhibitors had, with two exceptions, held aloof from the exhibition. The exhibits from private establishments were numerous and competition in some of the classes rather keen. In a class for twenty-four blooms, one variety, with long stems, Thomas Proctor, gardener to W. R. Coe, Oyster Bay, N. Y., carried off first honors with some wonderful blooms of the variety Wm. Turner; it is doubtful whether blooms of this variety have ever before been seen at such perfection.

Johnson Takes Silver Cup.

There was little to be seen in the way of novelties, at least as far as chrysanthemums were concerned. C. W. Johnson, superintendent for the Mount Greenwood Cemetery Association, Chicago, won the society's silver cup for the best seedling chrysanthemum not disseminated, with six blooms of Mrs. C. W. Johnson, a loosely incurved white variety, the result of a cross between Nerissa and Silver King. The blooms had traveled from Chicago, but were seen in excellent condition.

Totty Competes.

The C. H. Totty Co., Madison, N. J., was the only commercial exhibitor in the competitive classes and won first for six blooms of Chrysanthemum Delight, for twenty-four blooms of one variety on long stems, for ten blooms of any crimson, for six blooms of any white, for six blooms of any pink, with Pink Turner, and for a vase of anemone-flowered varieties, and second for vase of single varieties. The company also took a first in the rose class calling for twenty-five pink blooms, with Premier, and firsts in the carnation classes for best six varieties, twenty-five blooms of each; best three varieties, twenty-five blooms of each, and best vase of one variety, twenty-five blooms. Outside of the competitive classes, the company staged splendid vases of the new roses, Frank W. Dunlop, Mme. Butterfly and Golden Ophelia, and two fine groups of single and pompon chrysanthemums.

A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., staged, not for competition, two fine groups of single and pompon chrysanthemums, and vases of grand specimen blooms of the new roses, Pilgrim and Crusader.

One trained chrysanthemum plant and three or four standard plants were all in the exhibition to remind one of the fine showing made with such plants a few years ago.

The exhibition was free to the public and was well attended. J. H. Pepper.

NASSAU COUNTY EXHIBITION.

Surpassed Previous Shows.

The fifteenth annual chrysanthemum show of the Nassau County Horticultural Society was staged in Pembroke hall, Glen Cove, N. Y., October 30 and 31. The show was the finest which the society has ever sponsored. Chief interest centered in the chrysanthemum classes, although the schedule provided for displays in vegetables, roses, fruit, decorative work, plants and carnations.

Chief winners in the chrysanthemum classes were Percy Chubb, Herbert L. Pratt, Mrs. Payne Whitney, William R. Coe, Walter Jennings, Mrs. Arthur Gibb, Charles F. Cartledge, John T. Pratt and Harold I. Pratt. The silver cup offered by Mrs. Frederic B. Pratt for the best collection of fifty varieties of hardy chrysanthemums was won by John T. Pratt, who becomes permanent owner, having won the cup for three years.

Exhibits which attracted notable attention were the five bush chrysanthemums shown by Robert Marshall, of Glen Cove, but not entered in competition. The judges, however, gave them the award of merit and in addition gave to the big anemone bush chrysanthemum, Emma, the gold medal offered by the National Association of Gardeners for the most meritorious exhibit in the show.

Totty's Rose Wins Award.

Another award of merit given was that to Rose Frank W. Dunlop, shown by Charles H. Totty, of Madison, N. J.

In the rose classes, Mrs. Charles E. F. McCann, Mrs. Herbert L. Pratt and Henry C. Phipps were the principal winners; in the carnation classes, Mrs. Payne Whitney, Percy Chubb and William R. Coe.

The judges for the show were Howard Nichols, Yonkers, N. Y.; Peter Duff, Orange, N. J.; John McQueen, Bernardsville, N. J.; Ernest Robinson, Westbury; John F. Johnston, Glen Cove, and William Carter, Brookville.

SIGHT-SEEING

HOOSIERS VISIT RICHMOND.

Indiana Florists See Roses.

As usual, the Richmond meeting of the Indiana State Florists' Association, November 3, was one of the largest and most enjoyable of the year. Sixty members were present. The florists arrived early and had the entire day in which to revel in the floral accomplishments and liberal hospitality of the hosts.

The E. G. Hill Co. was the first stopping place. Here the new rose, Madame Butterfly, was seen in all its glory. This new rose is a sport of Ophelia and has all of the good qualities of the latter and, added to these, a more decided color. The new rose is pink, of a quite pleasing shade. At this range Premier and Columbia were also seen in fine shape. The roses are spoken of first because one never thinks of Richmond without also thinking of roses, they are so closely associated. But chrysanthemums were also there in great number. The large exhibition blooms had been mostly cut out, as they were unusually early. There were, however, a great many wonderful pompons and some large blooms of later varieties, such as Chadwick, Eaton and Improved Eaton. There were a few seedlings, but not so many as usual.

At Joseph Hill's.

Leaving here, the party next visited the Joseph H. Hill Co., just across the street. Propagating roses is the chief work here. The benches of Columbia were a mass of bloom, a regular show garden, as these have been left standing for wood. There were numerous benches of cuttings in the sand, including Columbia, Premier and Madame Butterfly.

Pompon chrysanthemums in various standard varieties were just coming into bloom here, a week or ten days earlier than at other places in the state. The blooms were fine. Another interesting feature here was a red sport of Columbia, the bloom somewhat resembling Hadley. Just one plant of this, however, was all they had.

The former Knopf range, now owned and run by Joseph Hill, was another place of interest. This would hardly be recognized as the same place. Many modern improvements have been made, including a vacuum heating system. These houses were filled mostly with chrysanthemums and carnations. Pompons and some elegant William Turner were especially prominent.

After Luncheon the Retailers.

Along six miles of paved road, the visitors were next motored to Centerville, where a wonderfully appetizing chicken dinner awaited them. Needless to say, justice was done this meal and all ate ravenously in spite of the fact that they had partaken plentifully of roast beef sandwiches and dry beer at the establishment of the Joseph H. Hill Co.

The George Gause retail establishment was next visited. Here there was a collection of plants, carnations and chrysanthemums in assortment to please the retail trade.

The salient feature at the range of Fred H. Lemon & Co. was his white rose, a seedling of Ophelia. This bids fair to become a splendid commercial variety.

Richmond boasts two good flower shops, the Wayne Flower Shop, owned by C. C. Clark, formerly of Muncie, and the shop of Fred H. Lemon & Co. Choice stock was displayed in both stores.

Business Meeting.

The flower show, so near at hand, was, of course, the most important subject of the meeting. After routine business had been attended to, the various committees made their reports on the progress of the show. Things were going splendidly. The financial committee gave a favorable report, giving assurance of great success in that line.

There was a question raised about exhibiting blooms of large type where artificial supports were necessary. A general discussion followed and it was decided to abide by the rules of the national societies in regard to the various exhibits of this show.

After an absence of several meetings, President Rasmussen again presided and invited the association to New Albany for the December meeting. The invitation was heartily accepted.

A committee of five was appointed to solicit the members of the state association to become members of the S. A. F., so that Indiana may have representation on the board of directors. For the president of the Indiana State Florists' Association to become a member of the board of directors of the S. A. F. it is necessary for the association to have seventy-five members in the S. A. F.; Indiana had fifty-two. There is no doubt, however, that the drive will be a success, and this state represented. A. F. J. Baur, Joseph Hill, John A. Evans, Fred H. Lemon and Albin Schreiber were appointed on this committee. Eleven new names were proposed for membership: J. S. Tweedie, of Richmond; Wm. Fox, of the Smith & Young Co., Indianapolis; Charles Bender, of Bertermann Bros. Co., Indianapolis; John Rasmussen, New Albany; P. J. Foley, Jr., Chicago, as associate member; Edwin Nelson, Indianapolis; E. A. Neuman, Richmond; Claude C. Clark, Richmond; Otto Krecey, of the Indianapolis Flower & Plant Co., Indianapolis; E. C. Ruch, Richmond, and Guy M. Reburn, Chicago.

At the close of the meeting a vote of thanks was extended to the Hills, the Lemons and the other Richmond florists for their courteous hospitality and also for their efforts to further the Indiana State Florists' Association flower show.

OPEN LETTERS from READERS

BUFFALO MAKING IT PLAIN.

I read with much interest your article regarding the F. T. D., "Making It Plain to the Public." I have been of this opinion ever since the slogan was adopted. In our advertisements appeared these few letters and, as you say, it meant nothing to the public.

When the prize was offered to Buffalo florists for the best F. T. D. window I felt that this was a chance to explain the true meaning of the letters. The window received third prize. It was so simple that it looked as though we got something easy. But it was just what the society wanted; that is, something to educate the public. Henry Penn, who was one of the judges, thought so much of the idea that he bought the exhibit for his own window. I copied the main idea from the United States Rubber Co., as it impressed me last summer when I was on my way down to Cooperstown for a vacation of golf.

Robert Scott.

HAS A BLOOMING MONSTERA.

In The Review for October 30 it was asked who had a blooming monstera or philodendron in bloom. I have two plants that are 8 years old. They had four blooms on each last year and now have three blooms on one and two on the other. These plants are planted in the bench and not in tubs, as M. Froehlich's are in Chicago, which accounts for their doing so well. Soren Olson, gardener of the cemetery greenhouses here in Racine, Wis., says the core of the bloom is the finest kind of eating, tasting much as pineapple does. The core must be left on the vine until ripe before it is eaten. L. F. Mohr.

MORE GOVERNMENT SERVICE

The United States government, I am told, sends a large force of men each year about this time into the pine forests to gather ladybugs in their dormant state and they get them by the bushel. The bugs are kept in cold storage until spring and then sent out to any or all fruit growers who apply for them.

Now, why could not we florists get the benefit of this free distribution? The ladybugs would be of untold benefit as destroyers of aphis and mealy bugs. They could work for us in the winter and be turned out in the spring to assist the fruit growers. The mortality among the bugs would be less if liberated in a greenhouse. H. C. Bateham.

LET THE SLOGAN SPEAK.

I do not believe the florists could have selected a better slogan than "Say It with Flowers." It is so expressive, suggestive and snappy. I doubt whether we are making as much use of it as we might.

I must condemn the covering of mailing matter with a catalogue of bargains or with business cards so conspicuous as to make the address obscure, a practice which has caused restrictive measures by the post-office department. It is poor business, poor taste and poor art. I believe that every piece practicable should have our slogan put on it artistically, not with a rubber stamp, but with a pretty sticker or a printed design. The regulation rosebud design is, in my opinion, neither plain nor pretty.

Our national publicity committee should take heed from some of our best advertisers, who recognize conspicuous brevity. Note our modern magazines and their best advertisements.

For instance, give us a page or even a half-page in our best magazines, showing Old Glory or a conspicuous flower design in colors, with "Say It with Flowers" so bold—and pretty—that a blind man could not pass it. Then do not spoil it with a tiresome message which attempts to translate it. It does not need translation any more than a box of flowers needs interpretation. To add anything to "Say It with Flowers" is to slobber over it. It contains a whole volume. The average American reader will catch it instantly, admire it and think about it. That is advertising.

We should make our slogan a household word, like "Bon Ami," "Kodak," etc. If we push it, it will be "eventually; why not now?" S. C. T.

E. G. Hill and Seedling No. 3 of the Miller Floral Co.

HILL ON FARMINGTON ROSES.

The visit of E. G. Hill, of Richmond, Ind., at the establishment of the Miller Floral Co., at Farmington, Utah, reported in the October 30 issue of The Review, was recorded in the Salt Lake Tribune to the extent of nearly two columns. The object of Mr. Hill's visit was to see the roses at Farmington.

The Miller Floral Co. has four roses of its raising. Two are sports from Shawyer, one white and one a deep pink, almost red. Two are seedlings, No. 1 a cross between Ophelia and Shawyer, light pink in color, and No. 3 a cross between Hoosier Beauty and Shawyer, deep pink, which is shown in the illustration on this page.

"Seedling No. 3," the Tribune quotes Mr. Hill, "has qualities of a good forcing rose. It compares favorably with my rose, Columbia. I like it better than Seedling No. 1 because of its shade. No. 1 has a bluish tinge which does not prove popular with the women, although it has a rare perfume."

According to the Tribune, Mrs. Hill, who accompanied her husband on his trip west, said she tried to persuade him to stay in California for the winter. "He would not stay away from his roses for a whole winter," she said. "He guards them with all the love and care of a mother for her babies. When he first started his work with flowers, our children were inclined to laugh at him, because he was forever nursing a baby rose plant in the house. They have lived to be proud of him, however, and to share in the profits of his work."

Robert Miller, who is general manager of the Miller Floral Co., has had much success with roses at Farmington. He said: "Ten years ago, when I first started growing roses in Utah, florists scoffed at me. They said it could not be done, but we find that Utah soil is especially favorable to rose cultivation and the climate does not interfere in any way. We find it just a little bit difficult to attain the perfection we would like in the matter of stems. I think the altitude makes it prohibitive to produce as long stems as are grown in other localities."

Elijah Gregory is in charge of the seedlings at the company's greenhouses. He expects to visit Mr. Hill's establishment at Richmond, Ind., in February.

Robert Miller will go east in a few weeks in order to obtain a number of new palms to be used in decorations of the retail shop at 10 East Broadway, Salt Lake City. A new system of decorations is planned under the direction of E. R. Richmond, of Chicago, who has recently joined the Miller company force.

The new roses have been on display at the Salt Lake City store and an invitation has been extended to visitors to the shop to suggest suitable names for the four new roses.

INCORPORATIONS SET RECORD.

Florists who watch commercial straws to see how the business wind blows will find interest in the statement that 1,067 new enterprises were organized under the laws of the principal states last month, with an authorized capital of $100,000 or over, representing in the aggregate the sum of $2,363,635,200, breaking all previous records. This shows an increase over October a year ago of 1,660 per cent. The only figures that approximate this remarkable showing are those of September, when 972 enterprises were chartered, involving $1,946,954,500. They afford concrete evidence of the hopeful sentiment in banking and business circles regarding the outlook. Since January 1 aggregate incorporations have involved the enormous sum of $10,258,237,100. This total compares with $2,338,722,600 in the first nine months of 1918, an increase of 338 per cent.

DULUTH, MINN.

The Market.

Business has been unusually slow during the last week, owing to the wintry weather, snow falling most of the week. Stock of all kinds is plentiful. Chrysanthemums, in pink, white and yellow, and pompons are in abundance. Roses are plentiful in all grades and quite good. Single and double violets are much better. There is a great demand for poppies for Armistice day and a good business could be done if stock were obtainable. Maybe another year the growers will keep this in mind and try to get a crop of poppies in for this day. Carnations are in plentiful supply.

Various Notes.

David C. Boyle, of the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago, was a visitor last week.

Walter Japp expects to take a trip to Minneapolis to attend the convention of the American Legion next week.

J. E. S.

PERSONAL GLIMPSES

F. T. D. CELEBRITIES.

William F. Gude.

In the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association, as well as in the parent society, the name of William F. Gude is truly synonymous with service. That there are many other faithful workers within the fold goes without saying, but the Croix de Guerre for service sits with a peculiar appropriateness upon the ample bosom of the retiring president. Such men are substantially an inspiration to their fellow-workers. Unselfish in their efforts, indefatigable in their labors and unthinking of personal emoluments, their work is done for the common good, the pleasure derived from its performance being the reward. It might be aptly said of the distinguished Washington member that he represents an ideal upon which the proper future of his profession is balanced. The results accomplished by him during the trying period of the great war serves as a vindication of his inherent belief in the efficacy of concerted action, and he will be remembered in the annals of the organized trade as one of its chief apostles. Big-hearted and wholesome, generous and kind, the profession urgently needs more men of the goodly mintage of William F. Gude, and although there are many who lament the passing of the majestic mustache, like Abou Ben Adhem's, "May his tribe increase."

Philip Breitmeyer.

"By their works ye shall know them." This dictum being unalterably true, we cannot fail to value the sterling qualities of the president-elect of the F. T. D., Philip Breitmeyer. The genial Phil is well known as a booster and as a man of marked constructive ability. His long experience in the councils of the trade and in civic affairs eminently fits him for administrative office. And if he were not entitled to the honor conferred upon him at the Buffalo meeting, devotion would be without requital and loyalty without recognition. In all organizations and upon some committees, while it is alleged atoningly that "the heart is in the right place," it is undeniable that the willing workers are but few. Believing the F. T. D. an exception to that general rule, we are not forgetful that a handful of its members are preëminent in point of enthusiasm, service and conviction. And prominent in that group is our esteemed ex-mayor of Detroit. As we have no means of judging the future but by the past, we predict marked prosperity for the F. T. D. under his guiding hand. More power to him.

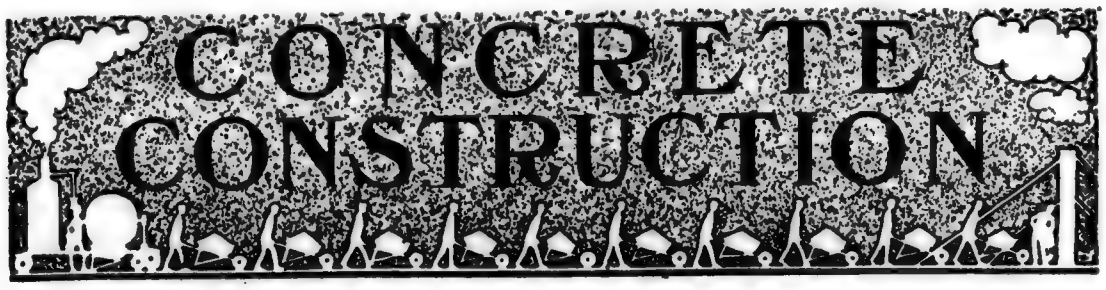
Albert Pochelon.

It is doubtful if from the entire roster of retail florists a man better fitted for the office of secretary of the F. T. D. than the present incumbent could be selected. In fact, we know there could not; the right man is in the right place. It is always particularly interesting to the writer to hear "Push" effervesce upon his favorite subject, the F. T. D. He appears inspired at such times, impressing one that his whole being is immersed in his work. His enthusiasm is contagious; his earnestness, catching; his wit and humor, both pointed and pleasing; his arguments, unanswerable. Perhaps he embodies the most potent single F. T. D. influence of the day. He wages relentless warfare upon the enemies of his organization by proving to them the folly of their position and inducing them to come into the fold. His gospel is a greater and more efficient F. T. D. service and as his term of office lengthens his efforts become the more untiring. A valuable asset, indeed, to the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association is Secretary Albert Pochelon.

William L. Rock.

"Do you know" William L. Rock, of Kansas City, Mo.? He is the faithful guardian of the F. T. D. exchequer and, incidentally, a quite successful florist. He is a man who has made good by dint of intelligent application and persevering effort. One peculiar thing about the F. T. D. is that it is strikingly a body of successful business men, and the formula for getting into good society is to become a member. It is said that the florist can readily be identified by the manner in which he wears his clothes. That may be true of the wholesalers and growers, but a visit to an F. T. D. meeting will readily prove to the most casual observer that it does not apply to the members of the retail section of the trade. Admitting that florists of a generation or more ago were not Beau Brummels, we wish to point out that a representative F. T. D. meeting is composed of men as clean-cut and able as will be found in any other field of human endeavor. Which might be interpreted as proof that the business of the florist has been slowly but surely elevated to its proper place among the professions. Better organization and superior business methods have evolved a higher type of florists, and the end is not yet. Mix with the active membership of the F. T. D. and become convinced of this, and do not fail to form the acquaintance of that live wire from Kansas City, William L. Rock.

Irwin Bertermann.



The name of Irwin Bertermann is inseparably linked with the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association. He was present at its birth, watched over it during its infancy and is still one of its active and stanch supporters. The sailing was not so smooth in the early days of its existence and much gratitude is owing the faithful few that steered the little bark through the shoals of adversity and into the haven of assured success. In business organizations there is much work to be done and willing workers must be found to effectively perform it. Somebody has said, "If you want to get anything done, go to a busy man; nobody else has the time." While paradoxical, that statement contains an element of practical truth. The busy man has learned the secret of achievement. Be it service upon the directorate or in committee, Irwin Bertermann has abundantly rendered his portion. In after times students of the early history of the F. T. D. will read with pleasure of his invaluable services.

CONCRETE BENCHES.

Have Superiority of Permanence.

For many purposes in the line of building, concrete is fast replacing wood and, to a greater or less extent, brick. Concrete, with its qualities of economy and permanence, offers advantages not found in either wood or brick. Not a great while ago many builders of greenhouses adopted the plan of using concrete for the side walls of their greenhouses and with a considerable measure of success. The practice is gaining in popularity.

Within the last few years growers in various sections of the country have turned to concrete for the construction of their benches. The increasing cost of wood and the advance in labor cost have caused those with a keen sense toward the financial end of their business to seek means of lowering expenses and up-keep costs wherever possible.

Experience has shown that wood decays in time and repairing and continual patching add to the expense of up-keep. Not many months pass after the building of a wooden bench when it becomes in a measure unsightly.

Not so with concrete. Benches of this material, reinforced with steel and constructed after a given plan, prove to be a paying investment rather than an expense. Correctly built, concrete benches last for several lifetimes, they always look neat and clean and repairing is never necessary.

Cost Not Excessive.

To those who have not investigated, it may seem surprising to learn that it is possible to build benches of concrete for a sum not greatly exceeding that involved in the construction of wood benches. At this time there are several concerns in existence that construct benches under contract. In many cases the employment of such an agency proves costly, especially if the grower is unfortunate enough to be situated any great distance from such concern. Some growers are able with some success to build molds for receiving the concrete, thus building, after their own ideas, benches that answer the purpose.

Recently—that is, within the last two years—there has been placed at the disposal of growers by specialists in the construction of concrete greenhouse benches a complete set of working plans, along with the molds, that make it possible to build benches easily and inexpensively.

Molded by Furnished Plans.

The system brings into use various adjustable molds for making concrete slabs used for the bottom of the bench, side slabs, beams, legs and ends. At odd moments the grower may mold the various units that go to make a complete bench; then at the time desired the parts may be assembled, somewhat in the manner of the construction of a bench made of wood. This method permits the making of serviceable, neat-appearing benches at a minimum cost. Provision is made for drainage by parallel slots of a tapering shape, wider at the bottom than at the top, thus providing a non-cloggable drainage.

Stock does as well on concrete benches as it does on wood, provided the benches are properly constructed. It is reported by many who have used concrete benches for a considerable period that they have had better growing results than if the ordinary wooden bench had been used.

The present wide use of concrete benches is an indication pointing toward elimination of the wooden bench in the future.

REMEDY FOR CYCLAMEN MITES.

Can you give us any reliable formula for the extermination of cyclamen mites? Last season we discovered that we had them in generous proportions, so threw out all our plants and sterilized the bench in which they were located with live steam, hoping thereby to get rid of them, but find that they are showing up now on our new crop.

We have sprayed with Nico-fume weekly in the regular way, which does not seem to be effective. We have used eight to ten teaspoonfuls of Nico-fume to three gallons of water. Either we have not used the proper proportions, or Nico-fume does not fill the bill.

If you know of anything that will successfully exterminate this pest, we shall be glad to have it. R. & S.

The time to use nicotine sprayings is when the sun shines brightly. Then the tiny pests crawl out from their hiding places in the flowers. The liquid should be well sprayed into the centers of the plants.

Sprinkling the benches with fresh tobacco stems from time to time seems to act as a preventive.

Weak fumigation with hydrocyanic acid gas has helped to exterminate the pest. This cannot be used with safety, however, during the warm weather.

CLUB MEETING

NEW YORK FLORISTS' CLUB.

Leases New Quarters.

The monthly meeting of the New York Florists' Club was held Monday evening, November 10, in the proposed new quarters for the club in the Engineering Societies' building, 25 West Thirty-ninth street, with an attendance of about 150. As final arrangements in regard to the quarters were to be made that evening, the members, prior to the opening of the business session, inspected the two rooms covered in the proposition, in readiness for the vote to be taken on them.

A. M. Henshaw, chairman of the committee on quarters, opened a discussion looking to immediate action concerning the leasing of whichever room the club might decide upon. Finally a standing vote was taken on a motion made by Joseph A. Manda, that the large room be leased, and the same being in the affirmative the matter was turned over to the trustees. While it was thought that the room was a little large for ordinary purposes, the feeling was that the attendance at future meetings must be made to conform to the size of the room.

Miscellaneous Matters.

Wm. H. Siebrecht, Jr., counsel in the matter of securing the necessary change in the club's charter to make leasing possible, reported progress, and that action from the Supreme court might be expected in a few days.

Manager Arthur Herrington, for the flower show committee, reported progress. In the same connection Secretary Young reported that over $15,000 worth of trade space in the spring show had already been sold, and this alone should be an important factor in the success of the show. He also reported that there had been a well attended meeting of the committee that day, at which preparations for the show were found to be in good shape. The final schedule of premiums, which has been held up by the printers' strike, might have to be printed out of town, he said, but it will be issued shortly.

John H. Bockman, Philadelphia, was elected to membership in the club, and the following were nominated for election at the next meeting: S. H. Skidell, 50 Park place, New York; F. B. Bourne, 426 Madison avenue, New York; Henry C. Holpp, 423 Park avenue, New York; Fred Von Lum, 504 Tenth avenue, New York; Alphonse Rigo, 810 Madison avenue, New York; Michael Durso, Springfield, N. J.; Jos. Heiman, 272 Main street, Orange, N. J., and Richard T. Broderick, Yonkers, N. Y.

Secretary Young opened a discussion on the advisability of inaugurating a "Say It with Flowers" week in New York. W. A. Phillips, Brooklyn, chairman of a committee having in charge the preparations for such a week, November 16 to 22, described the arrangements made by the Brooklyn florists to feature the slogan during that period. It was not thought advisable to take similar action in New York at the present time, but, on motion of A. M. Henshaw, it was decided to arrange for a display to be held concurrently with flower show week, March 15 to 21. Later in the evening the club, on motion of Wallace R. Pierson, voted to recommend the appropriation of $100 toward the expenses of the Brooklyn florists in connection with their celebration.

Speakers from the Federal Reserve Bank were present to address the meeting in behalf of the thrift citizens' movement. Mr. France, for the bank, explained the objects of the movement, and the club adopted a resolution which he presented, putting the club on record as approving of the movement and pledging its support. Some few treasury savings certificates were taken up by members individually.

The awards committee reported a recent visit of the committee to the establishment of C. H. Totty Co., Madison, N. J., to examine the new rose, F. W. Dunlop, under growing conditions. The committee recommended that a final certificate be given the rose, the score reaching eighty-eight points.

Resolutions of sympathy on the deaths of J. B. Deamud and August Jahn were read and adopted, and copies ordered to be sent to the deceaseds' relatives. Secretary Young reported that Alfred T. Bunyard had recently, through death, lost his father, Alfred Zeller a brother, and Oscar Hauschild a brother, whereupon a motion was made directing President Kessler to appoint committees to prepare resolutions of sympathy with these members in their bereavements.

The secretary read a letter he had received from Patrick O'Mara announcing that he was on the road to recovery from his recent illness, and extending greetings to the club.

Candidates for Election.

The committee on nominations reported the following as candidates for office for the ensuing year, to be voted upon at the next meeting: For president, Philip F. Kessler, I. S. Hendrickson, Archibald M. Henshaw; for vice-president, John G. Esler and Roman J. Irwin; for secretary, John Young and E. C. Vick; for treasurer, Wm. C. Rickards, Jr., and William Kather; for trustees, Alfred T. Bunyard, Emil Schloss, Thos. Boothe DeForest and Max Schling.

Secretary Young opened a discussion on coöperative publicity, and told of what the florists of Buffalo and other cities were doing. Wallace R. Pierson described the publicity arrangements made by the florists of Hartford, whereby $2,400 a year was being expended for local publicity. While no action resulted from the discussion, it is likely that the matter will again come up at a subsequent meeting.

The secretary called attention to the billboards which the publicity campaign committees are putting out, explaining the construction and design, and asked that any member having a suitable site for a sign get in touch with him.

A. N. Pierson, Inc., made a splendid display of chrysanthemums and roses, on which the committee on awards made the following report: Rose Pilgrim, 86 points, preliminary certificate recommended; Rose Crusader, 86 points, preliminary certificate recommended; Chrysanthemum Golden Barbara Davis, 88 points, preliminary certificate; collection of singles and pompons, highly commended. J. H. P.

LONDON, ONT.

The Market.

Cooler and more settled weather has brought an impetus to local trade. Chrysanthemums in all the seasonable varieties are now arriving in large quantities. The first Paper Whites made their appearance last week and were of good quality. Sweet peas and violets are beginning to arrive, but not in sufficient quantities to meet the demand. Roses are in fair demand and of good quality.

Starting the Public.

The local florists banded together to start the "Say It with Flowers" week by sending a bouquet to every patient in the hospitals and every inmate of the charitable institutions, numbering 1,500 in all. To each bouquet was tied a card with these words:

"SAY IT WITH FLOWERS."

We want to be sure, and so do you,
That somebody cares the same old way—
So we listen to flowers and tell with flowers
The things we love to hear and say!

With the compliments of the florists of London on their "Say It with Flowers" week, November 3 to November 8, 1919.

The local papers took up the idea in fine shape and a number of good editorials appeared, stating that next year the public should catch the idea of "Say It with Flowers" in such a way as to see that everyone who was ill or shut in should benefit by a box of flowers.

Various Notes.

The West Floral Co. reports a heavy week in funeral work.

J. Gammage & Sons are cutting some fine mums from their greenhouses. Their cyclamens and Christmas plants are showing up well and will be in fine shape for the holiday season.

The Dicks Flower Shop had a number of decorations last week and reports a heavy week in funeral work.

A. Roberts & Sons are cutting a fine lot of mums, which find a heavy demand. F. G. D.

October Summary.

While it was anticipated that October would prove a good business month, it was not expected to compare with October, 1918, when total sales mounted to more than three times the average, yet October, 1919, may be recorded as having gone over the top and broken the month's record.

In no month since the outbreak of the war in 1914 have there been so many weddings, nor has the use of flowers been so general as in the month just past. While the demand for funeral work was not to be compared with that of 1918, yet there has been a constant call for pieces of better quality, so that the total value has not fallen off to any great extent. Added to the everyday run of affairs, there were two or three social functions of a more than ordinary nature, the visit of the Prince of Wales and the Shriners' ball being two of the most outstanding. The decorations for both affairs called for a good deal of work and a considerable quantity of material.

The Dicks Floral Co. had the decoration for the Prince's banquet, which called for a great deal of detail work and which was executed in a manner that commanded praise from all who saw it.

Gammage & Sons had the decorations for the Prince's reception at the armories and also the decoration at the Masonic Temple for the Shriners' ball October 31, the latter calling for large quantities of wild smilax, shocks of corn, sheaves of oats, pumpkins and thousands of yellow pompon chrysanthemums, together with draping of Halloween colors, all forming a most effective and elaborate decoration.

While carnations have been scarce, bringing holiday prices, $7 to $10 per hundred, roses and chrysanthemums have been in oversupply, although wholesale prices remain firm and are at least twenty per cent higher than in the United States.

Advice that azaleas have arrived at Montreal has been received and growers are anxiously awaiting their arrival here. W. W. G.

BALTIMORE.

The Market.

Although that long looked for frost has not yet arrived, the market, while somewhat congested with outdoor stock, has been all that could be desired. Large mums last week cleaned up well. Some of the finer blooms bring $3, $4 and $5 per dozen; there are plenty of medium size to be had at prices ranging from $10 to $15 per hundred. The mum market seems to be a good indication of what we may expect in the flower market this winter. The public is willing to pay $8 and $10 per dozen for really fine flowers and of course they are paying in proportion for the smaller blooms.

Roses, while not by any means plentiful, are sufficient for all requirements, and I do not think there were ever finer grades on this market. Carnations are fast coming into their own, as far as quality is concerned, but the demand for them will not be what it should while mums last. If what is seen this early in the season is a harbinger of what the later crop is to be, there should be no complaint about carnations this winter. The advance crop of sweet peas has already made its appearance and, while the quantity is not yet large, the quality is good. Violets are to be had, but, like sweet peas, are not by any means plentiful yet.

Various Notes.

At the funeral of Mrs. Andrew Whitridge, about two weeks ago, I saw as fine a lot of funeral work as it has ever been my good fortune to see. One remarkable thing about this great mass of flowers was that, aside from wreaths, there was not a design among them. A pall made by Samuel Feast & Sons was certainly a fine piece of work; it was composed of a background of smilax, over which was maidenhair fern, with a cross of orchids worked in the center and a border of violets. Mary Johnston had three truck-loads of sprays and wreaths; her sprays of roses were certainly fine, made of Stevenson Bros.' Premier and Columbia roses. Never have I seen finer roses than these boys are now putting on the market. Everyone had a share in the work, for the Whitridges are one of the largest and oldest families in the city.

A verdict was rendered in the Court of Common Pleas recently which will be far-reaching. Benjamin Stoll, a florist of Brooklyn, Anne Arundel county, sued the Davidson Chemical Co., of Curtis Bay, for $100,000 for damages done to his growing crops by fumes from the defendant's factory. The trial was in the nature of a test case. After deliberating until late in the night, the jury brought in a sealed verdict in favor of Mr. Stoll for $100. This established the right of Mr. Stoll's father, the owner of the property, to recover for depreciation in its value. There has been complaint for some time in this section of the damage done to florists' crops by this factory.

Billboard which the National Publicity Committee is now Sending to Florists for Erection on Public Highways.

One of the most compact and up-to-date ranges in this state is that of Jesse P. King, situated on both sides of the Frederick road, at Mount Airy. An addition of three Hitchings & Co. houses and a concrete office building has just been completed. The new houses were built over sweet peas, so that this crop is now well advanced and Mr. King will not have long to wait until these houses are producing. The original houses of this range are producing as fine roses as any in the state. Here will be found Columbia, Hadley, Double White Killarney, Radiance and Ophelia. Three varieties of carnations are grown, Enchantress, White Enchantress and Mrs. Siegwart.

In a recent conversation, George Black told me that he was already preparing for the decorations for the first Bachelors' cotillion, which will be held this year December 1. Only one cotillion was held last year; it had been decided to hold none on account of the war, but after the armistice was signed it was agreed to hold one on Washington's birthday. Mr. Black says they are going to make up for lost time this winter. This will be welcome news to every florist, for the cotillion is one of the best flower occasions of the season. The next event in importance will be that of the Hebrews, the Harmonee Circle, which will be held at the Belvedere Thanksgiving eve. While these are the two most important functions, Mr. Black says there will be many large private entertainments held this winter and this bids fair to be one of the gayest seasons in history.

Philip B. Welsh is sending to the S. S. Pennock Co. fine white and yellow Turner mums. Mr. Welsh has them as large as I have ever seen them. Tate.

DETROIT, MICH.

The Market.

There were no special affairs last week; hence the drop in business was noticeable. The market is well stocked with almost everything in season.

Chrysanthemums are moving nicely, with no oversupply, so that the sale of them is good business, with no cut rate sales. Wm. Turner and Yellow Turner are in great demand and bring the highest price; they are of particularly high quality. Some extra large Major Bonnaffons are to be had, but they are quickly disposed of. A good supply of Chieftain and White Chieftain of fair quality is to be had and, although the supply is heavy, they usually sell. Pompons are in oversupply, with a good amount moving, however. Baby, the tiny yellow, is scarce, also Baby Doll. There is also a tiny pink one, called Pink Tot, that is in great demand.

Roses are plentiful, with the demand light. American Beauties are of good quality, but they are slow to move and hence they stock up, especially the short-stemmed grades. Long-stemmed Hoosier Beauties are also of fine quality, with the demand poor. It is the same with long-stemmed Shawyer, Ophelia, Sunburst and Premier; only a small percent find a buyer and the rest stock up, to be sold in large lots at cheaper prices. The medium grades find conditions better; they are in good supply and most of them are sold each day.

Carnations are in a glut, only a limited amount of the best being sold. Hundreds pile up each day, since the demand is much too slow.

Sweet peas and violets are coming in well, but as yet the demand for both is poor. Calendulas are still in season, with the demand good. Paper Whites are in limited supply and find a good demand. Bouvardia continues to come in, with the demand brisk. There are also English wallflower and calla lilies to be had.

Greens of all kinds are abundant.

Detroit Florists' Club Meets.

The Detroit Florists' Club met at Sidney Beard's greenhouses out on Fort street Tuesday, November 4, where they were elegantly entertained. In connection with the meeting, a steak dinner was served.

The matter of Sunday closing was brought up and favored by many, the wholesaler putting it up to the retailers. It was decided to design a uniform sign for all those who keep their stores closed Sundays.

It was also decided to attend the Temple theater in a body to hear Miss Grace La Rue sing "Say It with Flowers," but it was impossible to get tickets. Several stores had window displays advertising Miss Grace La Rue and the local florists kept her and the entrance of the theater well supplied with fresh flowers.

Mrs. Wm. McGraw addressed the club, thanking the members for cooperation given in school garden work, especially for the prizes given to children.

Harry Smith, of North Woodward avenue, is to present a paper to the club.

A special meeting is to be held at the Hotel Statler November 18, chrysanthemum night, when mums will be on display and several visitors will address the club.

Bowling Club Meets.

The Detroit Florists' Bowling Club met Thursday evening, November 6, with the following scores for the evening:

Bisons.	1st	2nd	3rd	Beauties.	1st	2nd	3rd

The evening's results in games follow:

	Won	Lost
Tigers	3	0
American Beauties	2	1
Bisons	1	2
Indians	0	3

George Doemling had high average, 175, closely followed by M. Bloy with 172. M. Bloy had high game, 198.

The present standing of the teams is as follows:

	Won	Lost
Bisons	10	8
American Beauties	9	9
Indians	9	9
Tigers	8	10

In a match game between E. A. Fetters and George Doemling, Mr. Doemling won by one pin, bowling 172. J. J. Karins, of Henry A. Dreer, Inc., Philadelphia, won the bets.

Various Notes.

Elmer D. Smith, of Adrian, Mich., is cutting some novelties in mums, which are of highest quality. His Baby Doll and Pink Tot pompons are especially sought in this market.

Thomas Browne, of Greenfield, Mich., is cutting quantities of high-grade mums. His Wm. Turner and Yellow Turner are in a class by themselves.

William Hielscher has bought out the Pulk Flower Shop, on East Milwaukee avenue. His business is wire work.

The Marine City Floral Co. is cutting excellent bouvardia in white, pink and coral pink shades. This firm is also shipping in choice Paper Whites, calendulas and mums. H. T.

FLORISTS' REVIEW

Results bring advertising.
The Review brings results.

THIS week's issue of The Review weighs almost six tons.

THE F. T. D. now has 1,245 members, the accessions since October 6 numbering fifty-one.

JOHN COOK, Nestor of American rosarians, will be 86 years of age next Sunday, November 16.

HIGHEST cotton prices for nearly two generations promise a good season for southern florists.

IT looks as though there will be enough giganteum bulbs at the price to meet the needs of the trade.

AFTER effects of the war are noticeable in this year's chrysanthemum shows, where commercial growers are conspicuous by their absence.

IMMORTELLES are arriving from France, 129 cases having come on the steamer Roma, from Marseilles, which reached New York November 5.

SUCCESS of the administration in breaking the coal strike gives hope that labor disorders will be less prominent as a public trouble than they have been lately.

A REFRIGERATING machine capable of handling two big cold rooms for a florist costs no more than a moderately well built delivery car and costs a great deal less to operate.

E. G. HILL and Mrs. Hill have returned to their home at Richmond after a two months' tour of the Pacific coast. Mr. Hill is more than ever confident of America's ability to supply itself horticulturally, but thinks some people make the immediate future rather too rosy.

ALTHOUGH it comes too late for the larger part of the chrysanthemum shipments, the resumption of refrigerator express cars from San Francisco to Chicago will greatly facilitate shipping business from that point. The cars leave Wednesdays and Fridays and travel via Ogden and Omaha.

THE Sunday magazine supplement of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, November 9, carried an article of more than a page on chrysanthemums. In the same edition the St. Louis florists carried a 9-inch advertisement across three columns on "Autumn Time Is Chrysanthemum Time." Double-barreled publicity.

CONSERVE coal; stock grown cool is better than that which is overforced and we all may need the fuel later.

THE season's largest trade show seems to be that of the Indiana State Florists' Association at Indianapolis this week. Private entries compose most of the other exhibitions.

WITH its roster of club members the St. Louis Florists' Club is sending out a leaflet bearing the names of florists who are not members. A good wager would be that the next list will not be so long.

THERE will be a large number of cyclamens on the market for Christmas and later, with a still larger supply in prospect for the season of 1920-21. Although the demand for cyclamen seeds during recent months was greater than the supply, it develops that many growers got hold of unheard of quantities.

THE Federal Horticultural Board will not permit foreign plants, if shipped with unsterilized soil about the roots, to pass across from New York to Canada. Probably in his mind's eye Dr. Marlatt can see a trail of disease and destruction in their wake like the droppings from a gondola of coal.

IT looks as though there will be larger available supplies of green and holly this year, but the prices will continue high in sympathy with other things, with the result that demand will be much less than before the war. Particularly with bouquet green, the demand has been greatly reduced by the ascending prices.

WHILE American dyes have supplanted to a great extent those imported from Germany before the war, those who failed to find florists' supplies colored with domestic dyes as satisfactory as the others will have interest in the receipt of the first shipment of aniline dyes from Germany since the war. It arrived on the Nieuw Amsterdam, from Rotterdam, last week.

AS an indication of the way the French hydrangea is to be used to take the place of azaleas in the United States, it is reported that Henry A. Dreer, Inc., Riverton, N. J., filled one order for two carloads for a single purchaser in a middle western city and that seven other orders to various parts of the country were for a carload each. It is said, also, that the supply was sold out at least three months before shipment could begin.

THANKSGIVING'S OPPORTUNITY.

A holiday that is growing in its income for florists year by year is just two weeks off. It is time to start active work to draw in the orders for that day. There is on this occasion an opportunity to reach that class which does not yield to the trade the proportion of its lately increased wealth—the wage-earning class. This year they will eat turkey, whereas they were forced to do with a roast at best five years ago. Now they have so much to spend on clothes and food that the florist would like to find some means of intensive education to draw them into the flower-buying class.

That means advertising to a list of persons not hitherto reached or approached. The way is not so easy—no roads to the most desired goals are carpeted. But the florists who can find a means of getting into the minds of the factory and mill workers that they should buy flowers will reap a real harvest. Thanksgiving offers an opening for a drive for such trade. At Christmas they will buy jewelry and clothes for gifts—those are what their minds are most set on—but such things do not carry the Thanksgiving idea. Flowers are more suitable. Perhaps someone knows a way to impress this on the minds of these potential customers.

GOVERNMENT BREAKS STRIKE.

Using the big stick of a court injunction, the federal government forced the leaders of the coal miners' organizations to rescind their strike order. Forced into a crucial position by the injunction order obtained by the attorney-general, the officials stated, "We cannot fight our government," and recalled the strike order.

While the strikers are going back to work in some localities, in others they will be slow in resuming their places in the mines. However, the danger of a greatly reduced supply of coal and possibility of famine is lessened by withdrawal of the strike orders and the greenhousemen who have still part of their winter's supply to secure no longer fear the impossibility of getting it.

POPPIES FOR ARMISTICE DAY.

Influenced doubtless by the poetical allusions to Flanders' fields, some persons of little floricultural knowledge voiced suggestions of poppies as suitable flowers for Armistice day. Such misguided enthusiasm works at cross-purposes with the florists' provisions for celebrating the day. The persons who, following a suggestion published without thought, ask their florists for poppies for November 11, are disappointed. Some are content with other blooms; some are not.

In such an instance, the necessity for active work by florists to guide public sentiment in proper channels is strongly evident. Coöperative campaigns by advertising and publicity through news columns would forestall such suggestions by the proposal of suitable flowers, or meet such suggestions by public explanation of their impracticability. The possibilities of coöperative effort by the trade are most evident on occasions such as this.

TELL YOUR NEIGHBOR.

It has been years and years since The Review has found it necessary to make an effort to obtain subscribers. Of course, ordinary business diligence is used in calling the paper to the attention of anyone reported as starting in the business, but usually it is found that the new florist had heard of The Review before The Review had heard of the new florist—his first step in starting in the business was to subscribe for this paper. When a publication is so fortunate as to have thousands of readers recommending it to others to whom it will be useful, the circulation problem solves itself. Like this:

> Permit us to express our appreciation of that wonderful trade paper, probably the best in the world, The Florists' Review.—Hall & Robinson, Montreal, Can., November 4, 1919.

And where readers are so interested and so loyal the advertisers' results are sure. Like this:

> You may discontinue my advertisement of gladiolus bulbs. As a result of the advertisement in The Review I am completely sold out.—Jacob D. Spiegel, Norma, N. J., November 1, 1919.

If you hear a man complain of the cost of advertising you can be pretty certain he spends a good bit of money elsewhere than in The Review.

OBITUARY

Mrs. E. Wienhoeber.

Helena Rincker Wienhoeber died at her residence at Highland Park, Ill., November 5, after a protracted illness.

Mrs. Wienhoeber was the wife of Ernst Wienhoeber, veteran Chicago retail florist, and the mother of George William, Edna Charlotte and William Herman. She married Mr. Wienhoeber July 30, 1876, her home having been at Lexington, Ill. The florists' business in Chicago was started in 1881 and for many years Mrs. Wienhoeber was in close touch with it. The funeral services were held at the chapel at Rose Hill cemetery, Chicago, November 7. There were many flowers to attest the high esteem in which the members of the family are held in the community and several members of the trade were present. Emil Buettner, who was associated with Mr. Wienhoeber in their early days in the florists' business, was one of the pallbearers.

Mary Anna Smith.

Mrs. Mary Anna Smith, of Smith & Son, and mother of Thurston H. V. Smith, Denver, Colo., died November 1 from paralysis as she was sitting at table.

Born April 12, 1841, at Yaxham, Norfolk, England, Mrs. Smith moved to Denver in 1873. She owned one of the finest upland hay ranches on the St. Vrain river, near Greeley, Colo. In 1891 she entered the florists' business, being the silent head of Smith & Son, which since 1896 has been conducted under the name of Thurston H. V. Smith, who will continue the business. Mrs. Smith was a hard worker in the business, with both hand and brain.

She was buried November 4 from the home she had planned and built in 1879, at 2961 Lawrence street. The pallbearers were Emil Glauber, Albert Mauff and Mr. McDonald, all florists, and another friend. Interment was at Riverside cemetery. Many flowers from friends in the trade and others were received.

Surviving Mrs. Smith are her husband, W. H. Smith; her son, Thurston H. V. Smith; a stepdaughter and a granddaughter, Anna May Smith.

George W. Caton.

George W. Caton, of George W. Caton & Son, Zanesville, O., died almost instantly as the result of an accident Tuesday afternoon, October 28. He fell from a wagon, on which he was loading corn fodder, and his back was broken. He was 71 years of age.

Clarence C. Abrams.

Clarence C. Abrams died November 3 at the Passavant hospital, following a week's illness with spinal meningitis, which began with the sleeping sickness. He was familiarly known to the trade as "Cuddy" and had recently become manager of the Victoria Flower Shop, on William Penn way, having been in the employ of the proprietor, A. Krongold, for the last eight years. He was 21 years old at the time of his death. The funeral took place the following Wednesday afternoon, November 5, at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Abrams, of 59 Roberts street.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

The Market.

Little change is noticed in the cut flower market from that of a week ago, when conditions were quoted as being somewhat dull and lacking pep. Cooler weather during the latter part of the week prevailed and is more seasonable. This in some measure stimulated business and gave encouragement to the growers, whose stock is becoming quite plentiful. Much work of great importance remains to be done outside. Owing to the lateness of the bulbs reaching the city, the greater part of the outside planting is still to be done and the labor situation is not at all good, experienced help being extremely hard to find.

The supply of cut flowers continues to be good and meets all demands. Chrysanthemums are in excellent shape and bring fair prices. Beautiful pompons are seen in Minta and white and yellow singles, as well as the small button varieties in all colors; the latter kinds sell exceptionally well. Carnations are quite plentiful and move well. They are improving each week, both in bloom and in stem. Reds are particularly good just now. Sweet peas are seen occasionally and sell well. The supply of violets is large and meets all demands. They, too, are improving in quality. Cypripediums and other orchids are in good supply and are of excellent quality. Gardenias are not so popular. A few gladioli continue to reach the market, but are of poor quality. Almost all outdoor stock is gone, with the exception of some cosmos and sweet alyssum, which are found quite useful.

In roses the supply continues quite good, with seasonable prices. American Beauties are not much in demand, but there is a good demand for Sunburst, Ophelia, Ward, Hoosier Beauty, Columbia, Killarney, White Killarney, Maryland, Kaiserin Augusta, Premier and Cecile Brunner. Excellent winter berries are reaching us and finding a good demand. All greens are plentiful and sell well. Wild smilax is in good demand.

Rose Society Meets.

The Rochester Rose Society held its November meeting on Monday evening, November 3, at the Chamber of Commerce. There was a large attendance of both ladies and gentlemen. The society is growing and already has a membership of 170. The chief speaker was Frederick Wallace, who spoke on the successful growing of hybrid tea roses. He arranged his talk under different heads, such as soil, time of planting, stock, labels, cultivation, proper food, treatment and rose diseases, and then added a list of those roses that he considered most desirable for the amateur.

Various Notes.

Bert Dowden, former shipping clerk for the Rochester Floral Co., has been obliged to give up his position with this firm on account of sickness. He is receiving treatment in a sanitarium on the coast of Maine. The trade extend their best wishes for a complete recovery. Dewey Lester has taken over the position left vacant by Mr. Dowden.

Art Beyers, formerly of Rochester, N. Y., is now with Fleischman's, of New York city.

The park department officials say that the display of chrysanthemums in the Highland park conservatory is now at its best. More than 100 varieties are now in bloom, including some of the latest varieties. There are at least 2,500 plants in the display. Included in this collection are hundreds with one large bloom and a large collection of bush plants. The range and shades of coloring are exceedingly beautiful. Several dozen varieties of mums are also seen downtown in the municipal building, where a show house of small size is built onto the park commissioner's office.

Considerable advertising in the local papers of this city stimulated great interest and proved to be a wonderful success in the carrying out of a beautiful chrysanthemum show November 2 to 8, at the store of George T. Boucher. Large crowds of people have visited the display daily. Oak-covered lattice work and a profusion of beautiful Japanese lanterns practically transformed the ceilings and side walls, while the windows and floors, tables and stands, showed exquisite blooms of the latest and best in both commercial and exhibition varieties. Each vase was named. In conjunction with this display, Arthur M. Newborn showed a beautiful collection of baskets, wreaths, sprays and vases of dried flowers and foliages.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

November 10 was the biggest day this market as a whole has had this season. The conditions were radically different from those of a week before. Outdoor stock at length has disappeared, not only from the Chicago market, but also from the subsidiary markets in the territory of which Chicago is the center. With the arrival of cooler weather, demand has increased materially and the supply of stock has been reduced. The result, of course, has been an improvement in prices which will be most welcome to the growers, many of whom were beginning to be uneasy. There has been a marked increase in the call for flowers for social purposes. Both in this city and in other cities served by the Chicago market, the call for fine stock has been greatly accelerated by coming out parties and other social affairs. The result has been that the best grades of stock have been moving at more nearly their true worth than was the case in October.

The peak of the chrysanthemum season has passed. This is not to say that there is any shortage of chrysanthemums, but the pressure to sell is less and the quality of the stock is better than at any time in the last three weeks. Bonnaffon is the principal variety now seen and it is bringing excellent prices, because yellow is the color most in request. Pompons have been the wholesalers' greatest problem ever since they came into crop. It never has been possible to clean up and the wholesalers have had their choice of selling the accumulation at ridiculous prices or paying the increased fee the garbage man now asks. The condition has been somewhat relieved in the last few days, but it is not yet possible to sell out clean. Some growers say they will be cut out of mums before Thanksgiving, but others have special batches grown for that occasion and the market will be moderately well supplied.

The supply of Beauties is small and there has been an advance of twenty-five per cent in the price of the best grades. List prices of the other roses are unchanged this week, but there is the important difference that it now is possible to clean up at these prices; each day's receipts go out as they come in and there is no accumulation. Columbia is the variety most seen, with Premier, Russell and Ophelia following in the order named.

There is a steady increase in the supply of carnations. They are holding their own in the matter of price, but probably cannot advance until after the deluge of white pompons is past. Paper Whites are something of a problem. They cannot be sold cheaply now that the price of the bulbs is so high, but retailers refuse to regard them as a fancy flower. There is some increase in the supply of sweet peas and these are popular. Violets also have become more salable. Valley is more plentiful, the grower apparently having foreseen the increased demand for fancy flowers at this date. Cattleyas are in erratic supply and demand, prices varying widely from day to day. The small supply of bouvardia moves briskly. Calendulas are not actively in request.

Greens are plentiful.

Club Meeting.

The monthly meeting of the Florists' Club was held at the Hotel Randolph, Thursday evening, November 6. All the officers and trustees were present, with but a fair representation of members.

The following applicants for membership were elected: Tony Then, 218 Winnemac avenue; Fred G. Barry, 850 West Seventy-ninth street; H. C. Wullbrandt, 5515 West Madison street; Antonio Rocca, 55 East Jackson boulevard.

The special committee reported it was unable to get the meeting of the F. T. D. for Chicago in 1920, but that the matter should be taken up again with a view to securing the meeting at some future time. A communication was read from Secretary Young, regarding the club's representation on the board of directors of the S. A. F. and appropriate action was taken.

McCabe, Arnold Ringier, Andrew McAdams and John B. Deamud were read and adopted.

Walter Amling, of the sports committee, was appointed to invite florist bowling teams from the different cities to bowl in Chicago in January, during the meeting of the American Carnation Society.

The new rose, Cornelia, from Robt. Scott & Son, of Sharon Hill, Pa., arrived in too poor condition to be judged. Premier and Milady, from Weiss-Spandikow Co., Maywood, was well grown stock in perfect condition and the club's certificate was recommended. Fine specimens of Columbia roses by Weiss & Meyer Co., Maywood, elicited much praise from the judges, Otto H. Amling, Ernst C. Amling and W. J. Keimel. A meritorious exhibit by Poehlmann Bros. Co., of Christmas novelties, was given high commendation. Honorable mention was recommended for the Wonder Plant Irrigator Co., for self watering hanging baskets which the committee thought had considerable merit. Geo. Asmus, Jos. Kohout and Jas. Morton were judges in this section.

T. E. Waters announced that there will be an exhibit of Christmas plants and novelties at the December meeting. George Asmus spoke of the necessity of coöperative advertising, bringing out many good new points.

Nominations of officers for the coming year were as follows: For president, Paul Klingsporn, by Fred Lautenschlager, and Otto H. Amling, by Paul Klingsporn; for vice-president, T. E. Waters; for treasurer, Otto H. Amling and Paul Weiss; for secretary, F. Lautenschlager; for trustee, W. J. Keimel.

of the Chicago Retail Florists' Association, succeeding L. R. Bohannon, at a meeting held at the Morrison hotel November 11. Other officers chosen for the organization's second year are: Vice-president, A. Lange; secretary, John G. Wittbold; treasurer, W. J. Smyth; directors, George Wienhoeber, Andrew Chronis, L. R. Bohannon, J. L. Raske, Peter Duris, John Canger, George Walther.

The discussion at the meeting, which was well attended, centered around the plans for publicity during the first half of 1920. It was reported that a well known vaudeville star, to be at the Majestic theater for the week beginning November 24, will feature the new popular song, "Say It with Flowers," and it was arranged to supply flowers as a means of increasing the publicity value of the act, which has been reported from the east as a good boost for the trade.

Various Notes.

Debutante week in Memphis was felt in the Chicago market November 10, numerous large orders calling for cattleyas, valley and other expensive stock.

Tom Conlon and associates have acquired the detached range of the Batavia Greenhouse Co., Batavia, Ill., heretofore used for the retail end of that business. Mr. Conlon will be actively in charge and pot plants and young stock for the wholesale trade will be grown.

High wind on the morning of November 10 wrecked one-half of a house 11x 75 feet at the range of F. W. Aevermann, 5509 West Hirsch street, in Cragin.

Our Anniversary Date Recording Plan Is Producing Results

One customer says: "We have just mailed our first 1000 'Date Getters,' and received 20 return cards first few days." Each card averaged three anniversary dates — total 60 records. It means—

1. This florist has adopted a systematic plan of recording anniversary dates.
2. Business first year approximates $240.00.
3. Two more follow up "Date Getters" will add many more records to his list and thoroughly acquaint his customers and others with the new service.

This is autumn opening week with its customers in many cities, reports the Chicago Flower Growers' Association. The demand for stock for store shows has been unusually strong the last few days.

C. H. Fisk is preparing to turn his business over, about January 1, to the younger associates in it, without definite plans as to his future. He probably will spend a part of the winter in California.

Walter Amling, son of Albert F. Amling, leaves this week for southern California with the intention of making his home there. He was formerly associated with his father and brothers in the greenhouse business at Maywood, but recently has been on a farm. His thought is to try rose growing on the coast.

Emil Beuttner increased his planting of Bonnaffon chrysanthemums this season and is cutting some of the nicest stock of this old favorite which ever came to this market.

An araucaria has occupied the center of George Wienhoeber's window this week. One doesn't often see this old favorite nowadays.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Amling leave this week to spend the winter at Orange, Cal., where Mr. Amling has a sister. They have rented a bungalow and shipped the Packard.

John Michelsen has a badly damaged right hand as the result of a slip when he put his strength against a door which had stuck.

The death of Mrs. E. Wienhoeber is recorded in this week's obituary column.

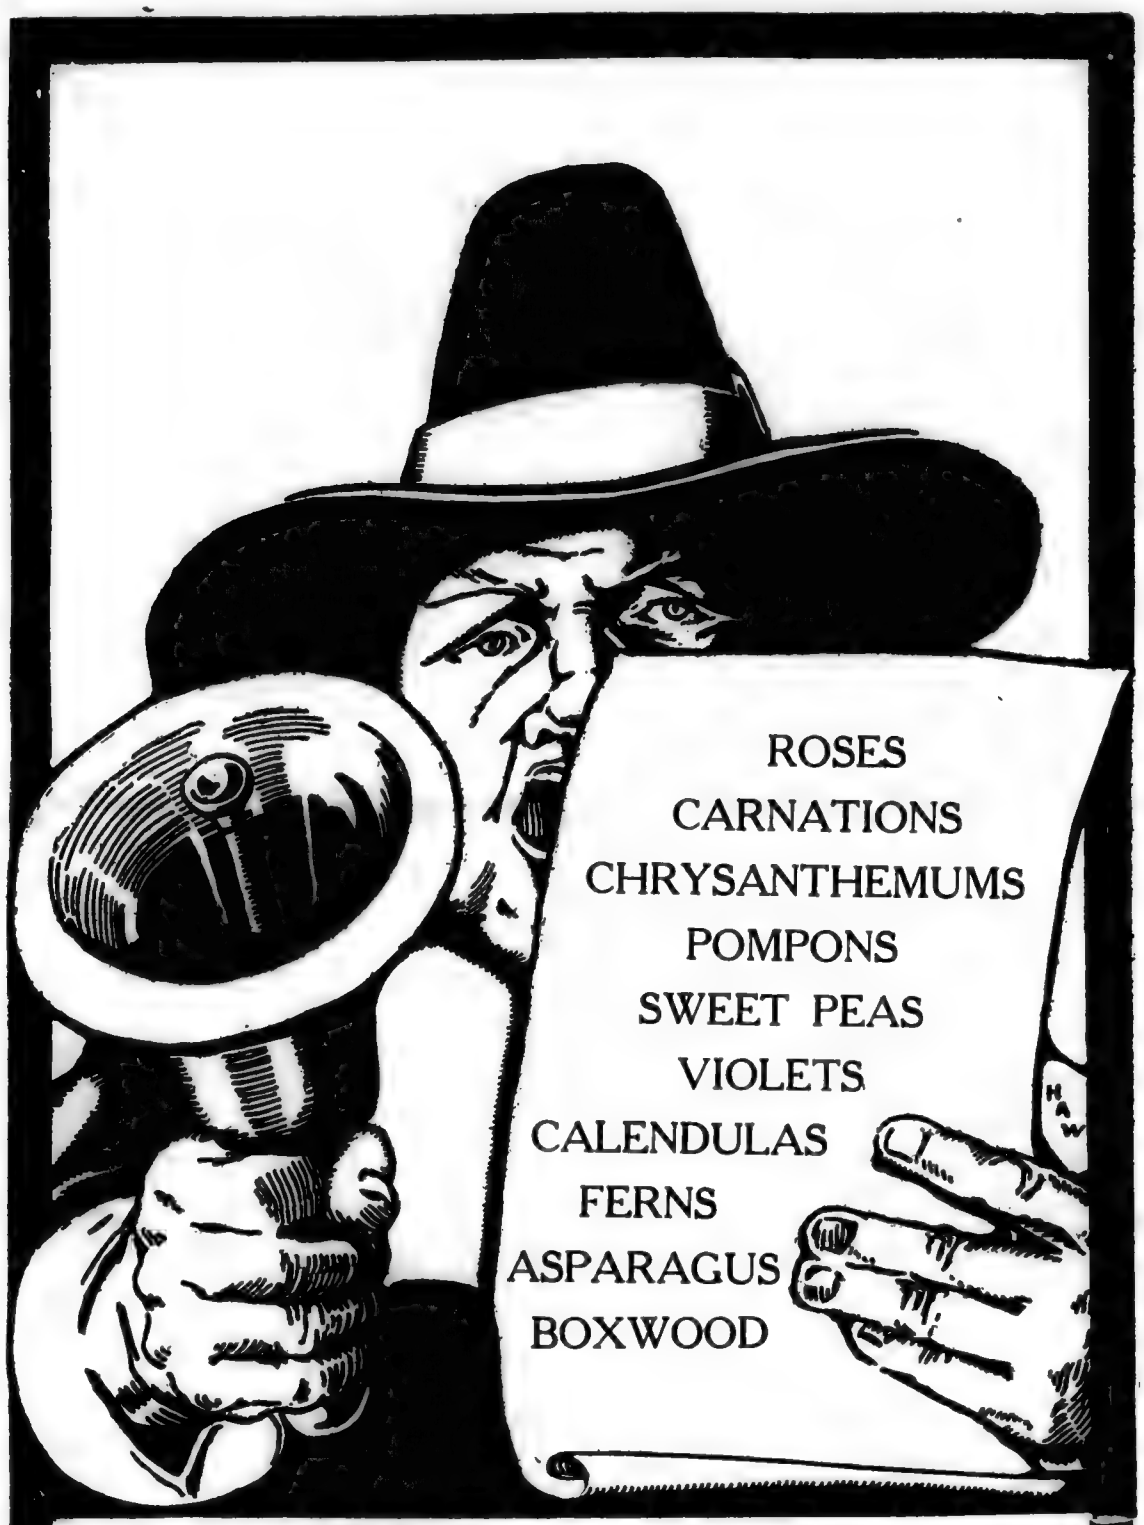
J. E. Pollworth states that the October sales of Kennicott Bros. Co. figured out as an increase of nine per cent, compared with last October. He says the records show it was because of a longer average length of stem in the roses handled.

November 14 A. C. Benson will celebrate his thirty-first anniversary as superintendent of the Bassett & Washburn greenhouses, originally of Hinsdale and now of Greggs Station. Mr. Benson was one of the exhibitors at the first flower show held in Chicago and he carried off the blue ribbon then for American Beauties, as he has done many times since.

W. J. Smyth says the present season thus far is a little behind last year as to volume of sales, but that the difference is not nearly so great as the decrease in the call for funeral work. Furthermore, the margin of profit is better this season, partly because the public has become accustomed to the present level of retail prices and partly because the wholesale prices are not so stiff.

Representatives of McHutchison & Co., New York, have been busy this week distributing a car of giganteums just in from Japan. Another car is due. When orders have been shipped any unsold portion of the two cars will be sent east to replace stock bound for New York lost in the sinking of the Yoten Maru.

George Fisher, who, with his retail trade and his purchasing for out-of-town stores, seems never to be idle, says he thinks the trade should be well content this season. "What if we do have to pay a little more for boxes and other things?" asked Mr. Fisher; "more people than ever before are buying flowers."



A. J. Zech was called to La Porte, Ind., November 6, to attend the funeral of his uncle, George Wagner.

Mrs. Peter Reinberg and Mrs. Henry Kransz have donated an automobile to be raffled for the benefit of Saint Gregory's church.

Visitors.

One of the busy visitors in the market last week was Max Scheinuk, of New Orleans. Mr. Scheinuk has been a buyer in this market for nearly a dozen years. Beginning in a small way, he has progressed until his recent purchases have included an outfit of new store fixtures obtained of the A. L. Randall Co. His purpose on his visit was to buy stock for the new store and for Christmas. His constant companion was a copy of The Review in which he had marked the places and things he wanted to look up in this market.

Swan Peterson, of Decatur and Gibson City, was in town November 10, buying stock for his flourishing business.

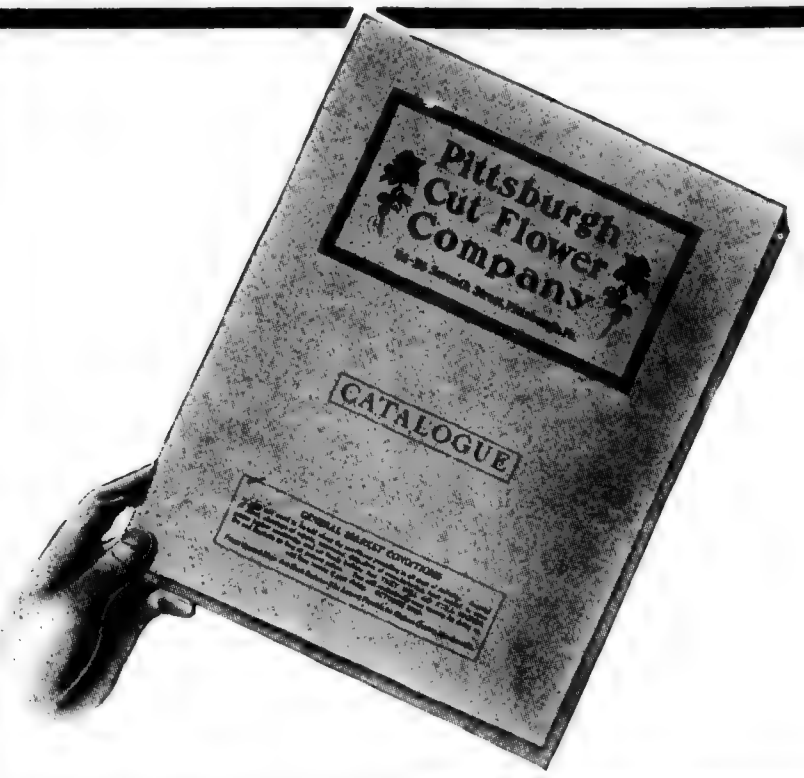
Florence L. Gooch, representing General A. J. Gooch, wholesale florist of San Francisco, has been here this week.



J. J. Karins is in town. Short as is the present supply of pot plants, Mr. Karins predicts that it will be still shorter before it is larger.

Mayville, Wis. — Charles Schumann and his wife, who have been in the greenhouse business here for the last nine years, have decided to sell out.

NEW YORK.

The Market.

The long expected frost materialized Saturday night, November 8, and was repeated the following night, so that all outdoor unprotected stock is finished, much to the relief of the growers of stock under glass. With the heavy arrivals of chrysanthemums, outside stock has created a serious handicap. The market opened this week with a better tone, but there is not much snap to the buying. Chrysanthemums, of course, dominate the market and will continue to do so for some weeks. Fancy varieties are not overplentiful, but there is a congestion of medium and low grades, which makes clearances at remunerative prices difficult. Quantities of pompons and singles are also arriving and move but slowly, even at bargain prices. Bonnaffon and other midseason sorts are prominent and the quality of them is quite good.

Forty Large Pages of Florists' Supplies

Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.—A comprehensive and attractive catalogue of florists' supplies; forty large pages, about 10x13½ inches, clearly printed on a good quality of enameled paper, well illustrated, and bound in a tasteful and substantial gray cover. The assortments offered are large enough to afford a wide choice in such requisites as baskets, flower stands, vases, ribbons, chiffons, Christmas specialties, artificial flowers, wreaths, wire designs, etc. The company's opinion in regard to the future probabilities in the prices of such goods is stated thus: "Do not hesitate to buy at present prices. You will undoubtedly save money by doing so, and lose money if you delay."—Florists' Review, November 6, 1919.

Have you received your catalogue? If not, a postal will bring it. It's yours for the asking.

The demand for roses is poor and after the best are disposed of there is a large surplus and bargain hunters are easily accommodated. American Beauty is in good supply and prices are anything but steady. Hybrid teas continue in heavy supply, the warm weather last week bringing the cut forward fast.

Carnations are plentiful and the quality is still poor; consequently much of the stock arriving is hard to move. While the varieties Mrs. C. W. Ward and Benora command as much as $3 per hundred when good, $2 is about top for the best of the general run, with inferior stock clearing at $1 or less.

Cattleyas are not plentiful, and prices continue to be on a rather high scale, $1 per flower for the best outside of the hybrids, which bring as much as $2. A few flowers of C. Trianæ are coming in and are of excellent quality. There is a small supply of oncidiums and other spray orchids, which move nicely.

Lilies continue scarce, the few arriving bringing from $30 to $35 per hundred and even more for extra quality flowers. Lily of the valley is not in large supply, but there is quite enough to meet the demand at the stiff prices now in vogue, $20 per hundred for the best grade, down to $8 for culls. Rubrums are in plenty and the demand for them is fairly good at $3 to $5 per hundred. Some short-stemmed gardenias are arriving daily and command $3 to $6 per dozen, according to grade. A few callas are seen and they move fairly well at $2 to $3 per dozen. With the scarcity of lilies, callas are being used to some extent in wedding work.

The supply of sweet peas is increasing and arrivals are showing some improvement in quality; about $2.50 per hundred sprays is the top figure in sales. Violets are abundant, but meet only a small demand.

Among the miscellaneous offerings are calendulas, snapdragons, Paper White narcissi, the supply of which is increasing, and lupines. Paper Whites sold last week at as low as three bunches for $1.

S. B. Wertheimer, who has had an exceedingly busy summer with the affairs of Wertheimer Bros., is on a three weeks' recreation trip to North Carolina, South Carolina and Florida. He intends to return to his office about December 1.

An advertisement of telegraph delivery by Max Schling, in the Times for November 5, demonstrated its drawing power by the comments by customers who visited the store and the resulting orders.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Market.

The week opened badly. There was little doing either on Monday or on election day. Midweek was quiet, but by Friday there was a change and on Saturday business was almost brisk. Frost has cut down the supply of outdoor flowers, wiping out dahlias and cosmos and so chilling the hardy chrysanthemums that they are not likely to be of much use.

Chrysanthemums are now at the height of their season. Some fine stock is offered. Well grown flowers of the large Japanese varieties continue to sell well at good prices. Ordinary stock is not in demand. So far pompons have had few friends.

Good roses have been short of the demand. The growers do not cut many in the middle of the chrysanthemum season and it so happens that they are not cutting enough. Still there are plenty of other flowers to use instead. Carnations, for example, are improving fast and they are not selling at all well.

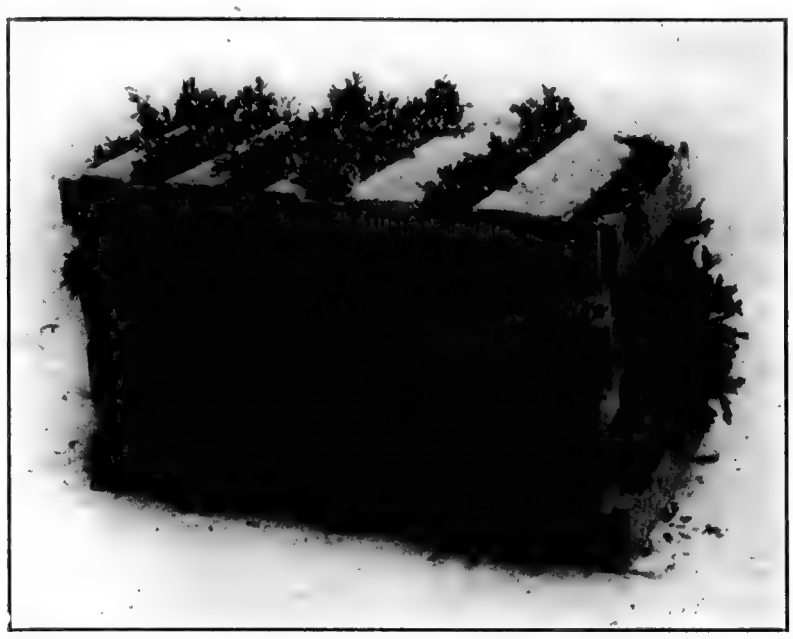
The few really nice sweet peas are also dragging just now. Orchids are scarce. By this is meant Cattleya labiata. There are a few Percivaliana and two kinds of cypripediums. Foliage is popular. The outlook for the balance of the month is excellent.

Cornelia and Red Janet.

There are some interesting new roses at the establishment of Robert Scott & Son, at Sharon Hill. Among this season's debutantes is Cornelia—Cornelia will be sent out next spring. It is a cross between Ophelia and Mrs. Aaron Ward. Cornelia has the free, sturdy growth of Ophelia combined with the blooming qualities of Ward. The flowers are of good size. Their color contains the color characteristics of both parents. Cornelia is a great producer. Both the 1-year-old and the 2-year-old plants are coming right along. Cornelia is the sort of rose to win the grower's heart at sight.

Red Janet is a cross between Gloire de Dijon and a red seedling. It is a lovely rose, with life in its exquisite deep pink coloring. Mr. Scott has not yet decided whether Red Janet will have a coming-out party.

The New Ballroom.



There is a new ballroom of great magnificence at the Hotel Dupont in Wilmington, Del. It is so grand that connoisseurs say that New York and Philadelphia have nothing to compare with it. The ballroom was formally opened on Friday evening, November 7, when Mrs. Francis Whitten gave a dinner dance there.

There were twenty-five guests at the dinner, which was arranged on a circular table, hollow in the center, wherein was a flower garden. The new ballroom was a little too large for those who, added to the dinner guests, made up Mrs. Whitten's party, so the room was made smaller by using a balustrade all the way around the room. The decorations were of handsome chrysanthemums and of foliage. They were tastefully arranged by J. J. Habermehl's Sons, of this city.

The Russell-Premier Race.

The first lap of the race between the two great pink roses, Premier and Mrs. Charles Russell, for supremacy and the title of the best pink rose in commerce, has been completed. This lap extends from the beginning of summer, when Premier first appeared in this market, up to the present time, and does not include any of the cold weather. Premier started well under skillful cultivation and made a decided impression. However, the staying qualities of Russell under all conditions have proved too much for the western favorite and today the eastern rose is unquestionably in the lead.

The cold weather period of the race is now beginning. It will be watched with keen interest.

The Show At Ardmore.

The Pennsylvania Horticultural Society held its fall exhibition in Masonic hall, Ardmore, November 4 and 5. It was a main line gardeners' display with a few notable additions. It was filled with well grown plants and flowers. The vegetables were shown in a tent in the rear of the hall. The arrangement was effective. The view on entering was exceedingly pleasant. There were no poor exhibits. Just enough foliage was used to set off properly the really fine chrysanthemums. The features were the 14-inch pot plants and the specimen blooms of chrysanthemums.

The W. Atlee Burpee Co. received a silver medal for a beautiful display of dahlias in named varieties, arranged with cat-tails and grasses, an exhibit that would have been impossible two days later.

The new pink sport from William Turner, named Mrs. J. Leslie Davis, was the cut flower sensation of the exhibition. It is a true Turner save in color, which is a delicate pink. The stock has been secured by Charles H. Totty. The roses came on the second day. Among them were many of the novelties—Cornelia and the novelty Red Janet, from Robert Scott & Son, Sharon Hill, Pa.; Madame Butterfly, from the E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind., and Crusader and Pilgrim, from the A. N. Pierson Co., Cromwell, Conn., were all admired. Adolph Muller put up two fine groups of evergreens in tubs. Among the carnations, Laddie and Mrs. C. W. Ward were particularly well grown.

Morton.

The Highland Rose Co. has 28,000 roses growing in its greenhouses at Morton, Pa. The varieties are Double White Killarney, Prima Donna, Maryland and Ophelia, a selection that affords a good range of color. The plants are grown in ground beds. They are in excellent condition. The place is neat and thrifty in appearance throughout. It reflects credit on the proprietor, period of the year in which to have a general flower decorating day. At the present time, as is usual at this season of the year, flowers are plentiful until chrysanthemums are over. There is a movement on foot, as the time draws near, to encourage the use of all kinds of flowers and plants on Mothers' day instead of carnations alone, as is now the prevailing custom. In some cities, that day is equal to Easter day in its effect on the demand.

J. J. McManmon Home.

J. J. McManmon, who returned earlier than he originally intended from Great Britain and Ireland, reached Halifax October 29, and arrived in Lowell November 1. He is much improved in health. He visited many fine estates, one of them being Lord Barrington's, of 10,000 acres. This place is well kept up and has a most complete collection of forest trees and five acres of lawn and flower beds. The remainder is used for hunting and shooting grounds.

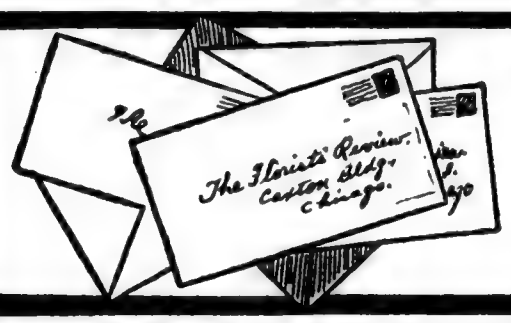
grower of Belfast, Ireland, has several new roses of great merit and others will soon be brought out. This firm won premier position for its collection of pot roses thirty-six feet in circumference. Dickson's nurseries at Chester, England, were also visited. Everything there shows the effect of suffering for lack of help. The work is now being done by women and inexperienced help. There is a large amount of glass and prior to the war this was one of the best kept places in Great Britain. This firm has a wonderful collection of dahlias.

Mr. McManmon visited the Kew gardens and states that there they have the largest and finest house devoted to palms that he ever saw, also a magnificent collection of tropical plants of every description.

Food is exceedingly scarce and high in price. Apples are selling as high as sixpence (12 cents) each and greenhouse-grown tomatoes are one shilling (24 cents) at wholesale and find a ready sale. Mr. McManmon says that the Irish disturbances as reported in America are much magnified. There is plenty of food in Ireland and that country is prosperous.

Mr. McManmon is glad to be home again and expresses his gratification at finding everything connected with his business here in satisfactory condition.

Various Notes.



William J. Collins, of Gorham street, had a fine lot of single and pompon mums, also greenhouse-grown cosmos in pink and white. He has had several funeral orders.

At the opening November 1 of the large and finely equipped Saunders Market, an orchestra of six pieces played amid a bower of palms and ferns supplied by Morse & Beals. About thirty baskets and bouquets were presented by prominent tradesmen. Small mums and carnations predominated.

Morse & Beals had a fine lot of Bonnaffon chrysanthemums last week, which sold quickly. This firm is having considerable funeral work.

There was an old-time "huskin' bee" November 6 in the barn on the seed farm of J. J. McManmon. The barn and four of his conveyances had been kindly lent for the occasion. There were over 200 guests searching for red ears. The affair was engineered by M. Pilotte, of J. J. McManmon's store, and J. Melonson, one of the teamsters at the farm. E. E. R.

Bellefontaine, O.—In the Daily Examiner for November 1 Selzig's Floral Store carried a full-page advertisement, the only one of such size in the paper. In it all the facilities for serving the public were brought to readers' attention. On another page were printed in display the verses beginning "Say it with flowers, just a trim little spray," which appeared in The Review for October 30.

PLANT REGISTRATION.

Public notice is hereby given that Frank D. Pelicano, 119 Guttenburg street, San Francisco, Cal., submits for registration the new plant mentioned below:

Adiantum Pelicani, a seedling of Adiantum Roenbeckii, which it resembles in habit, being light in color and of vigorous growth; fronds grow erect and average from twenty to twenty-four inches in length.

Any person objecting to this registration or to the use of the proposed name is requested to communicate with the secretary at once. If no objection to the registration is received, this plant will be registered November 29.

John Young, Sec'y.

NATIONAL PUBLICITY CAMPAIGN.

The Slogan Billboard.

At last the arrangements for the issuance of the proposed billboard, carrying the slogan, "Say It with Flowers," have been completed and our promotion bureau is ready to take orders. A sample billboard was set up at the recent meeting in Buffalo of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association and it appeared to meet the approval of all present so fully that, altogether, orders have been received for eighty-seven of these beautiful signs.

The contract which the publicity committee has been able to place makes it possible to deliver a billboard at any railroad station in the United States for $50, freight paid to destination. A similar billboard ordinarily would cost at the factory $90, so that the great saving effected through our contract is obvious.

A sample billboard was set up at the recent meeting in Buffalo of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association and it appeared to meet the approval of all present so fully that, altogether, orders have been received for eighty-seven of these beautiful signs.

The contract which the publicity committee has been able to place makes it possible to deliver a billboard at any railroad station in the United States for $50, freight paid to destination. A similar billboard ordinarily would cost at the factory $90, so that the great saving effected through our contract is obvious.

For Quality and Good Service, try us.

Any florist who has or can control a site suitable for the display of one of these boards is urged to place an order for one at once. Besides helping the campaign, he will be helping himself, for he will be permitted, should he so desire, to hang a supplementary sign beneath the regulation billboard, calling attention to his own establishment.

Its Description.

The sign is 7½x20 feet. It is constructed of 26-gauge galvanized iron on wood frame and is shipped in four 5-foot sections, with face bands. The board weighs approximately 275 pounds. The slogan is painted to conform in design and color to the regular glass and transfer signs supplied by our promotion bureau. Three coats of paint are used, with one coat of heavy outside wearing varnish applied after the last coat of paint is dry. The back of the board is painted with one coat of pure oil black. The wooden supports are not supplied, but they are of a nature to be easily procured locally. A blue-print, or drawing, detailing the construction and method of setting up is furnished with each billboard. A sign should remain in good condition for many years.

Everyone Can Show It.

Without doubt, a large number of florists will wish to take advantage of this opportunity to bring our industry prominently before the public. As has been pointed out frequently, the florists are fortunate in that so many of them are provided with sites that cost them practically nothing for a display of this kind—along much traveled highways, railroad tracks, against potting sheds and outbuildings which are in public view, and often in cities on tops of buildings, in connection with their store buildings, or on adjacent vacant lots. If a small body of men could extemporaneously, as at the meeting in Buffalo, offer to take eighty-seven billboards to cover so many sites, how many locations must be generally available? The publicity committee is confident that orders will quickly be forthcoming which will insure the erection and display of 1,000 billboards. The price is a mere bagatelle when the value of the material and service is considered. There is much to be said in favor of outdoor publicity, especially when applicable to the subject of our campaign. One thing is certain—never was so inexpensive an opportunity for helpful and direct publicity presented as that before the florists. The secretary would be pleased to hear from all those who can take advantage of the offer here made. Simply send in the order for a sign, accompanied by a check for $50, and the sign will be promptly delivered at any designated railroad station.

Singing Our Slogan.

The value of our slogan, "Say It with Flowers," has been recognized in a direction quite apart from the course of our campaign. Just as the writers of fiction and sentimental prose are frequently using it in their work when they wish to convey a thought as to an easy method of expressing feeling, the song writers have seized upon the line as a title for a song. All who were at the Detroit convention had the pleasure of hearing one such song, but it does not seem to have got into the realm of publicity. Now a prominent song publisher of New York is introducing to the public a similar song of great merit in fox trot measure and is employing singers of high order to exploit it. The first use of it was in Detroit last week. Harry Breitmeyer, of John Breitmeyer's Sons, writes the secretary as follows in regard to it: "This week Miss Grace LaRue is featuring the song at our Temple theater. The Detroit florists have each taken one day to send Miss LaRue flowers, as well as to place vases of flowers in the theater lobbies. I assure you it has made a hit with theater-goers, and 'Say It with Flowers' is the talk of the public. The song is a wonder. If New York and other cities have the opportunity to receive these benefits I would recommend your hearty coöperation." It is understood that the song is to be a feature in the prominent theaters of Chicago, Cleveland, Cincinnati and other large cities upon the circuits of the singers, with suitable stage settings, and it is expected that phonograph records of it, carrying the voice of a leading concert artist, will shortly be available. Wherever the song is to be featured, the florists situated locally are urged to coöperate with the theater management in the making of an appropriate floral setting. It is also suggested that special window trims in the florists' stores

Support the Campaign Now.

Subscriptions to the campaign fund are now most urgently needed. Our publicity committee has accomplished much, but it can do more if supported as it ought to be. Our slogan is an out-and-out success already and it is absolutely necessary that we build upon this success if we are to make "Say It with Flowers" a household phrase. This attainment is within reach easily, if the big army of non-subscribers will "come across." It is such a little support we are asking individually that there need be no hardship entailed. A small check from the many will make up a goodly aggregate, something we can work with. Many florists every week expend more on unproductive matters than they need contribute to the campaign. Surely it is not a question of stinginess that stands between the success of our movement and the support which we have a moral right to expect in an industry

CO-OPERATIVE ADVERTISING.

Most Modern Type of Publicity.

During the last few years there has sprung up a new type of publicity, namely, coöperative advertising. This surely has justified its development by the number of campaigns in varied lines of industry. And as nothing succeeds like success, we must grant the fact, in view of the number of coöperative advertising campaigns we have observed lately, that unless they were successful they would not continue to multiply. Hence this article.

Florists have generally been called progressive and will readily admit, therefore, that what is worthy for other lines is also good for flowers. How well we have succeeded is left to your own judgment. Our slogan, "Say It with Flowers," has created for itself an envied reputation and one that we are all proud of, particularly when we take into consideration the small appropriation we have had to work with. Imagine the future in store for us when 24,000 florists throughout the United States and Canada realize the slogan's possibilities and back it up liberally with dollars, in order to carry on a campaign that will accord with the position to which flowers are entitled.

If Each Would Do His Share.

There are many who have contributed to our campaign, but there are far too many, also, who have overlooked their duty in the matter, and it is to this body that the following few lines will not be amiss.

Do you feel justified in having your neighbor subscribe to a fund for the development of a more general use of flowers, which will help all florists, from the grower down to the retailer, while you sit back and neglect to do your share?

Do you appreciate that the Society of American Florists is back of this movement for the sole purpose of a wider distribution of flowers generally, that the task could be made comparatively easy if you would do your share in the general expense, that for every dollar given ten will be returned in more ways than one, and that by more publicity, more desire for flowers must be the ultimate outcome? Will you refuse to share in the increased demand thus created? Or, perhaps, you are waiting to be asked for your contribution.

Cash and Encouragement.

Why wait, when you can send it to Secretary John Young's office and perhaps add a note of appreciation with it, as many have done, to show the effect the campaign has already had in your business the last two years? The publicity-finance and publicity committees jointly have labored well, and an expression of good will with a check enclosed is about the best kind of recommendation and keeps the enthusiasm working, so that the campaign will keep up its effectiveness to the end that all may enjoy the benefits to the full. But in order to do this we need the balance of the fund. Our goal is $100,000. Will you help to get the amount and share in its fruits, remembering that you are not only helping yourself but are also putting the most desirable of all products, flowers, constantly before the minds of millions of people who rarely see a flower shop or a greenhouse?

Don't forget that there are many people who journey from house to store and from store to house and never have the chance of looking at flowers from November to June, but who might be tempted to be flower-lovers were they reminded of them enough. That is our job—not to allow them to forget. Will you justify the means? If so, your check is the answer. Henry Penn,
Chairman National Publicity Campaign.

The Market.

Business revived considerably during the final days of last week, the week-end calling quantities of chrysanthemums into requisition for the inauguration of the football season. Otherwise the market has remained comparatively quiet, with prices in accordance. Flowers of all varieties continue to come in plentifully, American Beauties and carnations being almost as much in evidence as the more generally accepted flowers of autumn.

Autumn Exhibitions.

The last ten days have seen two of the most successful autumn flower shows in the history of the Schenley and West park Phipps conservatories, under the régime of Superintendent George W. Burke. Foreman John W. Jones, of Schenley park, utilized the two wings and the economic room of the conservatory proper, while the display of James Moore, of the West park conservatory, called three show rooms into requisition and included a beautiful showing of Gloire de Lorraine begonias. The north side show was supplemented by the third annual exhibition of the Pittsburgh Aquarium Society, of which Mr. King, of the A. W. Smith Co., is a member. This firm had three of the 100 tanks of rare fish in the exhibit.

The annual exhibition of the Horticultural Society of Sewickley, in the high school pavilion, was the most successful of any given since the organization of the society a few years ago. Carl Becherer, formerly president of the Pittsburgh Florists' and Gardeners' Club, James Moore and J. J. Costoff formed the committee of judges.

100 of his French friends and colleagues. The table, which was formed in a C because of the Creusot Iron Works, of which M. Schneider is president, was most artistically massed with crotons and white, yellow and bronze chrysanthemums of beautiful quality, forming one of the most effective color combinations possible in an elaborate dinner setting.

James Moore, of West park, and Robert Foley, of Riverview park, recently returned from an automobile trip through the Shenandoah valley.

Edward Shelton James has just purchased a small farm on the Frankstown road, just outside the city limits, where he expects shortly to erect a large greenhouse. The land is underlaid with a 7-foot vein of coal and his intention is to place the boiler of the building on the coal bottom, to be fed direct from the pit. The residence on the farm is occupied by Mr. James' son, Herbert B. James, an electrician. Although the former has 150 palms and 2,000 ferns in stock for the use of the William Penn and Fort Pitt hotels, he is endeavoring to get another carload of foliaged plants from the Exotic Nurseries, Santa Barbary, Cal., which he patronized largely last spring. This stock is now in splendid condition and Mr. James says he considers the California stock altogether superior to the imported trees. E. S. James' brother, Arthur James, who is having exceptional success with his range near Oneco, Fla., expects to return to Pittsburgh in the early spring to take orders for crotons. On his forty acres of ground he is growing also rubber plants, orange trees and ferns, having of course abandoned the castor beans contracted for by the government during the war.

Thomas Silverblatt, proprietor of the flower shop in the corridor of the William Penn hotel, has returned to business following a ten days' detention at home on account of illness. Meanwhile the store was in charge of his brother and his assistant, Louis Silverblatt and Benjamin Foreman, respectively.

KNOXVILLE, TENN.

The Market.

The last week has shown a marked change in business. There have been several light frosts, which have practically put an end to outdoor stock, and the cooler weather has acted as a stimulant to the sale of cut flowers. The situation created by the street car strike, which has existed for the last three weeks, has improved somewhat and cars are again in operation. Funeral work has been heavy. There were several weddings of unusual importance and the sale of miscellaneous cut flowers has shown a great improvement over any previous week in the season.

The chrysanthemum crop is now at its height and some especially fine blooms are in evidence, also some choice pompons. The cut of carnations is getting heavier every day and with the coming of cooler weather the quality is greatly improved. The rose crop is rather short at this time; the stock is being cut back for Christmas and there is a general shortage. There is a fair crop of orchids and the demand for them is good. There are still a few good dahlias, which which is in charge of Mrs. Holden. This firm had much funeral and wedding work. It has plenty of good stock with the exception of roses.

A. H. Dailey has a beautiful window of pompon chrysanthemums. He is beginning to cut some sweet peas, which are the first to be seen on this market.

C. L. Baum is busy digging his gladiolus bulbs. There is a great demand for them, but on account of having several acres yet to be stocked he has refused to sell any of them. The store man-

The Market.

Business has been unusually good for the last few weeks. Stock has been plentiful, owing to favorable weather conditions.

Chrysanthemums are at their best now, and the later varieties, such as Major Bonnaffon, Odessa, Tekonsha, Dr. Enguehard and the Chadwicks, are arriving in great abundance. Pompons are also plentiful.

Roses of fine quality sold at prices ranging from $3 to $6 per hundred. Especially fine Premier, Russell, Columbia and Ophelia brought excellent prices and were in great demand. Carnations were also plentiful, but were not as yet at their best in length of stem; consequently their prices were low. There is a good demand for Paper Whites and sweet peas. Orchids continue scarce. A few dahlias are coming in, but the trade seems to have tired of them. Calendulas and snapdragons are scarce but decidedly popular. In plants, cyclamens, primroses and potted chrysanthemums take the lead.

Funeral work was heavy all the week. Several big receptions, weddings and banquets made a good demand for the best of flowers that were in season. There were some unusual and striking window displays.

Various Notes.

Last week the Flick Floral Co. had one of the largest society weddings of the season, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Z. Pohlamus, the uncle and aunt of the bride, Miss Gladys Walker, of Grand Rapids, Mich. Oak foliage and southern smilax were used, with an abundance of chrysanthemums. On the bride's table an electric fountain filled with pompon chrysanthemums was used effectively, with oak foliage around the outer edge of the fountain. Many palms and ferns were also used in this decoration. Hampers of Ophelia, Premier and Russell roses were used in profusion. The bride's bouquet was composed of lilies of the valley and Dendrobium formosum in shower effect. The bridesmaid's bouquet was of orchid-tinted chrysanthemums tied with orchid-color chiffon.

KANSAS CITY, MO.

The Market.

This market was cleaned up every day last week. Cloudy weather has been so prevalent the last month that stock has shortened considerably. Roses are off crop and are bringing from $4 to $15. Carnations are scarce at $5 and $6. Mums are more plentiful, but have not reached the height of their season. They are from $2 to $4. Pompons are good at 50 and 75 cents a bunch.

Various Notes.

Boyd's Greenhouse had 1,000 pots of large Caprice mums last week, of such uniform height that they made almost a level surface when massed. They also have 2,000 cinerarias in 5-inch pots, 1,000 in 4-inch pots and almost the same number of smaller plants, all in fine shape.

The Humfeld-Orear Floral Co. is congratulating itself on its desirable location. Thirty-first street and Troost avenue is one of the best outside business corners in the city. It is a transfer point and practically every line of retail business is represented within a radius of two blocks in four directions and there are family hotels and apartments without number in the neighborhood.

Ed A. Humfeld expects to move into his new retail store about November 15. Some finishing work remains to be done, but the store is in shape for business. Mr. Humfeld desired a new icebox, but the kind he wanted could not be delivered for six months, so he moved the one from the old store and believes it will answer the purpose well for a while.

The Muehlebach Flower Shop had a decoration every day last week, aside from several special affairs in the hotel. In addition to other business, thirty corsages were sold Friday, November 7.

Tucker Smith, president of the Pinehurst Floral Co., was in the city Tuesday, November 4.

W. J. Flint, Richmond, Mo., and L. H. Archias, Sedalia, Mo., were visitors last week.

T. J. Noll & Co. are receiving some excellent mums from Longview Farm.

Mrs. J. H. Boyd has returned from the hospital after an operation.

J. Austin is supplying a large part of his trade from his own greenhouses.

A. F. Barbe's carnations have about reached perfection and he is selling the blooms as fast as he can cut them.

S. Bryson Ayres has completed 8,000 feet of glass for sweet peas. He has recently built a new seed-testing house and is now building a seed warehouse, which will hold eight or ten carloads. Mr. Ayres believes that the soil test is far ahead of the incubator method and is making this a forceful issue in his advertising. J. E. K.

The Market.

There was not so much business for All Saints' day this year as there was in former years, chiefly because it rained so much the week before and up to All Saints' day. Since then there has been little social activity. Funerals are few. Outdoor flowers, especially dahlias, were plentiful up to November 4, when we had our first freezing weather. Roses and carnations are in good supply and chrysanthemums are almost a glut.

Various Notes.

Theodore Kuebler has been bringing in a lot of chrysanthemums, both large and pompon. This week he is attending the state flower show at Indianapolis, Ind., November 11 to 14.

Staples

—and what $157 has done

A dealer who handles only staple articles of florists' supplies wrote this letter:

> "Your medium certainly has helped us in increasing our business and extending our trade. Our list when we began advertising supplies in The Review was less than 300. Now it exceeds 400 bona fide active accounts."

Many dealers who handle only staples, sold by all dealers at standard prices, feel that it will not pay them to advertise. But the dealer in staples who wrote the above spent in The Review this year only $157 for 100 new active accounts.

There are many concerns far better located to profit by advertising staples in The Review.

The Market.

The local wholesale market was in about the same condition last week as in the week previous, crowded to the utmost with all seasonable cut stock and especially mums. While there was a glut, it was not in the fancy grades, as these always have a demand. In these grades there was a scarcity in yellow mums, while whites were plentiful, with all of the early varieties nearly cut out. This week's receipts should show some cut flowers of Ivory, Major Bonnaffon, Appleton, Chadwick and Golden Wedding, the last two being always good sellers in this market.

Mums, of course, have the call over other stock. Roses and carnations in the fancy grades sell well, but the supply of these is large, with the bulk of them in the lower grades, and, in order to dispose of them, prices had to be cut away below quotations. Premier, Russell and Ophelia have the best demand.

Carnations are arriving fine in flower with short stems; good long fancies are not as yet plentiful. The top price last week was $3 per hundred. This is low when compared with last season

Among the arrivals last week were some excellent sweet peas from our local growers and also fine Paper Whites. Violets are showing better color and are in fair demand at 50 cents and 75 cents per hundred. All outdoor stock is over for this season. The demand for valley, Easter lilies and orchids is large, but the supply continues small.

All greens, as usual, clean up well daily. Long asparagus and smilax lead in the demand.

Gardeners Met.

The St. Louis Association of Gardeners held its monthly meeting November 5 at the municipal greenhouses in Forest park. President L. P. Jensen presided over the meeting and there was a large attendance of members.

After the opening routine business had been disposed of, the chairmen of the various committees reported and Secretary Schaff then read a program of discussions scheduled for each monthly meeting up to May, which should make exceedingly interesting winter meetings for the members. The chair then called upon George H. Pring for an illustrated talk on the evolution of chrysanthemums, which was highly commended by the members. At the conclusion of this interesting feature, the chair called upon Fred Schwelle to give his experience in the cultivation of County Growers Met.

The St. Louis County Growers' Association met Wednesday evening, November 5, at Eleven Mile House. The proceedings throughout the evening were of great interest. There was a general discussion on production of mums, roses and carnations, of which at present the receipts are much larger than the demand, with prices not to be compared with those of last year at this time.

Publicity also came in for a general discussion, as the membership of this association is 100 per cent in favor of the plan as worked out by the publicity committee. The meeting was well attended.

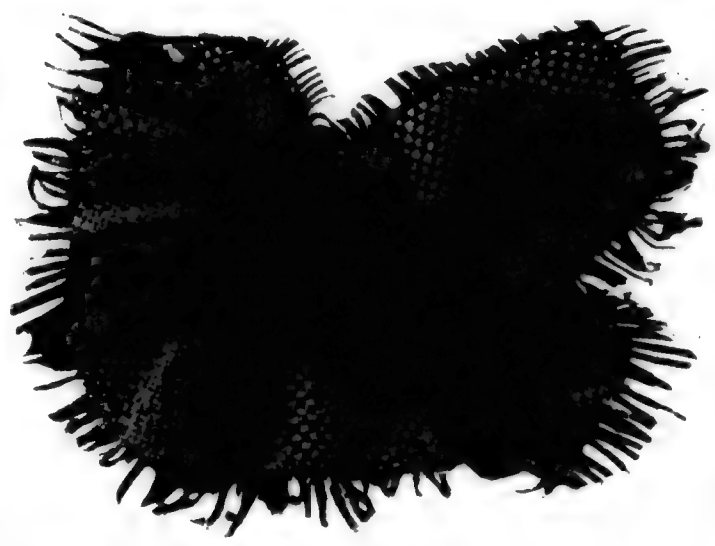
brated their seventh wedding anniversary November 5 at their home on Virginia avenue. Mr. Guntly is associated with his brother-in-law, J. J Windler, in Windler's Flowers, 2300 South Grand avenue.

Grimm & Gorly and the Mullanphy Florists, two of the large downtown retailers, featured mum displays in their big show windows daily last week. Both say that trade has now become steady and there is daily a good call for fancy stock in everything seasonable.



The mum show now in progress at the municipal greenhouses in Forest park was arranged by and under the supervision of John Moritz. The arrangement shows excellent judgment and the quality of the plants, including those grown for cut flowers, is of the best seen here in years.

Eugene Grimm, head of the Grimm-Lambach Artificial Flowers Co. and a cousin of Frank and Vincent Gorly, of Grimm & Gorly, who has many friends in the trade, was married last week to Miss Loretta Ziebold, of Waterloo, Ill. The couple departed for a honeymoon trip to New York and will return December 1.

The Diemer Floral Co. and Mrs. Oscar Heile, South Broadway florists, had a good run of business last week, in which funeral work played a big part.

The School of Gardening of the Missouri Botanical Garden reopened and scholarships were awarded to James Monteith and Miss Virginia McMath, of St. Louis, and to Robert Mitchell, of Gotha, Fla. In accordance with the will of Henry Shaw, the St. Louis Florists' Club should have awarded one of these scholarships, but since the departure of Prof. Trelease this has been taken out of the club's hands by the new director.

The new Arcadia building, at Eighth and Olive streets, will be completed by the end of this month and a first-class flower store in the building will be opened by Mrs. L. Turk and Mrs. Stewart, lately employed by Fred Foster. The opening day is expected to be Thanksgiving day.

This week Vernon Steiles will appear at the Orpheum theater and sing his famous song, "Say It with Flowers," and the local florists should derive great publicity through this. They are preparing to shower the star each night with flowers at the end of the song.

C. Richardson, Union Market, put in a busy week with large designs for funerals. The artistic arrangement of the several large pieces gives great credit to Miss M. Richardson, the designer here.

A visit to the greenhouses of Eli Mieux, at Carlyle, Ill., November 6, found Mr. Mieux busy and showed an excellent crop of cut mums and a fine house of 5-inch and 6-inch Boston ferns. He has been here only three years and has established a large trade. He is building a show house in the front. He also reports a visit a few weeks ago of the stork, which left a fine baby boy, who will be known as Joseph Mieux.

Mr. Adler, of New York, called on the trade last week to interest them in his corsage pins and novelties.

The bowlers got at each other again Wednesday night, November 5, and during the evening the leaders, the Sweet Peas, were given a setback by Captain Kuehner's team, the Roses, who beat them three games. Captain Windler's Carnations set the Daisies back three games. The Roses were the high average team of the night. The teams will not bowl Thanksgiving evening, since that will be a busy night for the retailers.

"Say It with Flowers" Week.

One of the most interesting and attractive features of the "Say It with Flowers" campaign was the many decorations and window displays of the florists' shops. A window display that attracted large crowds and received much comment from the trade as well as from the public in general was that of Z. D. Blackistone. It is said that it was one of the best displays of this nature that have ever been exhibited in this city. It was a miniature wedding party, which included every feature of a real ceremony. The surrounding space was decorated with some fine specimens of chrysanthemums and green foliage. Even during the quiet hours of the day, many people were on hand to view the unusual display. At night it was lighted with fancy lanterns, which added much beauty to the scene. The work was done under Mr. Blackistone's personal supervision and it showed every sign of good judgment.

Another window display in which he public showed great interest was that of George C. Shaffer. It was a wedding display of life size and the bride carried a large bouquet of selected flowers. The display lacked nothing which would give it the appearance of a real wedding party. It was highly spoken of by members of the trade as well as by the public.

Through the courtesy of the Curtiss Bros., who have charge of the planes at Bohling Field, six members of the Washington Florists' Club flew over Washington and dropped flowers along Pennsylvania avenue and on Walter Reed hospital. The party consisted of William F. Gude and his daughter, Z. D. Blackistone and his daughter, Miss Virginia Blackistone, Kirk Miller and F. H. Kramer's little daughter. The trip was made at noon, November 4, the second day of the "Say It with Flowers" week. The flowers were tied up and each bunch bore a "Say It with Flowers" card, so that this message would be spread over the entire city. After dropping flowers on Pennsylvania avenue, one of the Curtiss Oriole planes, in which Z. D. Blackistone was a passenger, developed engine trouble and fell several hundred feet. The plane was damaged in landing, but Mr. Blackistone and the aviator were uninjured.

The local florists enjoyed a week of giving. They sent baskets of flowers to all of the hospitals, the orphanages, homes for the aged and other shelters for the unfortunates.

Thursday, November 6, the local florists donated enough to the Red Cross to give every person who joined on that day a pretty bouquet. Flower stands were set up in the main headquarters of the Red Cross for this purpose.

Friday, November 7, the synagogues of Washington received special contributions of flowers.

Saturday was Merchants' day and the large retail and department stores received baskets of flowers to be placed in their windows over Sunday. More than 100,000 blooms have been given out by the florists during the "Say It with Flowers" week.

The Evening Star Newspaper Co. received a gift of flowers from the florists in appreciation of the help extended in advertising the campaign. Editors of the other local newspapers were recipients of similar gifts.

A particularly fine bouquet was presented to Mrs. Woodrow Wilson by the Various Notes.

The Louise Flower Shop has booked a number of important weddings for this month. It has been doing a large amount of decorating work. Sam Maston is with this firm; before serving in France he was with George Shaffer.

Fred Leapley has a quantity of important work on hand, including several large weddings. G. V. S.

The Market.

Last week was a most depressing one climatically, with only one partly clear day at its close. This had an adverse effect on business, which proved to be quite poor until November 8, when it braced up encouragingly. November 10 and 11 the market had an improved tone, due in considerable measure to the "Say It with Flowers" campaign being waged by all local florists during the present week.

Roses, which have been selling at low prices of late, have now advanced and, with the gradual passing of the chrysanthemum wave, will do better. Arrivals are considerably reduced, owing to the colder and less sunny weather experienced. The newer varieties continue to have first call, with Columbia, Premier, Hadley and Ophelia in especial favor. American Beauties are less plentiful and move better. Carnations, which sold low most of last week, improved November 8 under the impetus of heavy buying from another city. Only a fractional part of the violets seen in former years are arriving. Growers are dropping them for other crops and those who still retain them are getting only a fractional part of their usual crop. Prices went as high as $1.50 per hundred November 8 and 10.

Chrysanthemums have reached their crest and will now gradually come in reduced numbers. Major Bonnaffon easily tops all others in favor, White Rager coming next in popularity, with Chieftain third. There is a good call for pompons and singles. Cosmos is fairly plentiful, but sells slowly. Lilies are scarce, but callas are more plentiful. Calendulas are in good supply and there are nice Paper Whites coming in from several growers.

Florists' Association.

There was a good attendance at the meeting of the Boston Florists' Association held at the Parker House November 4. Henry Penn presided and Major P. F. O'Keefe made an excellent address on flower publicity, giving many valuable pointers for the "Say It with Flowers" week which was to open November 9 and which was much discussed. A substantial sum was added to the amount previously subscribed toward the expenses of the week's campaign, which raised the total sum to nearly $1,500. Three new members were elected.

There were some interesting exhibits, which included Rose Frank W. Dunlop, from the A. N. Pierson Co., Cromwell, Conn.; Rose Pilgrim, from the Montgomery Rose Co., Hadley, Mass.; yellow and white chrysanthemums, from W. R. Nicholson, Framingham, Mass., and Chrysanthemum Mrs. J. Leslie Davis, a lavender pink sport of William Turner, from Charles H. Totty, Madison, N. J. A basket of choice roses and chrysanthemums was sent to Governor Calvin Coolidge from the association, with congratulations on his sweeping victory in the state election that day.

The committee in charge of the "Say It with Flowers" week consists of W. R. Nicholson, Sidney Hoffman, W. C. Stickel, C. F. Boyle, Andrew Christensen, J. M. Cohen, H. H. Bartsch and B. F. Letson.

bride's bouquet was composed of Dendrobium formosum giganteum and Bouvardia Humboldtii. The bridesmaids carried Cattleya labiata. This new store has been greatly developed and beautified within the last few weeks and is doing an excellent business. The rare books exhibited here attracted much attention and the Beacon Transcript gave them an extended notice.

Henry R. Comley reports good fall business, well ahead of a year ago, with a number of wedding orders booked. Mr. Comley always has some attractive novelties in his windows and is taking an active part in the "Say It with Flowers" week campaign now in progress.

Thos. F. Galvin's windows are unusually attractive this week. At the Park street store one window is filled with specimen cyclamens, another with pot chrysanthemums and autumn foliage

CANADIAN GREENS FOR AMERICAN FLORISTS

Cedar—Beautiful dark green. Read what our satisfied customers say of it:

McKenna's, Montreal, say:—"We have been using your cedar to good advantage during the past two years and have found it excellent and an agreeable change from Galax and Magnolia. In making up wreaths more especially it beats anything offered; having kept same all winter without losing a single spray is another most encouraging feature. Please ship 10 m."

Dunlop's, Toronto, say:—"Send us 10 m. cedar, have been using them now two years; their keeping qualities enable us to have them on hand at all times; in fact it is so now that we cannot do without them."

Stewart's Seed Store, Omaha:—"Answering your favor of July 17th, beg to advise that we were extremely well pleased with the cedar which you shipped us this past year, and will have use for quite a heavier amount for the ensuing season. Will also be interested in the natural branches when they are seasonable."

August Von Boeselager, Mt. Clemens, Mich.: "I certainly like your cedar very much. I never saw foliage keep as well as the cedar."

"The cedar branches sent me last season, both long and short, were fine color. Keeping qualities all that could be desired. They are quite an addition to high class greens. Let me know when you are ready to ship.

Very respectfully,
MRS. E. A. WILLIAMS,

Ferns Lomaria spicant (Deer Fern). A handsome dark green variety—good keeping qualities. Runs from 12 to 20 inches in length and very graceful. One wholesale house is ordering a million and a half of them. They only weigh 7 lbs. to 1000.

The Cedar is put up in bundles of 100 fronds of 9 inches, and also loose sprays, sold by the pound. These run from 12 to 20 inches in length. If your wholesale dealer has not got these goods, send $5.00 for a sample carton of Greens.

and a third with a grand lot of orchids, including such varieties as Vanda cærulea, Dendrobium formosum gigan-teum, oncidiums, cattleyas in variety and Cypripedium insigne Sanderæ.

John J. O'Brien, on Beacon street, has one of the largest and best equipped retail stores in Boston, with a depth of ninety feet and proportionate width. The show cases are large and contain a selection of the choicest flowers in season. Included are first-class gardenias, orchids in large variety and splendid bouvardia. An immense business is done in pot plants, only the highest grade stock being handled. Frank Houghton, late of the Houghton-Gorney Co., and John Cook, late of the Rosery, are among the experts on the staff of this up-to-date store.

At the Houghton-Gorney Co. store below the Park street church, crotons, chrysanthemums and cyclamens are leaders among pot plants. Orchids, such as yellow cypripediums, white dendrobiums, cattleyas and oncidiums, are prominently featured here and business is good. E. S. Gorney is secretary of the new Florists' Association.

At Penn's the campaign for publicity opened November 8 with large, impressive ads in the Boston papers and the store is a bower of floral beauty this week. Henry Penn is working indefatigably for the success of the "Say It with Flowers" week.

At the store of Wax Bros. the "Say It with Flowers" slogan is prominently displayed and this progressive firm has its full share of orders, including a good number of weddings. Martin Wax is specially proud of a 12-pound lake trout caught in Maine last summer with a 6-ounce rod. The fish is now on display in the windows of Dame, Stoddard & Kendall.

Philip L. Carbone states that it is becoming increasingly difficult to secure antiques, statuary, tapestries, etc., abroad, as Europeans are waking up to their worth and are now prepared to give more for them than are Americans. The importations this season are sold soon after arrival. I noted here numbers of well flowered polyantha roses and French hydrangeas and a beautiful lot of specimen Otaheite oranges. Orders for weddings, dinners and other social functions are keeping the staff here busy.

At Hamlin the Florist's, in the Little building, the newest of Boston's retail stores, business is running smoothly and a good clientele of customers is being secured. Nothing but praise is heard from all who visit this store.

Various Notes.

The "Say It with Flowers" week opened auspiciously in Boston November 10. In all directions the "Say It with Flowers" slogan is in evidence, not only in store windows, but on autos, delivery wagons, etc. November 11, Armistice day, the numerous retailers' autos went to the wholesale markets and secured flowers contributed by growers, salesmen or retailers for distribution to the sixty or more Boston hospitals. Everyone seems full of enthusiasm and the work done this week will stimulate the cut flower trade not only temporarily, but permanently.

At Horticultural hall no chrysanthemum show was held this year. There was a small exhibition November 8, but prizes were offered only for fruits and vegetables. W. H. Golby, gardener to E. A. Clark, had a handsome lot of specimen chrysanthemum blooms, including Mrs. R. C. Pulling, Meudon, Nag-ir-roc, Mrs. W. H. Duhl, Mrs. Drabble, Rose Pockett and Wm. Rigby. W. C. Rust showed a finely flowered specimen of Begonia Pink Perfection, one of the English winter-flowering type. Peter Arnott, from the E. S. Webster estate, showed the handsome Cypripedium Doris, carrying a spike with fourteen flowers. To each of these last two exhibits a silver medal was awarded, and also to Donald McKenzie, gardener to

GET READY FESTOON WINDING MACHINES

Seventh year on the market. Two types. Makes all kinds of Festooning. Type No. 1 will wrap on any size wire, string or twine used for its center. One turn with handle gives two wraps on festooning. Center wire can be measured before Festooning is wound, which eliminates measuring of Festooning. Type No. 2: Fine wire or string is used for the center, one turn with handle gives one wrap on Festooning. Does equally as good work as Type No. 1. We furnish machines ready for work, with enough wire to make 500 yards. Three days' trial allowed. Money refunded if machine is not what you want. Prices: Type No. 1, $12.00; Type No. 2, $6.00. E. B. Dane, for Cypripedium Dreadnaught.

Thomas F. Galvin, Jr., has opened a retail store at 260 Devonshire street, where Dolansky & McDonald were formerly located.

Frank J. Reynolds, for a number of years with the Welch Bros. Co., has opened a wholesale commission business with stalls in the Boston Coöperative Market. He is receiving shipments from several large growers and plans to do a large shipping business.

George Anson, orchid grower for A. C. Burrage, Beverly Farms, will give a stereopticon lecture on orchids at the meeting of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club November 18. Exhibits of orchids and other flower novelties will be a feature. Nominations of officers for 1920 will be made at this meeting.

There is a marked decrease in receipts of violets here of late years, and this season fewer flowers than ever are being received. Many growers have given up their culture as unprofitable and others have reduced their plantings. One of the most successful growers, William Spillsbury, of Woburn, Mass., states that he is not getting over 1,000 flowers daily where he should pick 5,000, that the plants are variable in size and vigor and that their culture is becoming a lottery. A. T. Kidder grew 25,000 plants in the field, from which he selected 8,000 to house. Others, like James Shannon, of Woburn, report similar conditions. With Princess of Wales violet now in cultivation for nearly a quarter of a century, it looks as though the constitution of this once splendid variety had so weakened as to compel growers to drop it and secure a substitute if one is available.

H. E. Hood, of Manchester, N. H., gave the wholesale market a little fillip November 8 by purchasing 10,000 carnations for a Red Cross drive in that city.

Anderson Bros., of Woburn, Mass., are cutting nice lots of such chrysanthemums as Mrs. Bowe, Mrs. W. Buckingham, Klondyke, Dotty, Bonnaffon, Chieftain and Rager, also sweet peas in variety.

Bouvardia is proving extremely popular in Boston this season. The white, sweet-scented Humboldtii is in especial favor. John W. Foote has a large house from which he is just starting to cut some splendid stalks. He also grows several colored varieties.

Everett E. Cummings, of Woburn, Mass., for years one of our largest growers of single violets, has dropped their culture as being unprofitable and now grows chrysanthemums and sweet peas, both of which he is now shipping in large quantities. He follows these with cucumbers and tomatoes.

Robert S. Edgar, formerly of Waverley, Mass., is now president and manager of the Leominster Floral Co., of which J. Fuller is treasurer. They are centrally located for shipping trade and intend to use their 30,000 feet of glass as a plant factory to accommodate Worcester and Fitchburg, which are both near-by. Mr. Edgar is an excellent plantsman and is sure to make good at Leominster.

H. J. Borowski & Son, of Mount Hope street, Roslindale, Mass., have a fine lot of specimen cyclamens and begonias for the holidays. They have also excellent batches for later use of rambler roses, bougainvilleas and azaleas.

Safepack Mills, 727 Atlantic avenue, have recently established a packing service department, to advise shippers without charge concerning safe and economical methods of boxing, crating, baling and bundling. This department is under the supervision of Captain Harry N. Knowlton, formerly chief of packing service, Ordnance Department. Before the war Captain Knowlton was an engineer at the forest products laboratory of the United States Forest Service, Madison, Wis., where the government made exhaustive tests of containers of various sorts, lumber, paper and other packing materials.

Eugene, Ore.—David Masterton, the University Florist, has opened a stand in a downtown bookstore with gratifying results.

Victoria, B. C.—G. W. Riddle and associates have just built a range of five connected houses, each 25x150, with 7-foot gutters.

Glendale, Cal.—George C. Goode has recently enlarged his equipment for growing plants under cloth for the Christmas trade.

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

The Market.

Retailers report heavy funeral orders last week and wholesalers also shipped out a good deal of made-up work to the smaller towns. Business shows more vim now than at any time since last season and, as the mums are past the height of their season, stock of all kinds is likely to go to much higher prices. Roses are improving in quality and are better than they have been for a long time. These are about equal to the demand, with a slight oversupply some days. Indoor and field carnations are both plentiful and good, but are much higher in price than usual at this season of the year. Dahlias and gladioli still hold out, but are not seen in such quantities as recently. Small flowers are of good quality and equal to the demand. Ferns and greens are more plentiful.

Various Notes.

Two of the happiest looking men in the trade this week are Mr. Royston and Mr. Williamson, of Armacost & Co. They have moved into their new store on Fourth street, where they have the entire new building, 50x110 feet. In front, on one side, are the offices, and back of these are three built-in ice-boxes, covering a space 10x40 feet. Through the center are elevated shelves for baskets, while in the rear is the packing and shipping department. Altogether, it is one of the largest and best equipped wholesale stores in the country and the firm is to be warmly congratulated on its enterprise. A carload of magnolia leaves arrived just in time for the new place and a second carload of baskets is about due.

Fred Burki, president of the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., Pittsburgh, and his son have been here several weeks and are likely to make a much more extended visit.

Roy Wilcox returned from Council Bluffs November 4.

Marc Germain, president of the Germain Seed & Plant Co., has a predilection for high flying, visiting Catalina island by the aeroplane route last week.

Wright's Flower Shop is showing elegant rose stock from the greenhouses and Tom Wright says they have never before had the place in such fine condition as now.

The L. A. Floral Co. reports that the shipping of plants, as well as cut flowers, is on the increase.

James Taylor, for several years superintendent of Loughlin park, Hollywood, is busy with landscape work on the new Stock continues to sell easily. There was a scarcity of a number of varieties and prices are gradually tightening. The great amount of shipping this season has about cleaned up the large chrysanthemums and those that are left are bringing good prices. There are still many of the Chinese-grown mums in market, of fine quality and coloring; these are filling in nicely and taking the place of the larger blooms satisfactorily in most instances. Roses, with the exception of the stock of one or two growers who got an early start this year, are scarce. Prices of good roses are well up and the demand is strong.

Violets are fine now and shippers report an excellent business, the demand being large enough to keep prices on a satisfactory level.

There was a scarcity last week of both orchids and gardenias, just at a time when a quantity could be used, for weddings have been particularly numerous in San Francisco recently. In addition to the weddings, there have been many coming-out parties, calling for decorations, corsages and floral gifts for the debutantes. There is more work of this character this season than there has been since the beginning of the war.

Halloween work just about cleaned up the retail establishments on cut stock. A good many social affairs of considerable size were given in observance of the day and many of the decorations were elaborate.

Outdoor stock is still good. There have been no frosts of consequence as yet.

Carnations have been more plentiful than for some time. The present crop, although not producing any large blooms, permits good cutting and the prices are first-rate.

Ferns are in much better condition now and are more plentiful. Besides the varieties used with cut flowers, the potted stock for holiday trade is arriving and some of it seems to be quite good. Cyclamen plants are also in now, and while the early plants are, of course, smaller than those of December will be, they are in good condition and find ready buyers.

Various Notes.

Of vital interest to local shippers is the announcement of the American Railway Express Co. in relation to refrigerator cars out of San Francisco. Although it is rather late in the day, it is nevertheless good news to learn that a car will leave here each Wednesday and Friday, going as far east as Chicago, making the trip via Ogden and Omaha. The only regret of those to whom this service will be of use is that such service was not inaugurated at the start of the mum season.

C. Kooyman & Co. are practically cleaned up on the early stock of bulbs, but expect to have a new lot of the later shipment in before long.

Domoto Bros. state that violets are moving much better now. This firm is busy at the nursery with new bulbs, which are arriving on every steamer from the Orient. Already four shipments of Japanese stock have come in and Mr. Domoto says he is expecting several more. Much of this stock is sold to growers on the Pacific coast and the rest is to be grown by the Domoto interests.

The United Flower & Supply Co. reports having an abundance of violets just now, but is getting rather low on large chrysanthemums and roses. A supply of goldfish arrived recently, enough to meet a good part of the local demand. The fancy bowls, with their accompanying decorations in the form of polished pebbles, lotus buds and other water plants, are quite popular and the sale of them has brought in considerable revenue to the florists, who vie with each other in producing original and artistic effects in "homes for goldfish."

J. A. Axell has been fortunate in keeping a good selection of roses this season and in addition to his shipping business is supplying local florists with some fine blooms.

Roy Wilcox, of Los Angeles, was in San Francisco for a day or two last week on his way home from an eastern trip.

Congratulating Mayor James Rolph, Jr., on his reëlection November 4, the Three Hundred and Sixty-third Infantry, to whom the genial mayor was known as "Dad," sent a huge basket of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums to their patron. The floral offering was arranged by Pelicano, Rossi & Co. This was only a small part of the congratulatory gifts that Mayor Rolph received, as many of the local florists filled orders of this kind on the following day.

a visitor in San Francisco recently. Mr. Moore spent all of his time looking for Christmas stock. He states that business in Sacramento is quite good just now, many social affairs supplying plenty of work.

Last week Joseph's window made a most attractive autumnal picture, with its baskets and vases in bronze tones filled with chrysanthemums and maple leaves. Garlands of eucalyptus and acacia leaves tinted in autumn colors were looped from the ceiling above the window, forming a canopy which created a charming impression of frost-tinted woods. George Wagner, who has the larger part of the decorating in charge, expects to make a special trip to Sacramento soon to arrange the floral work for a wedding to be held in that city November 14.

An attractive color scheme was worked out by Mrs. Copeland at a church wedding last week. Gray-toned acacia leaves were combined with pink chrysanthemums and hydrangeas, giving a delicate atmosphere to the affair, different from the usual color combinations at this season.

The Art Floral Co. reports an excellent demand for corsages lately. The shop is resplendent with a new electric sign in the form of a single red rose, which is hung just above the name of the shop. A. Cuneo, the head decorator, is now able to devote more attention to the windows, as he is relieved from some of the other work by the addition of William Scanlon to the force. Mr. Cuneo has used decorated bowls recently in place of the usual flower baskets, with the result that the windows have attracted considerable attention. Mr. Scanlon has recently returned to the florists' business after a period of work in the shipyards. Prior to the war he was a member of the A. O. Stein staff.

Weddings have kept the MacRorie-McLaren Co. busy lately. In addition to the large affair at the Bohemian Club, a number of smaller ceremonies were decorated by this firm. The landscape department is also exceptionally busy and many contracts are under way for this season. Donald McLaren has just returned from a trip to the southern part of the state in regard to work of this department.

Charles McAuliff, who was a member

The Valley Seed Co., of Sacramento, Cal., was one of the participants in the Halloween Ad Masque which was given in that city last week. The concern, which deals in seeds, bulbs, etc., demonstrated its business through the medium of orchard and garden produce.

SEATTLE, WASH.

The Market.

So far no ill effect has been felt from the general social unrest, and it is improbable that the coal strike will in any way affect the growers, even though the government has confiscated all coal in this section. Wood is plentiful and near at hand in this part of the country.

The light winter rains were much against business last week; yet the general report is that business has been good and stock in general somewhat more plentiful, though some varieties, such as carnations, are still scarce.

Some fine local mums are arriving on the market and quantity and quality will improve towards Thanksgiving. Large shipments of California mums are still reaching this market and the condition of the stock depends largely on its packing, which varies a great deal among the California shippers.

The Hollywood Gardens.

Mr. Meyers, manager of the range of glass connected with the Hollywood Gardens, made a tour of the retail stores visting his many friends, whom he has not seen for three months. The trade is pleased to see that he weathered the storm and has completely recovered from the shock he received when his men went on strike at the Hollywood Farm last summer.

Mr. Meyers reports a fine average cut of roses at the Hollywood Gardens; they have so far cut 20,700 roses from 6,400 plants. The varieties are Ophelia, Russell and Columbia, the main cut being Ophelia, which, being of such a fine, deep, copper pink in color, is easily the favorite. A large cut of mums of leading varieties will be received in the store for Thanksgiving. At present they are shipping carnations and the store is receiving some good potted pompons of dwarf varieties.

The new store of the Hollywood Gardens is at the corner of Second and Stewart streets, one block above their former place of business. The coloring and decoration of the store are different from any other in the city, being carried out in a turquoise blue, with fixtures, such as a large display icebox, etc., to match. lamps give the place a distinction all its own.

The work of making up the designs is carried on in a well lighted basement and Mr. Peterson can be found at work here at all hours of the day.

Various Notes.

H. A. Crouch, of the Woodlawn Flower Shop, has been making short trips through the country rounding up stock for the holidays. He reports stock scarce, but he thinks that with the aid of a few California shipments he will weather the rush.

C. E. McCoy will not be contented until he is located in the new store on Second avenue. The rebuilding of the old structure forced them into their present close quarters on Third avenue.

Had it not been for the carpenters' strike, Seattle could by this time boast of an additional up-to-date store. When completed, it will be under the management of Mr. Goldsbury, formerly with Rosaia Bros., of this city. The opening time is at present indefinite, but Mr. Goldsbury is in hopes of being in time for Thanksgiving.

Rosaia Bros. still maintain a fine showing of cyclamens and primulas. Last week they received some large shipments of California violets and mums, used chiefly in an interior decoration of one of Seattle's leading suit houses, the bunches of violets being presented to the visitors. George Rosaia made an enjoyable short visit in Portland, Ore., last week and said he received a royal reception from the florists of that city. P. T. C.

TORONTO, ONT.

The Market.

Cut flowers are selling well and the increase in receptions is making a big demand. Almost every florist had several decorations for receptions last week and the demand for design work keeps up.

The outlook for supply is good. A visit to some of the greenhouses shows that there will be a big quantity of stock available at an early date. The mum show of this week ushers in the busy fall season, which will culminate in the Christmas week rush.

"Say It with Flowers" Parade.

The Toronto Retail Florists' Club held a big "Say It with Flowers" celebration November 7, the feature of which was a large parade in which all the retail florists joined, with their trucks and cars suitably decorated.

The parade, with the Victory Loan band at its head, assembled in front of the club rooms, where the lady members, assisted by several other volunteers, were receiving donations of flowers and packing them in boxes. With the trucks filled, the parade visited all the military hospitals, where committees of ladies distributed the flowers to the sick and disabled soldiers.

The visitors were given a great reception at the different hospitals, but the one which made the greatest impression was probably at Pearson hall, the home of the blind veterans. The parade arrived here just at supper-time and the soldiers met the ladies with the flowers and gave three cheers for the ladies and the Retail Florists' Club.

Thousands of roses, carnations and chrysanthemums were donated by members of the club and two or three of the growers. They made a beautiful display. In fact, the local papers sent along photographers to take pictures for the Saturday night editions. The motion picture man was also on hand and pictures of the display and the parade will be shown in the local motion picture theaters. J. J. H.

Seed Trade News

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.

President, E. C. Dungan, Philadelphia, Pa.; secretary-treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

SHORTAGE of this year's crop of Spencer sweet peas is being felt now.

LESTER L. MORSE celebrated his forty-ninth birthday anniversary November 9.

THE Nishna Valley Seed Co., Shenandoah, Ia., specializes on seed corns, field, flint, sugar and pop. The officers are: President, P. C. Ambler; treasurer, F. P. Nye; secretary, L. V. Hyde.

THE Western Seed & Irrigation Co., Fremont, Neb., has established a seed growing, receiving and shipping station at Rocky Ford, Colo., in order to place a sufficient acreage to handle its trade.

J. J. BUDLONG, onion set grower, pickle packer and bank president, has announced that forty-five of the employees of the Lakeview Trust & Savings Bank will receive a bonus equal to ten per cent of their annual salaries, payable in December, in lieu of a raise in wages.

KENNETH EARL, son of Howard M. Earl, of the Jerome B. Rice Seed Co., Cambridge, N. Y., received the highest rating in a competitive examination before the Civil Service Commission in Philadelphia recently and has been appointed to the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

IN view of what is heard from Japan regarding the price ideas of the lily bulb growers, this year's prices for giganteums will look cheap twelve months from now. But there is a prospect that several importers have had enough trouble this season so they may let the other fellows play the game alone next season.

BULB DEALERS' PREDICAMENT.

Bulb jobbers are not unfamiliar with the problems arising from the late arrival of stock, because it was December last year before they received their shipments. Nevertheless, the protracted delays at the docks in New York this year are causing much concern. The situation is described by C. C. Pollworth, of Milwaukee, who said November 7:

"We are in the same fix as most of the other dealers around here. Instead of being able to fill orders, we are receiving cancellations due to the largest part of our shipments being tied up at the docks in New York. A large proportion of our imports are distributed through the northwest, where our customers already have had zero weather and lots of snow. There is hardly any possibility of planting any more bulbs outside. When we receive our shipments, which are a month or six weeks overdue because of the stevedores' strike in New York, we may have a large surplus to offer and we shall have to look to southern trade to dispose of them."

SEED GROWERS' TROUBLES.

Members of the seed trade have not trod a path of roses during the last few seasons, or, if their way was strewn with flowers, not all the growths had been dethorned. It is characteristic of the seedsman, however, that he takes his trouble good-naturedly. Even the seed growers do, and surely they have had more than their share of perplexities. This is the way William Emerson, widely known as manager of the Western Seed & Irrigation Co., refers to the present situation:

"We are paying higher prices for seed this year and higher prices for labor and operating expenses, but, unfortunately, the poor devil of a seedsman is expected to sell his seeds at a closer margin than ever before, instead of at a higher price. We are selling seeds at a lower price than we did a year ago, but even then there are others more fortunate, or possibly we should say more unfortunate, because they are underselling us, and it is hard to tell when or where or how it will end. It seems everything else on earth is going higher except seeds and we do not know if it is because the seed growers have been too enthusiastic and patriotic in trying to produce, or if it is simply our just or unjust dues."

The silver lining in the cloud lies in the fact that, one way or another, the seed growers, with all their troubles, seem to be a pretty continuously successful lot.

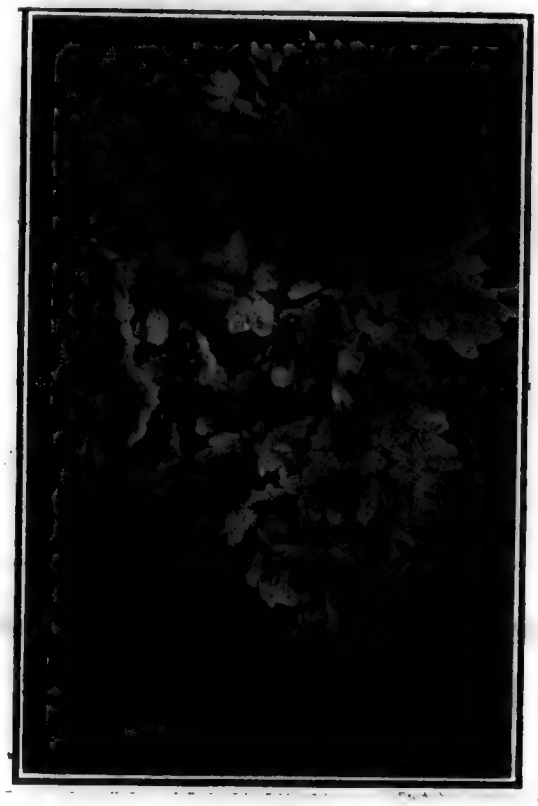
ONION SET TRADE GOOD.

Knud Gundestrup, of Gundestrup's Seed Store, Chicago, writes:

"The onion set trade has been excellent. Fall shipments are over, but there are many inquiries for shipment early next year and prices are good and firm.

"I am now busy receiving shipments of seed from Europe. I had two large shipments on the steamer Frederick VIII from Copenhagen. This steamer had to go to Philadelphia to be unloaded, as the strike was still on when the boat arrived at New York. I expect several more shipments of Danish seed on the next steamer from Copenhagen."

IMPORTS OF GRASS SEED.



The following table, prepared in the seed laboratory of the Bureau of Plant Industry, United States Department of Agriculture, shows the amount of the various kinds of forage plant seeds subject to the seed importation act permitted entry into the United States during the month of October, 1919, as compared with the corresponding month in the previous year:

DUTCH BULBS COMING ON.

Consignments of Holland bulbs are moving from New York now that the dock strike is over. Some cases have been received by dealers, but many will be delayed by the congestion on the wharves. Unloading is going on as rapidly as the stevedores are able to work.

Extra Selected Seed

A very fine double strain of this popular greenhouse forcing annual. ¼ oz., 50c; oz. $1.50.

CINERARIAS

S. & W. Company's Giant Flowering Mixed. This strain of Prize Cineraria is grown for us by a famous English seed specialist. The flowers seldom measure less than 3 inches in diameter, comprising the following colors: White, rose, flesh, crimson, blue, violet, etc. The plants are of a very robust dwarf habit, which, combined with the mass of giant blooms, makes this strain exceedingly valuable. Trade pkt., $1.00; pkt., 25 cts.

CYCLAMEN SEED

The plants from which this seed is produced are selected only from those of superior bloom and foliage.

MIGNONETTE

S. & W. Co.'s Triumph. This Mignonette is one of the choicest varieties for winter forcing. In type similar to Allen's Defiance, except that spikes are more compact and the individual florets are much larger in size. Seed of this grand variety is grown in our greenhouses, and is saved from the best spikes. Plants grow from 2 to 3 feet high, producing flower-spikes up to 20 inches long. Florists should try this Mignonette. Pkt., 25 cts.; oz., $6.00.

Allen's Defiance. Popular florists' variety; our strain is the best procurable. Pkt., 10 cts.; oz., $1.50.

Huge piles of cargo fill the docks and the forwarding company which is able to seize its cases as they appear and cart them away before they are buried, is fortunate. Extraordinary efforts are being made to relieve congestion and forward consignments. So growers may hope for their supply ere long.

Last week twenty-nine cases more of Holland bulbs reached New York, on the steamer Nieuw Amsterdam, from Rotterdam, which arrived November 5. The total for the season is now 35,964 cases.

BUFFALO, N. Y.

The Market.

Chrysanthemums are in full control of the market. While this is true every chrysanthemum season, it perhaps has never been so evident. The supply is as great as last year's and is moving well at firm prices. The buying public has never had so great an interest in this flower as it is displaying now. Is it the coöperative publicity? At least one thing is a fact; every shop gets customers who mention that they have read in the Sunday Courier about the autumn queen and the baby pompons.

Carnations have accumulated and dropped in price. It is reported by many that these do not sell at any price just now and that they are carried in stock because customers ask for them through habit, but they buy chrysanthemums. Of roses there is a fine stock of the best grades and varieties, selling at a low figure.

Various Notes.

The advertising fund has become a fact. The only question now is, "Where shall we put up the 'Say It with Flowers' signs?" Many good places exist, Wallace Eiss says; the only thing to do is to invest more money and keep putting the signs up.

Fred White, employed at the greenhouses of G. Basler, has bought some land on the outskirts of the city and will grow gladioli and asters next year.

The retail florists met last week and decided that Sunday closing was such a success that they should continue to remain closed. In advising all retailers of this fact, the announcement argues, "For the sake of your future, observe Sunday and forget the few dollars you might not get on Sunday." F. P. A.

Robert A. Scott left November 7 on a hunting trip.

WISCONSIN STATE FLORISTS' ASSOCIATION

J. K. Rugowski, Manitowoc, Wis. September 15, 1919.

Dear Sir:---In the name of the Wisconsin State Florists' Ass'n, I wish to thank you for your exhibit of both the pink and white Asters, at our annual meeting held at Milwaukee, September 12th.

I am transmitting herewith the resolution passed at that meeting, endorsing these asters as being a very meritorious flower. It was the sense of the resolution that these Asters be endorsed by the association as having the largest flower and longest stems and in every way being superior to any aster thus far seen in the market. It is with pleasure, indeed, that I am permitted to send this message.

With best wishes for the future success of this flower, I am, Yours very truly,
WISCONSIN STATE FLORISTS' ASS'N,
H. J. Seel, Secretary.

Early Tulips—Rose Luisante, Prince of Austria, Ophir d'Or, Keizerskroon, Murillo, $3.50 per 100, $34.00 per 1000.

Darwin Tulips—The following list is a selection of varieties that we plant extensively ourselves. We have made trials of 150 varieties and these are the best out of the entire lot, for forcing under glass. Some of them are well known and others ought to be. Salmon: Ariadne, Anton Roosen. Pink: King Harold. Those are all $3.50 per 100 and $34.00 per 1000. White with lilac: Guden, fine for pots, $3.50 per 100, $34.00 per 1000. Dal Ongaro, the finest one of this color, $4.50 per 100, $42.00 per 1000. Marconi, chestnut brown, with white pencil stripes at the bottom, enormously large flower, fine for pans, $4.50 per 100, $42.00 per 1000. King Harold, red, $3.50 per 100, $34.00 per 1000. Gorgeous, reddish lilac, a pleasing and attractive color, a trifle lighter than Copeland, forces very early, and good stem, also good for pans. If you want the best Darwin order some of this variety at $5.00 per 100, $45.00 per 1000.

Narcissi—Golden Spur, double-nose, $5.00 per 100, $45.00 per 1000. Emperor, double-nose, $5.00 per 100, $45.00 per 1000. Victoria, $5.00 per 100, $48.00 per 1000. Aspasia, $3.00 per 100, $28.00 per 1000.

NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

CALIFORNIA NURSERYMEN.

Meet at Chico.

The ninth annual meeting of the California Association of Nurserymen attracted a large gathering at Chico this week, for during the same week the annual state convention of fruit growers and farmers and also the state association of county horticultural commissioners were in session. The nurserymen's sessions open Thursday morning, November 13, called to order by President Wm. T. Kirkman, Jr., of the Kirkman Nurseries, Fresno. To the welcome of Dr. E. B. Copeland, president of the Chico Chamber of Commerce, George F. Otto, of San Diego, chairman of the executive committee, responds, followed by the president's address and the report of Secretary-Treasurer Henry W. Kruckeberg, of Los Angeles.

"Trade signs of the time" were stated by the association in its convention program in the following words: "Prevailing trade conditions call for intelligent coöperative action, for the standardization of nursery products in both the economics and ornamentals, for a broader knowledge of costs of production and good salesmanship, for a higher efficiency and better standards of labor in nursery row and office, for just and equitable relations between horticultural authorities, the commercial plantsmen and the fruit growers, for a get-together movement that will give the nursery industry rank with the great financial, mercantile and manufacturing industries of the country."

Committee Reports.

Reports of special committees are scheduled as follows:

Membership—R. M. Teague, San Dimas.
Finance—John S. Armstrong, Ontario.
Vacuum fumigation—David B. Mackie, Los Angeles.
Experiment station coöperation — Leonard Coates, Morganhill.
Standard fruit tree caliper—George C. Roeding, Fresno.
Standardizing fruit varieties—J. E. Bergtholdt, Newcastle.
Best types of French prunes—Leonard Coates, Morganhill.

Reports of standing committees will be made by the following members:

Legislation—George C. Roeding, Fresno.
Insects and disease—George H. Hecke, Sacramento.
Transportation—J. D. Meriwether, Ontario.
Deciduous fruits—Max J. Crow, Gilroy.
Citrus and tropical fruits—D. W. Coolidge, Pasadena.
Viticulture—Frank T. Swett, Martinez.
Gardens—Fred H. Howard, Los Angeles.
Plants and flowers—E. James, Oakland.
Native vegetation—Theodore Payne, Los Angeles.
Arboriculture—John J. Reeves, Beverly Hills.
Nomenclature—Leonard Coates, Morganhill.
Exhibitions—Adolph Ekstein, Modesto.
Program—C. W. Gandy, Modesto.

Addresses.

The program of addresses to be presented before the convention is as follows:

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1:30 P. M.

"Deciduous Fruit and Bud Selection," by George P. Weldon, pomologist at Chaffey College of Agriculture, Ontario.

"Our Greatest Problem Today," by J. E. Bergtholdt, secretary and manager of the Silva-Bergtholdt Co., Newcastle.

"Costs, Prices, Salesmanship, Credits," by W. R. Wood, of the R. M. Teague Citrus Nurseries, San Dimas.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 7:30 P. M.

"California Nurserymen, Fifth Decade," by Prof. E. J. Wickson, editor of the Pacific Rural Press, San Francisco.

"The Kadota (White Endrich) Fig," by W. Samuel Clark, of the Kadota Fig Nursery, Sultana.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 9:00 A. M.

"Plant Production and Quarantine 37," by Roy F. Wilcox, of Roy F. Wilcox & Co., Montebello.

"Some Plant Introductions," by E. A. Orpet, of the Bureau of Plant Industry, Department of Agriculture.

"Timely Notes on Vacuum Fumigation," by Harry S. Smith, superintendent of state insectary, Sacramento.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 1:30 P. M.

"Ferns for Outdoor Garden Ferneries," by H. Plath, of San Francisco.

"Future of Small Fruits in California," by H. A. Hyde, of Watsonville.

Friday evening, November 14, is scheduled as the "Nurserymen's Free Forum" for the open discussion of any subject of interest to the commercial plant industry.

Saturday is to be devoted to a tour of the growing establishments in and near Chico.

Ladies' Auxiliary.

While their husbands are in session, the Ladies' Auxiliary will hold its third annual meeting. The officers are: President, Mrs. John Vallance, of Oakland; treasurer, Mrs. Chas. E. Jackson, of Cupertino, and secretary, Mrs. Max J. Crow, of Gilroy.

SHIPMENT OF STOCK IN BOND.

With respect to the movement of nursery stock in bond through American ports to foreign countries, the Federal Horticultural Board has issued the following provisional ruling:

"The classes of plants enumerated in regulation 2, Quarantine No. 37, may pass through the United States in bond without permit or other compliance with the regulations. This is provided for in a paragraph of regulation 4 of the quarantine, which reads:

Permits are not required for nursery stock and other plants and seeds, not under quarantine or regulation, entering the United States for immediate transportation in bond to foreign countries.

"The classes of plants included in regulation 3 fall under 'Rules and Regulations Governing the Entry for Immediate Exportation of Prohibited Plants and Plant Products,' effective December 1, 1917, and may proceed to foreign countries in bond under the conditions indicated in regulation 7 of the regulations referred to. The permit shall be in the form of a letter in quadruplicate which shall detail the safeguards to be enforced and, if necessary, the routing of the shipment, one copy of which shall be filed with the board and one each sent to the importer, the customs officer and the inspector of the board at the port of arrival.

"Other plants or classes of plants and plant products for propagation not covered by regulations 2 and 3 may be entered for immediate transportation and exportation in bond to foreign countries under the same terms as plants covered in regulation 3, except as to plants which come with earth or soil about the roots or packed in earth or soil which has not been sterilized. As to such excepted plants, their entry for transportation across the country in bond is prohibited, but provision may be made for their immediate export to the country of destination by any available ocean route.

"In case of a mixed shipment which can not be conveniently separated or divided into the different classes, the whole shipment must be governed by the class subject to the greatest restrictions as to entry.

"Permits for classes 2 and 3 will be issued for each shipment; in other words, no open permits will be issued. These permits will be issued either from Washington or, when so authorized, by the inspectors at the ports of entry provided for in regulation 6 under Quarantine No. 37. Notification of arrival of such shipments provided for in regulation 10 must be made by the importer or his agent to the inspector of the board at the port of arrival, who, after inspection and determination of the nature of the shipment, will make the proper endorsement on the customs manifest, which document must be held until inspection has been made."

NEWARK, N. J.

The Market.

While the weather is cooler than it was, there is still a lack of frosts and many persons still have fall flowers in bloom in their gardens. Florists report that business is fair, however. The growers are getting their fall bulbs in.

Various Notes.

Charles J. Connolly, 320 Bank street, has been having considerable funeral work. There has also been much wedding work, but this is now dropping off.

Charles Luthy, 363 Springfield avenue, reports that business is good, but that there is not the snap to it that there should be. R. B. M.

PLANT IRIS

Why Wing's Iris? BECAUSE we have imported and are growing commercially most of the greatest and newest originations of the European hybridists. BECAUSE these can no longer be imported, due to the Exclusion Act. BECAUSE we offer what is probably the most extensive collection of fine Iris in the world. BECAUSE we guarantee good, strong roots, true to name. BECAUSE our prices are right.

FLORISTS' REVIEW

WHEN WRITING ADVERTISERS

MILWAUKEE, WIS.

The Market.

About the same condition prevails in the market as was reported last week—plenty of stock, with prices low in proportion to the value of flowers offered.

In fairness to those concerned with handling the supply and those laboring to create a demand, it should be said that Milwaukee has suffered less in the last two weeks than any other city of its size, according to personal observation and reports from other markets. Prices are below normal, but production has been farther above and striking an average between the two shows that Milwaukee has fared well. Our patrons are using an amount of flowers that would tax our ability, were the supply less and prices firmer.

Various Notes.

The Holton & Hunkel Co. continues to cut large mums in quantity, which have brought up to $6 per dozen for the best quality.

Saturday, November 8, was visiting day for the public at the new store of the E. Welke Co., on Third street. The store was crowded with patrons and well-wishers from early morning until a late hour.

Fred Gutermuth is bringing some clean and well grown mums of medium size to the market. Business has been good at the Gutermuth store on Winnebago street.

Gustave Pohl brought his first yellow Bonnaffons to market last week. Several thousand are still to be cut.

Nic Zweifel, formerly one of Milwaukee's largest carnation growers, is in California with his family for the winter.

Consignments of violets from Watertown are unusually light this year and do not meet the demand. There are few local violets.

Eric Johnson, of the cut flower department of the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago, was in Milwaukee Sunday, November 9, to procure some orchids, which he hurried back to Chicago and placed in a shipment for Memphis, Tenn.

Herbert Hecht, of Wertheimer Bros., New York, and Mat Schiltz, of the Ove Gnatt Co., La Porte, Ind., called on the trade last week.

The Florists' Advertising Club has procured space at the food, household and music exposition in the Auditorium, November 20 to 25, inclusive. There they will carry the message, "Say It with Flowers," to thousands of people.

FERNS

THE VICTORY FERN (Nephrolepis victoria)

We take pleasure in offering this new and valuable variety of Nephrolepis. It is a beautifully crested form of "Teddy, Jr.," with fronds frequently subdivided on the ends, making a most unique, distinct, and desirable variety.

This Fern was AWARDED A BRONZE MEDAL

at the S. A. F. Convention at Detroit in August, 1919. The judges of the award reported as follows: "Special stress is laid on the new fern, Victory, with a rapid growth and a branching at end of fronds, making it a shapely plant. It should be a commercial success, and

We Recommend it Most Highly."

The Market.

Last week business was a little more quiet than in the previous one. As a result, stock was quite plentiful. Chrysanthemums are everywhere in evidence. Good pompons in all colors are being displayed and some single and anemone types are also seen. Large mums are prominent in every flower shop window; yellow and white predominate. Pink flowers are in good demand, but have been a little short. Mums have been ranging in price from $1.25 to $6 per dozen.

Roses have been moving well at prices ranging from $3 to $15. Carnations, however, have been a drag and can be bought at bargain prices in large quantities. A few calla lilies have appeared and are being utilized.

In the last part of the week, business was a little more brisk. The Wabash-De Pauw football game caused large yellow and white chrysanthemums to be in heavy demand and several hundred were sold in this connection.

Potted plants have been in fair demand, with potted mums leading in popularity. Ferns, Jerusalem cherries and Gloire de Chatelaine begonias sell fairly well.

Greenhouse Heating

SUBSCRIBERS are invited to write the editor of this department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. When information is desired regarding the capacity of boilers, or the amount of radiation required for a greenhouse, the needed temperatures should be stated in the inquiry, as well as the amount of glass in the side walls, and the dimensions and general arrangement of the greenhouses. It is often helpful, also, to have a sketch showing the location of the houses.

ENOUGH FLOW PIPES.

I am building a greenhouse 20x105, with three feet of wall and three feet of glass above the wall, making the house six feet high at the eaves. I want to know if a 3-inch flow pipe with six 2-inch returns under the side benches will be sufficient to heat it to 60 degrees in zero weather. The west end is protected by the boiler house. I have cement piers eight feet apart for the return pipes to rest on. There is a drop of sixteen inches in the length of the house for the return pipes. I shall use a Lord & Burnham hot water heater.

W. L. W.—N. Y.

To heat a house 20x105, with three feet of glass in the side walls, we should use something over 1,000 square feet of radiation for 60 degrees in zero weather. Rather less than 850 square feet of radiation would be provided by the plan suggested by the inquirer. By careful attention to the firing in the coldest weather, it would be possible to maintain a temperature of practically 60 degrees with an efficient heater of ample size, provided the flow and return mains are of ample size. Using a 3-inch flow pipe as suggested, it would not be possible to get the best results from the system, since twelve 2-inch pipes 105 feet long are rather more radiation than it could handle to the best advantage.

We should suggest the use of either two 3-inch or three 2½-inch flow pipes, the latter being preferable, in addition to twelve 2-inch returns. This would bring up the radiation to the required amount and, as the increase in the number of flow pipes would improve the circulation, the efficiency of the coils would also be increased. If three flows are used, we should place one upon each plate and the other two feet under the ridge. The returns could be arranged in three coils of four pipes each, with one coil under the middle bench.

PIPING FOR FIVE HOTBEDS.

I am seeking information relative to heating beds with hot water pipes. In the beds where I sprout sweet potatoes, I wish to place the pipes under the soil. Judging from what I can learn, this has been done successfully. I have a Moninger sectional boiler, estimated to carry 2,000 feet of pipe. I am planning to have five beds, fifty feet long. The top of the boiler is about at the ground level of the beds, and the return is about three feet lower. I have 2-inch and 1½-inch pipe for this work, but the boiler is tapped for 3-inch pipe.

If the pipes were placed above the soil in the beds, one of the objectionable features would be this: In order to keep the pipes sufficiently above the

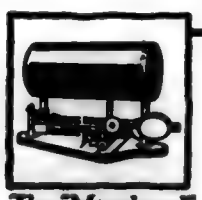
STEADY

A Uniform Temperature In Your Greenhouses

—every day of the year



ABSOLUTE CONTROL of temperature conditions in your greenhouses in June and January alike—is what you get from the easily installed Morehead System. Just attach the comparatively inexpensive Morehead Back-to-Boiler System to your present boiler room equipment and you can dismiss the winter months' problem from your mind.

Substituted for the steam pumps you are perhaps using now—the Morehead System will eliminate sluggish circulation forever—and keep all your steam pipes clear of condensation—returning it to the boilers immediately as pure, hot feed water—in just the condition to use again with the least consumption of fuel.

Now—before the frigid blasts of another winter are upon us—is the time to find out what the Morehead System can do for you. Write immediately for proof that the coal man actually pays for your Morehead System in a few months' time—as well as copies of letters from progressive florists who find the Morehead System invaluable in growing prize-winning flowers.

plants, the south side must be so high as to cause the plants to be spindling. Aside from the sweet potatoes, I wish also to use the beds for the plants transplanted from the greenhouse into boxes or flats. Could the flow pipe rise as much as six feet above the top of the boiler without retarding the flow of the water? How far should the coils be sunk below the soil at the beginning of the return and how much fall should they have in sixty feet? How many pipes should be used in a coil and how should the pipes be spaced? I shall use glass sashes, hotbed covers and muslin over these beds.

The horticultural department of Purdue University, the John C. Moninger Co., of Chicago, and the Frank A. Benthey Co., of Tipton, Ind., all referred me to The Review for this information. I hope you may be able to advise me. C. C.—Ind.

While a better circulation could be obtained if it were possible to have the top of the boiler as low as the level of the returns, good results can be secured with the boiler located as described. The plan of carrying the flow pipe up to the height of six feet is a good one, and if it can be run at approximately this height across the end of the hotbeds, all the better.

A 3-inch main flow and return between the boiler and the beds will be desirable and these mains can be reduced to 2-inch where they connect with the last bed. The flow and return pipe for each bed should be 2-inch. While it will be advisable to have the coils below the level of the soil in the beds, the flow pipe may be carried with a drop of about three inches along the north wall.

For use with glass sashes during the first half of April, three 1½-inch or two 2-inch pipes in the return coils will suffice. With three pipes they would be two feet apart, while with two pipes there would be a space of three feet between them. For earlier use one more return will be required. At the upper end the coils should be covered to a depth of six to eight inches for starting the sweet potatoes, but for beds in which flats are to be placed the pipes need not

Feed the Hot Condensate

Into the Boiler with Practically No Heat Loss

The FARNSWORTH BOILER FEEDER

Why FARNSWORTH MACHINES excel in service

1. Because they conserve the heat units in the condensation.
2. Provide better heating or drying by clearing the water out of the heating system or heated apparatus.
3. Pull a vacuum on sluggish return lines, clear the water and provide a free circulation of steam.
4. In addition to pulling a vacuum, the condensation is held under pressure and pumped under pressure directly into the boiler at a high temperature.
5. Eliminate piston or centrifugal type boiler feed pumps, feed water heaters, vacuum pumps, receiving tanks, floor space for the above mentioned, considerable piping, pipe covering, lubricating oils, packing, etc.
6. Feed water into boilers much hotter than pumps can or will handle it.
7. Prevent loss of heat units going up the vent pipe from receiving tanks.
8. Prevent loss of heat units going down the sewer from the overflow pipe of the average low pressure open feed water heater.
9. Use 75 to 90 per cent less steam than a piston or centrifugal type pump.
10. Feed condensation from high pressure traps, coils or heated apparatus directly into the boiler at a temperature over 300 degrees.
11. Create better circulation through heating system or heated apparatus so that less back pressure can be carried on the exhaust line of the engine.
12. Provide closed system and drain condensate under pressure so that no heat units are lost by radiating pressure before the water enters the boiler.
13. Drain vacuum systems, eliminate the vacuum pump and the necessity of operating high pressure boilers on vacuum systems.
14. Pull a higher vacuum on heating systems than any vacuum pump.
15. Use 90 per cent less steam than vacuum pumps.

Provides a Continuous Flow —Better Than Your Pumps

This is the machine that is daily proving itself the "Greatest coal saver ever offered the steam plant."
THE FARNSWORTH GUARANTEE is in back of every installation. Profit by its use.

The Farnsworth Duplex Boiler Feeder
THE ACME OF SIMPLICITY

Place this machine above your boilers. Discharge all your high pressure traps directly into it. Any L. P. condensation you have in scattered buildings drain to a Farnsworth Condensation Pump, which will pump it to this Farnsworth Duplex Boiler Feeder. By this Closed System all condensation is held under pressure and fed directly into boilers at a high temperature. This is our method of conserving heat units and thus saving coal.

be covered more than four or five inches. Just how much fall should be given will depend upon the care given to the grading of the pipes. Nothing is gained by a steep slope of the pipes. In fact, everything else being equal, the less slope given the pipes the better, as the higher the returns are carried the better will be the circulation. If accurately graded, the drop need not be more than one inch in fifteen or twenty feet, but ordinarily it will be safer if the fall is one inch in ten or fifteen feet, as the air will then be less likely to pocket.

Some fine chrysanthemums are seen here in the market. A frost last week killed all outdoor stock, of which there was a large amount. Dahlias were late on account of the dry summer and were at their best last week.

Various Notes.

The chrysanthemums of the Summerfield Floral Co. are now in full crop and from now on this firm will have a large supply. They are cutting some fine pompons of several varieties. Their carnations are improving daily and their supply of greens is large.

The Stokes Floral Shop is showing some fine chrysanthemums, both cut and in pots; their potted mums are the best seen here. Their store has just been repainted and decorated. J. W. "X" Liquid May Save You Thousands of Dollars in an Emergency

Suppose you suddenly discover that an unusually cold spell has cracked the heating boiler and it leaks badly!

Do you think it necessary to shut off the heat and risk enormous damage to the contents of the greenhouse?

NOT AT ALL!

"X" Liquid will repair any leaky or cracked boiler in half an hour. It will do a job that would take two workmen a week.

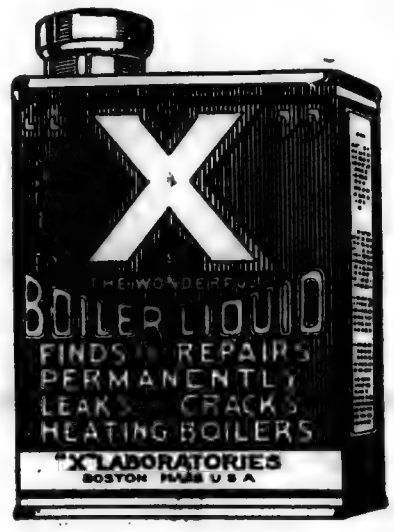
"X" Liquid will do a $200 Repair Job for $10

It is not necessary to locate the leaks or cracks or know how many there are.

The action of "X" is entirely automatic. When poured into the boiler it mixes with the water and soon gets to every break in the metal. It flows through—strikes the air—and then hardens right in the hole. This stops the leak or crack. The heat in the water then sets this repair, making it as PERMANENT and as SURE as any welding job. In fact, where welding won't hold—as on cast-iron sections—"X" Liquid makes a PERFECT repair.

Makes Boilers Rustproof and Scaleproof Saves Goal

It is a remarkable fact that the same "X" Liquid used for repairing leaks or cracks will also eliminate rust and prevent scale from forming on the walls. This means greater heating efficiency with LESS COAL.

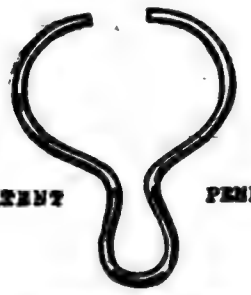


"X" contains no cement, powder or other injurious ingredients. It is an absolute liquid, a scientific process for making boilers LEAKPROOF, RUSTPROOF and SCALEPROOF. Beware of inferior imitations which are trading on the reputation of the genuine "X" Liquid.

A Strong Guarantee

You take no chance in using "X" Liquid. It is unconditionally guaranteed to make good. If it fails you get a new can—or your money back.

But your greatest guarantee of the value of "X" is the fact that it is used, sold and recommended by 99 per cent of the manufacturers of boilers and radiators. It is used by the United States Government.



If your boiler cracks or leaks this Winter you don't have to worry about your greenery—if you keep "X" Liquid handy. You can do the repair job yourself—easily.

Get "X" Liquid from your steamfitter, or we will ship, charges prepaid, on receipt of price.

THE PULVERIZED MANURE CO., 33 Union Stock Yards, Chicago

EAU CLAIRE, WIS.

John Maves, proprietor of the West Eau Claire Greenhouses, has purchased the twelve acres and three greenhouses on Twelfth street which belonged to the late Wales H. Willard. Except for one greenhouse, which will be combined with a store and office on the present Sixth avenue site, all the houses will be moved to the newly acquired tract, where a rose house, 28x100 feet, will be added. The unoccupied land will be used for growing bulbs and shrubbery. Gladiolus bulbs, of which Mr. Maves grew 16,000 this season, will be among his specialties. Godfrey calla is another bulb he will raise extensively. Ten years ago Mr. Maves, who was a bricklayer and plasterer, started a greenhouse in a shack 12x20 feet, heated by an oil stove. Next year he built a greenhouse 22x30. Later he rented a tract of land along the lake shore. To Mrs. Maves he gives a great deal of credit for his progress, for she attends to the sales and makes up the design work, and during the first four years, while he made expenses by laying brick, she ran the greenhouses in the summer as well.

OKMULGEE, OKLA.

After many years of service with the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co. and the McCallum Co., of Pittsburgh, Pa., George W. Marshall has moved to Okmulgee, Okla., where he opened a store October 23. He also operates a greenhouse range containing 18,000 feet of glass and is planning to erect ten additional houses, 40x100 feet. He grows a general line of cut flowers, plants and vegetables. Mr. Marshall is distributing blotters carrying a young lady's picture in colors and a "Say It with Flowers" message, "Flowers have a certain sentiment about them that nothing else conveys."

Chattanooga, Tenn.—M. F. Hofstettin, formerly of Elm Grove, W. Va., has become manager of the greenhouses of the Forest Hill Cemetery Co.

The Market.

Dark, cloudy weather caused a shortage in roses and carnations, but chrysanthemums, in good supply, saved the market from a famine. The demand for small weddings continues good and the social calendar for the coming weeks contains an unusually large number of society functions of every description.

Various Notes.

Much interest has attached to the active rumors of the erection of one or two large hotels in this city. Last week settled the fact that at least one new hotel is to be built at a cost of $3,500,000. The site chosen will include the store occupied for several years by Smith the Florist, at 25 Washington street.

Louis Rioles is having a small frame greenhouse erected at 133 Gray street.

The November exhibition of the Rhode Island Horticultural Society will be held at the Narragansett hotel November 13 and 14.

Johnston Bros., Dorrance street, had a large order of American Beauty roses for parties in New York last week, which they delivered by special messenger.

Joseph E. Koppelman was in New York and vicinity several days last week, looking for novelties as well as regular goods.

Alexander H. Johnson left Wednesday, November 5, for Minneapolis to attend the first national convention of the American Legion.

William E. Bowers made an automobile trip through Connecticut last week on business.

Charles Smith visited Worcester and vicinity last week on business for the Eastern Wreath Co., of this city.

Macnair had his usually attractive displays for Halloween at his store at Chestnut and Broad streets.

Willis S. Pino reports an unusually heavy run this fall on narcissus bulbs for home use.

O. H. Williams is contemplating an early departure to Florida for the winter.

The Market.

Business was good during last week, with plenty of mums and other seasonable stock. Prices on mums have dropped somewhat. Roses are plentiful, but the demand is not so good, since mums are taking their place. Carnations are good at $4 per hundred.

Various Notes.

Toledo is just now trying to solve the transportation problem, since the Rail Light Co., which controls this system, was ousted at the last local election. This will mean a lot to the trade, as the Interurban system will bring passengers to the city limits only, leaving them to get in as best they can. Several of the principal streets have been torn up for weeks, including some occupied by florists. Mr. Feniger, of Feniger's Flower Shop, on Adams street, has been unable to park his car within a block of his store for at least one month, thereby causing lots of extra running with funeral work and deliveries.

Metz & Bateman have made a number of improvements in their store. Earl Metz is at home with the flu.

Jack Helmer reports a great deal of funeral work, which necessitated the use of an additional delivery car.

Mrs. J. B. Freeman had orders for an important wedding November 8, involving the use of several hundred of the largest mums, pompons, roses, colonial bouquets, wild smilax and several loads of palms. The bride's bouquet consisted of gardenias, Kaiserin roses and valley, in a shower; that of the maid of honor, of Mock roses and ribbon to match.

Max Spanner reports a great deal of funeral work.

At last everybody downtown is closed on Sunday, thanks to the good work of our committee. C. M. B.

The Market.

The market was well supplied the first part of the week, but a few cold days and nights shortened things up considerably and the later part of the week saw a scarcity of stock. Business is now good.

Chrysanthemums are clearing well, the larger varieties being most in demand. Pompons have been moving slowly. Carnations are arriving in large quantities and clean up well, though the quality is poor in some varieties. Dahlias continue to arrive, but the trade has tired of them. Calendulas find a ready market and a few sweet peas are available. There is little swainsona in the market.

The cut of roses has dropped a little and the latter part of the week saw a scarcity. Some fine Ophelia, Columbia, Hadley and Premier are obtainable. American Beauties have been scarce. Violets have been clearing well. A few narcissi are arriving and selling at $4 and $5 per hundred, there being little demand for them.

Asparagus is rather scarce, since most of the local growers are out of crop and the southern asparagus is arriving in a falling condition. Adiantum is much in demand.

Various Notes.

W. I. Potter, who has been living out at his farm in North Olmsted, expects to move to his home in the city shortly.

Edward Burkhardt is gradually recovering from the effects of rose thorn poisoning in his hand. W. F. B.

THE TEST OF TIME

¶ MANY HOUSES look good on paper and when they are new, but not all stand the only real test: THE TEST OF TIME. You will find among the "old-timers" many Dietsch houses that have stood this test and been found not wanting. Dietsch houses are designed and built on correct, scientific and practical principles. It is not our aim to meet our competitors' prices, for that would be inconsistent with good materials. To the grower who does not thoroughly investigate and compare, our proposition does not appeal.

¶ THIS IS NOT THE TIME to build greenhouses, but it is a good time to think about it. Dietsch construction has stood the test of years. Not only are Dietsch houses among the oldest standing today, but you will find each house an improvement over the last; Our construction is advancing with the times. We advocate nothing that has not proved its value. There will be better houses than we are now building, and they will be built by us.

¶ WHEN PLANNING YOUR NEW HOUSES, it will pay you to investigate Dietsch greenhouse materials and methods of construction. We build most efficient and durable houses at moderate cost. Construction of wood exclusively or wood and iron combined, using each where it will best serve its purpose.

[Trade-mark registered, U. S. Patent Office.]

Can You Say—I Am Ready?

They say it's going to be a hard winter; that may be so—again it may not—but anyway, are you ready? Are you prepared for the blizzards that may come your way—have you taken into consideration the zero weather that will be with us sooner or later—in short, are you on the safe side?

We hope you are, but if you are not we cannot urge you too strongly to use PERMANITE RIGHT NOW.

There is a reason—and you know it; PERMANITE is elastic and stays elastic; no matter how strong the wind may be—PERMANITE will give and in this way prevent breakage of glass. No matter how cold the weather may be—PERMANITE does not harden, cannot fall off and consequently stays wherever it has been applied.

All in all—PERMANITE is the ideal, the most dependable and after all the one and only original Glazing Cement on the market—always has been and always will be the best of its kind. Winter or Summer, hot or cold, PERMANITE remains unchanged, never hardens and is guaranteed to outlast putty three to four times.

If you cannot say—I am ready—think of the old proverb "A Stitch in Time Saves Nine."

Yours for a tight house,

The Garland Company

The Market.

Single violets are scarce in this market, owing to the moderate weather conditions, which throw the plants to foliage. Pompons likewise are suffering and arrive in a soft condition, which may be due to overfeeding. Heavy frosts last week put an end to the dahlias and no one is sorry.

Various Notes.

Gustav Adrian is cutting good Chieftain mums, also some good pompons of Hill origin, which are good sellers. Mr. Adrian has the reputation for being the first on the market with bulbous stock.

The Thaden Flower Shop, Peebles Corners, is an up-to-date place; its neat window decorations attract much attention.

G. C. Mickley reports that his business is far ahead of expectations and that he is well satisfied with his new venture. Mr. Mickley is an expert basket maker and turns out some baskets that are works of art.

The Paradise Flower Shop, on Seventh street, recently turned out a picture design for an opening that showed the work of an artist in its construction.

Farrel & Co. report heavy funeral work last week.

H. W. Sheppard reports some work of unusual design for a recent debutante—eighteen colonial bouquets of rainbow shades with silk holders and showers of rainbow ribbons. The flowers used were Sweetheart, Butterfly and Ward roses, violets, narcissi and forget-me-nots.

The Christmas stock of cyclamens and begonias of J. A. Peterson & Sons, Westwood, is better than ever this year.

A number of Cincinnati florists visited the chrysanthemum show at Indianapolis this week. H. E. K.

The Madame Butterfly roses from the Joseph H. Hill Co. at C. E. Critchell's are finding greater favor with the buyers than Ophelia.

Frank Ball and R. A. Betz have opened a wirework establishment at 16 East Third street.

Among recent visitors were Charles Betscher, Canal Dover; Mrs. Samuel Kurtz, Dayton, and Mr. Geller, of the Geller Florist Supply Co., Brooklyn, N. Y. C. H. H.

BUILD THIS CONCRETE BENCH YOURSELF

Make the parts during spare time, erect the sections when desired. Easily, quickly and inexpensively made. Last longer than the greenhouse.

A Glazing Putty of Real Value

In all our experience and investigation we had never found a preparation for bulbing over the outside of a greenhouse that was quite satisfactory, until we ran across PERMANITE. This was about four years ago. At that time we set about investigating the merits of PERMANITE and proceeded to watch the results of its application to greenhouse roofs.

Last year we were entirely convinced of its high quality and durability, and accepted the western agency for the sale of these goods.

We applied PERMANITE to hundreds of greenhouse roofs, over almost every part of the United States.

The results obtained were highly satisfactory indeed. Glass roofs of all kinds, both old and new, were made water-tight and air-tight, saving thousands of plants from being spoiled by water dripping on them and saving many hundreds of tons of coal by making the roofs proof against the wind and storms of winter.

We give PERMANITE our unqualified endorsement and recommend it highly for all kinds of glazing.

We have a very large stock on hand in our warehouse and can ship immediately.

A Good Combination!

Patent applied for
S. A. KOST, Inventor.

EVERTITE GLAZING CEMENT Applied with an "OH BOY" Automatic Glazing Gun

Evertite Glazing Cement remains elastic at all times—forming a waterproof and air-tight joint over the sashbar. Evertite Glazing Cement will stand the extreme expansion and contraction that a greenhouse is subject to and will not check or crack—nor will it harden.

You know what putty will do. Just think how vastly superior Evertite Glazing Cement is to putty.

Evertite Glazing Cement applied with a new "Oh Boy" Gun (see cut above) makes an ideal combination. This gun, which is the last word in glazing guns, allows Evertite Glazing Cement to flow in a uniform consistency all the time. Note the ease with which this gun can be handled. Think of what you have used and draw your own conclusion.

Write us for more information, which we will gladly furnish.

CHARCOAL

is the Florists' best

Soil Ventilator

Charcoal should be used in powder form (extra fine, size 20) and when mixed with pot and bed soils promotes the circulation of air and moisture so that plant roots may absorb the nourishment which the charcoal makes available.

Charcoal absorbs from the air large quantities of carbon dioxide, nitrogen and other gases essential to plant growth and yields them up to the plant as required.

An inch or more of size 1 (nut) at the bottom of beds will provide proper drainage and assist greatly in equalizing the soil moisture.

Prices: F. O. B. Ironton — 100 lbs. $2.50; 500 lbs. $11.00; 1000 lbs. $21.00; Ton $40.00; in bags, by freight only.

CALLAS

CALLAS—White. Last chance to get fine bulbs this season. Fresh A1 stock direct from grower. Delivered to you by express prepaid if order amounts to $6.00 or more. Cash.

3 to 4-in. circumference	$ 6.00 per 100
4 to 5-in. circumference	10.00 per 100
5 to 6-in. circumference	15.00 per 100

All good bloomers.
Lilydale Bulb Co., Santa Cruz, Calif.

WHITE CALLA BULBS. Clean, sound bulbs of Calla Aethiopica, the popular white Calla, all with crown shoots. Plant now and they will begin blooming in December. Figure a little; suppose you plant 1000 bulbs, 6 inches each way and get 6 flowers to a plant, (a fair average) you are making $750.00 gross on 250 square feet of bench space even if you sell the flowers as low as $1.50 per dozen, and you have your bulbs to use year after year.

Diameter of Bulbs.	100	1000
1 to 1¼-in.	$ 6.00	$ 57.50
1¼ to 1½-in.	10.00	95.00
1½ to 2 -in.	15.00	145.00

YELLOW CALLA BULBS. The true Elliottiana, brilliant yellow, with green foliage. Makes an attractive, easily grown, pot plant novelty that sells itself.

Diameter of Bulbs.	100	1000
1½ to 2-in.	$17.00	$160.00
2-in. and up	25.00	240.00

Cheap, poor quality bulbs take as much space and more care than good ones. Why not buy the best?

FORGET-ME-NOTS

Forget-me-nots, Barker's True Winter Flowering. We have reselected this stock for the past five years by propagating from only the earliest and largest flowering plants, allowing us to offer without question the finest Myosotis that has ever been shipped to any market. This variety should be planted twelve to fifteen inches apart each way, as it is a strong and vigorous grower, producing stems from twelve to eighteen inches in length. A good crop to follow Chrysanthemums, and will give excellent results in same soil.

Strong plants ready for immediate shipment, out of 2¼-in. pots, $6.00 per 100, $55.00 per 1000.

Cash with order.

PANSIES

PANSY PARK PERFECTION is a mixture of more than 50 thoroughbred varieties of Giant Show and fancy Pansies and includes the new varieties from American and European specialists. I have received thousands of testimonials from florists and amateurs in all sections of the country. Many of my florist customers say that my Pansies are the best in all respects that they ever had. See samples of these in my Review ads during the past month. Pansies a specialty for nearly 50 years. My plants were grown from seed sown broadcast in light sandy soil and have extra fine roots. Plants 10 weeks old, 5 to 8 leaves, 1000, $4.50; 500, $2.50; 5000, $20.00.
My Special Cut Flower Strain produces enormous flowers on extra long stems, and the best colors mixed in the right proportion for the cut flower trade, $7.00 per 1000; 500, $3.75; 250, $2.25. Cash with order.
L. W. GOODELL, PANSY PARK,
DWIGHT, MASSACHUSETTS.

500,000 Fine Pansies, have been heavily frosted and will now carry any distance. Have grown Pansies for the market for over thirty-five years and believe we are justified in claiming to be experts in growing and packing. We also believe our strains to be the equal of the finest on the market. Can ship day order is received, weather permitting.

SNAPDRAGONS

Let Snapdragons follow Mums. Shortage of Carnations will bring big demand for Snaps. Very useful for decorations, designing, sprays and corsages, and pay big. They are of easy culture, require little heat. We specialize in Snaps, growing our own seed from carefully selected plants, continually improving them, especially in regard to color and winter blooming qualities. Strong, healthy, rust free plants like ours are scarce this year. Order now, delivery when you want them.
Colors, Silver Pink, Rose Pink, Enchantress Pink, lavender shades, garnet, Giant White and Yellow, 2½-in., $4.50 per 100; seeds, 50c per trade packet. Cash, please.

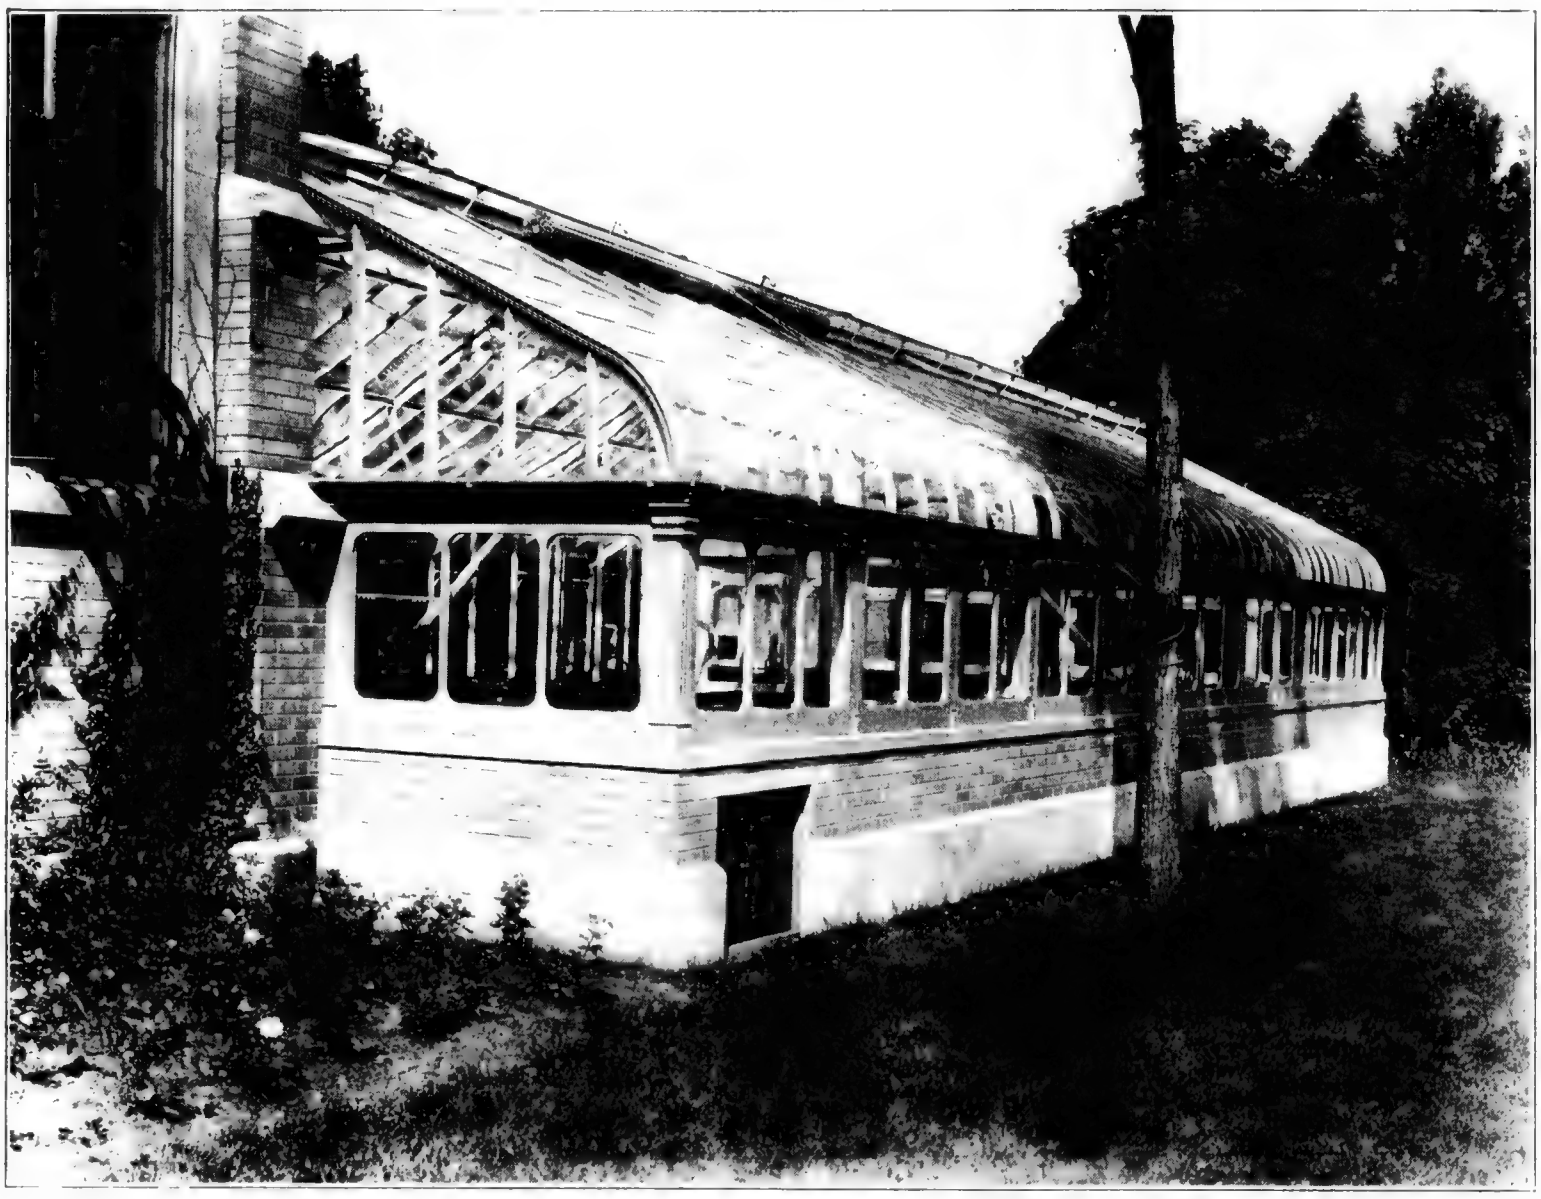
Above Them All!

Here it is—an AGMCO right on top of the Hotel Pennsylvania in New York City. It's Mr. Statler's pride.

But here's the point for YOU—it's AGMCO construction throughout.

And—weigh this well—Mr. Statler is a shrewd buyer. He got where he is now by always knowing what he wants, and always getting what he wants by INVESTIGATING before he buys instead of after.

Do your INVESTIGATING early. We're open for inspection NOW.



When do you want to begin?

Sales Offices:

New York (5 Columbus Circle) Pana, Ill. (Drawer 335) Chicago (Masonic Temple)

Built last summer for Mr. F. H. Stoltze, Minneapolis, Minn.

"Personal Conservatories"

That is the title of our conservatory catalogue and it expresses best the kind of greenhouse we build for you.

Before giving you our designs and estimates we thoroughly study your proposition. We take into consideration the style of architecture of your surrounding buildings, the purpose for which the greenhouse is intended, the landscape effect, etc.

But we tell you more about it in our catalogue; just write for it.

INDEX TO ADVERTISEMENTS AND TABLE OF CONTENTS—PAGES TWO AND THREE

Greenhouse Builders

This shows the Giant Arch with its V-shaped bracing, as used in the 28-foot 2-inch Semi-Iron house only. A sag rod extends from the ridge to the center of the pipe cross tie. The V-bracing extends from that point to a ¾-inch pipe purlin placed 1 foot 6 inches below the vent header.

Some Special Things About Our Pipe Frame House

Take just the clamp column fittings, for example.

You have seen and no doubt used the one bolt fitting and know that it sometimes slips.

You are familiar with the two bolt one, and know that it likewise has a way of giving way under extra strains.

Admittedly we have made and used both kinds. But that was then.
This is now.

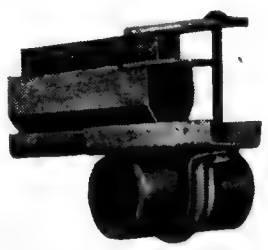
All the column fittings on our Standard Pipe Frame or Semi-Iron houses are now three bolt clamps.

But that isn't all, they are malleable iron, instead of cast.

You can screw the bolts up until you strip the threads and the clamps will never crack.



Now take a look at our ridge.

See that piece of steel screwed to the ridge and onto both bars.

There's no need to tell you how important they are in strengthening the construction.

Ridge showing how ridge bracket is used.

The no-leak roof bar splice castings as made at the purlin.

Then there's the splice bar fitting.

No one makes one quite like it. See these bolts going from top to bottom. Not screws, but bolts.

The metal tongue between the ends is just one more precaution we take to make it leak-tight

Notice how strong and workmanlike the whole thing is, in combination with the pipe purlin to which the bar is held by a strong galvanized steel strap.

And then there is the Giant Arch itself.

But space is too small here to tell you even a few of its strong points.

But it's fully described and illustrated on page 42 of the Handy Hand Book.

If you haven't one, send for one.

If you want to "talk house," say when and where, and we'll be there.

PREMIER

The Best Grade of the Market's Best Rose

We are cutting a wonderful crop of Hill's grand new variety, Rose Premier, and our 50,000 plants assure you of a steady supply.

Our combined cuts are sold by

E. C. AMLING CO.

Chicago's largest and most centrally located wholesale cut flower house.

We are the leading and largest growers of Rose Premier and our stock known as is shipped to and sold exclusively by the E. C. Amling Co. Premier is the finest rose Mr. E. G. Hill and his associates ever have put on the market, remarkable for its large size, clear color, sweet fragrance, luxuriant foliage, freedom of growth and the way the flower develops and persists after being cut. You can not afford to be without Premier in your store.

"Number 1," "Number 2" and "Number 12"

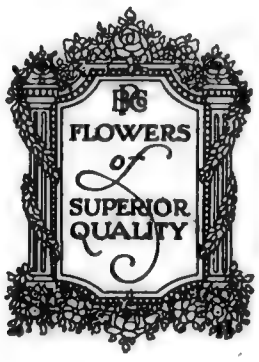
We also are the leading growers of Columbia and Milady, and have a large and steady supply of high-grade flowers, shipped to the E. C. Amling Co. exclusively. You get them when you ask for the stock of



"Number 1," "Number 2" and "Number 12"

AND REMEMBER—

Our Roses never are sold to Department Stores or Peddlers—they are sold only to recognized Retail Florists.

S. A. F. & O. H. NATIONAL PUBLICITY CAMPAIGN

The Billboard Proposition

Have you a site for a billboard as depicted in this illustration? Public highways, land bordering railroad tracks, tops of buildings, vacant lots, all furnish excellent locations for billboards.

Help the Publicity Campaign along by purchasing a billboard—and hang beneath it a supplementary sign advertising your own business, if you desire to do so.

Our Promotion Bureau will ship a billboard to you for $50.00, cash with order—half what it would cost you on a direct purchase from factory.

DESCRIPTION: Size, 20 feet long, 7½ feet wide. Construction, 26 ga. galvanized iron, on wood frame, shipped in four 5-foot sections, with face bands. Approximate weight, 300 lbs. Slogan on sign painted to conform in design and color to the regular glass and transfer signs supplied by our Promotion Bureau. Three coats of paint used, with a coating of heavy outside wearing varnish. Wooden supports to be supplied by purchaser. Blue prints or drawings detailing setting up furnished with each billboard.

Signs should be located within a distance of 50 feet from highway or track. The price, $50.00, is f. o. b. any railroad station in the United States. Send your order in at once, and have a billboard working for you quickly.

JOHN YOUNG, Secretary 1170 Broadway, New York City

Some Pertinent Facts

Lilium Giganteum

The question to decide is this: "Is it Price or Quality you are looking for in Lily Bulbs?"

Before our Mr. A. Miller left for Japan, he was asked by our many customers to bring back only the best of this year's small crop. To enable him to accomplish this, it was necessary to reduce the quantity obtained to less than one-half what he started out to purchase. It required more than $100,000 investment, which the American Bulb Company has made. We invested this large sum for a small quantity of Bulbs.

A Field of Healthy Lilies, Purchased by the American Bulb Co., for its Customers.

Lily Bulbs could have been purchased in Japan at a much lower price than we paid, but the price paid governed the quality obtained.

We herewith show photographs, one of a field that is diseased, another of a healthy field. The diseased field shows the tops entirely dead. On the healthy bulbs the tops remain until dug; only the foliage turns yellow at maturity. In diseased fields, the stem starts to die. The bulbs in a diseased field swell and when dug have a very deceptive appearance. This is due to the fact that the diseased plant has no top whereby evaporation can take place. In the healthy plant evaporation goes on continually, and after the Bulb is dug, it starts to shrink. So size does not determine the exact quality of a Lily Bulb, nor does appearance.

A Field of Diseased Lilies Actually Dug and Shipped, but NOT to the American Bulb Co.

Satisfaction

Some people are satisfied and made happy with a low price, then made sad with the results. Others know and demand quality. The stability of the American Bulb Company is being built on the rock of quality. Its clients embrace a country-wide list of Florists who have learned that every purchase made from the American Bulb Company is a satisfactory purchase.

Don't let a few dollars stand in the way of your possessing the best quality of Lily Bulbs to be had this season.

About Lily Bulbs

Remember

Our shipper not only controls the best quality, but our shipper has 18 years' experience, and we offer both to you.

Notice

Our shipper has received letters and holds offers in his possession from the most reliable concerns in America, who are fighting hard to secure his Bulbs away from us, knowing that he possesses and controls the real quality of Lilium Giganteum grown in Japan.

Inspecting Lily Fields in the Mountains of Japan. (Our Mr. A. Miller, Lily Bulb Experts and the Horticultural Inspector.)

Is not all this evidence? Do not competitors, in trying to get our source of supply away from us, admit that they realize and know that there is only one place where the assurance of high-class Lily Bulbs can be had, and that this is the source that the American Bulb Company has?

This letter came to us unsolicited:

The Sign of Quality

But it was no surprise—we knew the Bulbs

Staples

—and what $157 has done

A dealer who handles only staple articles of florists' supplies wrote this letter:

> "Your medium certainly has helped us in increasing our business and extending our trade. Our list when we began advertising supplies in The Review was less than 300. Now it exceeds 400 bona fide active accounts."

Many dealers who handle only staples, sold by all dealers at standard prices, feel that it will not pay them to advertise. But the dealer in staples who wrote the above spent in The Review this year only $157 for 100 new active accounts.

There are many concerns far better located to profit by advertising staples in The Review.

The Two BEST ROSES We have ever offered

CRUSADER. (Montgomery.) A big, strong-growing variety, robust and rugged in every characteristic. The growth is heavy and the flower stems are strong and heavy, producing very little blind wood. It is free growing and free flowering, and the blooms are truly characteristic of the variety—big and double, and, in color, a rich, velvety crimson. These large, heavily petaled blooms open perfectly and are amply supported by the strong-necked, heavy flower growths. Crusader takes water well and will keep under almost any conditions. The plant is free from canker and does not show any tendency to die at the union of scion and stock. It breaks freely from the hard wood and is a strong-growing, free-flowering red Rose.

If you want a real winner, you should buy Crusader NOW.

Wholesale prices to the trade only:

Own Root, 2¼-inch:		Grafted, 2¼-inch:
Each	$ .50	Each	$ .60

Orders will be filled in rotation

PILGRIM. (Montgomery.) In color, a beautiful shade of bright rose-pink. The bud, which opens perfectly, is long and of ideal form. Pilgrim is a Rose of good substance and petalage, and at any stage of development is perfect in color and form of flower. Its pronounced tea fragrance will attract all rose lovers. It is prolific and highly productive of first quality blooms. The stems are straight and strong, and there is no tendency to weaken at the neck. It takes water freely, and this quality makes it a good Rose for the store man, as it will keep when cut and retain its color and fragrance. It is a wonderful grower, propagates easily, grafts nicely, grows freely, and throws strong bottom canes early, making heavy, profitable plants on the bench in a very short time. It makes little blind wood and is comparatively free from disease, resisting black-spot and mildew to a great extent. It is the pink Rose to grow.

TERMS: Cash with Order—Kindly send sufficient to cover the entire bill. We do not make shipments C. O. D. unless remittance has been made on account to guarantee acceptance. This does not apply to regular customers. Remittances—Remittances should be made by money order or New York drafts. If money is sent, letter should be registered. All prices quoted in this list are strictly net. Shipping Instructions—Give your name, post office, county and state, and the name of your nearest express office to which shipment is to be made. We have always made it prominent in our printed terms that our goods are sold F. O. B. cars at the point of shipment, and are at the purchaser's risk while in transit. Because of the present unsettled conditions we wish to emphasize still further that we do not guarantee safe delivery. The ownership of all goods sold by us passes to the purchaser on delivery by us to the carrier and the issuing of the receipt by the carrier ends our responsibility. Any claims for damage should be made promptly to the agent at the point of delivery. Correspondence—We endeavor to answer all correspondence promptly, but owing to the pressure of business during the Fall rush we ask that all requests be clearly and concisely stated. Errors—Keep a copy of your order. We aim to have our orders correctly filled. Where we are at fault we shall make satisfactory correction.

THE FLORISTS' REVIEW

CHAIN STORES CHOP COSTS

Principles of chain store selling have been applied in the flower business by several members of the trade with notable success. One of the best known of them is Al Barber, who is extending a string of shops through Ohio. He relates his guiding ideas in this enterprise to Review readers.

By ALBERT B. BARBER

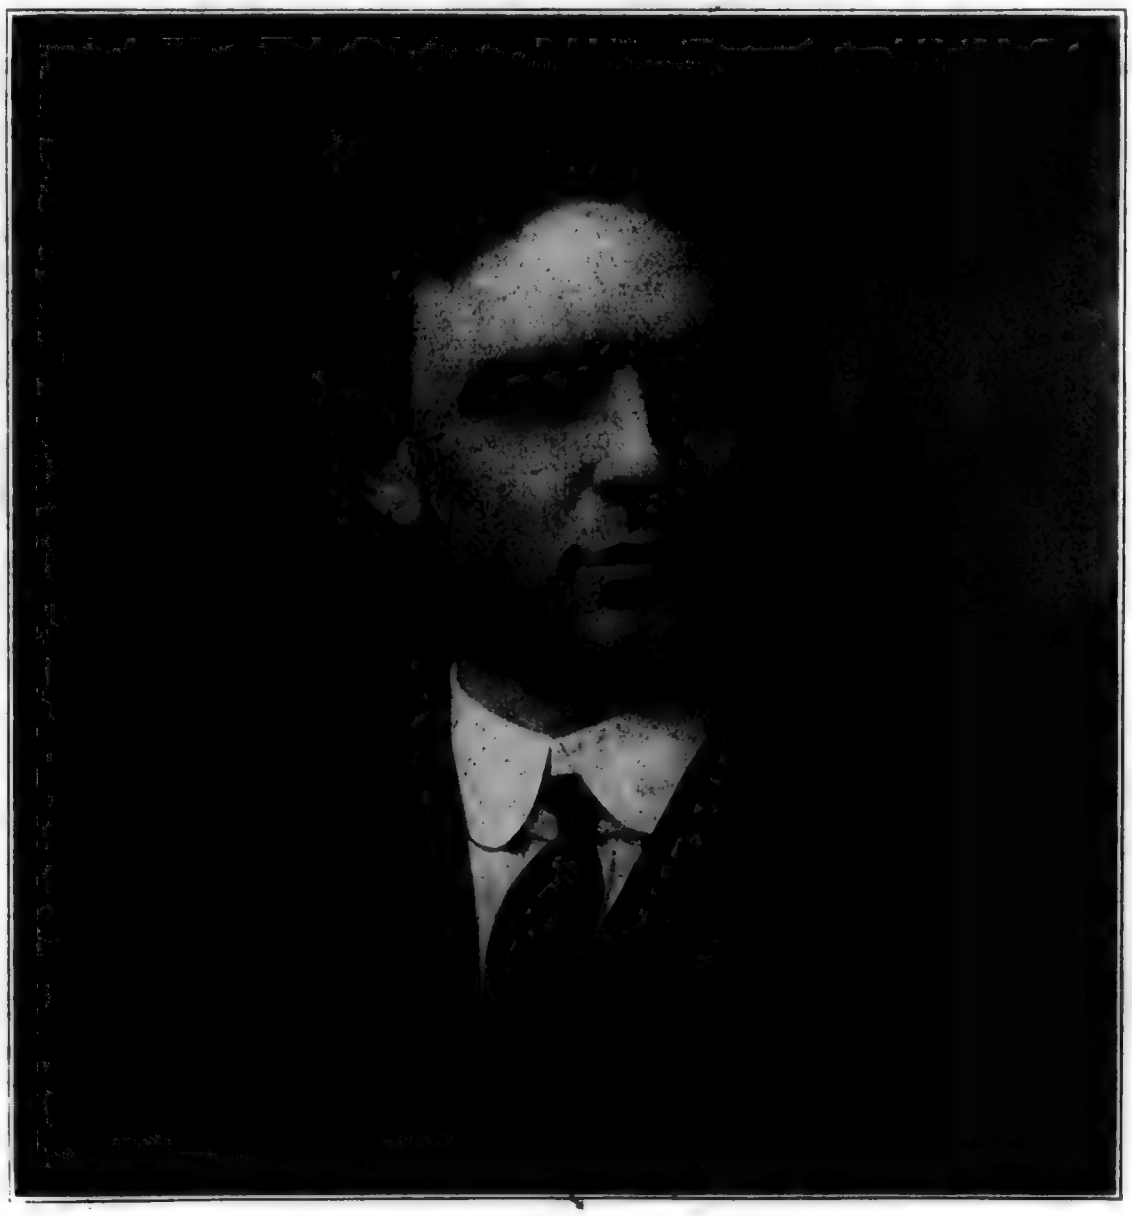
CHAIN stores offer, in addition to the opportunity of putting into more widespread practice the methods that one has found successful in selling flowers, the advantage of buying in quantities large enough to secure the lowest possible price and of passing this reduction along to the customer. The foundation of their success, therefore, lies in what is a rule for success in any business, giving the customer the best possible quality and service for his money at all times.

This has been a hobby of mine. The business of the Park Flower Shops in four Ohio cities is the result of endeavoring always to give the customer exactly what he or she wants at what are generally known as popular prices. Upon this foundation the success of the chain store system rests. Without that basis the saving in dollars and cents by quantity buying would not be sufficient to win success for the florist.

Lately I have opened a wholesale department in Cleveland, known as Barber's Flowers, to purchase supplies for my retail stores in the different cities. The combined purchases effect a considerable saving, but this is a benefit that is passed on to the customer. It is part of that service which we aim to give in order to hold and to increase the number of our patrons.

Meetings Help.

To that end I have found exceedingly valuable meetings of department heads and employees to discuss stock and market conditions, to learn the full details regarding the stock that is arriving and, last but not least, to talk over selling problems in order to increase the efficiency of all the sales force.



At the monthly meetings at which the more important subjects are discussed, only department heads are present. Matters are taken up in turn with regard to each store.

Lining Up Customers.

At the last meeting we discussed in detail the customer's viewpoint on entering the store, just what one's first impression is, what percentage of flower buyers know what they want on entering and how they should be approached. The attitude and bearing of salesmen toward customers plays a large part in the business and the idea of service should always be foremost in the salesman's mind, with flowers and plants our excuse for being in business.

The meetings of the employees are valuable in bringing together members of the force in a spirit of coöperation. They assist wonderfully, also, in lining up regular customers. At such times are discussed ways of effecting sales, so that all may benefit from the experience of each person. In this way we develop a surprising amount of energy and vim.

Through our salesmen, and through advertising, the trade can educate the public to use flowers more extensively for enjoyment, to purchase them not only for special occasions, such as weddings and funerals and holiday remembrances, but also for the personal pleasure to be obtained from them. The public should be induced to buy them more often, not merely for the sake of beautifying the home but to give that atmosphere of comfort and good cheer that flowers lend. Our customers must be taught that for this purpose flowers are well worth the expenditure and should be purchased much more than in the past. In fact, they should be bought in much the same manner and with the same frequency as one buys a box of candy or articles of similar pleasure-giving purpose. This sort of purchase is that cultivated in our chain of stores and is one that should be increased.

"The Woolworth of the Florists' Trade."

Daily Reports.

To the wholesale store come each day reports from the retail shops in Cleveland, Akron, Youngstown and Warren. These give in detail records of all transactions, with a signed slip from the banker in each city.

These reports guide also in the matter of supplies. Economical buying is an important feature of a system of chain stores; indeed, economical operation is a prime factor throughout.

We make our direct appeal to the middle and poorer classes, both of whom are fond of flowers and are willing to spend a portion of their income for them. Our stores are always located in the section of the city where the transient trade is strong. By handling only the freshest stock, procured in large quantities at advantageous prices, and giving good value for a moderate charge and courteous treatment to all, we find it comparatively easy to gain regular patrons. Although not strictly cash, most of the business is conducted on that basis. We tap the great mass known as the American public and from this raw material are creating flower buyers.

TATE'S TIPS

FINDING SUCCESSORS.

For Those Who Have Succeeded.

In my short span of life it has been my lot to watch the florists' business develop from its infancy into the enterprise which it is today. My earliest recollection of it was when it was humble indeed, there being not more than a dozen commercial growers in the city in which I live, and none of those of that time would be looked upon as an up-to-date business today. In this time I have seen new enterprise after enterprise started, some to prosper, some to fail; some to grow and become model establishments, others to die slowly, much the same as the stock which did not receive the proper care. In every case where success has crowned the efforts of an enterprise, you will find that the proprietor was a man who was willing to learn; that is, a man who was always anxious to learn how the other man did it, to compare those methods with his own and, if they showed better results, to adopt them or perhaps to improve upon them. Those were the days when experience was the only teacher and a costly tutor it proved at times.

Pioneers Lacked Business Training.

When we consider the future possibilities of the business, any wise grower will realize that at this time we are not much above the foundation. But those old pioneers, who have blazed the way to what the business stands for today, have laid a foundation that no man need hesitate to build upon. Their business methods when judged by the standards of today may have been crude, but let us not lose sight of the handicap under which most of them worked. They were for the most part men whose early lives had been spent in the bothies and gardens of private estates of England, Scotland and Germany, where they were taught only the florists' business (or I might say profession); they got no business training, which is equally essential. When they emigrated to this country, often they would be obliged to take a private place again until money enough was accumulated to embark in business. And by honest and square dealing many of these humble beginnings have developed into enterprises that today command the respect of the business world.

Dangers of Specialization.

But in the florists' business, as in every other business, times have changed. These are days of specializing. Take, for instance, the young man who decides to make this business his life's work. And there is nothing more needful and I know of no better opportunity for an ambitious young man than the production of flowers. But has he the same chance that our forefathers had? If he associates himself with one who makes a specialty of roses, he is put into a rose section and the consequence is that he knows nothing but roses. Or perhaps he lives with one of the carnation kings; he has no opportunity to know anything but carnations. The same applies to plantsmen; with them, what will he ever know about growing cut flowers? Now, while he may become an expert in whichever line he selects, yet it is a psychological fact that this will tend to make him narrow in his ideas. A man may go through life successfully as a good producer of any of these flowers, but financial success, while it is to be desired, is not everything. This is one reason why I claim that education is even more important today than ever. If one of our large ranges is in need of a manager, it requires a man with a well-trained mind, as well as one skilled in his calling, to take charge of, we will say, a range of roses. Think, for instance, how susceptible they are to disease, the care that has to be given to heat and ventilation, the vigilance that has to be exercised in watching for numerous pests and the accuracy required in timing a crop for the most profitable market.

For Life and Death.

Now compare the florist's training of today with that of the trained nurse and you will see, when you analyze their work, that there is not much difference. The florist's duty is to keep his plants healthy and productive, while that of the nurse is to restore sick people to health. It is life and death in both cases; in the former it is the life of the business that is at stake and in the latter that of the patient. Now, the aspect I wish to bring out most prominently is the training each receives. In most training schools the nurse has four years of practical hospital work, lectures by experts on various subjects and textbooks, with examinations from time to time before she receives her diploma. Now, is it not just as essential for young men to be properly trained for the florists' business?

The question is, how many of our large growers are looking far enough into the future to consider the education of their successors? It is true that many of our colleges, and especially those that are devoted to agriculture, are establishing chairs of horticulture, but many worthy young men find it impossible to avail themselves of this opportunity. Any young man who is undergoing practical training in a range of greenhouses, though tied down to a specific thing, is yet absorbing cultural methods. Let him add to this training careful and well-selected literature on floral subjects (there is plenty of this to be had), let him take one of the many correspondence courses in business methods and he will soon find that his mind is becoming broadened; a rose or carnation section will not hold him long. Experience has taught me that a range of houses is the easiest place in the world for one to get into a rut and, once we become established in a rut, it soon becomes a grave. Tate.

PORTLAND TO CLOSE SUNDAY.

Sunday closing in the florists' trade has spread across the continent. Portland now has joined the ranks of the 6-day per week florists. At the October meeting of the Portland Floral Society the following resolution was adopted:

Whereas, The leading florists throughout the United States advocate and are putting into practice the rule of closing their retail establishments on Sunday,

Be It Resolved, That the Portland Floral Society endorses such action, believing it to be to the best interests of employers and employees that the city retail stores be closed on Sunday except at times when a holiday which demands floral work occurs on that day.

RIBBON VIEW NOT ROSEATE.

What the prospects are to secure fuller supplies of ribbons in this trade are indicated in the following clipping:

RIBBONS, RIBBONS, RIBBONS, WHO HAS THE RIBBONS?

Getting to Be a Game to Find Merchandise.

The ribbon trade is feeling the same shortage of merchandise that the broad silk trade is feeling. One large selling agent said yesterday that they could not begin to get the quantity of ribbons that they needed to take care of the business they were receiving, and so far there does not seem to be any relief in sight.

All sorts of styles and varieties are in demand, with wide fancies of any sort in marked demand. Warp prints, embroidered effects, tinseled effects, as well as plain colors, are selling and it is difficult to find anything for any sort of nearby delivery.

In mill quarters the ribbon market is little, if any, different from the mill situation in the broad silk trade. Unrest seems to be ruling all quarters, and as a result production is far from what it should be. No improvement is in evidence, so most quarters seem to have made up their minds to make the best of the present.

FLYING FLOWERS.

Airplane Delivery at Toronto.

In Toronto, Ont., the ceremony of flag-raising which was the signal for the opening of the Navy League campaign Wednesday, November 5, was also the opportunity for a quite new departure in flower delivery.

During the ceremony three airplanes were circling the city hall tower and just as soon as the blue flag had been raised by Miss Church, the sister of the mayor, one of the airplanes swung into position high above her and a silk parachute was dropped. Swaying gently from the parachute was a long-handled basket full of the new Frank W. Dunlop rose. The white parachute, trimmed with Union Jacks and long, blue streamers, sailed safely down, narrowly escaping being wrecked by some wires, and was carried from the landing-place by a sailor boy of the naval brigade to the platform, where amid hearty applause little Miss Britannia presented them to Miss Church. The chairman of the Toronto committee, Mr. Stapelis, then announced that the flowers had been delivered by airplane.

This is the first time in America that flowers have been thus presented from the skies. Credit is due to Dunlop's, of Toronto, who arranged the aërial delivery at the request of their customers, whom they told that there is no way in which one cannot "Say It with Flowers."

WHY DOLLARS ARE CHEAP.

Money in circulation throughout the country November 1 totaled $5,816,923,779, compared with $5,943,801,171 November 1, 1918, and $5,806,571,880 October 1, 1919, according to treasury estimates made public last week. The per capita wealth in money in circulation November 1, 1919, was estimated by the treasury at $54.63, compared with $55.84 November 1, 1918, and $54.58 October 1, 1919. This estimate was made on the basis of 106,481,000 persons in the country November 1.

HARDY SALVIA.

Hardy salvia, otherwise known as meadow sage, is a perennial which should be in every hardy garden collection. Beginning to bloom in the first part of August and continuing until well along in October, when other blue flowers have passed and gone, it is indeed a welcome addition. This plant has many varieties, but the two principally used are Salvia azurea and Pitcheri. The former is a Rocky Mountain variety and has beautiful sky-blue flowers. It can be grown easily from seed, which is started in a greenhouse or hotbed the latter part of March.

Salvia Pitcheri, the most popular variety and one of the best sellers, is of more branching habit and has larger flowers. The color is of a striking, rich gentian blue. This is the most conspicuous of all blue flowers in the perennial garden. This variety is grown from divisions or cuttings, the latter being the more practical. No valuable space is needed; fifty or 100 plants packed close together in a cool house or in deep flats in December will produce many cuttings during February and March, giving sufficient stock for the entire season. They need the same treatment in the propagating bench as hardy pinks, or mums. Thomas J. Murphy.

USINGER'S UTTERANCES.

C. Peterson & Sons, of Escanaba, Mich., were so busy on Armistice day that it was impossible to close the store for the half holiday in honor of the soldiers. To emphasize the spirit of "Say It with Flowers" week, this firm decorated the graves of all soldiers gratuitously, besides donating many flowers for the various festivities given in honor of them November 11.

In the copper country, Dale & Nicholas, of Hancock, Mich., grow all of the flowers grown in this neighborhood, as they have the only greenhouses here. This year 10,000 feet of glass were built, giving them a complete range of 30,000 feet. A general assortment of cut flowers and plants is grown and some fine Cincinnati begonias and poinsettias were seen. The entire output is disposed of in three up-to-date stores, one each in Calumet, Hancock and Houghton. A White truck and a Ford supply the motive power in delivery. Messrs. Dale and Nicholas have been growers in this region for many years and note with pride that today they alone are in the field, because of honest and efficient growing and retailing.

It is a concrete fact that "Say It with Flowers" will live as a motto, for E. R. Tauch, of Marquette, Mich., has it imprinted in cement above his name on the new store which he opened recently.

Alphonse Peters, of Marquette, Mich., who leased the Sorenson greenhouses last spring, speaks of a steady growth in his business. Funeral work especially has been heavy and at the recent gathering of Shriners he had the decoration of the banquet hall.

Eli Cross, Grand Rapids, is showing some fine chrysanthemums. Repairs at the greenhouses are soon to be done. He is adding a storeroom for cut stock and supplies. W. T. U.

PERSONAL GLIMPSES

APOSTLES OF PUBLICITY.

Henry Penn.

Our foremost advocate of publicity is Henry Penn, better known throughout the trade as Penn, of Boston, or Publicity Penn. An able and successful business man is our friend Penn; older men may profitably harken to his message and younger men may safely adopt his methods. The liberal use of printers' ink and the "sweet perfume of courteous service" are the talismans in the phenomenal growth of his private business. With a generosity truly characteristic of big and successful men, he never misses an opportunity to diffuse his favorite gospel for the good of fellow-craftsmen. It is impossible to overestimate the elevating influence of this man, exerted both by precept and by example, upon our profession. That the commercial flower business is being surely raised in status is chiefly attributable to the farseeing efforts of florists of the type of Henry Penn. A generation hence, let us hope, they will be the general rule instead of the exception. As chairman of our national publicity committee, his services have been given gratis and are annually bearing abundant fruit in the shape of increased business for the florists of the nation. He has a firm belief in the future of his calling and endeavors to communicate his faith to his fellow-workers. It is impossible to meet this remarkable man without being singularly impressed by the strength of his personality and the sincerity of his purpose.

George Asmus.

Responsibility gravitates to the man capable of shouldering it and power to him who knows how. In the promotion of all human activities, convincing talkers and lucid writers have their proper places, but willing and energetic workers are of more vital importance than either. Forceful men, possessing the power of leadership and the courage of their convictions, are the big factors.

I am speaking, of course, of George Asmus, president of the S. A. F. in 1911 and a wheel-horse in national publicity work since the inception of the movement. His ability to work hard and his readiness to tackle new problems of importance mark him as an invaluable asset to the organized trade. His long experience justly entitles him to a prominent place in its councils.

As chairman of the publicity finance committee, Mr. Asmus has had many weighty matters to handle and countless burdens to bear. That this work is being performed in the most businesslike manner and that the publicity funds are being employed to the best possible advantage is the unanimous verdict of all parties concerned. The perspective gained only by the lapse of time will properly show the value of the achievements of this tireless man for the common good. With a firm belief in the efficacy of publicity, practiced on a broad scale, as the means of working out the fitting salvation of his profession, he talks publicity with the enthusiasm and zeal born of deep-rooted conviction and is always sure of an attentive audience. The career of George Asmus in the organized trade, begun early in life, may be studied with interest and profit and we heartily recommend it to the young members of the craft.

J. Fred Ammann.

Within the ranks of the organized trade there are many men of eminent ability. For executive office, the selection of the proper man at the right time is the prime desideratum. When at St. Louis in 1918 the S. A. F. chose J. Fred Ammann to be its standard bearer for the year following, it consciously or unconsciously picked out the right man. We are convinced of this because the president of the Society of American Florists has proved himself to be heartily in accord with the dominant note in the new program—publicity.

Mr. Ammann's speech at the F. T. D. meeting in Buffalo may be regarded as an exposition of his views upon the all-absorbing subject of greater publicity for flowers. In the course of his remarks, he paid tribute to the retail section, pointing out that thus far it had borne the burden of the campaign and declaring this unjust, inasmuch as in all other lines the manufacturers financed the advertising of their wares, the retail merchants merely tying up locally. He asserted that a movement was on foot to get the growers properly interested in the publicity movement and asked for the indulgence of a little more time.

This is perhaps the most constructive and the broadest view yet presented of the question now uppermost in the minds of all florists. Time and continued concerted effort are required to bring the great plan to its proper fulfillment; but, thanks to the perseverance and labor of men of the caliber of J. Fred Ammann, the time is not far distant when the national publicity of florists will be the admiration of the entire business world.

James McLaughlin.

BUFFALO BOOMING

GROWERS GIVE SUPPORT.

I wish to thank The Review for its kind interest in the Buffalo plan for publicity. The average grower does not realize his responsibility in disposing of his goods. When we solicited funds for this campaign the growers thought it was the retailers' job to pay the bills for advertising. The F. T. D. meeting was an eye-opener to us in the way of general publicity. Any city having the F. T. D. convention is well repaid for the trouble and expense of the meeting. The retailers, seeing this wonderful opportunity, worked on it while it was fresh in the minds of the public, and we conceived the idea which we are now perfecting.

Mr. Ammann, being a grower, had a wonderful power over the growers, and without him we could not have succeeded. The grower must realize that his future depends on the demand that he creates. Eighteen months ago the Retail Florists' Association called in the growers and told them they were not asking enough for their goods to make a living. Every grower in that meeting confessed that he was not making any money. The supply weakened right after that, and prices soared. The result was that every grower made good money last year.

They must realize that unless the wonderful demand keeps up they will be back where they were before the money-making period happened. We have all got to go to school, as it were, and learn how to sell flowers. The business in my opinion has advanced more in the last two years than it did in the preceding fifteen. We are just beginning to create business, and that in itself is the salvation of the trade.

We have been closed Sundays since July 1. Our November sales are ahead of last year's, when we thought we could not get along without Sunday business. Now all the stores in this city are closed. Even with the flu sales of last year, business this year, if not up to that mark, is far ahead of normal years.

Robert A. Scott.

PUBLICITY COMMITTEE CHOSEN.

I have read with considerable interest the article which appeared in your issue of November 13 pertaining to the publicity plan of the Buffalo florists.

J. F. Ammann, president of the S. A. F., spoke to 100 retailers and growers at a meeting held October 25 and created so much enthusiasm that a plan was prepared. At a meeting held October 30 thirty-two growers, retailers and wholesalers subscribed $6,500 for publicity work in the city of Buffalo. Since that time the committee has added subscriptions, so that now we have seventy-five retailers and growers out of a possible 100, with a subscription of $9,400. The subscriptions for the rest of the growers and retailers will bring this fund up to $10,000.

At a meeting held November 6 the following publicity committee was elected by the subscribers to this fund: Wallace H. Eiss, chairman; Robert Scott, Mark Palmer, Arthur Kowalski, Harold Brookins, C. F. Treichler and Ed. Lehde.

This publicity plan can be worked out in any sized city where there are a number of growers and retailers. It simply is a matter of education, especially with the growers. The retailers know the value of advertising, but the growers do not. Mr. Ammann certainly stirred up the growers and retailers in this vicinity, and I believe if Mr. Ammann could visit some of the larger cities he could work up an enthusiasm which would result in the making of many publicity funds. He certainly has the ability and power to put it up to the growers.

Western New York Florists'
Publicity Fund.

INDIANAPOLIS EXHIBITION

INDIANA FLORISTS' FALL SHOW.

Joint Meeting Draws Many.

November 13 and 14 was held the first big exhibition and social event that the Indiana State Florists' Association has undertaken since the beginning of the recent war. Ideal weather helped toward the great success of the show.

The Indiana association had for its special guests the members of the Kentucky State Florists' Association and also the members of the association who are returned soldiers. In the exhibition room at the Claypool hotel, Indianapolis, floated the service flag with its eleven stars, representing Carl Hack, C. C. Griffith, Morris Marer, Ernest L. Lutz, V. A. Blubaugh, C. B. Sayre, Oscar Carlstedt, R. E. Jones, Frank Luebking, S. H. Young and Edwin M. Nelson.

The representation from the Kentucky association, which has in its enrollment many New Albany and Evansville people, was fairly large, but not so great as had been anticipated.

The morning of November 13 was left open for the staging of the various displays and the judging began about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. George Schulz, of Louisville, Ky., George Asmus, of Chicago, and H. B. Dorner, of Urbana, Ill., were the judges. As the judging took considerable time, during which the doors were locked and all excluded from the hall, the majority took advantage of the theater party which was held at the Circle. There were, however, those who preferred to remain at the hotel and renew old acquaintances and make new ones while awaiting the decision of the judges.

Entertainment.

In the evening a theater party was held at Keith's. About 175 were present. The entertainment committee, of which E. E. Temperley was chairman, had taken for its slogan, "It pays to advertise," and had decorated the theater for the occasion. Large baskets of exhibition chrysanthemums, roses and carnations were on either side of the stage, under which were large placards bearing the inscription, "Joint meeting Indiana-Kentucky State Florists' Associations, Claypool hotel, November 13-14." Each act was presented with an elaborate bouquet of cut blooms and during the entertainment jokes, bringing in the names of well-known florists, were made.

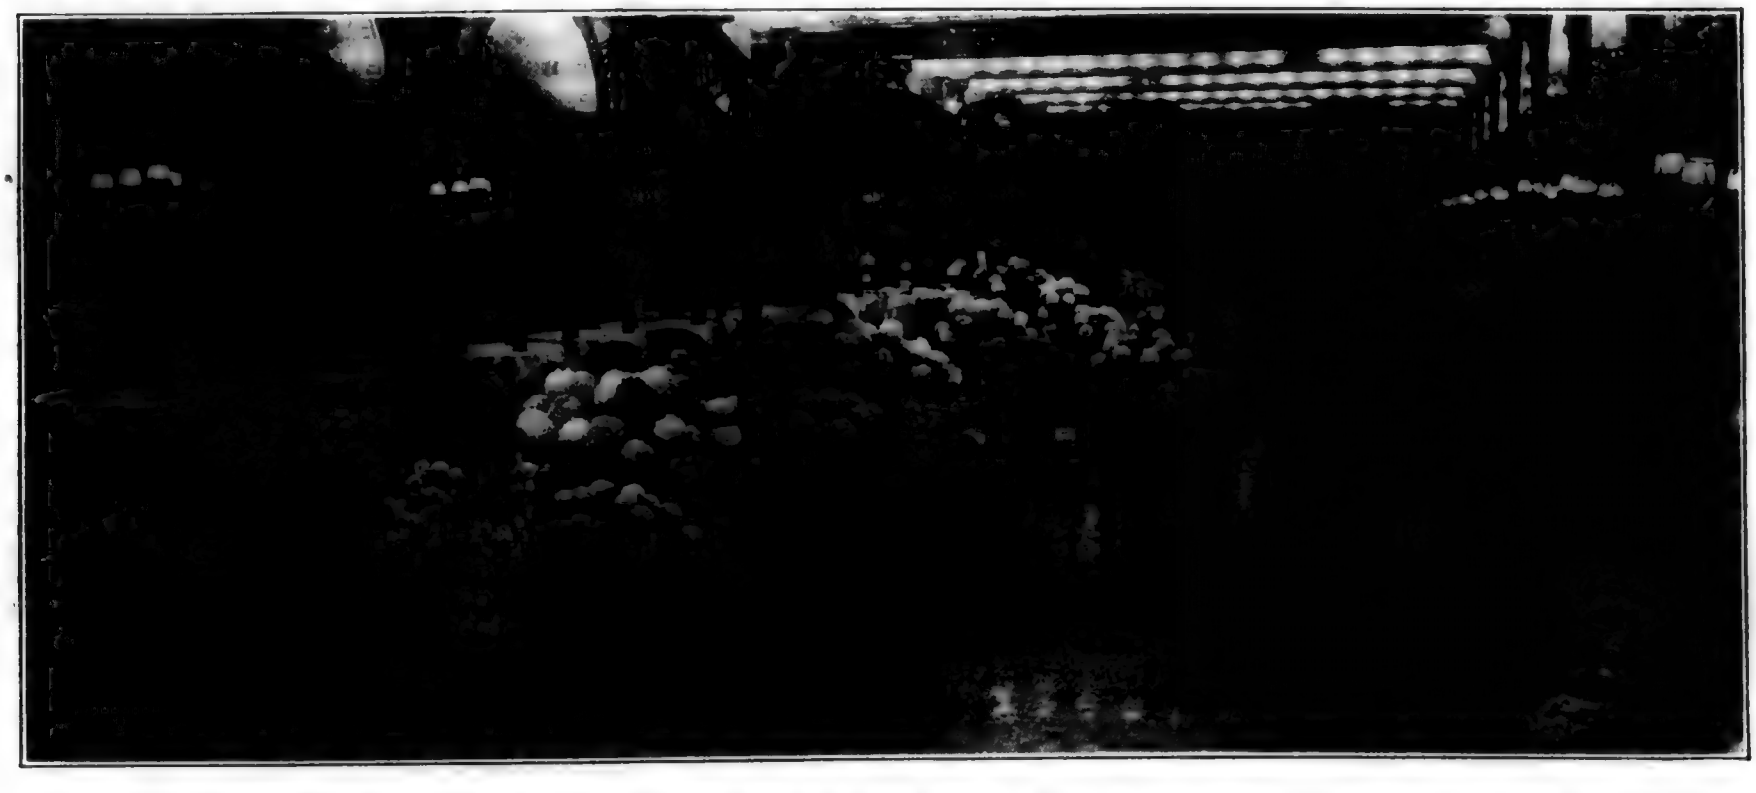
Friday morning, November 14, was left open for visiting the various stores and establishments in the city. Friday afternoon a bowling contest was held at the Marion Club, in which both the ladies and the men participated. The highest ladies won silver vanity cases, while the men won pearl-handled knives.

Banquet.

Friday evening a banquet was held in the Chateau room of the Claypool hotel, at which 171 were seated. President Anders Rasmussen gave the welcoming address, which was responded to by August Baumer, of Louisville. Between courses various entertainments were given and following the banquet addresses were made by Irwin Bertermann, E. G. Hill, Professor H. B. Dorner and Mrs. Nanz, of Owensboro, Ky. Mr. Hill told of his interesting trip out west and of various personal experiences. His praise for the roses in the west, particularly at Portland, was generous. The growing and climatic conditions there are so far superior to those in the middle-west and east that he did not recognize one of his own seedlings and made inquiry as to the variety.

Professor Dorner told of the growth of the floricultural department at the University of Illinois and urged all the members of the Indiana association to petition the state legislature for financial aid for development of the course at Purdue University.

Mrs. Nanz gave a short but interesting talk in behalf of the ladies, in response to Irwin Bertermann's and President Rasmussen's complimentary remarks upon the ladies present.



After the banquet a dance was held in the Riley room, with the entire exhibition as decorations. Tables and cards were in readiness for those preferring to play.

One of the numbers of the evening was the song, "Say It with Flowers," the words of which appeared in a recent issue of The Review.

The Exhibition.

The Riley room of the Claypool hotel, Indianapolis, was filled with an unusually good collection of plants and blooms for the Indiana State Florists' Association's flower show November 13 and 14. Excellent roses, carnations and chrysanthemums were staged near floor mirrors, in which they were reflected. Huge crotons, which stood eight feet high, with palms, boxwoods and bay trees, formed a background. White pergolas with vining ivy and variegated-leaved plants helped complete the scene.

Naturally, chrysanthemums predominated. From the smallest to the largest, singles, pompons, anemones and seedlings, all were there. The University of Illinois had an unusually attractive display of seedlings, some of which were excellent. A small round pink pompon and one similar in yellow were meritorious. The Mount Greenwood Cemetery Association, Chicago, exhibited some splendid seedlings of the large type. Baur & Steinkamp's 100 sprays of pompons created a great deal of favorable comment from the public; these were in all colors and shades and exceedingly attractive. The Joseph Hill Co. and E. G. Hill Co., of Richmond, and Hartje & Elder, of Indianapolis, had Turner in fine form. There were not, however, as many large single-stem blooms displayed as were expected. The plants exhibited were not, in comparison, so good as the cut blooms.

Roses Good.

The exhibit of roses was good. Premier was unexcelled. Fred H. Lemon & Co., of Richmond, had this in ideal condition and took first premium for twenty-five pink blooms. Madame Butterfly was also conspicuous. Bertermann Bros. Co., Indianapolis, had an elaborate floral fountain arrangement featuring Madame Butterfly, which was given special mention. Columbia, Russell, Killarney, Ophelia, Milady and various other roses added color and variety. The new rose, F. W. Dunlop, from John H. Dunlop, of Toronto, Can., looked promising.

The carnation exhibit was not so large as had been hoped, but the stock shown was all excellent.

Numerous special exhibits attracted great attention. A table of potted orchids of several varieties, surrounded by adiantum, was an unusual and beautiful feature. A. Wiegand's Sons Co., Indianapolis, arranged a dinner table featuring roses and violets. Vaughan's Seed Store, Chicago, had a group of exhibition mum plants. Henry W. Rieman, Indianapolis, showed three baskets of new begonias.

The public, through invitation of the various florists, were admitted by ticket and throngs viewed the exhibition.

The Awards.

The judges' report of awards was as follows:

BEGONIAS.

Six plants Gloire de Chatelaine, not over 7-inch pots—E. E. Temperley, first; Baur & Steinkamp, second.

New varieties of carnations judged for certificate were Edna and Harvester, exhibited by Baur & Steinkamp. In new varieties of chrysanthemums the E. G. Hill Co. exhibited J. W. Prince, which was awarded 89 points, and Celebration, 88; the Mount Greenwood Cemetery Association showed 71-1916, 91 points; 78-1916, 91; 31-1916, 87, and on exhibition scale, Mrs. C. W. Johnson, 93 points, and 32-1916, 78.

Special mention, and in some cases additional awards, were given on exhibits not up for competition, as follows:

Table of orchids by Smith & Young Co., Indianapolis.

Basket of Ruth Baur carnations arranged by Bertermann Bros. Co.

Three baskets of new begonias by Henry W. Rieman.

Basket of yellow mums grown by Hartje & Elder, exhibited by Pahud Floral Co.

Exhibit of Lorraine and Chatelaine begonias and ferns by Bertermann Bros. Co.

Vase of yellow mums by Purdue University.

Group of cyclamens and ferns by A. Wiegand's Sons Co.

Group of exhibition mum plants by Vaughan's Seed Store.

Vase of Madame Butterfly roses by the E. G. Hill Co.

Vase of Madame Butterfly roses by the Jos. H. Hill Co.

A trophy will be awarded to the division of floriculture of the University of Illinois for exhibit of pompon, anemone and single mums.

A trophy will be awarded to the division of floriculture of Purdue University for exhibit of plants and cut blooms.

An exhibit from Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., including new commercial pink mum, Perfection, and collection of pompons of the baby type, arrived too late to be given honorable mention.

A shipment of the new rose, F. W. Dunlop, from John H. Dunlop, of Toronto, Can., arrived too late to be scored, but was in fine shape and looks promising as a new pink rose.

The Market.

With cooler weather and the supply of outdoor flowers cut off, the market is somewhat firmer in tone, with prices better in a few lines. There is a heavy supply of chrysanthemums, which prevents anything like fancy prices being obtained for these flowers. In yellows, Marigold and Bonnaffon are prominent and are to be had in many grades of quality. Some good Timothy Eaton is coming in, also White Chieftain. Yellow varieties were in large demand for the Yale-Princeton football game November 15, but the stock available was sufficient for many such occasions; consequently prices were not at all inflated. It was different with violets, however, which Friday evening had reached the $3 mark, with $4 as an asking price. By noon Saturday prices had declined to $1 and lower. There was little speculation noticeable in the market, as many of the violet growers seem careful to cover the sales in sections contiguous to the point where the game is called.

Roses are in good supply, with the exception of red varieties, which are not plentiful. Some growers look for a material shortening of supply after chrysanthemums move out, which will probably be earlier than usual this year, for the reason that weather conditions have interfered with the growth of plants, in that they have not been breaking freely. American Beauty is in shorter supply and prices are much stronger in consequence. Hybrid teas now are of excellent quality and are meeting a fair demand, each day's supply cleaning up pretty well.

Carnations are not overplentiful, but, despite the fact that the quality is poor, they clean up well, $5 per hundred being obtained for the best. White varieties drag a little on account of a heavy supply of other white flowers.

Orchids are short and the supply is not at all regular. There is a good demand for them, in spite of the high prices asked. There is no doubt that cuts have been held for the week of November 17, which promises well for the growers of these flowers on account of the more than ordinarily important social functions scheduled to take place. The top price on cattleyas outside of hybrid varieties is $2.50.

Few Easter lilies are coming in; in fact, they are hardly a commodity and the price for such as can be obtained is $30 to $35 per hundred. Lily of the valley is in fair supply, but the quality is poor. Prices for the best range from $10 to $15 per hundred sprays. A few gardenias are arriving. The stems are rather short. Their movement is good at $6 to $9 per dozen.

There is a good supply of sweet peas, but the quality is nothing to boast of. With cooler weather, crops now maturing should be greatly improved. Paper White narcissi are plentiful and sales at times are slow; about 50 cents per dozen is the top price. Calendulas, snapdragons, bouvardias and callas are in good supply and clean up well.

Various Notes.

It is announced that the business formerly carried on by Riedel & Meyer, at 49 West Twenty-eighth street, will in future be conducted under the name of Riedel & Williams. Fred C. Williams, a brother-in-law of Mr. Riedel, is the new partner. The business will be continued under the management of Mr. Riedel.

A. L. Young, of 54 West Twenty-eighth street, has leased the basement of the Coogan building, at Twenty-sixth street and Fifth avenue, and with Herman Weiss, now of 130 West Twenty-eighth street, will conduct a wholesale florists' business in part of the quarters.

Dolansky & McDonald, of Boston, are occupying part of the store of P. J. Smith, 131 West Twenty-eighth street, where they are specializing in orchids, the quarters being in charge of Wm. Sullivan, formerly with the United Cut Flower Co.

Peter F. McKenney, the retail florist at 503 Fifth avenue, is recovering from a serious attack of bronchitis, which has confined him to his home for several days.

The body of Oscar Hauschild, formerly of the Hotel McAlpin flower store, arrived from Denver Friday, November 14, and the funeral was held Sunday, November 16. It seems that he was riding in an automobile near Denver, on his way to a shooting range, when, in going over rough ground, his gun was accidentally discharged. He bled to death before surgical assistance could be obtained.

Arthur Herrington, of Madison, N. J., lectured Wednesday evening, November 19, before the Horticultural Society of New York at the American Museum of Natural History on "The Fall Planting of Bulbs."

The Von Tilzer song, "Say It with Flowers," is being featured at the Palace theater this week by Miss Grace La Rue, a noted vocalist. Local florists are assisting in the setting of the piece.

While automobiling in New Jersey Sunday, November 16, at Hackensack, Wm. Kessler, who was accompanied by his wife, collided with another machine, the collision resulting in painful injuries to Mrs. Kessler. After a few days in a hospital, she is now recovering at her home in Lynbrook, L. I.

Charles Weber, of Lynbrook, L. I., has for some days been incapacitated through a serious attack of sciatica.

Notice of the death of John T. Shore, of Harrison, N. Y., appears in this week's obituary column.

The roof garden seems likely to become a feature in the future construction of large residential buildings in New York. Three large buildings are now under construction in which provision for gardens is being made: Holbrook Hall, at 100 West Fifty-fifth street; the Presada, at 50 Central Park, west, and the Town House Club, at the corner of Central Park, west, and Sixty-seventh street.

The horse show, discontinued through the war, reopened in Madison Square Garden Monday, November 17. An elaborate decoration was installed, calling for quantities of shrubs, foliage and other decorative materials. The interior of the building is transformed into an English village, the arena being the village green, encircled by a laurel hedge. The design is taken from the village of Chilham, near Canterbury. Cut flowers and plants are liberally used. J. H. Pepper.

DEUTZIA FOR EASTER.

How should field-grown Deutzia gracilis be handled to get it in bloom for next Easter in a carnation temperature? E. A. R.—Ill.

Start the plants ten to eleven weeks in advance of the time you want them in flower. Move to a lower temperature as they open, if they are a little earlier than you want them. C. W.

Work of the Committees.

The examining committees of the C. S. A. have submitted reports on new varieties as follows:

At Chicago, November 1, Anneta, bronze, pompon, submitted by Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., scored as follows: Color, 37; form, 18; stem and foliage, 19; fullness, 18; total, 92.

At Chicago, November 1, Fire Bird, deep bronze, pompon, submitted by Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., scored as follows: Color, 37; form, 18; stem and foliage, 20; fullness, 18; total, 93.

At Chicago, November 1, Baby Doll, yellow with tinge of bronze, pompon, submitted by Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., scored as follows: Color, 37; form, 18; stem and foliage, 16; fullness, 19; total, 90.

At Chicago, November 1, Zelea, bronze, pompon, submitted by Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., scored as follows: Color, 36; form, 16; stem and foliage, 20; fullness, 18; total, 90.

At Chicago, November 1, Angelo, pink, pompon, submitted by Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., scored as follows: Color, 35; form, 18; stem and foliage, 18; fullness, 19; total, 90.

At Chicago, November 1, Bright Eyes, light pink, pompon, submitted by Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., scored as follows: Color, 37; form, 18; stem and foliage, 18; fullness, 19; total, 92.

At Chicago, November 1, No. 108-17, pink, Japanese, submitted by Baur & Steinkamp, Indianapolis, Ind., scored as follows on the commercial scale: Color, 16; form, 14; fullness, 10; stem, 15; foliage, 15; substance, 12; size, 9; total, 91.

At Philadelphia, November 1, Nancy Byers, pink and bronze, single, submitted by A. E. Bonsey, Sewickley, Pa., scored as follows: Color, 25; form, 15; substance, 15; stem and foliage, 16; total, 71.

At Philadelphia, November 1, Evelyn Bonsey, golden bronze, large-flowered single, submitted by A. E. Bonsey, Sewickley, Pa., scored as follows: Color, 35; form, 18; substance, 18; stem and foliage, 18; total, 89.

At New York, November 5, Mrs. C. W. Johnson, white, Japanese incurved, submitted by the Mount Greenwood Cemetery Association, Morgan Park, Chicago, Ill., scored as follows on the commercial scale: Color, 19; form, 13; fullness, 10; stem, 15; foliage, 15; substance, 13; size, 10; total, 95. Variety Mrs. C. W. Johnson scored as follows on the exhibition scale: Color, 15; stem, 5; foliage, 5; fullness, 15; form, 15; depth, 13; size, 27; total, 95.

At New York, November 5, Miss Moran, bronze, pompon, submitted by the C. H. Totty Co., Madison, N. J., scored as follows: Color, 35; form, 18; stem and foliage, 16; fullness, 18; total, 87.

At New York, November 5, No. 151-P, pink, pompon, submitted by the C. H. Totty Co., Madison, N. J., scored as follows: Color, 35; form, 19; stem and foliage, 14; fullness, 18; total, 86.

At Lake Forest, Ill., November 5, Augusta, white, yellow center, striped with violet rose, anemone, submitted by Peter O. Peterson, Augusta, Mich., scored as follows on the scale for single varieties: Color, 25; form, 10; substance, 10; stem and foliage, 15; total, 60.

At Lake Forest, Ill., November 5, Edith, blood red, single, submitted by Peter O. Peterson, Augusta, Mich., scored as follows: Color, 38; form, 18; substance, 20; stem and foliage, 18; total, 94.

At Lake Forest, Ill., November 5, Evelyn, rosy red (magenta), single, submitted by Peter O. Peterson, Augusta, Mich., scored as follows: Color, 30; form, 18; substance, 18; stem and foliage, 19; total, 85.

At Lake Forest, Ill., November 5, Carol, dark red, single, submitted by Peter O. Peterson, Augusta, Mich., scored as follows: Color, 38; form, 18; substance, 18; stem and foliage, 20; total, 94.

At Lake Forest, Ill., November 5, Wychwood, lemon yellow, anemone, submitted by William Longland, Lake Geneva, Wis., scored as follows on the scale for single varieties: Color, 35; form, 15; substance, 20; stem and foliage, 20; total, 90.

At Lake Forest, Ill., November 5 (seedling), chestnut red, pompon, submitted by Charles Elliott, Park Ridge, Ill., scored as follows: Color, 35; form, 18; stem and foliage, 18; fullness, 15; total, 86.

At Chicago, November 8, Button Rose, pink, pompon, submitted by Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., scored as follows: Color, 36; form, 19; stem and foliage, 16; fullness, 19; total, 90.

At Chicago, November 8, Little Tot, pink, pompon, submitted by Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., scored as follows: Color, 37; form, 19; stem and foliage, 19; fullness, 17; total, 92.

At Chicago, November 8, White Midget, white, pompon, submitted by Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., scored as follows: Color, 38; form, 18; stem and foliage, 17; fullness, 19; total, 92.

At Chicago, November 8, Rose Perfection, pink, incurved, submitted by Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., scored as follows on the commercial scale: Color, 19; form, 15; fullness, 9; stem, 14; foliage, 14; substance, 13; size, 8; total, 92.

At Indianapolis, Ind., November 13, No. 78-1916, pink, Japanese incurved, submitted by the Mt. Greenwood Cemetery Association, Morgan Park, Chicago, scored as follows on the commercial scale: Color, 18; form, 13; fullness, 8; stem, 15; foliage, 15; substance, 13; size, 10; total, 92. Variety No. 78-1916 scored as follows on the exhibition scale: Color, 14; stem, 5; foliage, 5; fullness, 13; form, 13; depth, 12; size, 26; total, 88.

At Indianapolis, Ind., November 13, Mrs. C. W. Johnson, white, Japanese incurved, submitted by the Mt. Greenwood Cemetery Association, Morgan Park, Chicago, scored as follows on the commercial scale: Color, 18; form, 14; fullness, 10; stem, 15; foliage, 15; substance, 15; size, 10; total, 97. Variety Mrs. C. W. Johnson scored as follows on the exhibition scale: Color, 13; stem, 5; foliage, 5; fullness, 15; form, 14; depth, 15; size, 30; total, 97.

At Indianapolis, Ind., November 13, No. 31-1916, rose pink, Japanese incurved, submitted by the Mt. Greenwood Cemetery Association, Morgan Park, Chicago, scored as follows on the commercial scale: Color, 15; form, 12; fullness, 8; stem, 13; foliage, 13; substance, 15; size, 10; total, 86. Chas. W. Johnson, Sec'y.

A GAP IN PINK MUMS.

Undoubtedly many members of the trade, especially chrysanthemum specialists, have noted that there is a yearly lull, or gap, or hiatus in the production of pink chrysanthemums, on account of the lack of what may be termed early mid-season varieties of that color. Such a lull, too, is regrettable. For, whatever difference of opinion there may be as to the danger of rushing the mum season unduly by placing extremely early mums on the market, there is no doubt that the mum crop, after it is fully started, should be so complete and continuous as to accord with the strong demand. The demand should not be checked, at its height, by the absence of the most desirable colors. The appetite for mums, when once really aroused, should be tempted and titillated in every way possible.

So other growers, besides A. F. J. Baur, of Baur & Steinkamp, Indianapolis, have been troubled more or less by the gap in pink mums. But Mr. Baur, aided by his wide experience in hybridizing, went to work to fill the gap. Some of the results are indicated, in some slight degree, by the four photographs reproduced on the opposite page.

"About four years ago," says Mr. Baur, "feeling the need of more pink varieties in the commercial class of chrysanthemums, we started out to get them on our own hook. We had nothing worth while between Unaka and Chieftain. So we used Unaka and the later-blooming pink varieties which we had in stock, and made a number of crosses. Most of the seedlings bloomed pink and we have selected these four as being worthy of dissemination and a place among the commercial sorts. They all have a good, lively color and enough substance to stand handling. We have since done considerable crossing among all the colors and have a number of other varieties coming on, which will be disseminated from time to time. We might add that the four varieties illustrated cover the space between Unaka and Chieftain, the first one blooming almost as early as Unaka and the last one finishing up as Chieftain comes on."

CLEANING OUT MIDGE.

Practically every plant of our entire chrysanthemum crop, consisting of seventy-five varieties, is affected with the chrysanthemum midge. We have decided to destroy every stock plant, purchase new, clean stock and fumigate after the old stock is thrown out. But as the chrysanthemum house adjoins other houses, where carnations, smilax, sweet peas, snapdragons and potted plants are grown, would not a strong fumigation with tobacco dust be injurious to such crops as sweet peas and smilax? I would be obliged to fumigate in every room adjoining the mum house.

Would not a fumigation with cyanide of potassium rid the house of midge as well? If not, please explain just how tobacco dust is used in fumigating.

Is it not preferable to grow chrysanthemums on raised benches instead of solid beds and would it not be better to have the chrysanthemum room partitioned from the others to avoid draft, which seems to cause mildew?

W. V. L.—Wis.

Naturally a strong fumigation of tobacco or anything else would be injurious to crops of any kind of flowers. If you feel that fumigation will be injurious, why not, as suggested, throw out all the stock plants and let the matter rest that way for some time? I do not know whether there are any other plants in the house that the midge will attack, but if all the plants that are affected with it are destroyed, there is a good chance of getting rid of it. Cyanide of potassium is, I believe, a valuable fumigant, though I have never been able to use it without injuring the plants. When tobacco dust is used as a fumigant, make a small heap of two or three handfuls and on top of each heap put a few drops of kerosene where you can ignite it.

Seedling No. 103 17.

It is, as you say, preferable to grow mums on raised benches instead of solid beds.

Referring to your question as to whether it is not better to have the mum house partitioned from the other houses, we believe in having a separate house and then if one does have a disease or insects in the house, it can be better fumigated.

I think if you will throw out all your old plants, you will not have to worry much about fumigating at this time. Then in the spring, before buying new stock, I suggest that you clean out the house of all vegetable life and give it a thoroughly good fumigation with sulphur, burning it in the house for an entire night, so that all life will be destroyed. In this way there should be no future trouble with a pest of this kind. C. H. T.

GOOD COMMERCIAL VARIETIES.

Please let us know the names of a few of the best varieties of mums for florists' use, in white and pink, early and late, which are easily grown.

Also give us the names of a few of the best hybrid tea roses to grow outside for cut flowers. C. B.—Can.

Good commercial pink chysanthemums are Unaka, Chieftain, Patty, Dr. Enguehard, Wells' Late Pink. White varieties are Smith's Advance, Early Snow, October Frost, White Chieftain, Charles Rager, White Bonnaffon and White Chadwick.

Hybrid tea roses suitable for outdoor culture are numerous. The following are extra good and reliable: Konigin Carola, Lady Pirrie, Richmond, Radiance, Lady Alice Stanley, Antoine Rivoire, Ophelia, Gruss an Teplitz, J. L. Mock, Mme. Leon Pain, Mrs. Wakefield Christie Miller and Killarney Queen. C. W.

PROPAGATING MUMS.

When should Golden Glow and Early Frost be propagated and planted to have them in bloom by September 15?

W. & M.—Ind.

The time of propagating Golden Glow and Early Frost really does not have so much to do with their blooming period as does the taking of the bud, except, of course, that the plants should be planted early enough to make a certain amount of stem growth. Plants propagated any time from February to April will be all right, but the buds must be taken the latter part of July if flowers are desired September 15. While good flowers of October Frost found a ready sale in the market this year, Golden Glow, in the eastern markets at least, was considerably overdone. If you wish to have something novel, it is entirely possible to propagate Golden Glow in December and grow it along for Easter flowering, if desired. I have done this with several other varieties as well as with Golden Glow, but finally came to the conclusion that there is a proper time and place for everything and that the time for mums is not early spring; neither is it early in the fall, since the summer gardens are still in full blaze and there are many other flowers from which to select.

C. H. Totty.

CRACKING OF MUM STEMS.

What causes the stems of Turner chrysanthemums to crack just below the bud, just as though they had been cut with a knife? Some of them have two or three cracks, which go half way around. The plants have made a fine growth; some of the mums are more than four feet high. I have given three or four feeds of liquid manure before the buds showed any color. E. B.—Ind.

A number of exhibition varieties of chrysanthemums have this trouble, especially large, massive blooms on the order of Wm. Turner. There are several causes for it. One is taking the buds too early, particularly during a hot, dry season. If you will notice your plants, you will, I think, find that the trouble is worst on the earliest buds. The reason for this is that the buds were taken when the weather was hot and dry, a time when the growth of the plant is most active. Removing the side buds and growths throws all the strength into the main stem and bud, which is more than they can stand, causing the stem to give way at its weakest point.

Heavy feeding with manure and a rich soil will also cause the same trouble. Some growers who feed their plants highly for exhibition purposes, when they find the stems commencing to crack, make a little slit up and down in the bark where the crack has commenced; this relieves the condition and prevents cracking all around the stem, which causes the bloom to develop under size. M. P.

YELLOW TOUSET.

Is there such a variety as a Yellow Touset mum? W. & M.—Ind.

There is such a variety as Yellow Touset. Doubtless some of the dealers will be able to supply you with it. C. H. T.

PLANTS FOR DARK CORNERS.

The first aid room in a factory is more or less dark, gloomy and bare. What plants can you suggest to make it cheerful? M. F.—Mich.

The different varieties of nephrolepis ferns are suitable for this purpose, also Aspidistra lurida and A. lurida variegata. Among the palms, Kentia Belmoreana, Chamærops Fortunei or Latania borbonica are good. The hardier kinds of dracænas are also good. During their season, cyclamens, begonias and berried plants could be used.

M. P.

GROWING PANSY SEED.

How is pansy seed grown? Is the pansy self-fertilizing or must it be cross-pollenized by the agency of insects? How are the several varieties kept pure in seed production? R. W. T.—Ia.

Success in growing a good crop of pansies or pansy seed depends largely on how the seed is treated the first six to twelve days, for, if pansy seeds get dry after once sprouting, they are dead seeds and if kept too close they will damp off.

A coldframe is a good place if the boards are not full of fungus. Or use a box nine inches to a foot high, on good, fresh ground, a little sandy, that has been manured well for a previous crop, dug and made fine and given a good watering before the seed is sown. If weedy, sow in drills three inches apart, one-sixteenth inch deep. One ounce of seed will sow about 300 to 350 feet of drill or ninety square feet if sown broadcast. Cover the seed one-sixteenth inch deep with fresh sand or sandy soil, pat down or roll it well and give it a light watering. Dust the surface with sulphur or Grape Dust. I think the latter the best to keep the damping-off fungus from starting.

Then cover with boards, but allow for some ventilation, or it might get too hot; pansy seed will not sprout well if kept above 75 degrees. Or you can mulch them with moss, hay or whatever you have handy, but keep a good watch after the fifth day and take the covering off as soon as they have sprouted, or they will get drawn. Then cover them with the thinnest of muslin tacked on to some frames. The muslin will give the seedlings a little shade and protect them from insects, heavy rains and drying winds. The best plants for wintering over in the field for spring sales or seed are from seed sown from July 10 to July 30 in the latitude of New Jersey. Transplant when large enough, usually in five or six weeks after sowing, into the field in good, rich ground. It can hardly be made too rich and should be in raised beds, so that the water will not stand on them in the winter. Plant seven or eight inches apart each way. If you transplant them the first time into the place where you want them to grow, you will have larger flowers, since every time the roots of a pansy plant are disturbed the flowers will be smaller. Put just enough mulch on them to hide them from view after the ground is frozen. Take the mulch off as soon as the frost is out of the ground in the spring.

Pansies are self-fertilizing and the different varieties mix so readily that it is almost impossible to keep any variety or color true. The seed is fit to gather when the seed pods look a little old and brown. We try to go over all the beds twice each week. The seed is put to dry on cloths and is readily cleaned with sieves and a fan mill. We leave as large a space between different varieties as circumstances will allow, planting the intervening spaces to other flowers. We also plant those which are the most alike nearest to each other.

Charles Frost.

HOUSING SINGLE VIOLETS.

I have in the field single violets ready to move to the greenhouse for winter blooming. They are nice, healthy clumps. The warm rains lately have made the foliage grow to the height of a foot. As frost is near, would you advise cutting the foliage back or letting the frost do the work? The latter would require much picking off of foliage. M. E. H.—Tenn.

Do not lift and house your single violets until they have been exposed to a few degrees of frost to check the exuberant leaf growth and to stimulate flower production. I would suggest leaving them out until the thermometer drops once or twice to 28 degrees. It is best not to subject them to anything lower than 24 degrees. If lifted before they have had any freezing, they will continue to produce foliage in abundance and few flowers. Should you have a warm spell after housing the plants and the leaves should start into active growth, the best plan is to let the temperature in the house fall to 31 or 32 degrees on one or two nights. C. W.

CROP TO REPLACE VIOLETS.

We have two violet houses and in one of them the plants are badly affected with leaf-spot. All the foliage is gone from the plants in one bed. Can you suggest some other flower to grow in that bed which would require the same temperature as violets? We want a flower to give crops between now and Easter. Would pansies be profitable? Is there anything that will stop violet spot besides picking it out? Our beds are 150 feet long and six feet wide.

M. E. T.—N. Y.

Pansies will succeed well in a violet temperature and so will hardy primroses or polyanthus. The first named, provided you have or can secure strong plants, would soon start to flower and persist until the end of April. The yellow polyanthus will bloom heavily from February on. Still another crop you could plant and get good returns from before Easter is snapdragons. They prefer a little more warmth than polyanthus and pansies; 45 degrees at night suits them, while 5 degrees lower will answer for the other crops.

Violet spot is most destructive on double violets. The more robust-growing singles, like Princess of Wales, are not all immune from spot, but are more easily kept clean. A low night temperature, abundant ventilation, perfect cleanliness, careful watering and the picking off of diseased foliage will keep violets in a healthy growing condition if anything will. C. W.

LEAF-SPOT ON VIOLETS.

Under separate cover I have mailed a violet leaf, having a disease on it. It eventually withers and dries up. Any information or advice as to the cause and remedy will be appreciated.

J. S. S.—O.

The leaf received has been attacked by what is commonly called the leaf-spot disease of violets, the best known and most destructive of the several diseases which afflict violets. In the case of double violets it is much more deadly and difficult to overcome than with singles and you need not despair of overcoming it. A few points to remember are: Violets need absolute cleanliness, and you should remove and burn the affected foliage as far as possible. Plants which appear utterly hopeless can be destroyed. Never throw any foliage on the paths or below the benches. Be careful when watering to damp the foliage as little as possible, and water at this season only on clear mornings. Ventilate abundantly both night and day so long as the night minimum does not fall below 40 degrees. This latter temperature proves an ideal one for violets at night during the coldest part of the winter. Spraying with Bordeaux mixture on the first appearance of trouble has proved helpful, but I would rely mainly on cleanliness and a suitable temperature to counteract it. A close temperature must always be avoided. C. W.

St. Joseph, Mo.—Rudolph G. Rau, of the Rau Floral Co., has originated a new early chrysanthemum, which he claims will bloom outdoors for four to six weeks before killing frosts. Its bloom is of a purplish hue with a white center and varies from one to two inches in diameter.

Defiance, O.—Although local retail business has been quiet, according to Winfield S. Kircher, the successor of Christ. Winterich, shipping has been good. A carload of 5-inch and 6-inch cyclamens was shipped on one order to the east last week. The force was kept busy to wrap and crate the plants in one day.

TORONTO STAGES FINE SHOW.

Retailers' Display Unusual.

Last week there was held in Toronto an exhibition of flowers such as Toronto has never before seen. It was held under the supervision of the Ontario Horticultural Association and was supported by the various other horticultural organizations, the Gardeners' and Florists' Association and the Toronto Retail Florists' Club.

The displays were gorgeous and a fine compliment was paid the participants by the Duke of Devonshire, governor-general of Canada, and by Sir John Hendrie, the lieutenant-governor of Ontario.

Outstanding in the exhibition was the unusual display by the Toronto Retail Florists' Club. The whole south of the exhibition hall was divided off by a high hedge of cedar trees, with an entrance through a pergola. A low cedar hedge made an aisle back of the high cedars and separated the public from the well arranged exhibits. These were arranged in full-sized rooms as follows: Bridal, reception, living, dining and sun rooms. The decorations were beautiful and were all arranged in their proper positions. The rugs were of the best Turkish designs; the china was Crown Darby; the furniture, curtains and all equipment were the best that could be found. The whole work of arranging the display was done by the members of the club and all the furnishings were from homes of the members.

The bridal room was arranged for a wedding, with an aisle leading up to a canopy of white chrysanthemums. Figures representing the bride and groom stood before the kneeling stool. These were in the correct dress. The proper floral decoration and uses of flowers were shown. All through the club's display the scheme of decoration fitted in with the kind of room. Prominently displayed were signs: "Say It with Flowers."

Visitors Pay Compliments.

Twenty-nine members of the Hamilton Gardeners' and Florists' Association visited the exhibition and were entertained at luncheon by the Toronto Association. They were received by President H. G. Dillemuth and Secretary Alexander Simpson. In reply to President Dillemuth, W. H. Gray, president of the Hamilton Association, stated that he had visited all the larger flower shows and the exhibits at Toronto were the finest he had seen.

The Toronto Retail Florists' Club conducted a tea room, which was well patronized during the exhibition.

The Duke of Devonshire manifested a great interest in both the flowers for display and those for competition. There were sixty classes, with four substantial prizes in each class.

Prize-Winners.

John H. Dunlop took first prize with the Frank W. Dunlop rose. The Dale Estate took second with a choice collection of Columbia. A beautiful collection of Hoosier Beauty, Sunburst and Ophelia roses from the Dale Estate took first prize in its class and was recommended for a diploma.

Sir Henry Pellatt took the first prize for the best collection of plants, ferns, etc. These had a background of palms. Crotons, cibotiums and Adiantum Farleyense were used in arranging the group. There were several fine displays in this class.

The Dale Estate and Miller & Sons divided prizes in the carnation class, the championship cup going to the latter.

Sir Henry Pellatt and the Dale Estate were the chief exhibitors in the mum class. A new mum was shown by Robert L. Dunn, of St. Catharines, Ont.

Walter E. Calvert, of Brampton, Ont., took first prize in the violet competition, the Dale Estate winning second.

First prize for pompons went to Sir Henry Pellatt and second to McLaughlin's, of Oshawa, Ont.

Sir John Eaton won first prize for orchids and Thomas Manton second.

The Dale Estate had two seedling carnations, one an unusual yellow and the other a fine scarlet.

A good collection of commercial plants was shown by William Jay & Son.

DES MOINES HAS DISPLAY.

State Society Holds Show.

The Iowa State Horticultural Society held its annual flower show in connection with the Mid-West Horticultural Exposition at the Coliseum, Des Moines, Ia., November 11 to 14. At the banquet of the society, William Goos, its president, of Bettendorf, Ia., presided and several interesting talks were made by prominent speakers of the state. J. Fred Ammann, president of the S. A. F., was the chief speaker and his invigorating remarks on publicity were enjoyed by all. Music was furnished by Miss Perle Fulmer, of Des Moines. Several non-competitive displays of mums were made, including those by J. F. Wilcox & Sons, Council Bluffs, Ia.; the Kemble-Smith Co., Boone, Ia.; Ames College, Ames, Ia.; the Ove Gnatt Co., La Porte, Ind., and the Iowa Seed Co., of Des Moines. The last named firm had a notable display of 100 varieties of cut mums, each in a separate vase. To these firms the thanks of the society were tendered for their displays.

Two Buckingham Sports.

In the exhibition itself, three strangers appeared to good advantage. Two were pompons, one of them being a bronze sport from Buckingham and the other a sport from the same source, of a novel shade of peachblow, both exhibited by Arthur Smith, of the Kemble-Smith Co., Boone, Ia. The third was a new, pure white carnation, No. 669, a seedling from Matchless and White Perfection, measuring three and a half inches, entered by Mr. Riordan, of Ames College, Ames, Ia.

The J. S. Wilson Floral Co., Des Moines, showed a fine collection of potted plants, not in competition, which added much to the scenic attractiveness of the show.

The display of J. F. Wilcox & Sons, of Council Bluffs, Ia., arranged personally by B. Wilcox, was especially extensive, including Premier, Columbia, Russell and Ophelia roses and some fine cyclamens, peppers and ferns.

The judges of the competition for the liberal cash prizes were William E. Kemble, of Oskaloosa, Ia., and Arthur Smith, of Boone, Ia.

The Prize-Winners.

J. F. Wilcox & Sons, Council Bluffs, Ia., took first prize for general display.

The Alpha Floral Co., Des Moines, Ia., won first prizes for yellow pompons and Russell roses; second for Columbia, red, yellow and pink roses; third for roses of any color.

The Art Floral Co. took first prizes for yellow mums and pink carnations and second for yellow pompons and red pompons.

The Iowa Seed Co., Des Moines, Ia., was first on pink mums, red mums, assorted mums, pink pompons, assorted pompons and vases of fifty blooms of white and assorted mums; second on yellow mums and white mums and third on pink pompons and white pompons.

The Kirkwood Floral Co., Des Moines, Ia., took firsts for American Beauty roses, white roses, long-stemmed Columbia, pink roses, long-stemmed yellow roses, roses of assorted colors, pompon plants, palms, twelve pink mums and white pompons; second for assorted pompons, white carnations, fifty pink mums, yellow, pink and red pompon plants, collection of pompons, collection of plants, collection of ferns and arrangement for effect, and also several third prizes.

Mr. Riordan, of Ames College, Ames, Ia., won first on fifty white mums, yellow, pink and red potted mums, twelve yellow cut mums and twelve white cut mums; second on fifty yellow mums and also several third prizes.

The J. S. Wilson Floral Co., Des Moines, Ia., was first for twelve assorted mums, red pompons, assorted pompons, red carnations, white carnations, collection of pompons, collection of plants, collection of ferns and arrangement for effect; second for twelve pink mums, twelve white mums, pink pompons, pink carnations and specimen palms, and also took several third prizes.

PROVIDENCE MUM SHOW.

Horticultural Society's Fall Show.

The fall exhibition of chrysanthemums, fruits and vegetables given under the auspices of the Rhode Island Horticultural Society and the Providence Chamber of Commerce, held in the ballroom of the Narragansett hotel November 13 and 14, was the finest these societies have yet held. Chrysanthemums were the outstanding feature and have never before been equaled here in quality or numbers. The finest of three excellent groups of chrysanthemums and foliage plants was from Fred Davis, Pawtucket; second, Maplehurst Greenhouses, Longmeadow, R. I. John S. Doig, head gardener to Frederick Peck, had the best circular group, composed entirely of chrysanthemums. T. J. Johnston & Co. had the finest group of palms, ferns and chrysanthemums, putting up an effective display. The same firm won first awards for best shower bouquet, basket of chrysanthemums and mantel decoration. They also made a fine display of foliage plants, orchids ferns, begonias, cyclamens, etc.

Chrysanthemum Awards.

For three vases of Japanese chrysanthemums, ten blooms in each, Maplehurst Greenhouses were first with immense flowers of Turner, Yellow Turner and Glenview. Fred Hoffman was a good second with Turner, Yellow Turner and White Pockett. For three vases of Japanese incurved, Maplehurst Greenhouses also won with wonderful blooms of Turner, Yellow Turner and Enguehard; second, Fred Hoffman. For twelve yellow, first, Maplehurst Greenhouses; second, John McRae, each with Yellow Turner. For twelve white, first, J. S. Doig; second, Maplehurst Greenhouses, each with Turner. Enguehard, from Maplehurst Greenhouses, won for pink, and Glenview, from the same exhibitor, for any other color. John S. Doig had the best of three vases of twelve blooms, each distinct, Fred Hoffman having the best of three other entries.

The carnation exhibit was a good one, the leading winners in these classes being John McRae, Maplehurst Greenhouses and John S. Doig. T. J. Johnston & Co. and John S. Doig had the best specimen bush mums, while for six plants grown to single stems J. S. Doig won; Maplehurst Greenhouses, second. George J. Johnstone & Sons had two fine tables, not for competition, of ferns, foliage and flowering plants.

Fruit was of extremely good quality, and the vegetable exhibit surpassed anything before seen here. In the market gardeners' collections G. K. Tinkham, E. C. Potter and Eugene W. Peck won in the order named. E. L. Lewis, Taunton, Mass., had the best five-bushel boxes, three-bushel boxes, ten varieties, arranged for effect, and also won in many of the individual classes. The show was well arranged, and attracted a large attendance on each day. W. N. Craig, Brookline, Mass., officiated as judge.

STATE COLLEGE, PA.

State College Show.

The division of floriculture of the Pennsylvania State College held its annual chrysanthemum exhibition November 8 in connection with the display of the department of horticulture of fruit and vegetables. The exhibition was not large, as the division had not prepared for it because of disturbed conditions. Next year they are planning to make an elaborate display. The predominating flower was the chrysanthemum; there were also a few vases of roses, carnations, snapdragons and marguerites. These were beautifully banked against a background of evergreen boughs and brilliantly colored oak leaves. The entire display faced the entrance to the large horticulture exhibit room. A large "Say It with Flowers" sign in colors was arranged among the green and attracted a good deal of attention. This was the first "Say It with Flowers" exhibit that the institution has held. Silver medals for size of display and quality of material were awarded to the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., Pittsburgh, Pa., and to the S. S. Pennock Co., Philadelphia. Other exhibitors were Henry A. Dreer, Inc., Philadelphia, with a collection of outdoor-flowering chrysanthemums; Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., with a collection of 1920 introductions, and the Chas. H. Totty Co., Madison, N. J.

OHIO STATE MUM SHOW.

At Columbus.

The first annual chrysanthemum show of Ohio State University was held November 7 to 9. It was given by the florists of the department of horticulture. Friday evening, November 7, the exhibition was formally opened by a reception of the faculty members of the university by the department of horticulture.

Saturday morning, November 8, school children were especially invited. In the afternoon and evening, members of the Columbus Horticultural Society acted as hosts. The public showed an unusual interest in the show and the exhibition hall was crowded at all times. Judging from actual counts taken at various intervals, a conservative estimate of the attendance for the three days is 15,000.

Most of the mums exhibited were grown at the department's greenhouses and they included some especially fine specimens of William Turner, Marigold, Blackhawk, Louisa Pockett, Chieftain, Major Bonnaffon, Charles Rager, Mrs. W. E. Buckingham and Garza. Several specimen plants, which were several feet in diameter and had hundreds of blooms, both of Garza and of Mrs. W. E. Buckingham, attracted the attention of many.

Elmer D. Smith & Co., of Adrian, Mich., sent a fine collection of pompons to the show. Bright Eyes, a tiny button variety, new for 1920, evoked more comment than any other in this section. Button Rose, Little Tot, Mimico, Fire Bird and Anneta also made a strong impression.

The Heiss Floral Co., of Dayton, O., sent a collection of large mums.

S. F. Stephens & Son, of Columbus, had pompons on display, including such varieties as Bishop Henninghaus, which has cream-colored quills opening flat into broad, deep red petals; Inga, Nio and Ceddie Mason. There were also splendid blooms of Ongawa, McNiece, Mrs. J. C. Kelly, Africano and Roman Gold.

Frank S. Miller, of Columbus, had some excellent Diana on exhibition, as well as Chieftain, White Chieftain, Golden Queen, Major Bonnaffon and Chrysolora.

The Fifth Avenue Floral Co., of Columbus, displayed beautiful blooms of Lillian Doty, Bonnaffon, Glenview, Dr. Enguehard and Rayonarte.

The Fairview Floral Co., of Columbus, had perfect Charles Rager and Dr. Enguehard mums.

Altogether there were fifty-seven varieties of chrysanthemums at the show.

Professor Alfred C. Hottes was in charge of the exhibition, which was planned and conducted by students in floriculture. The show room walls were decorated with a frieze of a conventionalized mum, stenciled on with yellow and green. Miss Eunice Merton was chairman of the social committee; Carl E. Gressle, chairman of the decoration committee, and Albert T. Haag, Jr., chairman of the exhibition committee. Credit is also due Paul E. Embler, florist, and J. E. Shanck, gardener, at the university greenhouses, for their assistance.

CINCINNATI, O.

The Market.

Cincinnati is one of the few cities that afford the public an opportunity to buy flowers at a nominal price. At the market a majority of the growers around this city and across the river in Newport, Fort Thomas and other nearby Kentucky cities sell their output direct to the public. Each one contracts for as much space as his individual needs require. The prices as a whole are usually about midway between the wholesale quotations and the retail store prices. This market is a good booster for the flower business, since it teaches people to buy flowers, but if they want to send them to a friend they must go to a regular retailer to get the best results.

Roses are shortening up, most growers permitting their stock to make wood now so that they will be in crop for the holidays.

Timothy Eaton and Yellow Eaton mums are coming in well now, also carnations. Violets and orchids are scarce. Indoor Orange King calendulas are coming into market.

Various Notes.

The Lampert Floral Co., Xenia, O., is shipping some fine Cecile Brunner roses to this market.

John Loder & Sons, Hamilton, O., are cutting a big crop of medium-sized mums that meet with a ready sale here.

Frank Schneider, the Price Hill carnation expert, is also cutting some fine pompons, including a fine bronze anemone.

Baur & Steinkamp, Indianapolis, Ind., shipped the finest pompons we have seen to this market recently.

The Joseph H. Hill Co., Richmond,

Ind., is shipping some fine mums, including Eaton, Yellow Eaton, Seidewitz, Major Bonnaffon, and some new ones in bronze shades that are especially worthy of mention. The Laddie carnation grown by this firm is the best on the market.

L. A. Fennel, orchid grower, Lexington, Ky., reports that orchids are blooming slowly. Mr. Fennel supplies the local trade with the best varieties of cattleyas, also oncidiums and lælias.

H. E. K.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence J. Ohmer and their son, James Ohmer, left for their home at West Palm Beach, Fla., Saturday, November 15, after spending the summer and fall here with Mr. and Mrs. Gillett and in the north.

Thomas Windram has gone to Leesburg, Fla., to spend the winter at the Lake Shore Ferneries.

Among recent visitors were J. E. Thomas, Circleville, Ohio; C. P. Dietrich, Maysville, Ky.; Mr. and Mrs. Norval Kiger, Marietta, Ohio, and Mrs. J. F. Young and Miss Olive Ritter, Dayton, Ohio.

George Klotter has been sending in some Diana mums that are exceptionally good.

Among Cincinnatians who attended the Indianapolis show last week were W. Ray Murphy, H. W. Sheppard, B. L. Fern and Fred Murphy. C. H. H.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

The Market.

The market is still on the upward trend. The orchid situation has been serious. They are bringing $2 each and it is hard to obtain them at that price. There is a good supply of American Beauties, which are bringing up to $7 and $8 per dozen. Sweet peas are still scarce. Out-of-town business has shown a large increase. There has been a large demand for chrysanthemums and the supply has been sufficient to meet the demand.

Various Notes.

George Prokos, of Z. D. Blackistone's force, has been making arrangements to have a series of fine window displays. There will be a different display each week and each one of the series will impress a different meaning upon the public.

J. H. Small & Sons have been busy lately with important work in connection with the many distinguished visitors in this city; it included much decorating work.

One of the largest and most important jobs so far this season was the work at the British embassy during the visit of the Prince of Wales. This work was done by the Louise Flower Shop. The entrance to the embassy was decorated with boxwood plants and yellow and white chrysanthemums. The stairway, which is one of the old colonial styles of dark woodwork, was draped with southern smilax. At the head and base of the stairway there were huge clusters of yellow chrysanthemums. Throughout the hall there were baskets of yellow and white chrysanthemums. The ballroom and reception room were decorated with palms, ferns and large baskets of mums. The dining room had vases of American Beauty roses arranged on the table and around the entire room. About 1,000 chrysanthemums and almost 500 American Beauty roses were used in this work. There were 559 people at the reception. The Louise Flower Shop made the wreath which the prince placed on the tomb of Washington.

Z. D. Blackistone, chairman of the "Say It with Flowers" week committee, made the following statement in reference to the recent campaign: "The 'Say It with Flowers' campaign of November, 1919, has been voted a huge success by everyone. A more appropriate time for this campaign could not have been selected. On account of the Red Cross campaign there were opportunities for making appeals to the people which otherwise would have been impossible. Who would have thought of taking our little organization of fifty people and bringing to it the great organization of the American Red Cross with its 5,000 or more workers? This is just what happened on Sunday evening, when they allowed a committee composed of W. F. Gude, George Shaffer and myself to appear before their mass meeting of probably 10,000 people. Mr. Gude presented a huge basket of flowers on behalf of the florists, with an appropriate and timely speech. I feel justified in making the statement, which has been corroborated by many fellow members of the trade and associates, that our 10-day campaign has advanced 'Say It with Flowers' week more than five years. All the florists showed fine spirit and put forth every effort in this campaign." G. V. S.

DENVER, COLO.

The store of the Central Floral Co., on Fifteenth street, makes an attractive appearance with its false ceiling of oak foliage. This firm, although the youngest in the city, has branched out by opening a stand in the New Grand Central market, on Champa street.

Frank Dykstra is now with Boldt & Lundy.

J. L. Ennegon, of the New York Floral Co., motored to Colorado Springs Friday, November 14, to buy mums for Thanksgiving.

The America Flower Shop is doing an ever increasing F. T. D. business on both outgoing and incoming orders.

R. S.

Rock Rapids, Ia.—John Baart, who has had fifteen years of greenhouse experience in New York, has recently bought the 5-acre William Thiessen property on North Union street and hopes to be able to put up this fall the frame of a 24x60 greenhouse.

Enid, Okla.—The Oklahoma Floral Co. has leased from the Elks' Club the ground floor room in the rear of the Elks' building and will use it for downtown retailing. This firm has completed the construction of its greenhouses near the street railway barn, having recently installed the heating system.

MOTT-LY MUSINGS

Conrad C. Gindra, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., held a flower show in his fine range coincident with the opening of Vassar College and was "tickled to death," using his own expression, with the enthusiasm shown by the students as they passed along, noting the various attractions and showing familiarity with the subject of floriculture. "In short," sagely observed Mr. Gindra, "we have to get a wiggle on to keep in the front row, or the fair sex will supplant us and we shall be transplanted elsewhere."

* * * *

Saltford's Flower Shop, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., offers constant attractions in the form of novelties in floral work, being the first to make the corsage bouquet so popular among the collegians. The usual well grown stock is at the greenhouses, under the charge of the veteran founder, who is justly proud of the orchids and poinsettias, the latter being unrivaled in the state.

* * * *

Wood Bros., of Fishkill, N. Y., are among the many shippers of young stock that have been handicapped by the condition of the express system and hope for improvement ere heavy shipments of rooted cuttings, of which they grow large numbers, are ready to be made. Taking it all in all, things might be worse and assuredly will improve, is the opinion of Louis Wood.

* * * *

Henry Hansen, of Catskill, N. Y., has no complaint to register, having a steady demand, an occasional spurt on funeral work and good stock, the result of careful attention.

Valentin Burgevin's Sons, of Kingston, N. Y., opened the fall season with a flower show, for which their fine store is well adapted. Commenting upon the mention made in The Review of carnations growing in England as tall as five feet, George Burgevin realizes that sturdy growth is essential; the stockier the plant the stronger is the flower stem. It is still an open question as to which is more profitable in the end, old or new soil.

* * * *

The Allen Greenhouses, of Hudson, N. Y., specialize on foliage plants. Since the atmosphere is charged with dust from cement works located some distance away, such stock as carnations and roses do not bloom well. Blooming plants are not affected so seriously.

* * * *

Seymour Cunningham, of Cold Springs, N. Y., is a trinitarian in that he is a florist, sexton and undertaker. He is equally successful in all three and each occupation is interdependent on the others.

* * * *

A tour among the growers in Rhinebeck found violets and pansies up to usual standard and volume, with apparently a good crop for Thanksgiving.

* * * *

F. S. Folwell & Co., Pittsfield, Mass., report a busy season, with weddings and funerals calling for an unusual amount of house and church decoration.

* * * *

L. W. Acheson, Pittsfield, Mass., has thoroughly renovated his store, which is spick-and-span in its new coat of green and white. W. M.

RESULTS.
We give them. You get them.
We both have them.

MORE buyers are looking for sellers than sellers for buyers this season.

FLORISTS who leave it to others in the trade to break in new help feel the lack of capable employees most keenly.

SEVERAL cities have felt shortages of stock this month that were reminiscent of last season's, in effect, not in cause.

"IF it is worth selling," reads the latest poster in the express companies' campaign, "Pack it Right; Mark it Right."

INCREASED production will not benefit the trade unless accompanied by steadily rising quality. There always is too much poor stock.

WITH 152 pages and cover, this is the largest regular number of The Review ever issued. The paper's steady increase in size shows how the florists' trade is growing.

C. ENGELMANN, the widely known carnation grower of Saffron Walden, England, is in Brazil at present, and expects to be in the United States before Christmas.

BUFFALO expects its publicity plan to be contagious and spread to other cities. That would be a more welcome epidemic than the "flu" and would far exceed it in boosting flower sales.

APPARENTLY it will not be long before ice machines will be as common in this trade as light delivery cars now are. Those who have installed reliable apparatus would not think of returning to dependence on the iceman.

THOSE who deal in necessities are classed as profiteers, whatever their prices, but the wage-earning public seems to pay willingly, boastfully, whatever is asked for luxuries. Perhaps, as a trade, we might be able to make a little use of that popular idiosyncrasy.

BABSON, the professional adviser of business men, insists that nothing can change the old rule that "what goes up must come down," nor the Newtonian law of opposite and equal reactions; in other words, "the bigger they are the harder they fall." But Babson does not undertake to tell us when or where the reaction will set in; his advice is only to "Watch your step."

HABITS or neglects that keep a dollar's profit out of the florist's pocket are as expensive as those for which he pays that much cash.

EASTER falls on April 4 in 1920. Lilies to be forced for that date should be planted in the middle of December and not later than Christmas.

BUSINESS is good in all branches of the trade, but it already is apparent that those who did not make money last season have small chance of doing so now.

THERE is material for reflection in the number of stores where flowers are first carried as a side line and then crowd out the main business in a comparatively short time.

STRIKES are not responsible for the labor problem in the florists' trade; the cause is the absence of inducement to young men and boys to enter the business and learn its ways.

THE shortage of spring bedding stock probably will be most acute early in the season. There always is a lot of stuff that comes on the market after the demand has begun to subside. Get yours ready in time.

MANUFACTURERS in other trades find it highly profitable to advertise nationally to aid retailers in the disposition of their merchandise. Flower growers similarly will find that the investment for publicity brings returns not merely to the retailers, but in reality just as strongly to them.

HOPE IN COAL CONFERENCE.

Representatives of coal miners and coal operators are at Washington engaged in efforts to arrive at a compromise agreement which will be satisfactory to both. While they are doing so, miners in many districts are waiting for the outcome before returning to work. Although the strike was, through the government's injunction, formally rescinded, many of the miners are still idle.

The consequent decrease in production is viewed with concern by officials of the fuel administration. Figures show that during the first week of November production of bituminous coal was only twenty-nine per cent of the average weekly output during October. This amount was mined chiefly in non-union fields and districts unaffected by the strike. Following this reduction in supply, orders have been issued by some regional coal committees abolishing the preferred list. Consumers on this list must make application for their wants, in order that there may be no danger of overconsumption of fuel by those not subject to supervision. Florists should therefore make application in ample time to secure their requirements, since no early return of the miners to work is forecast.

SMALL PRODUCTION A FACTOR.

Continued buying is creating a strong demand in lines where production is still small, and thus making the shortage a vital factor in the present business situation. The weekly review of a large wholesale house covers general store merchandise as follows:

"Business continues to increase in volume as cold weather gives added impetus to the movement of retailers' stocks. Buyers are in market in much larger numbers than they were in the corresponding period during November, 1918. Collections are excellent. That general business conditions are fundamentally good is manifested by the non-effect of strikes and other events of national interest, which in former years might have immediately depressed the market. As long as demand for needed merchandise so far exceeds supply, business should move forward uninterruptedly. Shortage of production is still the vital factor in many lines. Many merchants, realizing the condition, are covering their anticipated requirements far ahead into the spring."

MONEY EXCHANGE.

Trade houses which owe money, or soon will owe money to correspondents in foreign countries, are being urged to pay now, if the bills are payable in American money. On the other hand, if the bills are payable in foreign money, or if the credit is on the American side of the ledger, reason for delay is found in the prevailing rate of exchange. Compared to American money, foreign coinage had last week the lowest values ever known and the ability to take advantage of them is important to a large number of bulb dealers in figuring the season's profit. Here is an approximate record of last week's low point:

Value of	In America
British pound	$4.1250
French franc	.0940
German mark	.0285
Dutch guilder	.3765

The dollar, depreciated as we have come to consider it, is the most valuable money in the world.

CHANGES MIND ON FERTILIZER.

An order forbidding an advance in price of raw fertilizer materials over prices of October 7 was announced last week by the Department of Agriculture. Materials affected were sulphate of ammonia, dried blood, tankage, fish scrap and cotton seed meal.

Hearings on the question of fixing prices on these materials were held last month and the department finally ruled that no maximum prices would be established. Since then prices have risen and this led to the order announced.

Then because its action had been construed as price fixing, the Department of Agriculture withdrew its order next day. While pointing out that it had no authority to fix prices, the department said it would do all in its power to bring about normal conditions and to prevent profiteering.

READERS COUNT.

There is an old saying in the newspaper and advertising business that "it's not where a paper is printed, but where it is read that counts." It is because The Review is read everywhere that letters like these come in:

From Dunkirk, N. Y.: The ad in The Review certainly brought me results. It appeared only twice, but it cleared out all my plants and there were many orders I had to refuse.—E. J. Rozumalsky, Manager Point Gratiot Greenhouses, November 12, 1919.

From Cambridge, O.: I consider the Classified ads in The Review the clearing house of the trade.—Fred W. Arnold, November 8, 1919.

From Terre Haute, Ind.: We were sold out on the first insertion of the ad.—Cowan Bros. & Co., November 10, 1919.

From Melrose Park, Ill.: I am sold clean, thanks to the ad in The Review.—R. P. Bohlander, November 10, 1919.

If you hear a man complain of the cost of advertising you can be pretty certain he spends a good bit of money elsewhere than in The Review.

OBITUARY

John T. Shore.

John T. Shore, one of the pioneer members and organizers of the National Association of Gardeners and organizer of the Westchester County Horticultural Society, died at his home in Harrison, N. Y., Wednesday, November 12, after a long illness, at the age of 76. For twenty-five years he had been superintendent of the Sterling estate, in Harrison, and was held in high esteem by all who knew him. He was a charter member of the Harrison fire department and its president for fifteen years. He was also a school trustee and an elder in the Presbyterian Church.

Frederick Shawyer.

Frederick Shawyer, for the last few years head gardener at Farnholme, the estate of Miss Mary Sharswood, at Wequetequock, near Westerly, R. I., was killed by an automobile shortly after midnight Saturday, November 8. He had been visiting friends during the evening and was on his way home when he was struck by an automobile and left dead at the side of the road. He is survived by his wife and four children.

Allen J. Hamm.

After a prolonged illness, Allen J. Hamm died at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, November 7, at his home, 912 North Braddock avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa. The funeral services were held the following Monday morning at 10 o'clock in the Holy Rosary Roman Catholic church, Kelly street.

Mr. Hamm was the younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob M. Hamm and the brother of Harry J. Hamm, with whom he had been identified in business since leaving school, acting as manager for some time previous to his illness. He was one of the earliest victims of the Spanish influenza epidemic during the autumn of 1918, the disease rapidly developing into tuberculosis of the lungs. Mr. Hamm is survived by his parents, his brother, his wife, Mrs. Stella Messler Hamm, and a son and daughter, Miss Gertrude and Allen J. Hamm, Jr., respectively.

Mrs. Lydia Flora Current.

Mrs. Lydia Flora Current, 61 years old, died November 9 at her home, 2724 Monroe avenue, Kansas City, Mo. Besides her husband, she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Maude Everett, of Pawhuska, Okla. Mrs. Everett took the remains to Pawhuska for burial.

J. E. K.

Mike Robinius.

After a struggle of ten months to regain his health, Mike Robinius, of Paris, Tex., died Wednesday, November 12. All the members of his family were at his bedside at the time. Mr. Robinius went to El Paso in search of health and returned home about three weeks before his death.

Mr. Robinius is survived by his wife, three daughters, Mrs. Harry Book, Mrs. L. T. Craigo and Miss Esther Robinius, and his two sons, Henry and Charles. The business at the Evergreen Greenhouses will be conducted by Mrs. Robinius and the sons.

Catholic services were held at Our Lady of Victory church. Interment was at Evergreen cemetery, where the deceased was laid to rest beneath many beautiful floral offerings sent by his friends.

Mrs. John Ralph.

Mary Maher Ralph, widow of John Ralph, of Saratoga Springs, N. Y., died at her home, on Woodlawn avenue, last week. She was born in Tipperary, Ireland, in 1842. She went to Canada and then, forty-five years ago, came to the United States. For forty-three years she had been a resident of Saratoga Springs.

She is survived by three daughters, Mary Jane and Katherine Louise, of Saratoga Springs, and Mrs. Robert Morrissey, of Port Henry.

The funeral was held at the late residence and a half hour later at St. Peter's Catholic church. Burial was in St. Peter's cemetery.

BRIDGEPORT, CONN.

The Market.

The members of the local trade were busy November 15 filling orders for corsages and cut flowers for the Yale-Princeton game. Quantities of violets, white carnations and chrysanthemums, in combination with violets and yellow chrysanthemums, were disposed of.

Business has been rather quiet on account of the unseasonably warm weather, which has prolonged the life of outdoor flowers. Fortunately, we have now had a killing frost and the outdoor flowers are about gone. Chrysanthemums are plentiful at the present time and some splendid blooms are being displayed in the florists' windows. Carnations are also in good supply. Although counter trade has not been as brisk as might be desired, funeral orders have been abundant. Weddings are taking place daily and, although most of them call for bouquets, no large decorations have been furnished recently.

Various Notes.

A new greenhouse range is now in operation at Beardsley park. It is a park board project and cost $25,000.

James E. Beach is cutting some splendid yellow mums and carnations. He is also well supplied with Paper Whites. There is a large assortment of begonias and primroses on hand. He had numerous calls for funeral orders last week.

John Reck made preparations for a big day's sales for the game, November 15, and was not disappointed in the number of violets and chrysanthemums disposed of.

George Pflomm reports an abundance of funeral work. He had also an elaborate window decoration for the Yale-Princeton game.

James Horan & Son disposed of a large number of violets for the Yale-Princeton game. Funeral orders have been abundant, among the pieces designed being two casket covers. One was made of Columbia roses and the other of white and yellow chrysanthemums. This firm also had the elaborate decorations for the entertainment and dance which the merchants who have adopted the 6 o'clock closing on Saturday gave to their employees on the first night on which the new plan was tried out. This affair was held at the Casino on State street. The walls were festooned with laurel, while hanging baskets of ferns were suspended at intervals. Palms, boxwood and bay trees were also used.

The Park Gardens store is well supplied with carnations, of which the firm is cutting large quantities daily. Chrysanthemums are also in their prime and some splendid snapdragons are being cut. This firm's share in the trade for the game was satisfactory.

Robert Hawkins anticipated a rush for flowers for the game and had it. He furnished several elaborate table decorations recently and decorated the ballroom of the Stratfield hotel for the woman suffrage convention, festooning the chandeliers and encircling the banners with southern smilax. Pink chrysanthemums were used for the table decorations.

Julius Reck reports that he is all ready for cold weather, although he still has a number of bedding-out orders for bulbs to be filled. Callas and snapdragons are now in bloom at these greenhouses and some fine chrysanthemums, carnations and Paper Whites are being cut. His son, John Reck, is still in France.

The Arcade Flower Shop sold a large number of violets and yellow chrysanthemums for the Yale-Princeton game. Although this firm has been in business only a short time, it reports that business is increasing steadily.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

Business is good. There has been some spottiness in the demand, some days being much better than others and, on busy days, some houses seeming much busier than others, but on the whole there seems to be no reason for dissatisfaction with existing conditions. Prices are not nearly so high as they were a year ago, but most of the wholesale houses say that sales are running as good as or a little better than last November, so that the growers must be taking in about as much money as they did last year. Probably their expenses are higher, but not enough higher to make the business otherwise than profitable. That the enterprising members of the producing branch of the trade look upon conditions as favorable is shown by the number of reports of new construction for next season.

The supply of stock continues large. There are at least twice as many flowers as were in the market at this time last year. Chrysanthemums are distinctly on the down grade. Only the late varieties now are in the market. Bonnaffon is the leader, but there are excellent Chadwicks, Seidewitz and Eaton. Although the market rarely is cleaned up on mums, the sellers are able to hold all good stock for fair prices. There is scarcely any demand for the low grade mums. Pompons are less plentiful then they have been, but the supply still is large and varied in character. Classed with the pompons are the semi-double and anemone varieties. It is noticed that in all types the strongest demand is for yellow, but that the call for pink is strongest in comparison to the quantity of stock available.

There is little change in the rose situation. Cooler weather has improved the quality with many growers, but new crops are not yet ready. The demand is running more and more to the finer grades, social functions consuming a steadily increasing part of the supply. Although Russell, Columbia and Premier continue the most popular varieties, there is increased call for red, which has brought Milady to the front.

There is an adequate supply of carnations, these flowers not meeting their strongest demand while pompons are so cheap. Violets and sweet peas have enjoyed an increased demand as the result of increased social activities. The price of Paper Whites is easing off, because of the necessity for forcing the sale. Soleil d'Or is in. Harrisii lilies have made their appearance in the market in small quantities, but they are not in active request because the growers say $4 per dozen is necessary to make the crop profitable. The moderate supply of valley continues to move at the price asked. Cattleyas are extremely scarce, and $2 per flower is the minimum now asked for everything that is moderately good. The retailers protest, but the demand takes up all that are available at the price. Stevia has come. A few snapdragons also are seen. There is an abundance of greens.

Let's "Put it Over" Big.

George Asmus is starting his term as president of the Retail Florists' Association by engineering what promises to be the biggest publicity stunt in the history of the local trade. The plans are all made, but help is needed to make it "go big," as the theatrical folk say.

Next week at the Majestic theater Miss Frances Kennedy, who has a large personal following, will use the new song, "Say It with Flowers," as the feature of her act. In Cleveland and Detroit it has been a hit, and the Retailers' Association, under the leadership of Mr. Asmus, has arranged to make it go big in Chicago. All retailers are urged to specially decorate their windows and to display the cards the committee will furnish, explaining what is going on at the Majestic. The committee will decorate the lobby of the theater, and Miss Kennedy will throw souvenir flowers to the audience as she sings. It is planned to make Tuesday a special flower day, a flower with a tag being presented to each person who attends. There will be a large party of florists present, the ticket arrangements being in the hands of A. Lange. Apply to him if you want to sit with the bunch.

The flower arrangements are in the hands of A. Lange, L. R. Bohannon and Weiss Buys Another.

Paul Weiss is adding another to the string of greenhouse establishments of which he is the executive head. Together with associates, he has engaged to purchase the well-known Knopf place at Richmond, Ind., heretofore owned and operated by the Joseph H. Hill Co. There is about 75,000 square feet of glass exposure in the greenhouses, which are in carnations, the Laddie constituting the largest block of that variety in existence. During the time the establishment has been in the hands of Joseph Hill it has been put into first-class shape.

Mr. Weiss was at Richmond November 19 to complete the deal. He was accompanied by C. J. Michelsen, of the E. C. Amling Co., which handles the output of all the places Mr. Weiss is interested in.

that the price of bulbs, about 18 cents for 7 to 9 giganteums, or 27½ cents for 9 to 10's, is justified, not only by jobbers' costs, but by last Easter's results for the forcers, who then used much inferior cold storage bulbs.

But the growers assert the cost of the bulbs is too high to afford much hope of profit for the forcer. Emil Buettner says he never has averaged better than two and three-quarter flowers sold for each bulb bought, when his stock was partly made up of the larger bulbs. He voices the view of the growers who have been cutting down their orders for bulbs when he says the risk is too great.

A wholesaler's idea is that if 7 to 9 bulbs are well handled they will average two flowers each, and that these can be sold to net the grower 25 cents per flower, or 50 cents from a bulb costing 18 cents, leaving 32 cents for the forcing. C. J. Michelsen contrasts this with bulbs which cost 5 cents each in pre-war seasons, and two flowers at 12 cents each (a good average) producing 24 cents, or 19 cents net for the forcing. A. Miller thinks Mr. Michelsen's suggestion of 25 cents per flower next Easter is too low, and that a much better price can be had for good stock. Consequently most of the commission men recommend that the growers make the investment in bulbs.

The retailers one and all protest that lilies were too high last Easter and that they will not push them next Easter unless they are cheaper, but the fact remains that they sold pot stock to the public as high as $1 per flower. kind he ever had seen elsewhere, and that Kansas City impressed him as one of the best cities in America for florists.

Joseph Foerster comments on one change in the market situation which he thinks may not have been fully appreciated. Whereas in earlier years city buyers were in the habit of making the complete rounds of the market each day, now most of the buyers practically confine their purchases to one or two houses. Mr. Foerster thinks considerate treatment has developed a spirit of loyalty which is a valuable asset for all concerned.

Leases in the Atlas block, where there are sixteen trade tenants, nearly all run out May 1, 1920, or have a 90-day cancellation clause. In view of what is heard with regard to rent increases elsewhere in the downtown district, the annual visit of the agent is awaited with more than usual interest.

Grading is in progress preparatory to doubling the glass area of the Weiss-Spandikow Co. It is probable that two iron frame houses, 72 x 400, will be erected, although details are not yet settled.

A. Miller is spending the week in Detroit, his first trip since his return from Japan.

Bouvardia has proved a profitable addition to Henry Wehrman's list of specialties. The supply on the market is so small that his cut usually is spoken for before it reaches his wholesaler.

Alois Frey writes from San Fernando, Cal., that he has had a strenuous time getting his new place planted, but that freesias, callas, etc., now are growing nicely.

P. C. Schupp's establishment, the J. A. Budlong Co., has come to be known to its friends as "The Corner House," a title made nationally famous as the "Street" nickname of J. P. Morgan & Co., in New York.

P. J. Foley, who spends a considerable part of his time on the road, devoted the afternoon of November 18 to visiting friends in the market. He says his company has built more greenhouses in 1919 than in any previous year, but that 1920 will be still better, bookings the first half of November exceeding the best record for the full month in any other year.

G. Denys, well known in the vicinity of St. Louis, has joined the staff of A. Henderson & Co.

The American Greenhouse Mfg. Co. will erect a greenhouse for Julius Rosenwald, on his estate at Highland Park.

A. T. Pyfer was in Des Moines, Ia., for two days last week, attending the Mid-West Horticultural Exposition. Mr. Pyfer reports an interesting and enthusiastic meeting and an exceptionally fine display of flowers.

R. B. Howe, of the W. W. Barnard Co., left last week to visit the eastern markets. He expects to be absent about a fortnight.

A. J. Zech attended the show of the Indiana and Kentucky florists at Indianapolis last week. He reports a large attendance and fine exhibition.

Visitors.

Visitors reported by Bassett & Washburn were T. L. Metcalfe, wife and son, of Hopkinsville, Ky., and Wm. Neilson, of Pana, Ill.

Harry Schultz, of George Heath's, Morris, Ill., was in Chicago November 17.

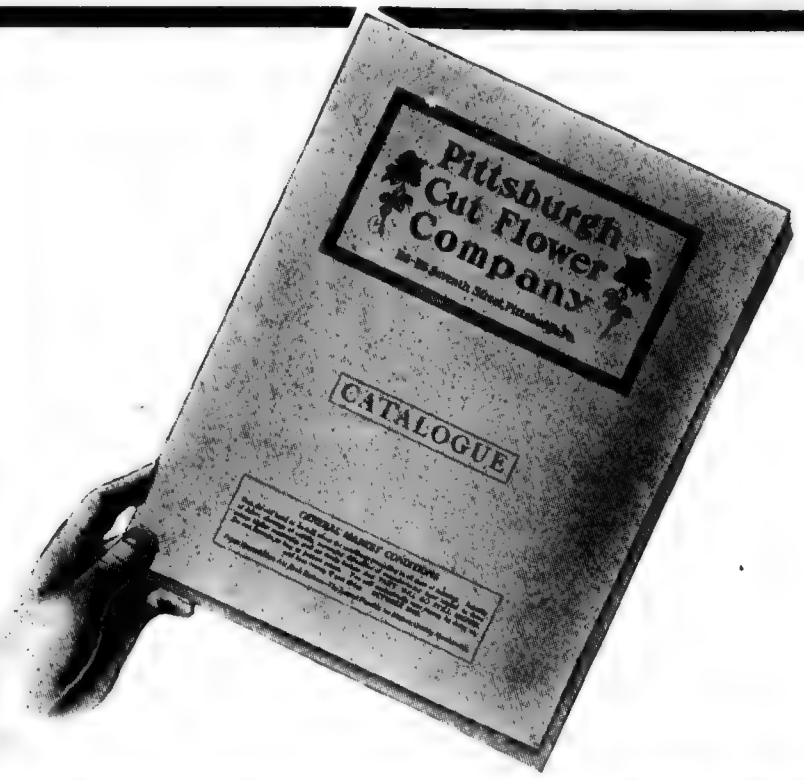
Ask the man who Buys from us.

A. B. Barber, whose string of Ohio stores has caused his friends to christen him "the Woolworth of the flower business," was in town November 17 and 18. He is making his arrangements with the idea of a record retail demand in the next few weeks and says he will open another store whenever he finds a man who will run it as he wants it done.



James A. Brown, of Brown's Bulb Ranch, Capitola, Cal., was in town November 18, visiting customers and looking over the market. He was returning from an Eastern trip.

PITTSBURGH.

The Market.

Business was fair last week, the average amount for the first half of the month being far in advance of that of October. Chrysanthemums have seen their best days and fail to meet the demand, although the majority of those coming in are of good quality and selling for from $2.50 to $5 per dozen. Pompons, however, are still coming in plentifully, especially the bronzes, yellows, and whites; the pink "babies" are about done. All are still selling at 50 cents per bunch.

Roses of all kinds, from American Beauties to the short-stemmed varieties, are scarce, the abnormally warm weather of a few weeks ago being probably accountable for the present off crop. Fortunately there is not so much demand for the Beauties, which are rated at $2, $3, $4 and $5. The shorter grades, however, are much in demand.

Cattleyas are scarce, while the demand is unusually large. The wholesale price is $1 apiece.

Flowers of the later season are beginning to show up in greater or less numbers; all are of satisfactory quality. Sweet peas are rated anywhere from $1 to $3 per hundred. Calendulas sell at $3 and $4 per hundred, while narcissi are $6 per hundred straight. Although nice and tall, the latter are not much in favor. Marguerites are a little too short to be pleasing; $1 per hundred is asked for the daisies.

Of the green stock, boxwood, both the tree and the dwarf varieties, is coming rapidly from Virginia and Tennessee and going out fully as quickly at $25 per hundred pounds. Winter berries have also made their first appearance for the season of 1919-20 and have a sales disposal of $3.50 per box.

Various Notes.

At the recent Heinz exhibition at Greenlawn, the plant of Wells' Late Pink, said to carry 1,000 blooms, attracted much attention in the chrysanthemum display, as did also the collection of crotons. Frank Hasslinter and August W. Weber are in charge of the conservatory and grounds, the former having come recently from three years at the Laketon road range of William M. Turner, of Wilkinsburg. For some time past Mr. Weber has been on a farm on Mount Nebo, near Sewickley Heights.

Superintendent George W. Burke, of the bureau of parks, and Foreman John W. Jones, of Schenley park, contributed the handsome floral decorations for the third World's Christian Citizenship conference held in Syria Mosque, the Soldiers' and Sailors' Memorial hall and Carnegie Music hall during Armistice week, November 9 to 16.

Frank Ludebacher, who came to Pittsburgh some time ago to supervise the remodeling of the old Thaw place, Lyndhurst, on Beechwood boulevard, now the property of Emil Winter, has returned east to become superintendent of Mr. Untermeyer's estate, Greystone, at Greystone-on-the-Hudson. He was accompanied by Anthony Aloysius Leach, who establishment that successfully grows 40 to 50 varieties of plants to cut from? Yet that is just what the CHICAGO MARKET offers every day, IN and OUT of SEASON, to fill orders for the retail florists in Chicago and in other cities.

The QUANTITY and QUALITY of the stock is beyond comparison.

The EXPRESS SERVICE from CHICAGO is the BEST.

It is because of our large supply of cut flowers with that of the larger supply in the market as a whole that thousands of retail florists operate a Retail Store without the investment and expense of operating a greenhouse of their own.

CHICAGO rightfully claims the distinction as THE GREAT CENTRAL MARKET.

will act as foreman for the greenhouse and grounds. Since leaving the Heinz estate, Greenlawn, last year, Mr. Leach has been in charge of the Duquesne grounds of the Carnegie Steel Co.

The McCallum Co. has added a series of bins extending almost the entire length of both sides of its store-room on Seventh street for the purpose of taking care of the city orders.

Edward J. McCallum, Edward Niggle, Clarence C. Phillips and Homer Wood, of the McCallum Co., returned recently from a week of hunting in Forest county, the trip having been made in automobiles.

John B. Strayer has returned from a trip in the interests of the landscape department of the A. W. Smith Co. At the same time Ralph H. Pinner was away on a similar mission.

James F. Kilburn, of El Paso, Tex., a member of the commercial engineering department of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, is doing part-time work in the sales room of Randolph & McClements. Peter Matsukes has become associated with the designing department of the same firm, having recently disposed of his business on Kirkwood street, East Liberty.

The Elliott Nursery Co. has just received a large consignment of French bulbs, which were ordered by the senior Mr. Elliott, while he was in France during the summer. The bulbs have been held up at the New York dock for the last two months owing to the transportation difficulties. The stock of goods received earlier in the season amounting to nearly $100,000 in value has been entirely disposed of. J. Wilkinson Elliott and Mrs. Elliott have returned to their town house on Roup street, east end, from their country estate, Brook Lodge, near Springdale, Pa.

The Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co. has been receiving large amounts of boxwood, both tree and dwarf varieties, from Virginia and Tennessee. This boxwood was selected some time ago by Secretary Theodore P. Langhans and his son, Oliver H. Langhans, who motored through Virginia for that purpose.

The death of Allen J. Hamm November 7 is recorded in this week's obituary column. E. E. S.

LOWELL, MASS.

The Market.

There has been a continuance of rain and dark, cloudy weather, greatly to the detriment of everything. Chrysanthemums have sold well in this city, moderate-sized blooms bringing $5 per dozen. Large Bonnaffons have reached the high mark of $1.25 each. Singles and pompons have been numerous this season; they have, however, found a ready sale.

On Armistice day, November 11, by the governor's proclamation a general holiday, the stores downtown were closed all day. Florists mostly were open till noon. In Lawrence flower stores were tightly closed all day.

Various Notes.

J. L. Kenny, of Central street, is receiving some extra fine chrysanthemums from Wm. R. Nicholson, of Framingham. The varieties are Marigold and Bonnaffon; some of the latter variety cost Mr. Kenny as high as $8 per dozen.

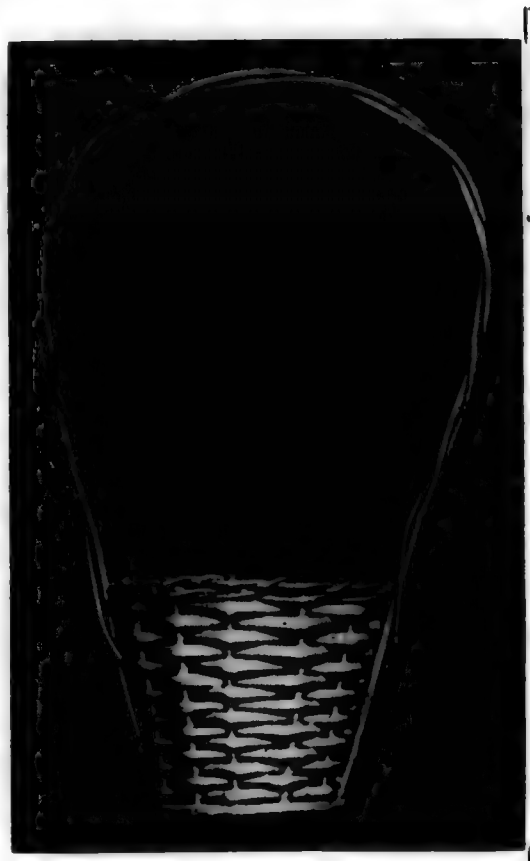
CLEVELAND, O.

The Market.

The market has tightened up considerably and stock has advanced in price a little. The demand has been good in general. Chrysanthemums were not so plentiful and cleaned up in a hurry; large yellow mums were especially scarce. Pompons have suffered considerably and yet, after the morning rush, about the only thing to offer was pompons. Carnations have been cleaning up well at $4 per hundred. Roses have been scarce since the cut has dropped off considerably. Violets were in demand, both single and double. Narcissi have little demand. Calendulas, daisies, marigolds and other novelties cleaned up well. Greens have been scarce.

Various Notes.



The sincere sympathy of the trade is extended to Mr. and Mrs. F. Hammell in the loss of their son, Clayton D. Hammell. The funeral was held from their residence, 6002 Curtiss avenue, Thursday, November 13.

Al Barber had a busy day recently at his St. Clair street store, where they worked until 3 a. m., Friday, November 14, and turned out several floral pieces for the funeral of M. Webaniz.

Lars Anderson has completed three new greenhouses at Rocky River.

Karl Witthuhn has purchased the fixtures of the Lorenz Floral Co. and is going to open a first-class store at 4236 Pearl road. He has been remodeling and decorating the store for the opening Saturday, November 22. Mr. Witthuhn was in the government service for some time and returned from overseas recently.

The florists of Cleveland had a theater party at the Hippodrome Tuesday evening, November 18, to hear Frances Kennedy sing the famous new song, "Say It with Flowers," by Albert Von

ST. LOUIS.

The Market.

The wholesale market last week was not as overcrowded as it was the week previous. While the demand was good all the week, prices were not so high and this helped to dispose of a great deal of surplus stock daily. Chrysanthemums are still in greatest demand of all seasonable flowers and are now at their best. During the week ending November 15, some extra fancy show blooms were seen in such varieties as Bonnaffon, Dr. Enguehard, Turner and Chadwick. The fancy stock cleans up well daily at excellent prices, while in other grades the demand is not so good. There is an abundance of pompons, with slow demand in all grades.

Roses are of excellent quality, but suffer to some extent in demand during the mum season, though fancy grades in Premier, Russell, Ward and Columbia always sell well. The lower grades suffer in demand and price. There are plenty of good carnations and the same applies to them as to roses. The Enchantress varieties always have the call in this market, while Nebraska, Ward and Beacon are in favor for colored stock.

A few excellent sweet peas are now coming in and they clean up daily. Violets, too, are in better demand since the cold spell put more color into them, with longer stems. Orchids, valley and Easter lilies continue scarce.

Paper Whites are becoming more plentiful each week. In greens, asparagus has a big demand and is short in supply, as are fancy ferns. Smilax is of fine quality and sells well at all times.

Florists' Club Meeting.

The St. Louis Florists' Club held its regular monthly meeting November 13, in the tea room at Vandervoort's department store, on invitation of Messrs. Schaeffer and Steitz, the managers of the floral department. The room was handsomely decorated with an exhibition of mums in both pot plants and cut stock. The park department showed the pot mums. The W. C. Smith Wholesale Floral Co. staged fine plants of begonias and cyclamens, grown by them. A. S. Cerny showed a fine vase of mixed varieties of carnations. The W. A. Rowe Co. exhibited a fine lot of cut mums, among them splendid blooms of Chas. Rager, Wm. Turner and Marigold.

After they had viewed the exhibits, President August H. Hummert called the meeting to order at 2:30 and there were present sixty members.

President Hummert opened the meeting by introducing M. L. Wilkinson,

Joseph Frank, Edward Pieper, John Houlahan, Ed. W. Kalisch, Herman A. Knoll, Geo. Berner, Andre Bourdet, W. W. Stertzing, William Dee, L. R. Smith and Wm. A. Storck. Should all of the new applicants be elected to membership, the club would contain 196. Only four more are needed to complete the campaign drive for 200.

On motion the club recommended the name of W. J. Pilcher to President-elect A. L. Miller, of the S. A. F., for state vice-president for eastern Missouri, and the secretary was instructed to advise the president-elect of its recommendation.

F. C. Weber then spoke on the Sunday closing question and in a lengthy address appealed to the retailers, wholesalers and growers to close shop on Sunday.

The chair then appointed Messrs. Bourdet, Grossart and Beyer to judge the exhibition and report after a recess of five minutes. J. S. Carter, head of the Nicotine Mfg. Co., gave an interesting talk on the work of the Red Cross Society in St. Louis.

A rising vote of thanks was extended to Messrs. Schaeffer and Steitz for their afternoon's entertainment. It was also voted to send all cut flowers on exhibition to decorate the office of Mr. Wilkinson, head of the store. Treasurer Smith's report pleased, as it showed a big gain in the club's finances. A vote of thanks was also extended the exhibitors.

After adjournment the members were served with refreshments, which were much enjoyed by all present.

Various Notes.

The publicity committee held a meeting November 9 at Bourdet's to consider plans for Thanksgiving advertising. Vernon Stiels, who sings "Say It with Flowers," was present and sang the song for the benefit of the members. He explained the great amount of publicity he was giving the florists in every city in which he sings the song. He said that St. Louis was the first city in which the song was introduced, while Chicago would have it the week following. It was decided by the committee to send 500 roses to each performance, to be distributed by the ushers during the time Mr. Stiels was singing the song and also to present the star at each performance with a bouquet of flowers. A committee was appointed to visit the theater daily to see that the flowers were properly cared for. Those who visited the theater during the week say this feature was a big hit. This committee will meet again November 25, at 8 p. m., to discuss further advertising.

Mrs. L. Doussard, of East St. Louis, Ill., recently entertained the members of the St. Louis Ladies' Florists' Club. The ladies spent a most pleasant afternoon.

Max Rotter, Jr., son of Max Rotter, former North St. Louis florist, will open a florists' store at Vandeventer and St. Louis avenue.

Miss Margie Kuehn, daughter of C. A. Kuehn, gave a piano recital at the Exhibition building during the art exhibition last week, which was largely attended.

week, calling on the trade and buying supplies. They report business good in all lines.

James M. North, on Easton avenue, near the city limits, reports that early next year he will wreck the present store and build a large show house with an attractive front.

Pierre Schneider, who recently built a new range at Clayton, has started cutting carnations and sweet peas, which are of fine quality.

Visitors during the last week were Julius Dilloff, of Wertheimer Bros., New York; George Madsen, Alton, Ill.; M. F. Widmer, of Highland, Ill.; Gust Grossart and M. Schoenberger, Belleville, Ill.; H. Blixen and L. R. Smith, Edwardsville, Ill.; Charles G. Johann, Collinsville, Ill.

Edward Steitz, who has charge of the bulbs at Vandervoort's floral department, says the sales last week were larger than any year since the opening of that branch.

Ernest Henchel, for the last ten years foreman for Sanders Nursery, has resigned his position. Edgar Sanders, who recently returned from China, where he served in the navy, and his brother Frank will have charge of the greenhouses and Oliver K. will be manager of the retail store, on Clara avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Gust W. Grossart, of Belleville, were visitors at the city greenhouses' mum show during the week. Their son, Arno, who manages the retail end of their establishment, reports trade excellent in all lines.

Every Wednesday night finds a full attendance of florist bowlers at the alleys. November 12 the Carnations surprised all by winning three games from the strong Sweet Peas, who gave them a 30-pin handicap, and the Daisies, with a 25-pin handicap, won the odd game from the Roses. The standing of the teams, including last Wednesday's bowling, shows the Carnations and Sweet Peas in a tie for first place, with the Roses only one game out of first place and the Daisies trailing the league. New alleys have been selected and, beginning November 19, the teams will bowl at the northeast corner of Compton and Shenandoah avenues, where better bowling is looked for.

The Market.

The cut flower market is full of activity. The close of the outdoor season and the cold weather have put snap into business. Prices have commenced advancing, but it is for quality that higher figures are paid; low grade flowers seldom are wanted. Fancy chrysanthemums have gone up to $5 per dozen, carnations to $5 per hundred and violets to $1.50 per hundred.

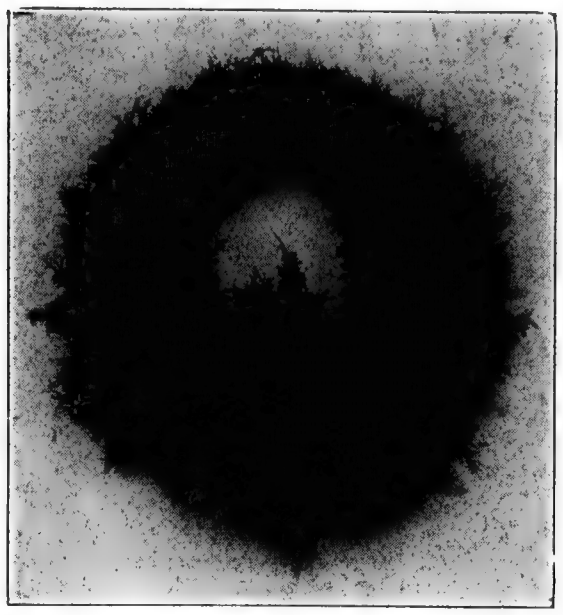
All the cleverest chrysanthemum growers are sending in their best stock now. Eaton, Chadwick in two colors, Dean, Bonnaffon, Rager and Chieftain are among the leading varieties. Pink is hard to get. Many more of that color are asked, but not given. Pompons are selling decidedly better. The name pompon is now supposed to include also the singles, semi-doubles and anemone flowers, much in demand for decorating the center of the festive board. Many of the carnations are hardly so good as usual at this season, but there is some excellent stock. Laddie looks particularly well. Some of this variety are bringing $6 per hundred.

Roses are not plentiful and will not be so for a while. Long Beauties are 60 cents each. Fancy, long-stemmed flowers of other varieties bring 15 to 25 cents each. There are few of them. Red roses are scarce. Ophelia is fairly plentiful. Columbia probably is next. Both orchids and valley are scarce and likely to remain so. Stevia has come.

The Russell-Premier Race.

A friend has asked that a visit be paid to the greenhouses of a noted rose grower to see his Premier. With pleasure at the earliest opportunity—only first let this be clearly understood, that the paragraph expressing the opinion that Russell was ahead for that part of the season now past, the warm weather period of late summer and early fall, had nothing whatever to do with the growing abilities of the two varieties. It was a market report, pure and simple, based solely on the selling records of the two varieties as received in this market. Whether Premier is a better cold weather rose and whether our growers know yet how to grow it are different questions, that will be decided later.

Statice.



The enterprise of Sydney H. Bayersdorfer has brought here a flower once well known, that has been absent for four years. Mr. Bayersdorfer went abroad in July to secure some of the things our florists like and have not had since commerce was interrupted. Among them was the pretty white-flowered statice so much used in making up wreaths. Mr. Bayersdorfer says that the statice he got is good, just as good as he has ever seen it. As he held up a spray in his hand last week he expressed the hope that his florist friends would use it.

An Evil.

Every stage of progress in an industry is marked by bad points as well as good. There is an evil in the plant industry today that is serious and ought to be stamped out. I refer to the sending out of plants that are below grade. This evil is most conspicuous in those plants that are most difficult of cultivation and in the novelties. It is due to the scarcity of stock and to the craze for novelties. It is most frequently seen in the plants sent out from small pots.

Of these many are put back into pots from which they were taken and then nursed for weeks before health and vigor are secured. Many are put back into the cutting bed. Many die. Few can stand more room for their roots at once. This means that stock, after being sold at a high price, is not worth the price asked and accepted. It is not of standard size. It is, therefore, a dishonest plant. The recipient of such stock ought to send it back, but does not, for two reasons. First, because he wants the stock and hopes to get it into shape. Second, because sending it back will probably insure its partial or total loss.

The remedy is a higher standard of business morality for all of us. We should send out only what is fit. We should accept nothing that is unfit. We should see that the stock is exactly as represented. When this is done our business will have taken a step forward.

The New House at Roelofs.

The Joseph Heacock Co. has just completed the most perfectly equipped greenhouse in this part of the country. To the uninitiated this house resembles the other two monster houses at Roelofs, but the expert will quickly note and point out the latest improvements. Most important of all, however, was the practical test applied by the manager, Robert Jamison, who went through the house November 13, during a heavy rainstorm, and failed to find a single leak, a unique and pleasing experience even in a perfectly good, new house. The house is 70x600 feet, a gem of its kind, strong, light, well ventilated, a house to delight the heart of a grower. James W. Heacock, president of the company, is much pleased with it.

There are other distinctly modern things about this house besides its construction. Take the time, for instance. It was built in the summer and fall instead of in the spring. No effort to rush it through and plant it in quick time, with the result of neglecting the rest of the place. No planting late, with the effect of missing results the first season.

Half of the new house is being used for sweet peas, calendulas and callas. The other half will be fitted with temporary tables and used for young rose plants in 2¼-inch and later in 3-inch pots. These benches will give way to the ground beds to be used throughout this house when it will be prepared for planting with roses early next season.

After the latest season on record we have had killing frost. There was a light frost November 5, but it did little damage. The first real frost came November 14, when the thermometer registered as low as 18 and 20 degrees in some places. This put an end to outside stock and immediately trade began to pick up. This is the first time dahlias were ever known to bloom themselves out. As a rule, frost gets them before the crop is over.

Roses are scarce and small; otherwise there is plenty of good stock. Carnations are becoming better and more plentiful every day. Chrysanthemum season promises to be long drawn out this year. It might be said that they are still at their best. Such varieties as Seidewitz, Chieftain, White and Pink Frick, Dolly Dimple and others are now in strong evidence. There is a good crop of orchids, which have been used to good advantage for parties during the week. Cut narcissi are beginning to make their appearance.

Various Notes.

A. H. Dailey is cutting some choice sweet peas and some good chrysanthemums.

A. J. McNutt has a fine prospect for roses. The crop is rather light just now, the stock having been cut back for Christmas. He goes in rather strongly for Ophelia, Columbia and Kaiserin. He has some choice pepper and cherry plants that will soon be ready for the market.

At the greenhouses of Chas. W. Crouch the chrysanthemums attract attention by the vigorous growth of the plants and the large blooms; among them are such varieties as Seidewitz, Chieftain, White and Pink Frick, Harvard and Patty. There is a good house of Columbia roses and a house of sweet peas that have just begun to bloom. H. Brockway Crouch has been in charge of the greenhouses for the last year and has made a number of marked improvements.

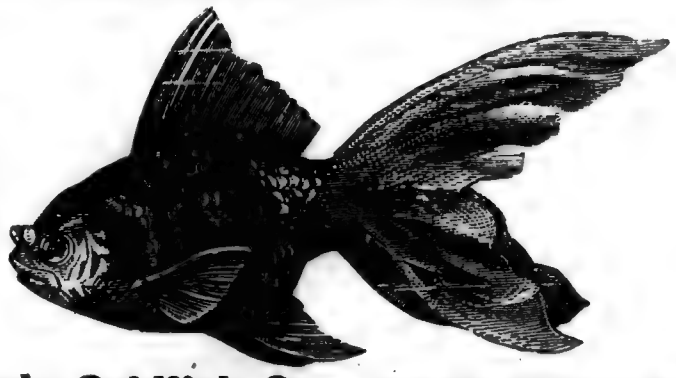
C. U. Baum has had much funeral work during the last week and a heavy demand for flowers for parties and receptions. Some fine orchids, chrysanthemums and carnations are being cut.

A. E. Weaver, of the Rhea Floral Co., Greeneville, Tenn., was in Knoxville November 13 and 14. R. E. M.

BALTIMORE.

The Market.

The market last week was in good condition. All outdoor stock has been killed off except, perhaps, some chrysanthemums. Medium-sized mums were not so plentiful as they might have been, but there is as fine quality stock to be had as has ever been seen on this market. There is the usual amount of pompons, but as these seem to stand more frost than other varieties, those from outside are hurting the sale of the indoor ones. Roses and carnations are in fair supply, quite enough for all purposes while the mum rush lasts. Sweet peas are still scarce, as are also violets. For the next week or two, the market will be principally a chrysanthemum one and rose specialists and others will have to be patient.



Club Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Florists' Club was held November 10, with the new president, William F. Ekas, in the chair. As required by the by-laws, one of his first duties was to appoint the entertainment and membership committees. Robert L. Graham, Jr., was made chairman of the entertainment, and William E. McKissick of the membership committee. These committees are composed largely of young and active members and with two such leaders these committees should be heard from this winter. One feature of the meeting that was quite noticeable was that it was a young men's meeting, there being more of the younger members present than have been seen at any meeting in several years. From the time the president's gavel fell till the meeting adjourned, there was not a dull moment. Four new members were elected and these were all young men. There are any number of young men who are connected with the business, but who are not members, so that the new membership committee is going to find out why they are not. My advice to any young man who is eligible is to get his application in at once, for by so doing he will save himself the trouble of a lot of explaining. Another thing the club decided to do, not officially, however, was to have a representative on the board of directors of the S. A. F. at the 1920 convention. This will mean that 100 of our members must be members of the S. A. F. Our club slogan this year is going to be "Watch Us Grow." Since the S. A. F. has adopted the slogan, "Say It with Flowers," we have awakened to the fact that a slogan is a good thing and, judging from the way this new administration has started off, ours will certainly be an appropriate one. At this meeting the mayor, William F. Broening, who has taken a special interest in the business, was elected an honorary life member. There will be something in the way of a surprise sprung at every meeting this winter, so in making engagements it will be well to remember that the second Monday of each month is taken.

An interesting discussion took place as to which is the most popular rose.

Such men as J. J. Perry, William E. McKissick, Claymor Sieck and James L. Towner all seemed to lean towards the Double White Killarney, with Columbia a close second. This would seem to indicate that the most popular rose is the one that is most salable. Growers like Isaac H. Moss and retailers like Robert L. Graham, Jr., Albert Fiedler and William J. Johnston were strong for Ophelia. All had their reasons, but then they are all good and all popular.

Flowers in a War Window.

The getting away from custom in any line of endeavor, that is, not doing a certain piece of work along prescribed lines simply because others do it in that way, was well demonstrated on Armistice day by a window decoration at Mary Johnston's. Robert Johnston has been studying this window ever since he returned from overseas. To harmonize the implements of Mars and anything so peaceful as flowers required months of study and thought and when the decoration was completed it was demonstrated that Mr. Johnston had evolved a scheme of successful harmony. The central thought in this decoration was lasting peace. This was symbolized by a pillar in the center of the window draped in a silk American flag surmounted by a dove, which carried in its bill a white ribbon bearing the inscription, "Peace to All the World." He had on either side at the base a jar of Bonnaffon mums labeled the armistice flower, while in front of all this was a grim reminder of what this peace had cost this country. This he had worked out by using the complete equipment he had worn for eighteen months on the battlefields of France, just as it had been taken off. There was still French mud on the rough army shoes, the steel helmet was a vivid reminder of flying shrapnel and the rolled blanket of many a cold night in the open. Opposite was a collection of souvenirs taken from the enemy. Then there was a bulletin board, on which were placed the copies of forty-two individual citations of members of the unit of which he was a member, the U. S. DETROIT, MICH.

The Market.

Several decorations of note occurred last week which moved some of the surplus in the market, but large quantities still remained. Business picked up a bit compared to the previous week, but it is not yet equal to the increased cuts of several of the larger mum growers. It must be remembered that Detroit retailers buy a good amount of stock from out of town, so that it can be said that more stock is being sold in Detroit than was the case last year.

American Beauties are of high-grade quality; their demand was a bit slow the first part of the week, but the latter part of the week they were all marked sold for one order going to the Detroit soldiers who died in Russia and whose bodies reached Detroit Sunday, November 16. The short-stemmed Beauties are in a glut. Premiers continue high grade, meeting a poor demand, but as they are short in supply they usually find a buyer. Columbias are fair in quality, short in supply with the demand good, all grades clearing each day. Ophelia is also short in supply, but, as there are more Ophelia growers, there is a larger supply of Ophelia than of any other variety. Sunburst is inclined to be small in bud and weak stemmed, but as it is short in supply it finds the buyer.

Carnations are becoming better in quality, with large quantities of all colors. The demand is only fair, while the supply keeps increasing. At times even the best grades are inclined to glut. Mums are in profusion, in all grades of quality and variety of color. Large white and yellow Turners, all beautiful specimens, are to be had, the demand being about equal to the supply. Bonnaffons of fair quality are plentiful. Eatons are of fine quality, also Chadwicks, and are readily disposed of. The first Patty mums of the season made a big hit with the buyers, being of strong stem and large in bloom. Mums are clearing each day, excepting white, which are slower to move. Pompons find the market waiting for them, and many boxes are moved each morning. Only a small amount of the poorer grades is inclined to stock up. Mum plants are in good supply, with a poor demand.

Sweet peas are on the increase and are quickly disposed of, being of especially high quality. Violets are improving in quality and find a brisk demand. Calendulas are plentiful and help to fill in, being of good quality. Paper Whites are increasing in supply, but as yet the demand is poor. Calla lilies also are inclined to go to waste. Greens of all kinds are abundant.

The present standing of the teams is as follows:

	Won	Lost
Indians	12	9
Bisons	11	10
Tigers	10	11
American Beauties	9	12

A. Bezemer rolled a high game of 201, but Mr. Kirkpatrick bettered that by nine pins; the latter also had high average of 181.

Mr. Kirkpatrick has the high average for the season of 168, George Doemling has 167 and Joe Streit 166.

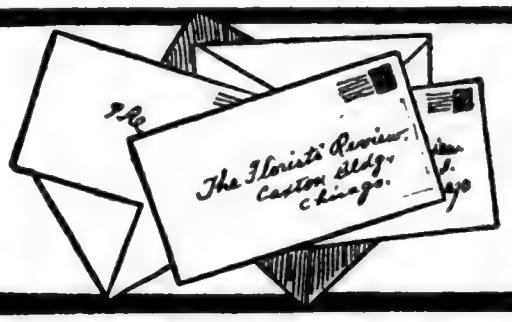
Various Notes.

Sunday, November 16, the dead of the 339th Infantry, composed of Michigan boys who served in Russia, returned to this city and were placed on army trucks at the Michigan Central depot, whence, with proper escort, they were taken to the Detroit armory. The line of march was lined with school children who threw bouquets of flowers on the flag-covered caskets. The armory was elegantly decorated with flowers. The Detroit florists sent wreaths of flowers, enough for each casket, and many others for decoration. Many florists had large orders for the dead soldiers. One order called for nineteen sprays of American Beauties, from three to four dozen long-stemmed Beauties to a spray. Several stores had impressive window displays in honor of the boys. The window of John Breitmeyer's Sons' Park Flower Shop had 800 long-stemmed Beauties on display in connection with flags and memorial wreaths.

The annual mum show opened at the Belle Isle conservatories under the supervision of Robert Flowerday, with a display of 3,500 mums of all colors and varieties. Among the large varieties are Glenview, Daily Mail, Nagirroc, Golden Wedding and Nerissa. A freak flower developed by Mr. Flowerday last year is a shaggy Japanese variety in mixed colors. Four huge hanging baskets filled with trailing varieties of the smallest pompons completed the show.

The Detroit Florists' Club held its regular meeting Tuesday evening, November 18, at the Statler hotel.

Tom Browne, of Greenfield, Mich., is cutting quantities of the best mums grown in this vicinity. His Patty is of wonderful quality, measuring six inches and more across.



R. Y. Leslie, of the Detroit Greenhouses, Redford, Mich., is cutting sweet peas of good quality in the long-stemmed Spencer varieties.

Fred Breitmeyer, of Mount Clemens, is cutting a fine lot of Bonnaffon mums, also pompons.

The Mount Clemens mum growers are experiencing some difficulty in shipping their mums so that they arrive in good condition. The flowers are slightly marred as if from the print of the newspapers with which some are covered or else from the vibration of the motor trucks that bring them in each day.

Peter Papes, of the Central Flower Co., has returned from Chicago, where he has been for the last three weeks.

H. Wells, formerly of the Michigan Cut Flower Exchange, is now with the Peter Reuss Co., on Broadway. H. T.

Buying BillBoards.

The first complete order for a billboard sign, that is, an order accompanied by a check covering the price, $50, was received from the Springfield Floral Co., Springfield, N. J.; the sign is to be installed on the company's property along a much traveled highway. Florists ordering billboard signs are requested to observe the requirement of our committee that cash accompany the order. The reason for this is obvious. Under the terms of our contract with the manufacturers of the billboards, we are obliged to make prompt payment of all invoices in order to get the specially low price on our quantity liability and, if our requirement were not met, we should have to face the temporary necessity of meeting the liability from our fund, which would not be right, for it would tend to impede our publicity work. A billboard purchased individually would cost $95 at the factory, while we supply them under our contract for $50, delivered at any railroad station in the United States. We have orders pledged covering 100 of the billboards, some of the pledges covering four billboards each. Our committee is anxious to get 500 of these splendid publicity agents working and all who have sites and feel that they can help us to the extent of purchasing a sign are urged to get into communication.

Our committee is most anxious to hear from that big army of non-subscribers to whom it has been appealing for some ter slogans of their own. One such person quite recently applied for the privilege of using it in connection with publicity for candy. He proposed to use it in the following way:

"Say It with Flowers."
"Prove It with Candy."

Needless to say, our committee does not approve of a proposition of this kind. Our slogan has cost too much to get before the public to permit its use in the interests of other industries. Expert publicity men concede that its value to us is not less than $1,000,000 as an investment. Our friends are asked to keep on the lookout for any misuse of it. Let us also suggest that florists who are using it be sure to use it in the script form adopted for all our publicity. While printers as a rule cannot duplicate the form from ordinary type, our promotion bureau provides at small cost electrotyped lines in a variety of sizes and adaptable for any purpose. They make a wonderful difference in the appearance of the slogan.

Now won't you, Mr. Non-subscriber, wake up to the importance of immediately subscribing to the campaign fund? You are receiving the benefit of our publicity—we cannot prevent that, even if we should wish to do so. Our campaign is conducted on broad lines, as it ought to be—but who should pay for the publicity if not those who receive benefit from it? He must have a heart of flint who will not contribute his mite to the fund. Our committee works hard to make every dollar count in the publicity—and the detail work in connection with it is costing much less than such work has cost most other campaigns. There is no wastage, not a penny goes astray, nor is likely to under the sharp eyes of the gentlemen who are directing the campaign and are prominent contributors to the fund themselves.

Don't let another week pass, but sit down at once and send off your check to the secretary. The amount need cause you no anxiety—send whatever you think you can afford.

John Young, Sec'y.

at the Grand Central Palace, New York, March 15 to 21, 1920, are practically completed even at this early date and prospects are bright for another most successful show. The final schedule of premiums is now in press and, if anyone interested does not receive a copy within the next ten days, he should make application to the secretary for one. In some of the usual classes the value of the prizes has been materially increased.

The prizes in the 100 square foot collection of cut orchids have been fixed as $200, first, and $100, second. As much as $1,000 is offered in the class covering a 500 square foot bulb garden, in three prizes, $500, $300 and $200. In the open class for the display of rose plants in the form of a growing garden, the prizes offered are $500, $300 and $200 and similar prizes are offered in the class for the display of cut roses covering 300 square feet, and this class is to be repeated on the Thursday of the show week, with the prizes duplicated, an innovation which the public will appreciate. The prizes in the class for a display of carnations covering 150 square feet of space are $150, $100 and $50.

The preparation of the official program is well under way and it will contain, besides the usual program matter, cultural articles by leading floriculturists.

Lectures and Club Conventions.

The Garden Clubs of America, the well-known national organization, has arranged for the installation of a special booth covering an area of 1,500 square feet, in which lectures will be given daily and conventions of different clubs held. It is also expected that an illustrated lecture will be given each afternoon and evening. There will be a tea room, as before, conducted by ladies connected with hospital work.

tions practically normal. Chrysanthemums are in full cutting and stock is of the finest quality, in both local and outside shipments. Chieftain, White Chieftain, Eaton, Bonnaffon, Turner, Marigold and Oconto are arriving in splendid condition and bring from $6 to $10 per dozen. Roses are plentiful except the short-stemmed grades, which are a little scarce. Good stock is seen in medium and long-stemmed Russell, Ophelia, American Beauty, Columbia, Ward, Sunburst, Killarney and White Killarney. Carnations are good stock and the supply is equal to the demand. A few weddings last week made a demand for valley, which retails at $4 per dozen. There was a great demand for poppies for Armistice day and anything that looked like a poppy, though artificial, was disposed of quickly and many hundreds more could have been sold if stock had been procurable. Pompons are good property and the stock is good in both size and color. The first appearance of the Mensa varieties came last week and the beautiful daisy-like flowers find a ready sale. Greens are plentiful and galax leaves are a big factor in design work at this time of the year.

Various Notes.

Matthew Schiltz, of the Ove Gnatt Co., La Porte Ind., was a visitor to this city last week and reported business exceedingly good; he is booking many large orders for Christmas stock.

Louis Visias, of the Alpha Floral Co., has taken a lease of the building at 109-111 West Superior street, now occupied by the Hansen Candy Co. and the Sunbeam theater. The building is owned by Milwaukee parties, who have at that there were not enough of them to go around. Some are inclined to believe that the extensive advertising campaign carried on in the News and the Courier bore fruit. At least one thing is a fact, that the investment in publicity has already brought returns, and many are enthusiastic about carrying on.

In a market such as we have, with only one wholesale house and over a half million population, demand and supply are readily noticeable. A slow day or two will cause an accumulation and a good demand will cause a shortage over night. In such a busy city as this it is strange that there is not a single range devoted to roses. At least two-thirds of our supply must come from distant points. As for orchids, they are rarely seen at the wholesale house. A few are grown by one retailer for his own trade.

State Florists Meet.

The November meeting of the Minnesota State Florists' Association was held at the Minneapolis park greenhouses November 11. About twenty-five florists were in attendance.

After the inspection of the chrysanthemum show, a regular business meeting of the organization was held. Reports of the summer meeting of the Society of American Florists, at Detroit, were given by Hans Rosacker, of Minneapolis, and Le Roy Cady, of St. Paul. Interesting accounts of the Buffalo meeting of the F. T. D. Association were given by O. J. Olson, of St. Paul, and Calvin Kinsman, of Austin, Minn.

Several matters of business were discussed, including the improvement of the state fair premium list. A committee was appointed to work out a better list. A resolution was introduced and unanimously passed by the association discouraging the use of billboards by Minnesota florists for advertising purposes. It seemed to be the unanimous opinion of the members that the billboard was an unnecessary evil and that the florists, in advocating the use of this billboard, were taking a step backward.

A splendid showing of chrysanthemums is being made by the Minneapolis park board. This exhibit, which will continue till November 23, is attracting large numbers of visitors during the day and evening.

Arrangements were made by the club for a delegation to visit the Kinsman greenhouses, at Austin, November 20, to see Mr. Kinsman's Premier roses.

The Market.

Business is still on the increase and signs already indicate that florists are making their arrangements well ahead for an exceptionally busy Christmas. The chrysanthemum season is nearly over and it can hardly be said that results are up to last year's standard.

Various Notes.

At the exhibition held at Toronto last week by the Ontario Horticultural Association, the chrysanthemum blooms showed to good advantage in their group effect, but there was no outstanding specimen to suggest that anything unusual had been accomplished by any of the growers during the war. In the circumstances, perhaps this was only to be expected. Carnations made a good showing. The way in which the Toronto Florists' Association joined forces with the Ontario Horticultural Association to bring about this exhibition demonstrated that the Toronto association is an organization to be reckoned with. Their "Say It with Flowers" campaign week before last in the interests of the various hospitals of Toronto was unique in its way and made such an appeal to the public that the principal motion picture houses responded by showing a descriptive and entertaining film, which should have far-reaching effects on the minds of flower lovers. The Dale Estate made a dozen entries in the Toronto exhibition and was awarded ten firsts and two seconds.

J. E. Cooper, assistant manager of the Dale Estate, returned November 14 from his honeymoon trip to New York.

E. B. Hamilton visited this town on his way back to London, Ont., from the Toronto exhibition. He appears to have revitalized some of the forces at work in the interest of the C. H. A. and is continuing the process of inoculation.

KANSAS CITY, MO.

The Market.

Mums are fairly plentiful now and are in prime condition, but there is demand for every one being cut, as there is for all other stock, the variety of which is limited. Carnations are coming in a little better. Killarney and White Killarney, Ophelia and Ward are from $6 to $10 per hundred. Russell, Premier, Columbia and Milady range from $10 to $20. As usual when mums are at their best, there is a shortage of roses. Growers are getting their crops in shape for Christmas. Pompons are the same as last week, 50 and 75 cents a bunch.

Various Notes.

Julius Dilloff, of Wertheimer Bros., New York; John Lambert, of the Ove Gnatt Co., La Porte, Ind., and William Montgomery, of California, called on the trade last week.

S. Bryson Ayres has leased a warehouse with a capacity of about eight carloads, at 523 Walnut street, where all bulk stock will be handled and shipping orders will be filled. The office and retail store will be continued at the present location, 503 Walnut street.

T. J. Noll & Co. are cutting some fine Bonnaffon mums.

Among the visitors last week were: O. O. Boston, Tulsa, Okla.; James Wilson, Jr., Des Moines, Ia.; Alex. Newett, St. Joseph, Mo., and Paul Klingsporn, Chicago.

William Wade and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Oberg and children motored to Pleasant Hill, Mo., Sunday, November 16, and visited the greenhouses of the Pinehurst Floral Co.

W. E. Tredup, of the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago, is making a trip through Oklahoma.

Tucker Smith and P. A. Manson, of Pleasant Hill, Mo., were in the city last week.

A. Newell says he has had more business the first half of this month than he had in the early part of November a year ago.

James Payne has a good supply of single mums, which will be ready for market in a few days.

All the florists are preparing for a big Thanksgiving business. There is some talk of reviving the annual Missouri-Kansas football game and this pleases the dealers, for it always meant a heavy call for chrysanthemums. The contest between teams of the two state universities was formerly played in Kansas City on Thanksgiving day and was the biggest college event of the year, bringing hundreds of visitors from nearby states. The Missouri colors are orange and black and this caused a heavy demand for yellow mums.

Because the wrecking company wanted to begin tearing down the old building, Ed A. Humfeld moved into his new store a few days earlier than he had intended and before the building was quite complete in the way of heat and light, but it will be finished in another week. The new store is on Admiral boulevard, opposite the Paseo, where Mr. Humfeld has owned property for a number of years. The store is of white stucco with a green roof, unlike an ordinary business building and quite attractive, in keeping with the location.

Rock's Flower Show.

The annual flower show given by the William L. Rock Flower Co. was staged four days, November 12 to 15.

Mr. Rock gives this show annually, but discontinued it during the war. This year's exhibit was in part an innovation, being given in conjunction with a millinery store next door. Living models passed from the millinery shop to the flower store, wearing smart hats and beautiful and well made corsages. An orchestra furnished music for both stores. Tea was served by society girls.

E. G. Hill complimented Mr. Rock with an elaborate vase of Madame Butterfly roses, which arrived in fine condition and were a feature of the show. The store was decorated throughout with

KANSAS CITY, MO.

The Market.

Mums are fairly plentiful now and are in prime condition, but there is demand for every one being cut, as there is for all other stock, the variety of which is limited. Carnations are coming in a little better. Killarney and White Killarney, Ophelia and Ward are from $6 to $10 per hundred. Russell, Premier, Columbia and Milady range from $10 to $20. As usual when mums are at their best, there is a shortage of roses. Growers are getting their crops in shape for Christmas. Pompons are the same as last week, 50 and 75 cents a bunch.

Various Notes.

Julius Dilloff, of Wertheimer Bros., New York; John Lambert, of the Ove Gnatt Co., La Porte, Ind., and William Montgomery, of California, called on the trade last week.

S. Bryson Ayres has leased a warehouse with a capacity of about eight carloads, at 523 Walnut street, where all bulk stock will be handled and shipping orders will be filled. The office and retail store will be continued at the present location, 503 Walnut street.

T. J. Noll & Co. are cutting some fine Bonnaffon mums.

Among the visitors last week were: O. O. Boston, Tulsa, Okla.; James Wilson, Jr., Des Moines, Ia.; Alex. Newett, St. Joseph, Mo., and Paul Klingsporn, Chicago.

William Wade and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Oberg and children motored to Pleasant Hill, Mo., Sunday, November 16, and visited the greenhouses of the Pinehurst Floral Co.

W. E. Tredup, of the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago, is making a trip through Oklahoma.

Tucker Smith and P. A. Manson, of Pleasant Hill, Mo., were in the city last week.

A. Newell says he has had more business the first half of this month than he had in the early part of November a year ago.

James Payne has a good supply of single mums, which will be ready for market in a few days.

All the florists are preparing for a big Thanksgiving business. There is some talk of reviving the annual Missouri-Kansas football game and this pleases the dealers, for it always meant a heavy call for chrysanthemums. The contest between teams of the two state universities was formerly played in Kansas City on Thanksgiving day and was the biggest college event of the year, bringing hundreds of visitors from nearby states. The Missouri colors are orange and black and this caused a heavy demand for yellow mums.

Because the wrecking company wanted to begin tearing down the old building, Ed A. Humfeld moved into his new store a few days earlier than he had intended and before the building was quite complete in the way of heat and light, but it will be finished in another week. The new store is on Admiral boulevard, opposite the Paseo, where Mr. Humfeld has owned property for a number of years. The store is of white stucco with a green roof, unlike an ordinary business building and quite attractive, in keeping with the location.

Rock's Flower Show.

The annual flower show given by the William L. Rock Flower Co. was staged four days, November 12 to 15.

Mr. Rock gives this show annually, but discontinued it during the war. This year's exhibit was in part an innovation, being given in conjunction with a millinery store next door. Living models passed from the millinery shop to the flower store, wearing smart hats and beautiful and well made corsages. An orchestra furnished music for both stores. Tea was served by society girls.

E. G. Hill complimented Mr. Rock with an elaborate vase of Madame Butterfly roses, which arrived in fine condition and were a feature of the show. The store was decorated throughout with mum plants, cyclamens, begonias, crotons and well made plant baskets, ferns, etc., as well as a general display of handsome cut mums and roses, with a sprinkling of heather. Lamps, flowing fountains and singing birds were among specimen palms and ferns. An elaborate vase of Odessa mums and two attractive dinner table arrangements, one of orchids and the other of Milady and Enterprise, attracted much attention.

All members of the trade were invited and many attended, extending their good wishes. Albert Pochelon sent a card of regrets and an elaborate birch vase of foliage and decoration.

Out-of-town visitors were: O. O. Boston, Tulsa, Okla.; Alexander Newett, Stuppy Floral Co., St. Joseph, Mo.; James Wilson, Des Moines, Ia.; Paul Klingsporn, Chicago; Julius Dilloff, of Wertheimer Bros., New York city; J. BOSTON.

The Market.

Business was quite poor all last week, with the exception of the opening day. It had been hoped that the flower campaign with the "Say It with Flowers" slogan would boost business, but buying fell flat and results will follow a little later. Chrysanthemums overtop everything else and are arriving in large quantities, the leaders being Rager, Major Bonnaffon, White Bonnaffon, Dr. Enguehard and Roman Gold. Pompons and singles have been somewhat weak and sold sluggishly. Big local football games did not bring the usual business to flower sellers, who in former years have been able to sell large quantities of mums.

Carnations are of fine quality, but, in common with other flowers, sell slowly. One of the notable exceptions is Laddie, which is of fine quality and readily wholesales at $8 per hundred while other sorts go at from $1.50 to $3. Roses are not so abundant. We have had an extra number of sunless days and this has reduced the cuts quite materially. Violets remain in short supply at $1 to $1.50 per hundred and pansies, while of good quality, are not equal to the demand.

There are small lots of longiflorum lilies and callas, which sell well. Snapdragons are short-stemmed as yet, but move much better than calendulas. There is a fair supply of Paper White narcissi and the first stevia made its appearance last week. Bouvardia is exceptionally fine and is perhaps the best seller on the list. Cattleyas are in reduced supply and have hardened in price. Other orchids are in good supply. Demand for asparagus and adiantum has been somewhat weak. Flowering plants are in large supply and of exceptionally high quality.

"Say It with Flowers" Week.

November 11, Armistice day, kept in Massachusetts as a holiday, found nearly all stores in Boston closed, except those of the florists. The sum of $2,000 had been subscribed by members of the Florists' Association and others as a campaign fund to help popularize flowers and push their sale. Automobiles from numerous retailers and growers gathered at the two wholesale markets and received contributions of plants and flowers for distribution to the sixty or more hospitals in the city. It was estimated that 20,000 flowers and 1,000 pot plants were delivered as messengers of good cheer to the sick from the florists of Greater Boston and the newspapers gave them much credit for their work. All stores were well decorated and carried handsome displays for the week and it seemed as though the "Say It with Flowers" sign met one at almost every turn.

That the flower campaign week did not immediately bolster up prices and create a bull market caused some to feel disgruntled, but those who had planned the affair were not anticipating this so much as they were to set people talking about flowers and, this being accomplished, increased sales are bound to follow as a natural sequence. All honor is due those who inaugurated this movement. May it become an annual affair and gain momentum as it grows older!

Horticultural Society Meets.

The annual meeting and election of the society was held November 15. The officers elected were: President, W. C. Endicott; vice-president, C. S. Sargent; trustees for three years, E. B. Dane, A. C. Burrage, E. S. Webster, F. A. Wilson; trustee for two years, A. H. Fewkes; nominating committee, Oakes Ames, William Anderson, J. K. M. L. Farquhar, S. J. Goddard, John E. Thayer.

An appropriation of $7,500 for prizes for 1920 for six exhibitions was approved, also $1,000 donated by Miss Case for four additional shows.

Douglas Ecclestone, gardener to A. C. Burrage, showed Læliocattleya Alice Burrage (Læliocattleya Luster x Cattleya Rubens), which was awarded a silver medal. The same exhibitor received a similar award for a beautiful group of choice cypripediums in over fifty varieties, including such varieties as C. insigne Sanderæ, Harefield Hall, Leeanum giganteum, Boltonianum, Olivia, Sir Redvers Buller, Reginald Young, Maudiæ, triumphans, Lord Derby, Actæus revoluta, insigne Golden Crown, Tityus and aureum Ixiom.

Among the Growers.

The W. W. Edgar establishment at Waverley is one of the best known plant factories near Boston. In spite of labor difficulties and other drawbacks, a lot of fine stock is to be seen here. There are several thousand begonias, Melior being seen in largest numbers. Cincinnati and Mrs. Peterson are also largely grown. Many thousands of leaves were noted in sand and the bulk were already rooted. Cyclamens are another specialty. Most of the plants are in 5-inch and 6-inch pots. A splendid batch of 15,000 seedlings in flats was noted. Large batches of primulas, solanums, oranges, ferns, genistas, poinsettias, rubbers, etc., were seen and thousands of pots of lilies, tulips, narcissi, hyacinths and other bulbs were in frames or below benches. In addition to quantities of Purity freesia, 5,000 bulbs of the colored varieties were coming along in pans.

In carnations Matchless and Rosalia and in mums Bonnaffon, Rager and Roman Gold were most in evidence. A splendid batch of Euphorbia jacquiniæflora in pans and benches should make a big hit for the holidays. Recent improvements here include a new roof on the commodious storage shed, which holds great numbers of bulbs, hydrangeas, bay trees, etc. Herman H. Bartsch, the genial and efficient manager, uses every foot of space to good advantage.

Frank Edgar has some large and up-to-date houses at his range in Waverley. One is entirely devoted to cyclamens. There are about 4,000 of them in pots, varying from 5-inch to 9-inch, and a truly wonderful lot of plants they are, with grand, tough foliage and flowers coming up on them in uncountable numbers. No mite is to be seen here. Every plant is the picture of health and the house is a joy and inspiration for anyone to look over. Another large house is devoted to begonias, Melior being the favorite, with smaller lots of Cincinnati and Mrs. Peterson. Ferns are grown in large numbers. Verona is a special favorite, while Scottii, Boston and Roosevelt are also grown. A splendid house of mums, including Bonnaffon, Rager and Roman Gold, was alone worthy of a visit. There are also large batches of well grown poinsettias, freesias, cinerarias and solanums and numerous frames contained thousands of hydrangeas for Easter and Memorial day, all in the finest of health.

Wollrath & Sons, Waltham, are noted as cyclamen growers and their plants are of such size and quality that they must be seen to be appreciated. When plants can wholesale at $200 per dozen, it is evident that they must be of remarkable quality and there are several thousand splendid plants here in several sizes. Excellent poinsettias, oranges, solanums, rubbers, dracænas, Rex begonias and other pot plants are to be seen, while of flowering begonias many sorts are grown, including Melior, Cincinnati, Turnford Hall, Flora Roland, Florence Davenport, Peterson, Lorraine and some of the large-flowered English varieties. No one interested in pot plants who visits Boston should fail to visit this plant factory.

Janiten & Kunan, who now operate the one-time well known vegetable establishment of W. W. Rawson, of Arlington, only started in business last

GET READY FESTOON WINDING MACHINES

Seventh year on the market. Two types. Makes all kinds of Festooning. Type No. 1 will wrap on any size wire, string or twine used for its center. One turn with handle gives two wraps on festooning. Center wire can be measured before Festooning is wound, which eliminates measuring of Festooning. Type No. 2: Fine wire or string is used for the center, one turn with handle gives one wrap on Festooning. Does equally as good work as Type No. 1. We furnish machines ready for work, with enough wire to make 500 yards. Three days' trial allowed. Money refunded if machine is not what you want. Prices: Type No. 1, $12.00; Type No. 2, $6.00. TRY ONE.

Gentlemen: We got one of your machines early in December of last year, and made on it every kind of wreathing and festooning. We found it especially satisfactory in making large holly wreaths on heavy wire. Your machine is ALL RIGHT. We are,

ALABAMA EVERGREEN EXCHANGE, 2611 Prospect Ave., CLEVELAND, OHIO

January and in that short time have accomplished wonders. Taking this large range of glass over without a solitary plant in it, they now have it stocked to repletion and almost entirely with pot plants. A large house of cyclamens here shows splendid culture and there are thousands of fine begonias, mostly Melior. Poinsettias in pans are remarkably good. Primulas, rubbers, Verona and Boston ferns are all well done. A batch of 11,000 young cyclamens show great vigor and thousands of hydrangeas, roses and bulbs are waiting for the passing of the Thanksgiving and Christmas crops. Special mention must be made of the wonderfully berried plants of Cleveland solanum, the finest I ever have seen. Chrysanthemums, sweet peas, carnations and snapdragons are the principal bench crops, but they occupy but a small space compared with the pot plants.

Various Notes.

Charles Evans, of Watertown, has twenty varieties of the best pompons, which fill two roomy houses, and they are of such quality that they sell out quickly.

W. D. Howard, of Milford, makes a great hit in the market with his fine new crimson carnation, Bernice. He also has fine Matchless, Ward, Pink Delight and Benora. All of these show the highest culture.

Billie Bartlett, the well known messenger at the Flower Exchange, had a pleasant surprise when he celebrated his sixty-second birthday last week. His many friends among the growers and salesmen had "chipped in" and presented him with a new hat, gloves, sweater, socks, slippers, tobacco, pipe and other necessary and welcome articles. Billie was almost speechless as gift after gift rained upon him, but finally gained courage to thank his friends for their kindness and thoughtfulness.

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

Bay City, Ore.—H. W. Gooch has so bad a case of inflammatory rheumatism that he cannot fill the orders he receives. It is impossible to secure proper help, and so he will return to California shortly if he does not improve.

Pasadena, Cal.—On the page of the Pasadena Evening Post headed "Pasadena's Smart and Exclusive Shops" appeared a write-up of F. T. D. service November 8, with particular mention of Siebrecht's House of Flowers.

Anaheim, Cal.—Howard E. Gates, in the Anaheim Daily Herald for November 4, achieves publicity on four different pages, through a department, "In the Garden," conducted by him, through advertisements and through brief write-ups referring to the ads.

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

The Market.

Several light frosts have occurred and have had the effect of shortening up stock and of raising prices. The dahlias have been destroyed at several establishments and all carnations under cloth were injured even worse than those in the field. If further frosts occur, everything will be short for Thanksgiving, but if warmer weather intervenes there will be no shortage, as the plants are not hurt so far. Violets took a big jump and are short in supply. Chrysanthemums are passing and the quality is not so good as it was. Stock for local sales may be fairly plentiful, but flowers that will carry over a long distance are scarce. Roses are in better demand; the supply is better and the quality is also improved, so that the rose situation can be said to have improved all around.

Regarding poinsettias for Thanksgiving, the growers are still in hopes of a crop being ready, but here as elsewhere the weather during the next few days will be the deciding factor. Should warm weather come, the pompon chrysanthemums will be over, so that the prospects for cheap flowers on the holiday are not good. Small flowers, with the exception of violets, will probably be equal to the demand. Plumosus growers have put their prices up with a view to holding stock for Christmas and the new year and everything in this line will probably be higher from now on. Potted plants, outside of ferns, cyclamens and palms, are still scarce.

Various Notes.

By a rearrangement of the shipping room, Murata & Co. have almost doubled the size of this department, a change made necessary by the increase in business.

Harold Gates, of Anaheim, Cal., is working along the lines of educating the public not only to buy flowers, but also to buy plants and shrubs and to grow flowers. His articles in a local journal bring him publicity for his own business and make many friends for him among amateur growers and gardeners. He is considering taking more ground near Center street for display purposes and going farther out, where land is not so valuable, for his growing. Since the death of his mother, Mr. Gates has run the entire business himself.
